The Woodlesford Cricket Club has been exceptionally fortunate during the present season, having only lost one match. Seven having been won easily, and one drawn in favour of the club.

PEDESTRIAN & AQUATIC ITEMS.

Trickett, the Champion Sculler of the World has lost two fingers by an accident. This is to be very much regretted as he is in his prime, and a match between him and Higgins would have aroused a deal of interest.

The Great Six Days' Walking Contest at Manchester was concluded on Saturday, and the prizes presented to the successful competitors on Monday. G. Ide, of Woolwich, took the first (£150 and a belt), P. Crossland, Sheffield, second, (£50). G. Parry, Manchester, third, (£50), and A. Courtney, Barnet fourth prize (£10.)

The race for Ten Mile Championship and a belt valued at fifty guineas, was won by Smith, of Paisley, at Lillie Bridge on Monday. This is the first race for a series of prizes presented by Sir John Astley, for the encouragement of professional running.

The Leeds Athletic Club held their Annual Festival in the Horticultural Society's Gardens. The day was exceptionally fine, and despite the Mayor's Gala, the receipts were nearly, if not quite, double those of any other year.

LATEST NEWS.

"Times" Office, Friday.

THE CONGRESS.

BERLIN, Thursday.—The Congress yesterday decided to admit Greece to the Congress with a consultive voice in questions affecting Greek interest. The proposal was made by England and France separately but in a similar form. The Turkish Plenipotentiaries alone abstained, it is said, on formal grounds, from making any observations on the proposal.

The President of the Congress will decide as to which sittings of the Congress the Greek representatives shall be admitted.

The Bulgarian question made no progress in yesterday's sitting, as the Congress had decided that the points agreed upon in preliminary private conference between the British, Austrian, and Russian Plenipotentiaries, should be discussed at the official sittings in the Conference between the Plenipotentiaries in question.

The Turkish Plenipotentiaries continue to follow an astute policy unfavourable to the success of the Congress. Nevertheless the hope of a pacific solution remains unshaken although the deliberations of the Congress may be of long duration.

Dinners, receptions, soirees, &c., continue to be given by the various Plenipotentiaries and frequent private interviews are held in the intervals of the session.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

BERLIN, Thursday.—The following bulletin was issued at ten o'clock this morning —"The Emperor progressed satisfactorily throughout yesterday. His Majesty, having passed a very quiet night, feels as strong this morning as could be desired. Yesterday also His Majesty was able for the first time to take a little walking exercise indoors."

THE HAYDOCK COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

The task of cutting the openings into the return air ways at Haydock Colliery was completed yesterday, and resulted in an increased amount of ventilation. Exploring parties have met with large falls of roof but when these obstacles have been removed a considerable number of bodies will be recovered.

CAPTURE OF THE LEEDS MURDERER.

Yesterday afternoon Edward Hackett, against whom a verdict of wilful murder was returned, for the murder of a woman named Anne Hardcastle, in Hope-street in Leeds, was captured in West Marsh, Grimsby, by Police-constable James Frow. He will be sent to Leeds to-day.

ANOTHER COLLIERY ACCIDENT IN LANCASHIRE.

Three men were seriously burnt yesterday by a blown out shot at the Newton Collieries Pemberton, belonging to Messrs. Lamb and Moore. Soon after noon the fireman, John Jackson, and two colliers, had prepared a shot in the Ince, seven feet mine, when from some cause the shot blew out, and all three men were more or less scorched. They were as soon as possible conveyed to their homes, and their injuries attended to. It is hoped all the men will recover.

THE ASCOT GOLD CUP.

This handsome racing trophy was won by Count F. Legrange's Vernueil; Lord Falmouth's Silvio being second. The Rous Memorial Stakes fell to Lord Londsdale with Petrarch. The "demon" horsemen, (G. Fordham and F. Archer), have had a field day each. Fordham winning three events on Tuesday and Archer four in succession on Wednesday.

MARRIAGE.

LONG—MORRISON. On Tuesday, June 11th, at Lybster, by the Rev. James D. McCulloch, M.A., Albert Edward Long, "H. M. Inland Revenue," Rothwell, to Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Mr. Donald Morrison, of Lybster, Caithness, N.B.

DEATHS.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Dangerous Chest Complaints.—The enumeration of these diseases is scarcely necessary as most Englishmen know them to their cost. Coughs, common colds, influenza, bronchitis, asthma, pleurisy, inflammation of the lungs, and even consumption in its early stages, are best treated by rubbing Holloway's Ointment upon the chest and back between the shoulders. In treating this class of diseases, Holloway's Pills should always be taken while using his Ointment; they purify the blood promote perspiration, and allay dangerous irritations.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
The Universal Remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, and Ulcerations of all kinds.
There is no medicinal preparation which may be so thoroughly relied upon in the treatment of the above ailments as Holloway's Ointment. Rubbed upon the surface of the body, over, or near the affected parts, it disappears under the friction of the hand, penetrating at once to the source of the evil, and thus performs its healing errand, rapidly, safely and without pain. In all long standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they purify the Blood and expel all depraved humours from the system.
Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, and Bronchitis.
This Ointment is irresistible in the cure of these throat and pectoral complaints, which when neglected often end in settled Asthma or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the Chest and Back, night and morning, penetrates the skin, and thus absorbed, is carried directly to the Lungs, where, in immediate contact with the whole mass of circulating Blood, it neutralizes or expels all impurities. By these means all pulmonary complaints may be cured with rapidity and ease.
Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.
In any of the above complaints more benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours, by adopting the following simple means, than could be brought about in six months by any other treatment. In bad cases, if the ointment be diligently rubbed into the small of the back, over the region of the Kidneys, it will quickly penetrate and give immediate relief. Six or eight of the Pills should be taken nightly according to circumstances.
Gout, Rheumatism and Stiff Joints.
This invaluable Ointment exercises a more obvious control over Gout and Rheumatism, than any other Medicine. No one need remain uncured, who will in good earnest make a vigorous application of this infallible remedy—according to the Printed Instructions affixed to each Pot. All settled aches and pains will likewise be banished by the same treatment.
Skin Diseases, Scrofula and Scurvy.
The beneficial effects of this peerless Ointment are truly wonderful in cases of Ringworm, Scurvy and Scrofula, or King's Evil, and its powers are adequate to the removal of the most inveterate Skin Disease to which the human frame is subject.
The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London: also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.
A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.
Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Sores, and Ulcers.
By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power in the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.
Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.
Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—
Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Burns, Bunions, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Contracted and Stiff Joints, Corns (Soft), Fistulas, Gout, Glandular Swellings, Lumbago, Piles, Rheumatism, Sore Nipples, Scalds, Sore Throats, Skin Diseases, Scurvy, Sore Heads, Tumours, Ulcers, Wounds.
The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

THE THUNDERSTORM.

One of our correspondents sends us some of his experience of the thunderstorm which broke over this neighbourhood on Sunday afternoon. He writes—

"I left the neighbourhood of the cross, where I had been chatting with some friends just as a few large rain drops were spotting the flags outside the doorstep. This would be about five o'clock. Passing down Church lane, and behind the "Swan" Inn, the rain increased to a smart shower, but not violent; by the time I got to the old school-house in Church Field, distant thunder presaged the coming storm. Turning the corner by the exciseman's residence, to enter the fields, the thunder increased in depth and volume of sound, the rain steadily falling as before, and so continuing until I crossed the stile leading into the field between the old lane and Percy Pit. Here was an open view of the phenomena of the warring elements. One beautiful flash of forked lightning may be likened to a writhing red-hot snake, its position vertical. Another playful flash appeared against the horizon and took the shape of a fiery whip stock and lash, nearly horizontal. These displays of Nature's pyrotechnics were diversified by broad flashes of quivering fire, seen for an instant, accompanied by rolling thunder. Once, for a moment all was still, nature seemed in suspense; the air was hot and stifling, the very birds ceased their song. Then the solitary wayfarer, keenly alive to the sublime spectacle, was positively dumbfounded by a terrific crack, as of a cannon at the distance of a yard. Paul's experience on a like occasion just outside Damascus, instantly occurred to the mind, whereat, in spite of the situation, a smile rewarded the weird recollection. I hurried on and took shelter in a cottage. Soon by the open window the cool wind blew in and the jarring atmosphere in cloudland grew quiet. As I passed the farmhouse below the wheelwright's shop the birds were singing in the air. The coolness was refreshing. Arriving at Lower Goslem, I noticed children and full-grown men holding pots and cups in their hands filled with what appeared to me white foam; as I drew nearer I found their pots were filled with ice, and the ground all about the dwellings covered with hailstones as big as beans, but more resembling large pearl buttons. The singularity of it was, I saw no signs of the hailstones until I got near the dwellings at Goslem, but found them laid thick under the eaves of the grass fringing the side-walk right on to Thwaite Gate. The dull season for paragraphs in the newspapers about 'enormous gooseberries' seemed to be fitly ushered in by enormous hailstones. One man just on the Leeds side of the Long Bridge, was admiring a handful, and holding them towards me said, "Did you ever see anything like that before?" I confessed I never did. Mr. Ward, at Goslem, took me into his well kept garden skirting the Midland main line; it was pitiful to see the havoc the storm of hail had made with the fruit trees, flowering plants, but more particularly to a bean plot, which looked as if a mitrailleuse battery had directed against it a shower of bullets. A stall at the back, belonging to Ward, before the hailstorm was covered with a square awning; this formed an admirable net, and had the wind brought gold instead of ice, friend Ward would have been able to assist our present Tory legislators with a loan to get over their financial fix. A greenhouse on the opposite side of the road to the cottages, at Goslem, had much glass broken, and in the same enclosure a plot of beans was cut to pieces by the icy bullets. Another curious feature of the storm was, that hail fell near Mr. John Wright's new house at Spibey Lane, but I cannot hear of its travelling further south or east. I have been informed since by a person who was on the spot that hail fell freely at Seacroft."

The storm was awfully violent at Methley and seriously injured one house at Pinder Green, knocking down the gable end and chimney, and doing other damage. Fortunately no one was hurt, in fact, we believe no one was in the house at the time.

KIRKSTALL ABBEY STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

During the severe thunderstorm which passed Leeds on Sunday afternoon, Kirkstall Abbey was struck by lightning, and a stone weighing between two and three cwt. was thrown down from one of the pinnacles near the west door. Fortunately this is the full extent of the damage done to the fine ruin.

A SCHOOL STRUCK BY LIGHTNING AT HEADINGLEY.

On Sunday afternoon, during the thunder storm, the pinnacle of a school connected with the Wesleyan Chapel, in Chapel-street, Headingley, was struck by lightning, and the upper part of the pinnacle was thrown to the ground. A tram car was passing at the time, and the horses were so frightened that they were held in with difficulty by the driver.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD.

On Monday, the ordinary meeting of the above Board took place, Mr. W. Hargreaves occupying the chair for a short time, after which Mr. Charlesworth took it. There were present J. Charlesworth, Esq., Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes, the Clerk, Treasurer, and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed, also of a Committee meeting with Mr. Pickthall adjourning the consideration of his matter to this meeting.

The Medical Officer's report was read by Mr. Blyth, who cleverly interspersed the interview with some witty and pithy replies to questions It appears that during the last four weeks there have been 13 births, 10 boys and 3 girls, against 16 births of last year in the same month. The deaths have been 7 against 9 of last June, so that the rate is considerably lower. The general health of the district is very good (too good for active doctors?) and there appears to be no serious infectious diseases. In regard to the outbreak of sickness among the children at Waterloo, the doctor stated that there had been 24 cases of whooping cough, 29 of chicken pox and 3 measles, all of a mild nature, and none resulting in death.

In reply to Mr. Bramley, the drainage was reported as tolerable, and in regard to privy accommodation the Inspector thought there was more than was used. The report was accordingly received.

In further considering the state of Waterloo, it was proposed by Mr. Holmes, seconded Mr. Bramley and carried—That the Sanitary Committee visit Waterloo on (last) Wednesday afternoon and report to the next meeting.

Respecting the reservoir contract, it would seem as though Mr. Pickthall had under calculated the cost of making and time to be occupied in making the reservoir, and he now asks for an extension of time and an extra allowance of £27 for lias concrete.

After some conversation on the subject, it was resolved on the motion of Mr. W. Hargreaves seconded by Mr. Bramley—That the matter be left in Mr. Filleter's hands, and that Mr. Pickthall have a reply to that effect. It was further decided on the motion of Mr. Hawden, seconded by the Chairman—That the Waterworks Committee have an interview with Mr. Filleter at the reservoir.

The necessity for having a night watchman at the reservoir works was next on the agenda paper, which was agreed to on all sides, as it is extremely necessary in the present stages, that no dirt or objectionable matter find its way into the reservoir. It was also pointed out that another man should be appointed for Sunday watching, and after discussion the resolution was carried in the following form, proposed by Mr. Bramley, seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves—That the Inspector secure a night watchman at a wage of 14s. per week and a Sunday watcher at 3s. per day.

A letter from Messrs. Teale and Appleton asked on behalf of their client, whether the main sewer at Stourton would be at such a level as to drain Mr. Bleasby's field on the Pontefract-road.

The Chairman thought it was probably because the land was about to be offered as building land, and they were wanting to know if they could get it drained. As Mr. Harrison has some time since made his inquiry and due notice of the scheme was given, the application was now too late, and out of court.

Mr. J. Hargreaves said that when the Stourton Drainage was completed, the water which now filters into the field will not fall on their land at all. He then proposed that a suitable reply be sent to Messrs. Teale and Appleton, showing that their application could not now be considered. Seconded by Mr. Hawden and carried.

In reply to the application of the Board for a piece of land belonging to the Hon. Mrs. Meynell Ingram, in order to widen and improve Church street, Mr. Leather asks for a plan of the proposed improvement, when he would be prepared to submit the application.

Mr. J. Hargreaves said that several members of the Board had had other business in Church street, and they had examined the matter somewhat and thought the widened street ought not to be less than 36 feet, which would add 15 feet to what is now the narrowest part.

The Chairman then proposed that Mr. Richardson be instructed to make a plan of the proposed improved street to be forwarded to Mr. Leather.

Mr. Holmes seconded the motion, which was then carried.

In reply to a question as to Mr. Calverly's property near the Church, it was stated that Mr. Calverley would give the cottages at the bottom of Wood lane and Church street if the Board would buy the two cottages on Church Hill, belonging to Mr. Judson. The chairman felt it was an improvement which was very much needed, but as Mr. Judson does not wish to sell, the matter would have to rest for the present.

A letter was read from Mr. Farrar enquiring at what rate the Board would be prepared to supply Oulton Hall with water, and the matter was adjourned for consideration.

Mr. Lunn said he had heard that Morley Local Board was going to ask for a reduction in the price charged to them, and as he understood Rothwell had a clause in the agreement with Leeds that if at any time the rate per 1000 gallons was reduced to Morley, or other authority, it was also to be reduced to us, this Board must look out for it.

The clerk stated that it was perfectly true that if the Corporation reduced the rate charged for water to Morley, or any other authority supplied by them, the price would also be lowered to Rothwell Local Board.

At a later stage in the meeting, a letter was read from the Morley Local Board making certain enquiries as to the charge for water, the rates received, leakage and other information, but as the Board has not had the water a sufficient length of time, and only at Stourton, no opinion could yet be formed on the various matters to which replies are requested.

The chairman mooted the question of supplying Lofthouse and Carlton, pointing out a probability of those villages applying for a supply of water from Rothwell.

Mr. W. Hargreaves also stated that very great scarcity existed at Robin Hood, and about his neighbourhood.

Mr. Holmes asked what was going to be done about Upper Goslam, as they were only a short distance off the mains, but were very badly off, and had to borrow of their more fortunate neighbours.

Mr. J. Hargreaves proposed that Mr. Wright be asked to tender for laying lead pipe to Upper Goslam, and for supplying and fixing a guard similar to that proposed for Lower Goslam, and report to the Waterworks Committee.

Mr. Holmes seconded the motion which was carried.

As showing the way in which the water has been wasting at Stourton, Mr. Holmes laid on the table one of several pieces of lead piping, in which holes had been eaten by the action of the ashes in which the pipes were laid, and so accounting for a large amount of water leakage at Stourton. These had been discovered by the water inspector lately appointed for the purpose of examining the mains and connections.

On the motion of Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Bramley, it was resolved to ask permission to lay pipes across the Paddock, Churchfield, of the several owners.

On the proposal of Mr. Bramley, seconded by Mr. Hawden, it was also decided that water mains be laid up Spibey Lane.

As to Carlton Lane, it was thought advisable to wait and see what pipes were left, and then ascertain and purchase what more were required. Mr. W. Hargreaves thought that the pipes already laid ought now to be tested, as we had never yet ascertained whether they were all right or not.

Mr. Holmes suggested that as it would be a considerable time before the reservoir is ready, the pipes at this side of the reservoir might be connected with those at the other side, and Rothwell might be very soon supplied, the quantity being gauged by the meter at Thwaite Gate.

Mr. Hawden reminded the Board that the supply was supposed to come into the reservoir at night, and doubted whether Mr. Holmes's plan could be carried out.

Mr. Holmes thought there would be sufficient pressure, but at any rate they would be able to test the whole length.

Mr. W. Hargreaves quite agreed with Mr. Holmes's idea, and that guards might be put up in three or four parts of the town.

In reply to the Chairman, Mr. Holmes said that he believed the pressure at Stourton was about 75lbs to the inch.

Mr. W. Hargreaves moved that the Inspector ascertain in what period a connection of the mains could be completed and guards fixed, and report at the next meeting.

Cheques for the salaries and several accounts were signed.

In reply to the Board's letter, the Clerk to the Leeds and Barnsdale Turnpike Trust writes that not only does the old bar-house belong to the Trust, but also the land in which it stands.

Some complaints were received from Stourton that the night soil was not being removed as it ought to be, and a letter was ordered to be written to Mr. Nichols, calling his attention to the fact, and also directing him to act under the orders of the Sanitary Committee, who had undertaken to assist Mr. Worth, whose time is now fully engaged in the public works in progress.

A letter from Messrs. W. Wms. Brown & Co. set forth that £6725 had been paid into the Bank to the credit of the Board.

In reply to the chairman, the treasurer states the Board had now a balance of nearly £4000 in the Bank.

A document asking for certain information respecting the water supply (for Parliamentary use), was relegated to the clerk for reply.

The chairman wished to know whether any reply had been received from the Railway Company and the Leeds and Barnsdale Trustees as to the repair of their bridges.

The clerk had not yet received any definite reply on the subject.

It being reported that Mr. W. Dobson, of Stourton, had built a passage narrower than drawn on the plan, the inspector said it was 2ft. 9in. instead of 3 feet. As it appeared that Dobson had been somewhat misled by and others, had not sufficiently considered the danger of deviating from a plan once passed considerable pain was felt and expressed by the Board at the difficulty in which he had allowed himself to be placed; but although several members were in favour of giving him the option of a fine, it was finally decided that the bye laws must be carried out, and he will be required to make the passage according to plan.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD. MEETING.

An ordinary meeting of the Board was held on Friday last. Present—Messrs. J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, the Clerk, Treasurer and Attendance officer.

Neither the chairman nor vice-chairman being present, it was proposed and carried —That Mr. J. Hargreaves take the chair.

The minutes of last meeting having been read, the consideration of the applicants for the remission of fees was gone into and on the proposition of Mr. Jewison, seconded by Mr. Batty, several persons had their fees remitted to the end of December.

Notices to attend school were ordered to be served on a number of parents.

The clerk having received the legal documents relative to the second instalment of the Waterloo Loan, these were read over and on a proposition of the chairman—That the certificate and receipts for £125, being the second instalment of Waterloo loan, be now stamped with the Corporate Seal of the Board and signed by the Chairman of the meeting. Seconded by Mr. Jewison, and carried.

Miss Turton having to attend an examination during the first week in July, it was proposed, seconded, and carried—That the Waterloo school be closed for holiday the first week in July.

A letter was read from the Rev. A. J. Irvin, vicar of Woodlesford, applying for the use of the Waterloo school-room to hold a weekly service in, and stating that he had obtained the consent of the Hon. Mrs. Meynell Ingram.

Proposed by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Batty, and carried—That the Waterloo School room now be let to the Rev. A. J. Irvin and Mr. W. T. White for use as a Sunday School, be also allowed to the same gentlemen for one weekly service at the total nominal rate per year of 5s., on condition that any damage done to the furniture or premises be made good by the responsible tenants.

The clerk was instructed to employ some one to put the Rothwell Haigh playgrounds in a neater and more satisfactory condition.

The attendance at Waterloo school still continues very small owing largely to sickness among the children.

The Rothwell master reported having admitted 202; of whom 24 are half-timers. Owing to the number of girls, and the little assistance Miss Jowitt can receive from the monitors in needlework, &c., Mr. Whicker suggested that an adult monitor should be secured for the better working of this department, and having received an application from a young lady, who is wishful to sit for a certificate at Christmas, and is obliged to be six months in a public school in order to qualify as a teacher.

On a proposion by the chairman, Miss Ward, of Headingley, was appointed adult monitor in Rothwell school for six months, at a salary of £25 per annum, it was seconded by Mr. Jewison and carried.

The various salaries and accounts were ordered to be paid.

THE extraordinary fine weather of this week following the showery season, has produced a wonderful effect on the face of Nature, and several farmers have commenced cutting clover and grass, and no doubt we shall next week be in the midst of the hay harvest.

LOFTHOUSE-WITH-CARLTON SCHOOL BOARD

An ordinary meeting of the Board was held on Thursday, at the Robin Hood School. Present: J. Charlesworth, Esq.; Chairman; Messrs Hargreaves and Ward, and Mr. Lee, the clerk. Orders were made for the payment of teachers and Salaries. The examination for both Robin Hood & Carlton Schools are to be held the 2nd. week in July. The attendance at the schools continues to increase. The remainder of the business was formal.

THE LATE MR. T. CLARKSON.

We are sorry to publish in this weeks' obituary, the somewhat sudden death of Mr. Thomas Clarkson, of Rothwell. A native of Rothwell, Mr. Clarkson had become well-known to every one, more especially as during the last few years he has been collector for the Gas Light Company. Having been only poorly for some time, he was taken ill on Wednesday evening, and notwithstanding the efforts of Dr. Heaps and Dr. Allbutt (of Leeds), Mr. Clarkson succumbed to his disease at half-past 12 on Friday night.

The funeral took place on Monday and was attended by nearly all the professional gentlemen, and tradespeople in the town, besides a number of others who desired to testify their regard for the deceased.

OPENING OF A NEW MISSION HOUSE AT THWAITE GATE.

A public tea meeting in connection with the above, presided over by the vicar of Hunslet, was held in the large Mission Room on Monday evening. The old Mission Room, in the same locality, having been found incommodious, two houses were taken fronting the Wakefield road, and have been converted into a Mission House for religious services, a Sunday School, and mother's meeting. After tea a public meeting was held, and addresses given by the Rev. E. Wilson, Mr. Hill, and Mr. Taylor. The Hunslet Handbell Ringers, under Mr. Fothergill, contributed greatly to the company's enjoyment by their performance with their handsome new set of bells.

CARLTON.

ASSAULT.—On Saturday last a person of the name of Middleton created considerable excitement in Carlton, by his violent and extraordinary conduct. We presume he had been indulging in excessive libations of the cup that is said "to cheer" and certainly does not increase the manhood of its worshippers, and our friend falling into the hands of the "man in blue" endeavoured to try conclusions with him. The officer would most probably have received serious injury from his assailant, had not the bystanders assisted the preserver of the peace, who eventually got his man secured, and drove him off to Wakefield, where he will appear in due course to answer for his freak.

SUNSTROKE.—On Thursday a man named Wilson, who has not been working out for some time, until the last few days, was taken seriously ill whilst mowing. He is suffering from inflammation of the brain, brought on by the excessive heat. But slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The Carlton Cricket Club had a fine days' outing on Monday last to Mickleford, and succeeded in defeating their opponents somewhat easily. Score, Carlton, 58—34; Micklefield, 29—30.

A HEROIC LITTLE BOY

On Tuesday night about half-past seven, a boy named Alfred Marshall, son of Squire Marshall, of Rothwell, was taking care of a child on the pastures, and as he was crossing some stones that go across just where the beck joins the mill-dam, his foot slipped and he fell in with the child in his arms. Another boy named Charles Ellis, son of David Ellis, also of Rothwell, who was standing by, immediately jumped in, took the child, and put it safely on the bank.

DEATH OF THE QUEEN OF SPAIN.

Queen Mercedes of Spain, the young and beautiful wife of King Alfonso, died of gastric fever on Wednesday. She had only been married about five months and is mourned for by the whole nation. The British Court goes into mourning for three weeks from this day.

THE SCARBOROUGH TRIP.

To-morrow our friends, the Rothwell Haigh workpeople, will take their trip to Scarbro' and we sincerely trust they will not be quite frizzled away by the excessive hot weather in which we are now basking.

We purpose all being well giving some notes of the trip in next week's issue, and shall be pleased to receive a visit or a note from any tripper who has any incident or adventure to communicate.

ROTHWELL HAIGH turned out in large numbers on Wednesday, to view a splendid troop of 17th Lancers, who passed the villagers' cottages on their way from Leeds to Aldershot.

WE are sorry to hear that Mr. William Smith, Manor House, has lost a valuable young horse during the week. It had received a kick from one of its companions which broke its leg, and so injured the animal as to necessitate its being shot.

DEATHS.

CLARKSON.—June 22nd, Thomas Clarkson, of Rothwell, aged 43 years.

CRICKET.

The editor will be glad to receive reports of matches from the Secretaries of Cricket and Football Clubs, for insertion in this paper. All copy should be sent on or before Wednesday.

NOTES.

The Cricket chronicler's position this week is not unlike a lad in a pastry-cook's shop with but a meagre supply of ready cash. We are in a like position. The material at our command is abundant, rich, and rare, our chief requirement being sufficient space to do justice to the various matches that have delighted cricketers and spectators, who, although they cannot detect the technicalities of the game enjoy the sport as thoroughly as any professional.

At the present time the Australians are engaged with a powerful Eighteen of Hunslet and District particulars of which we must defer until next week, as the match does not conclude until tomorrow (Saturday.) Rothwell is worthily represented in the musical department by its excellent Brass Band.

North v. South of Leeds.—The 10th annual match between Eleven's representing the north and south of the river Aire, was commenced on Monday at Holbeck Recreation Ground. The match always creates a deal of interest, and as the pecuniary result is for the benefit of the Leeds General Infirmary, Pastime lends Charity a willing hand in her noble work.

On Monday the attendance was smaller than the first day last year the receipts amounting to £64 4s. 6d., compared with £97 1s. 9d. on the same day, 1877. The day was fine and the wicket though a little soft, in good playing condition. The second day there was a good attendance, but the falling off of this year's receipts are certainly not less than £40. The result was greatly in favour of the South, who won by 151 runs, the principal contributor being G. Britton, who displayed some brilliant cricket on both days. The following were the score totals.—North, 41 - 52; South, 125 - 118.

Of the other events, Surrey beat Gloucestershire, a match between Leeds Clarence and the Grammar School resulted in a draw. The match between Yorkshire and Nottinghamshire resulted in a splendid one innings victory for the former county.

Of the doing of our local clubs Sherburn paid Garforth a visit on Saturday, but the visitors were fairly smothered by the home team. Rothwell visited Lofthouse but the latter team ... JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that it is being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of daily removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT. Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases. The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c. For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Sores, and Ulcers. By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints. Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depravation from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:— Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Burns, Bunions, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Contracted and Stiff Joints; Corns (Soft), Fistulas, Gout, Glandular Swellings, Lumbago, Piles, Rheumatism, Sore Nipples; Scalds, Sore Throats, Skin Diseases, Scurvy, Sore Heads, Tumours, Ulcers, Wounds.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen. Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

ROTHWELL HAIGH WORKMEN'S TRIP.

MESSRS. CHARLESWORTHS' COLLIERIES.

On Saturday last the annual trip to the sea coast of a large number of men in the employ of the above firm, left the Midland stations at Woodlesford and Hunslet, en route for Scarborough, the Queen of watering-places.

The first train, consisting of eighteen carriages left the Hunslet Station at 6.0. a.m., and was well-nigh filled by the employees living in that district, the few vacant seats being quickly occupied by the eager youths of Rothwell. when the train reached Woodlesford. In a few minutes it sped away amid waving of hats and handkerchiefs, and merry laugh and song.

The second train arriving immediately afterwards the usual rush to occupy first and second class carriages added considerably to the amusement and pleasure of the onlookers and to the disappointment of several, who for once in a year seek to act the gentleman. The excursionists having all found places, it was discovered that the train was not full, so the first few carriages were emptied in order to be left at Milford Junction. This being done, we heard the shrill whistle, and bade adieu to the circle of friends, who had left their hammocks earlier than they were wont to do, to witness our departure.

We soon left Methley and Castleford, and halted a little at Fryston Collieries, when considerable amusement and banter were indulged in by the excursionists and the workpeople, one of the excursionists professing profound ignorance of coal and pits quaintly asked, "What are those black lumps they are filling the waggons with?" And on receiving a reply, answered with such an air of surprise as to cause a jolly good laugh.

The beautiful new station at York was very greatly admired, one saying it was the finest in the world, another it was the grandest in Yorkshire, but the wit of our company was nearest the truth when he replied it was the best in York.

We left the city of churches at 8 o'clock, after many had strained their eyes and necks to view the Minster, and other objects of interest. Our cricketing friends expressed a wish for the fine ground of the York Club to be brought to Roddill.

Arriving at Malton our attention was called to two splendid brood mares and their foals, and speedily the racing cracks of Malton became the topic of conversation, and imagination was busy with the possible future of these lovely youngsters. What a world of loss and gain, excitement and expectancy, disappointment and wild exhilaration each race horse is the centre of, but our horse shrieks, and off we go at a merry rate, discussing not racehorses but sandwiches and confectionary, thanks to somebody for plenty of the former cheap and good, and the good cooks of Rothwell for the latter. But we are nearing our destination, the air is becoming stronger, we fancy we can smell the briny sea. See! there is Oliver's Mount, and here is Scarbro' at last. A rush to the windows. Packing up bag and baggage, and at half-past nine we steppe out of the carriage on to the platform, and form ourselves into groups for a days' enjoyment.

The sands for the youngsters, you could easily perceive the old mothers off for a cup of tea. The strong men for a dip in the "salt fish pond, and the lovers of natural scenery ascend the Cliff, and gaze with delight on the ever lovely scene from the top of the cliffs, which overhang the silvery sea. The splendid new Aquarium was visited by a good number of people, and the excellent collection of fishes gave very great satisfaction. The three seals, in their large tank, attracted considerable attention, and their lively antics afforded us no small amount of pleasure. The Octopus, or as one termed it not inappropriately, "all head and legs," was greatly admired, whilst the numerous and beautifully diversified sea Anemones in most of the tanks fairly captivated the excursionists. The funds of the Aquarium would have been augmented, we think, had the charge been sixpence instead of ninepence, upon hearing which many returned without entering.

But the steamboat is loading, and some of our party are wishful to have a sail, so we travel down the sands, pass the Jerusalem ponies, who always go fastest home, and after numerous appeals to have a ride to the "Mount," we landed on the old pier, and paying for an hours' ride out, which proved to be only 40 minutes. The sea was stirred by a gentle breeze, and the steamer heaving a little, soon began to tell on the well-filled stomachs of the voyagers, and very speedily the mop was called into use. The sickness only caused others to laugh at them. It always seemed strange to us that sea-sickness never produces sympathy, but is always accompanied by mirth and joke on the part of the onlookers, who not unfrequently are the first to heave too.

On the cliff we came across a case which might have ended most unfortunately. An invalid with two bottles, one for outward application and the other for draught, had mistaken the bottles, and swallowed a portion of the external liquid, which very speedily manifested itself in symptoms of an alarming character. The father saw the position of his child, and lighting a cigar, handed it to her to smoke, which caused her to vomit, and thus prevented what otherwise might have ended disastrously.

The day being now far spent we passed through the town on to the station, where we found many like ourselves thoroughly wearied. One old lady said, "Ah, mon, but this is no place for old folks and badly ones, there's ower many steps."

The toy shops have apparently been well patronized, for everyone appeared to have a present from Scarbro' to give to some loved one at home. The return was very punctual the last train leaving a few minutes past 6 o'clock p.m. We sped homewards at a rapid rate and arrrived at Woodlesford at half-past nine. Not hearing of one single mishap, and considering that over 930 people had been tripping, the conduct was exceedingly good, everybody apparently well satisfied, and many said that they hoped there would always be a trip for them, and we heartily endorsed the sentiment, providing the funds would allow it, for no people can conduct themselves better.

The Accident Fund, out of which these trips are paid, is a valuable society, into which each miner pays a weekly sum of twopence, out of which an allowance is made for accident or at death. During the past year this fund has accumulated a balance in hand of over £400, and out of this surplus each member was supplied with a free ticket for the trip.

THE "OLD WHITE HALL,"

(A TALE OF OLD ROTHWELL).

By C. Gibson, London.

CHAPTER I.

"O'er every old familiar spot,
Oe'r thatched roof, and homely cot;
O'er fields of corn with ripening ears,
The glorious God of Day appears.

Shine in the sun like polished steel;
The Manor House, and Castle grey,
And the village Church, not far away,

The Market Cross, in the days of old,
Where dairy produce was bought and sold;
The Gaol for the spendthrift and the rogue,
The various trades that were in vogue.

Tradition's but a doubtful minx,
This once we'll trust her, for methinks
There was a house not short but tall,
A century and more, t'was named "White Hall."

High was its roof, whose pitch was steep,
Its rooms were many, its cellars deep;
Tall trees did grow before the door,
And its latest tenant was 'Mrs. Moore.'"

Lines on a Country Village.

THE "WHITE HALL" (so named by the eccentric gentleman who built it), was an imposing country residence.

Its title was very contradictory to the colour of the materials of which it was built.

The walls were entirely of red bricks, except the four corners, which were faced with stone. The bay windows in front projected about two feet from the face of the wall, and had two stone mullions, the iron frames that formed the casements were glazed with small squares of glass.

The front doorway had a fine stone portico before it, which consisted of two fluted columns, with moulded base and caps, which supported a balcony with ornamental balusters; and the soffit, or stone ceiling, was pannelled, and carved work ornamented the centre; the whole rested on four steps, which raised it two feet from the surface of the ground. A few tall elm trees grew about the entrance gates, and there was a garden and stables in the rear.

There was a large orchard that was well stocked with fruit trees, close to the end of the Hall nearest to the village of Oulton, and a part of it is now remaining. The author remembers, when he was a little boy, a very old cherry-tree, that bore some very small sweet "black-heart" cherries. The old tree overhung the orchard wall, and the cherries were very tempting to the youthful portion of the village close by.

The interior of the Hall was well arranged, and its rooms were very large and numerous; they were also well furnished and some beautiful oil paintings by Rembrandt, Claude, Vandyke, Rubens, and several of the old and incomparable masters adorned the walls of the front rooms.

The library was rich in the works of eminent writers, such as Shakespere, Spenser, Dryden, &c., and its furniture was of oak, and was beautifully carved by Grindling Gibbons, the famous carver. A beautifully polished steel mirror hung over the fireplace, and the sideboard contained many rare specimens of china, and other articles, which, if they were now in existence, would be priceless.

It is a great pity that such a house should have entirely disappeared, as it was certainly an adornment to the village that it formed part and parcel of.

Mr. Edward Harrington was its owner, and occupier at the time we write of. He was a wealthy man, and very fond of hunting, and kept several fine horses in his stables. He had one son and a daughter. His wife had died when Eleanor was but sixteen, his youngest child, and the villagers said that her death was quite unexpected, and it occurred in a very mysterious manner, and many suspicious glances were cast at the old building for years after the melancholy occurrence. The room in which she drew her last breath had been closed for years, and no one was ever allowed to enter it, except old Sally Waterton, the housekeeper, and general servant, and that was a rare occurrence.

After the death of his wife Mr. Harrington gave up the pleasures of the chase. He sold his hunting horses, and lead the life of a quiet country gentleman.

The future happiness of his only son and daughter was his whole study. He dearly loved them both, and they duly returned his affection.

Robert had much of his father's disposition, and Eleanor possessed a large share of the good graces of the dear mother she had lost.

They had not many companions, Robert's bosom friend was Dinton Milman (the only son of Stephen Milman, the miller), and many were the happy hours that they spent together in boyish sport and pastime.

It is very seldom that youth and age can agree very long together, but Eleanor was a sweet tempered girl, and Sally, the old housekeeper was a kind hearted woman and took pity on the "motherless bairn," as she would often call Eleanor.

"So they agreed very well together, poor lass," the old housekeeper would say sometimes.

"Shoo will nivver knaw what it is ta hev a sweet kiss from a loving mother. Her feyther is a decent man, but very short-tempered. But a father is'nt like a mother, say what you will. I pity the poor little bairns that lose their mothers. A good mother is worth her weight in gold, but a bad mother had better have never been born."

Next to an old church, or the ruins of an ancient castle, the old roadside inn conjures up a peculiar, romantic feeling.

We know that old ivy covered tower has weathered many a wintry storm, and high up in the inside of it those old bells have rung out of the weather boarded windows many a merry peal. And those crumbling old walls and groined arches of that old castle have witnessed the coming in and going out of many a steel-clad warrior, and no doubt have heard the roar of cannon, and the clash of steel, and the dying groans of many a brave and valiant soldier.

But the old roadside inn presents to our view a very different picture.

We see the thached roof, and the crooked old brick chimneys, with the blue smoke curling out of them. We smile at the old and indispensable sign board, either swinging on a beam, or fixed to the wall, and telling us as plainly as it possibly can do, that—

"Old John Thistleton here doth dwell,
He ale and spirits and wine doth sell.
Too much of the spirit will make you queer,
It will knock you down and keep you there.
His ale is strong, and very old,
Its kept in a cellar both deep and cold,
With cobwebs covered, in condition fine,
He sells the best of sparkling wine;
He keeps the best of Cheshire cheese,
Buy it or not, just as you please;
Pay on delivery is his plan;
Then there's no back reckonings with any man."

Inside, if the weather is cold, we see in the low ceilinged tap room a roaring fire. Also the thick-legged tables, with the tops bound round with iron, and very often loaded with pots that contain a liquid which both "cheers and inebriates," if you imbibe so much it will cheer you, and if you imbibe so much more it will inebriate you.

We notice the bachannalians and hear them conversing on different topics, both social and political. Some discourse on the blessings of peace; others, to save the honour of old England, would rush into the horrors of war.

We walk a little further into the snug, and cosy back parlour, where we see Farmer Goldengrain with his long clay pipe in his hand and mouth, seated on the cushioned settle, or leaning back in an arm chair, telling to a listening audience, the different market prices of wheat being so much per quarter, and cattle being so much per head. We may also observe the bustling and ever loquacious landlord, or maid Marian, with her frilled collar and prim white apron, bringing in the hot toddy that glistens in the well-polished glasses.

ACCIDENT.

While the Rothwell Band were returning from Normanton, where they had been enlivening the proceedings of the Foresters' club, a somewhat serious accident took place when driving the waggon along Methley lane, the horses started off, and Walter Turner, who had the reins, was thrown from his seat, and the wheels passed over one of his legs, and he received such injuries that he is confined to his bed, and will be some time before he is able to attend to his work again.

THE ROTHWELL BRASS BAND played at Wooodhouse Hill on Saturday, on the occasion of the Australian Match. The varied and well-executed programme was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

THE WEST YORKSHIRE MINERS.

Riddles in the pits of West Yorkshire have not hitherto been generally introduced, but a week ago the coalmasters, at a meeting, resolved that pit-head notices should be put up at each colliery on the next making up day to the effect that riddles would be introduced into the pits in fourteen days. Each coalowner was to be at liberty to make arrangements with his men subject to a limitation of the allowance for riddling. A numerous deputation of the men has since met a deputation of the masters. The subject was discussed at length, and hopes were expressed of a friendly settlement of the question.

CRICKET.

The editor will be glad to receive reports of matches from the Secretaries of Cricket and Football Clubs, for insertion in this paper. All copy should be sent on or before Wednesday.

NOTES.

Saturday, as regards our own town was decidedly an off day, as we believe with few exceptions the members of our local clubs were watching with interest the doings of the Australians at Woodhouse Hill, while the greater portion of our neighbours were busily engaged in what is termed "spending a happy day" at the seaside, and had any second Oliver Goldsmith come in this direction he might have sat himself down and wrote another "Deserted Village."

Of course the first thing that comes under our notice is the recent visit of the Colonials to Hunslet. The numerous visitors from this district all agree on one point—the magnificent fielding of the visitors. It afforded a rich treat to all who witnessed it, and will form a theme of conversation for some time to come. Many were annoyed to think that the Hunslet Team did not gain the victory, and some of our contemporaries plainly tell them where they were at fault. There is but little doubt but that the Hunslet Eighteen did their best to gain a victory, in fact there was a case on the first day where one of the team had his wrist hurt by a blow from a ball, and shortly after another was played into his hands, but it was physically impossible for him to hold it, the pain being too great, therefore a spectator might wait before yelling, "Yah, butter-fingers," and find out the real facts. The Australians are a strong team and will take a lot of beating, as they have already shown. In fact we incline to the opinion of a gentleman who was present, that the cricket displayed was thoroughly enjoyable, and the two-handed fielding of the Australians a treat.

A match between the North and South on the Trent Bridge Ground at Nottingham, was concluded on Saturday in favour of the South by ten wickets. Dr. Grace and Humphrey rubbing off the 49 runs required.

The match between the Gentlemen of Yorkshire and Trinity College, Dublin, played at Dublin, ended on Saturday in a draw.

The annual University match was brought to a conclusion on Tuesday, Cambridge winning by 238 runs. Oxford and Cambridge are now equal, having won 21 matches each.

Yorkshire met the Australians at Bramall Lane, Sheffield, on Monday and Tuesday. The match was won by Yorkshire with nine wickets to spare.

REALLY SOMETHING NEW.—A GREAT WANT SUPPLIED.—CONDENSED LEMONADE and CONDENSED GINGER BEER. Lemonade or Ginger Beer of the most delicious and wholesome kind can now be made instantaneously by simply adding a teaspoonful of either of these fluids to a tumbler of water. For children and invalids the cooling properties of these drinks are most beneficial, and when added to Seidlitz Saline Draughts, Mineral, and Ærated Waters, even the ...eous become palatable. One Pint is sufficient to make two three gallons. Recommended by the highest Authorities, ...ing pure Fluid Extracts of the Lemon Fruit and Ginger. ... Pints 15s. doz.; Quarts 28s. per doz. Obtainable through all Chemists, ...cers, &c., or direct from "THE LONDON LABORATORY," ... Mark Lane, London, E.C. Single bottles at retail price.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—More precious than Gold.—Diarrhœa, dysentery and cholera are, through the summer's heat carrying ... the young, as the winter's cold destroys the aged. ... the most acute cases, where internal medicines cannot be retained, the greatest relief will immediately result from rubbing Holloway's soothing Ointment over the abdomen. The friction should be frequent and brisk, to ensure the penetration of a large portion of the Unguent. This Ointment calms the peristaltic action, and soothes the pain. Both vomiting and griping yield to it; where fruits or vegetables have originated the malady it is proper to remove all indigested matter from the bowels by a moderate dose of Holloway's Pills before using the Ointment.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,
Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with
of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.
With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.
A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.
JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851.
THE PRIZE MEDAL (Première Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855, and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR
THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."
JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain—
"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."
AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1855
After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.
At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

ROTHWELL MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The Annual General Meeting of Members and Subscribers of the Rothwell Mechanics' Institute took place on Monday evening.

Mr. W. Mason, president of the institute occupied the chair the principal portion of the time. The first half hour and the last half hour being filled by Mr. S. Seanor's presidency.

The Annual Report was read by Mr. Enos Taylor, one of the Secretaries, which while deploring some discouraging items in the past year's experinces, yet, pointed with pleasure to the comparative success of the evening classes under Mr. Legard, (boys' class), Mr. Thompson, (drawing class), and Mr. Lockwood, (science class). These classes, however, have cost the institute £18 19s 2d, a heavy charge on the general funds.

The library has had only 23 new books added, making the preseut total 963, there being 3732 issues during the year, besides 347 issues from the Yorkshire Union's parcels, making a total of 4079, an increase of 800 over last year. Improved arrangements are being carried out in relation to the library, which it is anticipated will not only secure a better and more correct mode of distributing and preserving the books, but also ensure a larger income in this department of the institution.

During the session Mr. Curzon delivered a capital lecture on "Oliver Goldsmith," Mr. W. Rowton gave an entertaining evening on "Laughter," being readings from humorous writers. Mr. W. Bray's party secured the largest attendance of the season but only left 17s. 6d. balance.

In connection with the presentation of prizes to the successful students of the drawing class, an effort was made to secure greater interest in the institute without much cost, by giving a "home talent" entertainment, to which the Vicar, the president, the Harmonic Union and other ladies and gentlemen lent their gratuitous assistance, but alas, the hall was only half-filled. Determined to use every means to raise the institute and draw people to it, the Committee very thankfully accepted the kind offer of the Leeds Amateur Orchestral Society to give a high-class concert, and they put forth extra exertions to sell tickets for the treat which was certainly afforded; unfortunately however the best concerted schemes were vain, and although a splendid musical programme was perfectly executed by the talented party the attendance was comparatively small, and the financial success smaller still.

From letting, the funds of the institute received £25 4s., being an increase of £3 on last year. The report also refers to the action of the Committee in refusing the application of the Liberal Association for weekly use of the Lodge room, and in granting their application to use the large hall for a public meeting, and suggests that a clause be embodied in the new rule to prevent future misunderstanding.

Some thoughts had been entertained of purchasing the house belonging to the late Mrs. Moxon, but eventually the idea was abandoned.

The general condition of the institute was considered very good, there being 36 Honorary members, contributing £28, and 127 ordinary members, subscribing £28 14s. 3d., making a total of 163 an increase of 16.

The total income for the year has been £128 4s. 9d., an increase of £35 over last year.

Against the small balance in the treasurer's hands, there are two accounts unpaid leaving a deficit of £6 or £7.

Mr. S. Seanor, in moving the adoption of the report, felt that it was generally encouraging, especially when it is remembered that the primary object of the institution was educational.

Mr. C. Iveson seconded the resolution. In putting the motion, which was unanimously carried. The chairman echoed the remark of Mr. Seanor, that the first object is to advance education, and he thought the members had cause to rejoice in the success of the boy's class. If they had not had great financial success, they were only similar to others, and he trusted by the new arrangements, which had been made, that the errors which had crept into the financial management would be avoided.

The consideration of the revised rules was next undertaken, the printer's proofs of the rules being read by Mr. Walter Batty, one of the secretaries, and each division amended or approved by the vote of a large majority of the members present.

Having completed this portion of the work, a discussion arose as to the powers of the Committee to let the rooms for political meetings, when the Secretary read a minute passed by a majority of the Committee, at a late meeting, setting forth that the Committee shall let the large hall for all respectable purposes.

Mr. J. R. Seanor, Mr. B. Batty, and others spoke strongly in support of the resolution of the Committee, and desired to have it incorporated in the rules, some speakers holding that all the rooms should be at liberty to be let for political meetings.

The Chairman said the Committee as a Committee, knew nothing about the political opinions of anyone, whether Tory, Liberal or Radical: they held their position as a Committee to promote the general good of Rothwell, and would be quite as ready to let the hall to one side as another for public meetings. As regards any further applications as tenants, the Committee have committed themselves as far as they possibly can.

Mr. Blyth pointed out that in case of a general election, the Conservative party might not have the opportunity of using the room at all, the Liberals might keep it all day.

Mr. J. Hargreaves would second a resolution, to let it for all respectable purposes, except political committee meetings.

This, however, would really have been an amendment.

Mr. Blyth protested against the question being settled at this meeting, and held that it ought to have been specified as a part of the business on the circulars calling the meeting.

Mr. E. Taylor proposed that a special General Meeting be called for the purpose of deciding the matter which Mr. Drew seconded.

On being put to the vote, 11 voted for, and 12 against.

Mr. J. R. Seanor proposed that the Mechanics' Institute having been built by public subscription, that the large hall be let for all respectable purposes. Mr. B. Batty seconded the motion.

Considerable feeling having been manifested, and gradually increasing during the discussion, several members of the audience left the room, and it was very evident that the proposition would be carried by a large majority, the motion being upheld by a nearly unanimous vote of the members present.

Mr. W. Abbishaw proposed—That the election of officers be adjourned to another meeting, it being then nearly 10 o'clock.

This, however, was not agreed to, and the election of officers proceeded, the Committee being chosen by ballot, and the other officers by an unanimous show of hands.

They stand as follows:—
President:—W. Mason, Esq.
Vice Presidents:—Messrs. W. Hargreaves, and J. R. Seanor.
Treasurer:—Mr. T. Stainer.
Librarian:—Mr. B. Taylor.

The Secretaries both declined to retain their office, although strongly pressed to do so. It being found impossible, however, to select some one suitable at this meeting, they were prevailed on to continue their office, until it could be properly filled at a future meeting.

Committtee:—Messrs. Parker, R. Sykes, W. Batty, James Batty, S. Bramley, Enos Taylor, C. Ineson, S. Seanor and B. Batty.

Auditors: — Messrs. Marshall, and A. Ward.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

The ordinary meeting of the Board took place on Monday evening. Present: Messrs W. Hargreaves (chairman), Lunn, James Hargreaves, Greenwood, Hawden, Holmes, and the Clerk, Inspector, and Treasurer.

The minutes of the last meeting having been read and approved, it was proposed by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Hawden and carried—That the clerk write to Mr. Holmes asking him to allow the Board to lay a line of pipes up Holmes street at Stourton.

It was also proposed by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried—That Mr. Filleter be instructed to have a line of water pipes laid up Carlton lane as an extension of the original scheme.

Mr. Lunn proposed and Mr. Hawden seconded — That an acknowledgement of 1s. a year be paid to Lord Stourton for allowing the waste water to flow in his land at the old Engine.

In reference to Mr. Pickthall's request for an extension of time, &c., in reservoir making Mr. Filleter advised the Board to agree to the proposal.

Mr. Adamson having deviated from his plan in a building he is erecting, was directed to make it according to the plan deposited by him.

Several being anxious to attend the Annual General Meeting of the Mechanics' Institution, a proposal was made to adjourn the remainder of the business till Friday, as it was evident the whole work could not be got through in one night. It was, however, carried by the chairman's casting vote to remain at the Board.

Plan submitted by Mr. Simpson of houses intended to be built by Mr. W. Bulmer, in Rothwell, were approved of after an alteration had been made in the width of the street.

The clerk reported that the Deed of Conveyance of the land at the bottom of the Marsh was completed, and the Highway and Public Works Committees agreed to meet and arrange for the widening of the street.

It was also resolved that the clerk do write to Mr. Farrer, informing him that the Board is willing to supply Mr. Calverly with water, and to ask for further particulars.

Several accounts and salaries were then passed.

Complaints were made by several members as to the bad state of some of the causeways, and the Highway Committees attention was drawn to the matter.

The meeting was adjourned to Friday evening at half-past five, when details in connection with the water supply will be gone into.

ATRATO AND ALLEN'S CIRCUS AT ROTHWELL.

Messrs. Atrato and Allen's Great Model Circus visited this town on Tuesday, July 9th, with the most complete company of equestrians that we have witnessed for some time, including the world renowned Mr. W. F. Wallett, the Queen's Jester, who has been specially engaged by the proprietors at an enormous expense, prior to his retirement from public life.

The performance throughout was one of the best we have ever had the pleasure of witnessing, in fact we have never seen one equal it. Great credit is due to the ringmaster, Mr. Pearson, for the manner in which he conducted the whole performance.

The ladies were Mdlle. Fabian, Mdlle. Cook, Mdlle. Carlotta, De Jonge, Tullett, and company.

Amongst the riders we must mention, Mr. Charles Allen, the champion baredack rider of the world, whose back summersaults over the banner called forth loud applause; also Mr. Hickey, in his great impersonation of "Shaw the Life-Guardsman," and Mdme. Cook in the "Flower Girl."

The clowns, Messrs. Lyons, Fabian, Gilleno, Tomaso, and Kirbo (the last named being ill did not appear), added greatly to the amusement of the evening by their witty and pithy sayings.

Last, but not least we must call attention to the "Midget" Taylors. The most wonderful boys that ever appeared on a trapeze, and the laughable negro entertainment, "King Coffee's Ambassadors."

The commodious marquee was well filled, and the cleanliness and compact accommodation, together with the courteous conduct of the attendants, and the unique performance called forth repeated plaudits.

Mr. Robertson informs us that they will shortly return to their winter quarters at Sunderland, where an elaborate wooden edifice is in course of erection, capable of holding 3000 persons.

WESLEYAN SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

The anniversary services of 1878 were conducted on Sunday last by the Rev. R. F. Cape, when there were large congregations, especially in the afternoon and evening.

The sermon in the morning was eminently a Sunday School sermon addressed to teachers and others, in which their interest was largely invoked for the success of the important work of Sunday Schools. The object, character and influence of the work was forcibly put, and the whole sermon was well suited to the occasion, and likely to promote the good of the institution generally. In the afternoon the children and teachers generally quite filled the galleries, the friends occupying the body of the chapel. Mr. Cape greatly delighted and interested the children with his well adapted address in which he took care to intersperse a fair sprinkling of racy anecdotes. In the evening a useful sermon was preached by Mr. Cape on "show-piety at home."

Mr. Ward conducted the singing, and was assisted in the afternoon by several violins and a double bass. The children acquitted themselves remarkably well at each service, and the collections amounted to over £7.

On Wednesday the usual festival took place, the weather being exceedingly favourable, neither rain nor heat interfering with the pleasures of the day.

About one o'clock a few little ones began to arrive, and by two o'clock the Wesleyan premises in Butcher-lane were all alive with the scholars, teachers, and friends of the school, dressed in their best, and full of merry activity and excitement: Marching in couples, and headed by the teachers of each class, the happy throng of young people wended their way up Butcher-lane, Swithin-street, past Prospect-place, down Marsh Side, on to the bottom of Commercial-street; up to the Cross, and thence to the school again, where the coveted tea and buns awaited them, served by loving, willing hands.

The company formed at several places on the route and sang two or three hymns, greatly delighting those who heard them. The singing was accompanied by friends with violins, and a double bass, and led, with his usual ability by Mr. C. Ward.

Tea having been disposed of, the children were taken up to the Cricket field, kindly lent by Mr. Bumby and the Cricket Club, while a goodly number of friends sat down to tea with the teachers after five o'clock

By half-past six all had adjourned to the field for a romp, and an entertaining sight it was, every portion of the field alive with youth and merriment. Balls, nuts, &c., were freely distributed, and after eight o'clock two large ballons were despatched most successfully. Games of all kinds soon engaged the attention of young and old, and for the nonce the old forgot his years, the matron her house cares, the business man his anxieties, the working man his arduous toil, and joined heartily in the innocent folly of festival time. Nine o'clock saw the children in school again, where a few words were spoken to them by the superintendents and considerable amusement afforded by Mr. Seanor's capital accomplishment of the "Kentish fire" hurrah.

Cheers were given for the Queen, for Mr. Bumby, for the Club Committee, for Mr. Ward, and the 'fiddlers," and for the subscribers.

With a parting prayer, and a bun, the young folks were then dismissed to their homes to look forward to next years' school-feast.

The usual meeting was held afterwards, and it was decided that a Committee of three should be appointed to make arrangements for the teachers trip to some suitable place on the 6th August, the fare not to exceed 3s. The happy company dispersed shortly before eleven.

The scholars and teachers numbered nearly 300.

CHURCH MISSIONARY MEETING IN SWILLINGTON PARK.

The annual meeting of the Swillington Branch of the Church Missionary Society was held on Friday afternoon in Swillington Park, the seat of Sir Charles H. Lowther, Bart. Fine weather favoured the proceedings, and the presence of the Rev. W. T. Sattianadhan, a native clergyman of Madras, and his wife, who appeared in their Indian costumes, no doubt accounted for the exceptionally large attendance.

The meeting was held under a spreading sycamore tree near the west end of the hall. About 500 hundred persons were present, including the children from the Church Schools at Swillington and Swillington Common.

The chair was occupied by Sir Charles Lowther, and there were also present Mrs. Lowther, the Hon. Mrs. Saville, Mrs. Gascoigne, Parlington Park; Miss Morehead, the Ven. Archdeacon Dealtry (rector of Swillington), and Mrs. Dealtry; Dr. Morehead, Nowell; the Rev. W. Saumarez Smith B.D., principal of St. Aidan's College, Birkenhead, the Rev. S. Adams, and Mrs. Adams, Leeds; the Rev. A. C. Downer and Mrs. Downer, Hunslet; the Rev. F. Pilcher, secretary to the Church Missionary Society, the Rev. A. J. Irvin, &c.

The meeting opened with devotional exercises, after which the Chairman said that Mr. Sattianadhan was the first Hindoo convert to Christianity who as a clergyman had ever visited this country, and no one knew better than he did the lost state of the heathen, and the blessedness of being brought out of darkness into the marvellous light of the Gospel. If as the result of the meeting those who were present took more interest in the grand cause of missions, the object of the gathering would be fully realised.

Archdeacon Dealtry then stated that the amount collected in the parish last year for foreign missions was £39 16s. 11d. He had known Mr. Sattianadhan and his wife for many years, having witnessed their labours in Madras, where they were highly esteemed for their self-denying work.

Mr. Sattianadhan was ordained in 1860 by the late Bishop Dealtry, of Madras, (father of the venerable archdeacon.)

The Rev. T. W. Sattianadhan then addressed the meeting, and after sketching the rise and progress of missions in India, referred to the women's work in connection with the Zenana missions. It was about fourteen years since his wife opened a school for native girls, and it had since been carried on with increasing success. He hoped the English ladies would take greater interest in the women of India, who were still in a very ignorant and degraded condition. He trusted that that meeting would have a permanent influence for good, and that the interest which had been created in missionary work would not be of a passing character.

The Rev. W. S. Smith, who was formerly chaplain to the bishop of Madras, said it was sixteen years since he had the pleasure of examining Mr. Sattianadhan for priest's orders. The Rev. M. Lane afterwards addressed the meeting, and a vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman on the motion of the Rev. F. Pilcher.

After a collection, amounting to £27 7s. 4d. had been made, those present were by the kindness of Sir Chas. Lowther, entertained to tea.

THE CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL TREAT.

On Wednesday the children of the Church Sunday Schools, to the number of 300, were entertained to their yearly treat and tea. The teachers and scholars assembled at the schools about two p.m., and after being marshalled in the boys' playground proceeded to church, the banners, and gay but neat attire of the children giving the procession quite an imposing appearance.

On arriving at the church the first hymn on the paper was sung by the choir as a processional hymn, the clergymen present were our own Vicar and Curate, with the Revs. — Daniells, Diocesan Inspector, and A. J. Irvin, Vicar of Woodlesford. A most excellent address was given by the Rev. — Daniells, who by his frequent contact with children seems to have gained a style of preaching exactly suited to their requirements. The text was taken from the cxli. Psalm, 3rd verse, "Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth, and keep the door of my lips." By illustrations and stories Mr. Daniells most beautifully explained how God might set watches or doorkeepers over our mouths, he said there were five keepers who are ever ready to check any word that should not be spoken, viz: Truth, Godly Fear, Love Prayer, and Hope.

During the service the hymns, which had been previously practiced, were well sung, and the behaviour of the children throughout the service was all that could be desired.

After the service the children were marched back to school, where an excellent tea had been provided by Mrs. Abbishaw, to which ample justice was done: prizes were then distributed (in the boys' school by the Rev. A. J. Irvin, and in the girls' school by the Rev. G. Heberden), to those children who had gained most marks during the year.

About six o'clock the whole company, headed by the band walked in procession to the Vicarage grounds, where swings and other sources of amusement had been provided, and by the untiring exertions of the Vicar and the Rev. S. King, a most enjoyable evening was spent by the children.

About 8 30 all were assembled in front of the Vicarage, and after a hymn had been sung and a short address given by the Vicar buns and sweets were distributed.

Hearty cheers having been given for the Vicar, Mrs. Heberden, and the Rev. H. S. King, the National Anthem concluded one of the pleasantest days in the whole year for the youth of Rothwell.

After the dismissal of the children, the teachers, about 40 in number, assembled at the Vicarage and partook of an excellent supper, kindly provided by the Vicar.

The children who obtained prizes are—

ROBIN HOOD.
DEATH OF A CHILD FROM BURNING.

On Saturday last an accident of a fearful character befell a child 18 months old belonging to Mr Haveyard.

It appears the mother was engaged cleaning the iron things on Saturday morning, and in so doing, had been using the paraffin bottle. The child must have overturned the bottle, and its clothes becoming saturated with the liquid, by some means got on fire, the mother on looking round was horrified to find the child in flames, which owing to the nature of the liquid could not easily be extinguished, the child's lower parts were fearfully burnt. Remedies were at once applied, but in vain, the child died early on Sunday morning.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.
A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.
JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain—
"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1855
After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by
J. & J. HOPKINSON.
At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by

ROTHWELL MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The Annual General Meeting of Members and Subscribers of the Rothwell Mechanics' Institute took place on Monday evening.

Mr. W. Mason, president of the institute occupied the chair the principal portion of the time. The first half hour and the last half hour being filled by Mr. S. Seanor's presidency.

The Annual Report was read by Mr. Enos Taylor, one of the Secretaries, which while deploring some discouraging items in the past year's experinces, yet, pointed with pleasure to the comparative success of the evening classes under Mr. Legard, (boys' class), Mr. Thompson, (drawing class), and Mr. Lockwood, (science class). These classes, however, have cost the institute £18 19s 2d, a heavy charge on the general funds.

The library has had only 23 new books added, making the preseut total 963, there being 3732 issues during the year, besides 347 issues from the Yorkshire Union's parcels, making a total of 4079, an increase of 800 over last year. Improved arrangements are being carried out in relation to the library, which it is anticipated will not only secure a better and more correct mode of distributing and preserving the books, but also ensure a larger income in this department of the institution.

During the session Mr. Curzon delivered a capital lecture on "Oliver Goldsmith," Mr. W. Rowton gave an entertaining evening on "Laughter," being readings from humorous writers. Mr. W. Bray's party secured the largest attendance of the season but only left 17s. 6d. balance.

In connection with the presentation of prizes to the successful students of the drawing class, an effort was made to secure greater interest in the institute without much cost, by giving a "home talent" entertainment, to which the Vicar, the president, the Harmonic Union and other ladies and gentlemen lent their gratuitous assistance, but alas, the hall was only half-filled. Determined to use every means to raise the institute and draw people to it, the Committee very thankfully accepted the kind offer of the Leeds Amateur Orchestral Society to give a high-class concert, and they put forth extra exertions to sell tickets for the treat which was certainly afforded; unfortunately however the best concerted schemes were vain, and although a splendid musical programme was perfectly executed by the talented party the attendance was comparatively small, and the financial success smaller still.

From letting, the funds of the institute received £25 4s., being an increase of £3 on last year. The report also refers to the action of the Committee in refusing the application of the Liberal Association for weekly use of the Lodge room, and in granting their application to use the large hall for a public meeting, and suggests that a clause be embodied in the new rule to prevent future misunderstanding.

Some thoughts had been entertained of purchasing the house belonging to the late Mrs. Moxon, but eventually the idea was abandoned.

The general condition of the institute was considered very good, there being 36 Honorary members, contributing £28, and 127 ordinary members, subscribing £28 14s. 3d., making a total of 163 an increase of 16.

The total income for the year has been £128 4s. 9d., an increase of £35 over last year.

Against the small balance in the treasurer's hands, there are two accounts unpaid leaving a deficit of £6 or £7.

Mr. S. Seanor, in moving the adoption of the report, felt that it was generally encouraging, especially when it is remembered that the primary object of the institution was educational.

Mr. C. Iveson seconded the resolution. In putting the motion, which was unanimously carried. The chairman echoed the remark of Mr. Seanor, that the first object is to advance education, and he thought the members had cause to rejoice in the success of the boy's class. If they had not had great financial success, they were only similar to others, and he trusted by the new arrangements, which had been made, that the errors which had crept into the financial management would be avoided.

The consideration of the revised rules was next undertaken, the printer's proofs of the rules being read by Mr. Walter Batty, one of the secretaries, and each division amended or approved by the vote of a large majority of the members present.

Having completed this portion of the work, a discussion arose as to the powers of the Committee to let the rooms for political meetings, when the Secretary read a minute passed by a majority of the Committee, at a late meeting, setting forth that the Committee shall let the large hall for all respectable purposes.

Mr. J. R. Seanor, Mr. B. Batty, and others spoke strongly in support of the resolution of the Committee, and desired to have it incorporated in the rules, some speakers holding that all the rooms should be at liberty to be let for political meetings.

The Chairman said the Committee as a Committee, knew nothing about the political opinions of anyone, whether Tory, Liberal or Radical: they held their position as a Committee to promote the general good of Rothwell, and would be quite as ready to let the hall to one side as another for public meetings. As regards any further applications as tenants, the Committee have committed themselves as far as they possibly can.

Mr. Blyth pointed out that in case of a general election, the Conservative party might not have the opportunity of using the room at all, the Liberals might keep it all day.

Mr. J. Hargreaves would second a resolution, to let it for all respectable purposes, except political committee meetings.

This, however, would really have been an amendment.

Mr. Blyth protested against the question being settled at this meeting, and held that it ought to have been specified as a part of the business on the circulars calling the meeting.

Mr. E. Taylor proposed that a special General Meeting be called for the purpose of deciding the matter which Mr. Drew seconded.

On being put to the vote, 11 voted for, and 12 against.

Mr. J. R. Seanor proposed that the Mechanics' Institute having been built by public subscription, that the large hall be let for all respectable purposes. Mr. B. Batty seconded the motion.

Considerable feeling having been manifested, and gradually increasing during the discussion, several members of the audience left the room, and it was very evident that the proposition would be carried by a large majority, the motion being upheld by a nearly unanimous vote of the members present.

Mr. W. Abbishaw proposed—That the election of officers be adjourned to another meeting, it being then nearly 10 o'clock.

This, however, was not agreed to, and the election of officers proceeded, the Committee being chosen by ballot, and the other officers by an unanimous show of hands.

They stand as follows:—
President:—W. Mason, Esq.
Vice Presidents:—Messrs. W. Hargreaves, and J. R. Seanor.
Treasurer:—Mr. T. Stainer.
Librarian:—Mr. B. Taylor.

The Secretaries both declined to retain their office, although strongly pressed to do so. It being found impossible, however, to select some one suitable at this meeting, they were prevailed on to continue their office, until it could be properly filled at a future meeting.

Committtee:—Messrs. Parker, R. Sykes, W. Batty, James Batty, S. Bramley, Enos Taylor, C. Ineson, S. Seanor and B. Batty.

Auditors:—Messrs. Marshall, and A. Ward.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

The ordinary meeting of the Board took place on Monday evening. Present: Messrs W. Hargreaves (chairman), Lunn, James Hargreaves, Greenwood, Hawden, Holmes, and the Clerk, Inspector, and Treasurer.

The minutes of the last meeting having been read and approved, it was proposed by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Hawden and carried—That the clerk write to Mr. Holmes asking him to allow the Board to lay a line of pipes up Holmes street at Stourton.

It was also proposed by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried—That Mr. Filleter be instructed to have a line of water pipes laid up Carlton lane as an extension of the original scheme.

Mr. Lunn proposed and Mr. Hawden seconded—That an acknowledgement of 1s. a year be paid to Lord Stourton for allowing the waste water to flow in his land at the old Engine.

In reference to Mr. Pickthall's request for an extension of time, &c., in reservoir making Mr. Filleter advised the Board to agree to the proposal.

Mr. Adamson having deviated from his plan in a building he is erecting, was directed to make it according to the plan deposited by him.

Several being anxious to attend the Annual General Meeting of the Mechanics' Institution, a proposal was made to adjourn the remainder of the business till Friday, as it was evident the whole work could not be got through in one night. It was, however, carried by the chairman's casting vote to remain at the Board.

Plan submitted by Mr. Simpson of houses intended to be built by Mr. W. Bulmer, in Rothwell, were approved of after an alteration had been made in the width of the street.

The clerk reported that the Deed of Conveyance of the land at the bottom of the Marsh was completed, and the Highway and Public Works Committees agreed to meet and arrange for the widening of the street.

It was also resolved that the clerk do write to Mr. Farrer, informing him that the Board is willing to supply Mr. Calverly with water, and to ask for further particulars.

Several accounts and salaries were then passed.

Complaints were made by several members as to the bad state of some of the causeways, and the Highway Committees attention was drawn to the matter.

The meeting was adjourned to Friday evening at half-past five, when details in connection with the water supply will be gone into.

ATRATO AND ALLEN'S CIRCUS AT ROTHWELL.

Messrs. Atrato and Allen's Great Model Circus visited this town on Tuesday, July 9th, with the most complete company of equestrians that we have witnessed for some time, including the world renowned Mr. W. F. Wallett, the Queen's Jester, who has been specially engaged by the proprietors at an enormous expense, prior to his retirement from public life.

The performance throughout was one of the best we have ever had the pleasure of witnessing, in fact we have never seen one equal it. Great credit is due to the ringmaster, Mr. Pearson, for the manner in which he conducted the whole performance.

The ladies were Mdlle. Fabian, Mdlle. Cook, Mdlle. Carlotta, De Jonge, Tullett, and company.

Amongst the riders we must mention, Mr. Charles Allen, the champion bareback rider of the world, whose back summersaults over the banner called forth loud applause; also Mr. Hickey, in his great impersonation of "Shaw the Life-Guardsman," and Mdme. Cook in the "Flower Girl."

The clowns, Messrs. Lyons, Fabian, Gilleno, Tomaso, and Kirbo (the last named being ill did not appear), added greatly to the amusement of the evening by their witty and pithy sayings.

Last, but not least we must call attention to the "Midget" Taylors. The most wonderful boys that ever appeared on a trapeze, and the laughable negro entertainment, "King Coffee's Ambassadors."

The commodious marquee was well filled, and the cleanliness and compact accommodation, together with the courteous conduct of the attendants, and the unique performance called forth repeated plaudits.

Mr. Robertson informs us that they will shortly return to their winter quarters at Sunderland, where an elaborate wooden edifice is in course of erection, capable of holding 3000 persons.

WESLEYAN SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

The anniversary services of 1878 were conducted on Sunday last by the Rev. R. F. Cape, when there were large congregations, especially in the afternoon and evening:

The sermon in the morning was eminently a Sunday School sermon addressed to teachers and others, in which their interest was largely invoked for the success of the important work of Sunday Schools. The object, character and influence of the work was forcibly put, and the whole sermon was well suited to the occasion, and likely to promote the good of the institution generally. In the afternoon the children and teachers generally quite filled the galleries, the friends occupying the body of the chapel. Mr. Cape greatly delighted and interested the children with his well adapted address in which he took care to intersperse a fair sprinkling of racy anecdotes. In the evening a useful sermon was preached by Mr. Cape on "show-piety at home."

Mr. Ward conducted the singing, and was assisted in the afternoon by several violins and a double bass. The children acquitted themselves remarkably well at each service, and the collections amounted to over £7.

On Wednesday the usual festival took place, the weather being exceedingly favourable, neither rain nor heat interfering with the pleasures of the day.

About one o'clock a few little ones began to arrive, and by two o'clock the Wesleyan premises in Butcher-lane were all alive with the scholars, teachers, and friends of the school, dressed in their best, and full of merry activity and excitement: Marching in couples, and headed by the teachers of each class, the happy throng of young people wended their way up Butcher-lane, Swithin-street, past Prospect-place, down Marsh Side, on to the bottom of Commercial-street; up to the Cross, and thence to the school again, where the coveted tea and buns awaited them, served by loving, willing hands.

The company formed at several places on the route and sang two or three hymns, greatly delighting those who heard them. The singing was accompanied by friends with violins, and a double bass, and led, with his usual ability by Mr. C. Ward.

Tea having been disposed of, the children were taken up to the Cricket field, kindly lent by Mr. Bumby and the Cricket Club, while a goodly number of friends sat down to tea with the teachers after five o'clock

By half-past six all had adjourned to the field for a romp, and an entertaining sight it was, every portion of the field alive with youth and merriment. Balls, nuts, &c., were freely distributed, and after eight o'clock two large ballons were despatched most successfully. Games of all kinds soon engaged the attention of young and old, and for the nonce the old forgot his years, the matron her house cares, the business man his anxieties, the working man his arduous toil, and joined heartily in the innocent folly of festival time. Nine o'clock saw the children in school again, where a few words were spoken to them by the superintendents and considerable amusement afforded by Mr. Seanor's capital accomplishment of the "Kentish fire" hurrah.

Cheers were given for the Queen, for Mr. Bumby, for the Club Committee, for Mr. Ward, and the 'fiddlers," and for the subscribers.

With a parting prayer, and a bun, the young folks were then dismissed to their homes to look forward to next years' school-feast.

The usual meeting was held afterwards, and it was decided that a Committee of three should be appointed to make arrangements for the teachers trip to some suitable place on the 6th August, the fare not to exceed 3s. The happy company dispersed shortly before eleven.

The scholars and teachers numbered nearly 300.

CHURCH MISSIONARY MEETING IN SWILLINGTON PARK.

The annual meeting of the Swillington Branch of the Church Missionary Society was held on Friday afternoon in Swillington Park, the seat of Sir Charles H. Lowther, Bart. Fine weather favoured the proceedings, and the presence of the Rev. W. T. Sattianadhan, a native clergyman of Madras, and his wife, who appeared in their Indian costumes, no doubt accounted for the exceptionally large attendance.

The meeting was held under a spreading sycamore tree near the west end of the hall. About 500 hundred persons were present, including the children from the Church Schools at Swillington and Swillington Common.

The chair was occupied by Sir Charles Lowther, and there were also present Mrs. Lowther, the Hon. Mrs. Saville, Mrs. Gascoigne, Parlington Park; Miss Morehead, the Ven. Archdeacon Dealtry (rector of Swillington), and Mrs. Dealtry; Dr. Morehead, Nowell; the Rev. W. Saumarez Smith B.D., principal of St. Aidan's College, Birkenhead, the Rev. S. Adams, and Mrs. Adams, Leeds; the Rev. A. C. Downer and Mrs. Downer, Hunslet; the Rev. F. Pilcher, secretary to the Church Missionary Society, the Rev. A. J. Irvin, &c.

The meeting opened with devotional exercises, after which the Chairman said that Mr. Sattianadhan was the first Hindoo convert to Christianity who as a clergyman had ever visited this country, and no one knew better than he did the lost state of the heathen, and the blessedness of being brought out of darkness into the marvellous light of the Gospel. If as the result of the meeting those who were present took more interest in the grand cause of missions, the object of the gathering would be fully realised.

Archdeacon Dealtry then stated that the amount collected in the parish last year for foreign missions was £39 16s. 11d. He had known Mr. Sattianadhan and his wife for many years, having witnessed their labours in Madras, where they were highly esteemed for their self-denying work.

Mr. Sattianadhan was ordained in 1860 by the late Bishop Dealtry, of Madras, (father of the venerable archdeacon.)

The Rev. T. W. Sattianadhan then addressed the meeting, and after sketching the rise and progress of missions in India, referred to the women's work in connection with the Zenana missions. It was about fourteen years since his wife opened a school for native girls, and it had since been carried on with increasing success. He hoped the English ladies would take greater interest in the women of India, who were still in a very ignorant and degraded condition. He trusted that that meeting would have a permanent influence for good, and that the interest which had been created in missionary work would not be of a passing character.

The Rev. W. S. Smith, who was formerly chaplain to the bishop of Madras, said it was sixteen years since he had the pleasure of examining Mr. Sattianadhan for priest's orders. The Rev. M. Lane afterwards addressed the meeting, and a vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman on the motion of the Rev. F. Pilcher.

After a collection, amounting to £27 7s. 4d. had been made, those present were by the kindness of Sir Chas. Lowther, entertained to tea.

THE CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL TREAT.

On Wednesday the children of the Church Sunday Schools, to the number of 300, were entertained to their yearly treat and tea. The teachers and scholars assembled at the schools about two p.m., and after being marshalled in the boys' playground proceeded to church, the banners, and gay but neat attire of the children giving the procession quite an imposing appearance.

On arriving at the church the first hymn on the paper was sung by the choir as a processional hymn, the clergymen present were our own Vicar and Curate, with the Revs. — Daniells, Diocesan Inspector, and A. J. Irvin, Vicar of Woodlesford. A most excellent address was given by the Rev. — Daniells, who by his frequent contact with children seems to have gained a style of preaching exactly suited to their requirements. The text was taken from the cxli. Psalm, 3rd verse, "Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth, and keep the door of my lips." By illustrations and stories Mr. Daniells most beautifully explained how God might set watches or doorkeepers over our mouths, he said there were five keepers who are ever ready to check any word that should not be spoken, viz: Truth, Godly Fear, Love Prayer, and Hope.

During the service the hymns, which had been previously practiced, were well sung, and the behaviour of the children throughout the service was all that could be desired.

After the service the children were marched back to school, where an excellent tea had been provided by Mrs. Abbishaw, to which ample justice was done: prizes were then distributed (in the boys' school by the Rev. A. J. Irvin, and in the girls' school by the Rev. G. Heberden), to those children who had gained most marks during the year.

About six o'clock the whole company, headed by the band walked in procession to the Vicarage grounds, where swings and other sources of amusement had been provided, and by the untiring exertions of the Vicar and the Rev. S. King, a most enjoyable evening was spent by the children.

About 8 30 all were assembled in front of the Vicarage, and after a hymn had been sung and a short address given by the Vicar buns and sweets were distributed.

Hearty cheers having been given for the Vicar, Mrs. Heberden, and the Rev. H. S. King, the National Anthem concluded one of the pleasantest days in the whole year for the youth of Rothwell.

After the dismissal of the children, the teachers, about 40 in number, assembled at the Vicarage and partook of an excellent supper, kindly provided by the Vicar.

The children who obtained prizes are—

ROBIN HOOD.

DEATH OF A CHILD FROM BURNING.

On Saturday last an accident of a fearful character befell a child 18 months old belonging to Mr Haveyard.

It appears the mother was engaged cleaning the iron things on Saturday morning, and in so doing, had been using the paraffin bottle. The child must have overturned the bottle, and its clothes becoming saturated with the liquid, by some means got on fire, the mother on looking round was horrified to find the child in flames, which owing to the nature of the liquid could not easily be extinguished, the child's lower parts were fearfully burnt. Remedies were at once applied, but in vain, the child died early on Sunday morning.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

MATHER, Farringdon Road, London). We can commend this as a very good and convenient Marking Ink, we have submitted Linen marked with it to some of the most powerful of Chemical Agents, including Acids, Alkaline and Chlorine, and Cyanide of Potassium, and have found that it was very much easier to destroy the Linen than the marking upon it; in fact the writing could not be effaced by any of the Agents we employed. Sold in Bottles, 6d., 1/-, and 2/6 each by all Chemists and Stationers. SAMPLE BOTTLE SENT POST FREE ON RECEIPT OF 13 STAMPS. WHOLESALE WAREHOUSES, W. THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

THE CONGRESS AND ITS RESULTS.

Looking back a few weeks, when our dockyards were alive night and day with workmen preparing and victualling vessels: when our admiralty warehouses were bursting with tinned meats, and various foods, with clothing and other articles to make up the soldiers' outfit for foreign service; when the air was filled with rumours of wars, and every morning we feared to find in the newspapers "War declared," in a heavy head line; when sadness and gloomy foreboding of coming woes filled the hearts of many an Englishman. Looking back at that time, only a few weeks ago, we can scarcely believe the strange and pleasant scene which greets our eyes as we scan the world's horizon to-day.

A month ago a Congress of the Great Powers was agreed upon, and as we watched the stern old Gortschakoff from the North, and the clever and gentlemanly Andrassy from Vienna, the sad and thoughtful Turkish minister, the representatives of the fresh young Italy, the ministers of the new and established French Republic, and cleverer than all, our statesman-author, Lord Bea-Beaconsfield; with strangely mixed sentiments, to the horse-shoe table in the Radzivel palace of the Emperor-making Prince Bismark. No wonder all the world stood agape as to what would come of that extraordinary gathering of wise-men. Any day the wide diversity of opinion and interest might have cansed a break up of the Congress, and the war fiend have been let loose with fearful fury. But day after day passed meeting after meeting was held, one by one the great problems were settled, and last Saturday, in full Court dress, and a with a settled consciousness of having done his best (whatever the result) each plenipotentiary signed the Treaty of Berlin, and prepared for his homeward journey.

There are two sides to every question, and doubtless where advantage appears almost entire, there are drawbacks behind the scene in every Conference, and every decision.

Probably Russia will growl at her representatives allowing her hard earned gains of territory to be wrenched from her grasp and returned to the "sick man," but she is saved from war with a country whose men are fresh and hardy, whose rescources are unbounded.

Austria ought to be pleased with the states which have come into her hands, though she may find difficulties and dangers to counterbalance. Turkey has had another lease of life, whatever of life may be left in her; let us hope the pruning she has sustained will be as beneficial to her, as it is to the trees of our gardens, and that she will bring forth better and more plentiful fruit. And whatever people may think of Disraeli as a home statesman, or of the future results of England's action in the congress, the noble Earl comes home laden with with honour and glory, in having staved off the awful war which loomed so darkly before us, in upholding British influence in Europe, and in opening out to English enterprise and commerce the classic land of the East, a crowning surprise and success to the eventful life of the Prime Minister. As we have said, the possible disadvantages of responsibility, risk, and expense are all true, and patent, but let us accept the facts generously, and trust that the same powerful race which has made India and Australia and the islands of the sea rejoice in expanding wealth will also be able to transform the glorious old land of the Bible, and the ancients from their present debased and downtrodden condition, to more than their pristine grandeur and glory, and pave the way for commerce, and education and religion.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

On Friday evening an adjourned meeting of the Board was held. Present:—Messrs. W. Hargreaves, (chairman), Lunn, Smith, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes and the Clerk, Inspector and Treasurer.

As Mr. Nickols and Mr. Judson both object to allow the water mains to be laid across the Poddock, or up Bailey lane, Mr. Bramley proposed and Mr. Hawdon seconded a resolution to instruct Mr. Filleter to alter the direction of the pipes so as to supply Churchfield, from Gillett Lane, and up Howarth's Hill.

A conversation ensued on the question of placing guards at certain positions in the town, and as to the liability of people to pay for the water whether used by them or not, and the clerk read a minute of a previous meeting, as well as an extract from the Act of Parliament, whereby it appears that all will have to pay a water-rate, and that all persons without a sufficient supply of good water cand be compelled to have it in their houses and pay for it.

A committee of four members was formed for the purpose of compiling Bye-laws for the Water-supply; viz:—Messrs. Lunn, Bramley, Hawden, and Holmes.

The inspector was authorised to purchase a quantity of ferrules of different sizes.

Mr. Richardson was to be instructed to prepare a specification and estimate for the pulling down of old buildings, flagging, macadamising and channelling near the Black Bull Inn, and tenders to be asked for through the Rothwell Times.

THE SUCCESSES OF ROTHWELL YOUNG MEN.

MR. HENRY DREW.—It is our pleasing duty to report that our townsman, Mr. Henry Drew, lately at the Hunslet branch of the Midland Railway, has now been promoted to the entire superintendence of the Company's interest at the Docks, King's Lynn, Norfolk, where he will have the opportunity of displaying those powers of tact, system, fidelity and perseverance which characterise him. We heartily congratulate him as another Rothwell lad climbing the ladder of position and usefulness, and shall be glad to hear of his further advancement.

SUDDEN DEATH AT ROTHWELL.

On Saturday morning the town was thrown into a state of sadness by the news of the sudden death of Mrs. Caroline Hudson, late of Dundee.

The old lady, whose healthy face and pleasing manner had already secured a number of acquaintances, had only come to Rothwell six weeks ago, having lately lost her only sister with whom she had been living at Dundee, and had come to Mrs. Drew's (her sister-in-law), to spend the remainder of her days in quiet and comfort.

From the evidence given at the inquest it appears Mrs. Hudson had been out visiting with Mrs. Drew, on Friday evening, getting home again about half-past nine, when supper was served, and all retired to bed about half-past ten. The deceased had sometime ago sustained a fall, slightly injuring her wrist, but further than this she appeared to be in good health. Occasionally she complained of a pain in her chest, but nothing serious was anticipated. On Saturday morning about half past seven, Mrs Drew went upstairs with some warm water for her sister-in-law, and receiving no reply to her knock at the room door, went in, and was shocked to find Mrs Hudson lying on her back in bed quite dead and cold. Raising an alarm, other members of the family rushed upstairs, and Dr. Heaps was sent for, but he pronounced her as having been dead some hours. There appeared not to have been the slightest struggle, as the bedclothes were quite straight, and deceased hardly seems to have moved after getting to bed.

The inquest was held in the afternoon before T. Taylor, Esq., coroner; and after a short consultation a verdict, 'Died from natural causes," was returned.

A "FANCY DRESS" CRICKET MATCH.

On Monday last our town stood on the tip-toe of expectation, for the Brass Band and the Rothwell Second Eleven had arranged a match for the evening, and rumour had been telling that the dresses to be worn were "fearfully and wonderfully made," in fact it was to be a "clowns" match, and for the nonce Music was to wear motley clothing as holiday garb.

Rumour proved true, and on the first beat of the drum that announced the start of the "clowns" in procession, there was a scurry and rush to see them. The juvenile population, as usual, mustering in force and leading the van. The band paraded the principal streets to that much abused Jingo ditty, "We don't want to fight," and the popular "Jeremiah." The make-up of the members was a caution—some half blue, red and yellow, some with buttons the size of a respectable cheese-plate, one in a green figured Dolly Varden coat, which powerfully suggested bed-hangings, while one or two did "a tail unfold," that would have driven a well regulated monkey mad with envy, in fact the troupe appeared to be—

"Some with long tails,
Some with short,
And some with none at all."

The match was fixed for 4.30, but it was nearly an hour afterwards before the friendly rivals stood face to face in one of the most prettily situated enclosures that ever a wicket was pitched in.

The band numbered 14 players, and to them were opposed the Second Eleven (who were only one short of a "baker's dozen.") But that didn't matter, it was a "surprise party," and if the spectators obtained more than they bargained for, all the better.

The Band took the willow first, but Batty at the lower wicket, was terribly in earnest, F. Green being at top, and in a few overs "4 for 6" made us wonder if music had any "charm" to keep wickets standing. The wicket played very lively and numerous mishaps caused a continuous fire of good humoured chaff. One bandsman received a nasty "knuckle-duster," and was asked with mock pathos, "Would he have a leg-pad?" And so the game went on merrily, everybody seemed in good spirits, even Batty "eased-up" a little. But the Band's sticks seemed to have caught an ague fit; wicket after wicket fell until after a little over an hour's play the Eleven took the defence to the bowling of A. Cripps and Fowler. The "first man out" was soon proclaimed, and in the fulness of their joy a number of spectators made for the bandsman's instruments and serenaded the musicians with such a selection as one only wishes to hear once in a lifetime. The effect on the fielders was magical! They stopped play; looked up in amaze, and then in a body "went" for the impromptu "musickers," but the novices promptly changed the tune to the "Skedaddle" galop, however, white, blue and black cap was a good first, the rest close up, one gentleman with a coat that would have given Joseph's celebrated garment a long start, came sailing along, "his streamers fluttering in the wind." This little affair settled, the ball once more went rolling. The bowling seemed to get off the ground in a manner that rendered the batmen's position rather precarious. One poor fellow had such a reminder on the hand that he performed an Indian war dance without any previous tuition. The spectators thought it was part of the fun, and laughed; it is needless to say he did not.

After a fair show of play, the Eleven were all out for 70. Time not being up until a quarter past eight the Band again stood on the defensive, and pegged away until the call of time, when the company left the field accompanied by the merry strains of their homeward-bound entertainers, the deepening shadows of a fair summer's eve veiling the erstwhile happy scene.

The gate-money, we believe, goes to the funds of the cricket club, and should occasion arise our athletic friends will doubtless return their musical neighbours kind attention.

The "telegraph" was admirably looked after by a troop of small boys, who got so mixed up with the figures that it is wonderful however they became extricated.

LOFTHOUSE.

CRICKET.—At the above place on Saturday last a match was played between the home-team, and one from Leeds. The largest score that the Lofthouse Club has ever yet reached was obtained on Saturday the score being 208. Of these Thos. Hammond contributed 53, when in admiration of such splendid batting, a collection was set on foot, and over 14s. gathered which will be presented to him in the shape of a new bat. Full score in our cricket column.

ANNIVERSARY.—On Sunday the anniveasary in connection with the Robin Hood United Methodist Free Church took place. Sermons were preached in the morning and evening by Mr. Holroyd of Leeds, and in the afternoon he delivered an address to the teachers, the scholars, and their parents. The scholars during the intervals, assisted by a few instrumentalists, sang their hymns in a manner which reflected credit on Mr. Plows thier conductor. On Monday a public tea was held in the school-room, to which a numerous company sat down. After tea a meeting a meeting was held, which was presided over by Mr. D. Hartley, of Robin Hood. The proceeds of the tea will be devoted to the trust fund.

HAY HARVEST.—All the hay in this district has, during the past week (with one or two exceptions), been cut and taken away. The crops have been remarkably good and abundant.

SCHOOL TREAT.—On Wednesday the annual trip for the teachers and scholars of the Lofthouse Sunday School took place. The party went from Ardsley station through Bradford to Shipley Glen. After their arrival a variety of games, and a substantial dinner and tea, and a visit to Saltaire Park successively occupied their time until the time for the return journey. The trip (as well as the provision) is the gift of J. Charlesworth, Esq., of Lofthouse House.

ROTHWELL CHORAL SOCIETY.—After several attempts and disappointments, we trust at last to have a Musical Sociaty which will draw to itself the latest talent of Rothwell, and by combination, be able to take up the works of our grand masters and perform them in such a manner, and with a force as has never before been heard in our town. On Tuesday evening, the first meeting took place in the Mechanics' Hall, and we understand about fifty persons gave in their names as members.

CARLTON PRIMITIVE METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL.

On Sunday last, sermons were preached in the Carlton Primitive Methodist Chapel, by Mr. W. Duckworth, of Leeds, in connection with the Sunday School Anniversary. The congregations were large at each service, during which the scholars sang the special hymns and recited several pieces and dialogues very nicely.

On Thursday, the Annual Festival was held, when the children and teachers paraded the village, singing at several places on the route, Mr. Hiram Ward's waggon following with a load of infants. Tea was then provided, and afterwards the whole party adjourned to spend the evening in a field kindly lent by Mr. Edwd Wright, where the usual festivities and amusements were indulged in.

ROTHWELL GAS LIGHT COMPANY.

On Thursday, the 11th inst., a Shareholders' Meeting, the choice of the Company fell on Mr. Thos. Wormald, as secretary, and Mr. Wm. Denton as collector.

From what we know of these two officers we must congratulate the shareholders on having secured the services of townsmen who will faithfully and properly perform the duty assigned them.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

ROTHWELL HARMONIC v. WOODLESFORD.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Aire Vale Terrace, Woodlesford, Leeds, 17th, July, 1878.

Sir,—My attention has been called to a paragraph amongst the Cricket Notes, in your issue of Friday last, referring to the above match, and on perusing the same I find that it is calculated to produce a very unfavorable impression as to the fairness of our umpire, and which in common justice ought not to be allowed to gain credence.

I should be glad, therefore, if you would allow me space in your columns this week to state the particulars of the case, your readers can then judge for themselves.

The paragraph runs thus—"It appears that the decision of the Woodlesford umpire had been twice challenged during the game, but on the last occasion he was so evidently at fault," &c. This is certainly a mis-statement and I beg most emphatically to state that our umpire's decision had not been twice challenged, neither was he so evidently at fault as might be inferred from the above, but that his decision was a fair and just one, and such as any other honest umpire would have given.

The facts are briefly as follows—Woodlesford went in first, and during the innings our umpire gave one of his own party "out, leg before wicket" much to the satisfaction of the Harmonic men, who expressed the opinion that our umpire was a very impartial one.

Whilst the innings of the Harmonic was in progress one of their players was run out and on this occasion as the umpire's decision had gone against them our opponents were not quite so impressed with his impartiality. Meanwhile the score of the Harmonic approached that of Woodlesford, until within six of the required number, and two wickets to fall, when the Harmonic umpire committed a most flagrant breach of the rules of honor and justice by giving one of their men "in" when at the same time he was about six feet out of his ground in attempting a run. In order to avoid any unpleasantness we accepted the decision, and continued the game. The next ball which was delivered by myself, (bowling round the wickets) being pitched between the wickets (Rule 24), and would have taken the middle stump—was stopped by the batsman's knee, I thereupon appealed to our umpire, and he very properly gave the man out. This did not suit our opponents, so they refused to continue the game, and created a most disgraceful uproar in the field.

Why they should give up playing I cannot imagine as by doing so they lost the match (see Rule 38), the reason may probably be found in the fact that they had been betting on the result, and were afraid of losing their money.

I must also take exception to the statement, that the match was going in favour of the Harmonic as in my opinion it was a very open question, or if anything in our favour.

I should like to recommend the Harmonic party to study the matter carefully, and I think they will become thoroughly ashamed of themselves on account of their conduct and language on this occasion, which were the reverse of gentlemanly.

They should also endeavour to become better acquainted with the rules of the game, and especially rule 24, which is, I believe, in many cases wrongly interpreted, and most frequently by players in interior clubs. I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,
ROBERT J. SMITH.

[The paragraph was written without any ill will on our part towards the Woodlesford club. The facts came to our knowledge through a channel we can trust, and we thought it the straightforward course to give it publicity, so that Woodlesford might defend its own honour. We give Rule 24; with Lillywhite's Footnote and italics.—Ed]

"XXIV.—Or if with any part of his person he stop the ball, which in the opinion of the Umpire at the bowler's wicket, shall have been pitched in a straight line from it to the Striker's wicket, and would have hit it."

"Amateur Umpires should recollect that, with round arm bowling, experiments have shown that it is almost impossible for a batsman to be out "leg before" if the bowler is bowling round the wicket."

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Sir,—Having a few hours to spare on Friday, July 5th, I took a walk down to Woodlesford to see a match between Rothwell Harmonic and Woodlesford Cricket Clubs. The last named took the bat and all went on smoothly during the innings, the eleven falling for 52 runs.

The Harmonic went in next, full of mirth and fun as ever. But they were soon put out of tune by the unfairness of the Woodlesford umpire, which all the spectators could see. He meant to win the match by fair means or foul. The first time he was appealed to, he gave the batter out, and then said he had a doubt about it. It seems to me the doubt goes to the bowler or fielders at Woodlesford, and not to the batter. All cricketers will know this should not be the case.

The second time he was appealed to, he gave the batter out as usual. This ball was supposed to be played with the top end of the batter's glove and was taken by the wicket-keeper, the batter not being satisfied about it, the umpire was asked if he saw the ball played by the batter, he said no, but I heard him play it. Now I ask any cricketer, is it possible for an umpire to hear a ball played with the glove to the bowler's end, when there is a wind blowing from him as there was on this occasion. I thought when the umpire made the remark as to hearing the ball played that Woodlesford Club still keeps up its name "The Baby Club," and when the big boy bowler appeals, the little baby umpire says "out," and if anybody objects to the decisions, he calls out "Ask Bob if it is not right." Now you must be aware this Big Boy Bowler is the Captain of the Baby Club, but he can do a bit of the umpire's work besides bowl and coach the team. I think if he takes pains he will be fit to play with a club composed of men next season.

The third time this baby umpire was appealed to, he gave the batter out as before, but this time "leg-fore-wicket," and the big boy, was bowling round the wicket.

Now if the baby umpire will look at Lillywhite's Guide, or ask the big boy to look at it for him, he will find that by giving the man out he was going completely against the rules. But it seems to me that rules made by the M.C.C. are no use down at Woodlesford as they have little rules of their own to suit their little club, and if the Secretary would be so kind as to state to other Secretaries, before arranging matches for next season that they play to rules made out for boys men would not play them.

I am, sir, Yours, &c.
A LOVER OF FAIR PLAY.

CRICKET.

The editor will be glad to receive reports of matches from the Secretaries of Cricket and Football Clubs, for insertion in this paper. All copy should be sent on or before Wednesday.

NOTES.

The past week has been famous for the large number of annual and county matches that have taken place in nearly every part of the country, and to give anything beyond a summary is impossible, therefore, like the roving bee in a cluster of flowers, we sip what sweets we can.

The Rev. King's (not out) score in last week's "Notes" should have been 57 not 53; we gave Lee Moor a double dose of "extras" in their innings, this was extra-ordinarily stupid.

Almost first on the list comes the celebrated School Match between Eaton and Harrow at Lord's. This match always attracts a numerous and aristocratic company, as the "Old Boys" like to see the time honoured struggle renewed in their own sons. This year the Harrovarians defeated their opponents by 20 runs.

The Yorkshire team were doomed to suffer defeat at the hands of their ancient historical foe—the Lancastrians—who generally get together a team worthy of their foemen's fame.

Yorkshire met Surrey at Bramall-lane, but the latter came to overwhelming grief, losing by 1 innings and 104 runs. Grace's South of England team gained a victory over Holbeck, and the return match between Kent and Sussex resulted in a victory for the former county by an innings and 36 runs.

Our local clubs were busily engaged at home and abroad as our score list will testify.

C. Tiffany takes a benefit on August 6th. May he have a bumper.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865. After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. FRIDAY, JULY 26, 1878

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

The usual meeting was held Monday evening—Present, J. Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman) Messrs. Lunn, Smith, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes, and the Clerk, Medical Officer, Inspector, and Treasurer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, it was reported that the supply of water at Stourton was running short, and the Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Filleter on the subject. The matter of laying water pipes up Holmes strest stands adjourned.

The Board was gratified to hear that the Corporation had informed the Clerk that the water supplied to the Board has been reduced from 9d. to 7½d. per 1000 gallons, dating from June 24th.

Dr. Heaps, the medical officer, reported the births of 6 males and 7 females during the month, there having been 19 this month last year. There have been 11 deaths, four from diseases of the respiratory organs, two from disease of the nervous system, one of liver disease, three infants, and one suddenly of heart disease. In July, 1877, the deaths were only four.

Diarrhœa is now very prevalent owing to excessively hot weather. In one family a child has been affected with measles, the other members of the family being prohibited from attending school.

As regards the unusual number of deaths the doctor pointed out that the three infants and the sudden death were hardly to be considered as due to disease, reducing the number to about the average. As to the effect of the continued hot weather, it was really more healthy than if rain had intervened, producing a moist atmosphere.

Once more a complaint was lodged against Mr. Calverley for the very indecent condition of a privy at Dungeon lane, which requires thorough repair. The necessary notice was instructed to be given for the abatement of the nuisance.

Mr. Holmes proposed and Mr. Smith seconded—That the Inspector be instructed to make a circuit of the district and report the several nuisances at the next meeting—carried.

The Inspector produced a sample of water taken from the White Beck at Waterloo, whence the Waterloo people are supplied, but which unfortunately gets contaminated before arriving at the houses. Mr. Holmes explained that when the Sanitary Committee were down at Waterloo, they found the principal want was plenty of good water; there were numerous complaints on this score, and as he remarked, with very good reason, for it was quite unfit to drink. By direction of the Committee, the Inspector had gone down again, and traced the water towards its source, which he found came originally from Roundhay Park in pipes to the White Beck, whence however it becomes fouled, and the water reaching Waterloo is not at all good.

After some conversation as to the best way of securing good water for the people down there, it was proposed by Mr. Lunn, seconded by Mr. Bramley—That the Clerk ask the Woodlesford and Waterloo Colliery Company to continue the line of pipes into the village and thereby furnish a supply of drinkable water.

In reply to the Clerk's enquiry, Mr. Farrer wrote the Board that Mr. Calverley wishes to have the Rothwell water delivered at Oulton Hall and wished to know whether there would be sufficient pressure to raise it to the top of the Hall.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Smith, it was decided that the Waterworks Committee arrange to meet Mr. Farrer for further conversation on the subject.

Mr. Pickthall wanted to know if the Board could recommend any good sand suitable for the reservoir works, the letter was referred to Mr. Filleter.

Mr. Horne asked for a supply of water Thwaite Gate, but as Mr. Horne's Mills are not included in the scheme approved by the Inspector, the asked for supply could not be granted according to the Act, anyone not having a sufficient supply of good water, it is the duty of the Board to give such person notice to provide himself with the same, and if not complied with in a certain time, the Board shall lay pipes, and charge expense thereof to him.

Mr. Richardson's plans for the intended widening of the corner of Commercial St. and Marsh Road were considered and on the motion of Mr. Lunn, seconded by Mr. Hawden, it was resolved—That advertisements be inserted in the Leeds Mercury and Rothwell Times asking for tenders to pull down and clear away the old buildings, and the flagging, channelling, paving, &c., of widened street.

A sketch of the proposed widening and improvement of Church Street was also submitted and approved.

Mr. Bulmer asked the Board to allow him to have the loan of his plan tracings a short while, but being against the rule and usage of the Board, his request could not be granted.

A letter from Mr. Simpson on the subject was also read.

An application from the owners of a street behind the Rothwell Haigh Schools, was read, requesting the Board to lay drainage pipes down the street, but as the scheme of drainage is now completed the request could not be entertained.

The Corporation Waterworks account and a cheque for Mr. Mc. Gourley was signed and the business terminated.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD. MEETING.

The Monthly Meeting of the Board was held on Friday, July 19th:- present—Mr. Wm. Hargreaves, (Chairman) Messrs Seanor J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, and the Clerk, Treasurer, and Attendance Officer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the Board proceeded to reconsider the plans of the Rothwell Schools and to make certain necessary alterations.

Several applications for the remission of school fees were made, only one being accepted while the father is in prison.

Edith Clayton was accepted as monitress at Rothwell Schools.

The various accounts salaries were ordered to be paid, and the lists of wants supplied.

THE SUCCESSES OF ROTHWELL YOUNG MEN.

For the third time lately, we have had the pleasure of publishing the advancement of our Rothwell youths. Mr. Brear's gaining a high position at College and his subsequent appointment to the Mastership of a school.

Mr. Drew's removal and promotion to King's Lynn was announced on last weeks issue.

This week we have the same gratification in stating that the two sons of Mr. Richardson, have gained an honorable place for themselves in the recent distribution of prizes by the South Kensington Science and Art Department.

Mr. Thos. H. Richardson, has secured a prize for the design, complete plans and sections of a villa, and Mr. Wm. A. Richardson, has obtained the only prize awarded to the Leeds Students for historical ornaments.

As only 11 prizes have come into Leeds, and there are some 300 or 400 students connected with the Leeds School of Art, Mr. Richardson, may well be proud that his sons have brought two out of the eleven to Rothwell.

TRIP TO STUDLEY ROYAL.

Yesterday, the teachers at the Rothwell Church Sunday School held their annual trip. This year it was decided to go to the above place.

At 10.50 a.m., the company assembled at the Leeds New Station to the number of 44, where a special carriage was in waitng. The morning was dull and wet, but during the journey the sun appeared and shone beautifully all the day.

On the arrival of the party at Ripon, three waggonettes were in waiting to convey them to the park, at which they arrived about one o'clock.

On their arrival, the party had luncheon and then dispersed to enjoy the fresh air and beautiful scenery. All the objects of interest, such as "The Temples of Piety and Fame," "The Surprise," &c., received their due share of praise, but the chief object of attraction was the fine old ruin of Fountain's Abbey, a great length of time was spent in examining the building, two or three gentlemen who had been before serving as guides to the rest, one gentleman caused great amusement to the others by his performances at the "echo" rock. Fountains Hall was also greatly admired by the company.

By this time several of the elder ladies were getting tired but they were quite ready to visit the "Memorial Chapel," which was built by the present Countess in memory of her brother who was slain by the brigands. The font was presented to the Marquis whilst in America. One of the steps leading into the chancel (which is one of the most beautiful in the country) represents the "Fall of Man" and the floor represents the "Garden of Eden."

The party now met again about six o'clock to return to Ripon, where a tea was in waiting at the Crown Hotel. After every one had partaken of the excellent tea, the Vicar said a few words in which he spoke of the good of such meetings, and hoped that the numbers would increase every year.

The party now adjourned to the Cathedral where a verger obligingly explained the objects of interest and allowed the party to ascend the tower.

All now made their way to the station, and when leaving a very heavy shower came on. They reached Leeds about 9.20 p.m., where the party dispersed, all expressing themselves as highly delighted with their days enjoyment.

WOODLESFORD TRIP TO LIVERPOOL

Last Saturday, the workpeople employed by the Woodlesford and Waterloo Coal Co. had their trip to Liverpool. The was fearfully hot.

LOFTHOUSE SCHOOL BOARD.

An ordinary meeting of this Board was held at the Robin Hood School yesterday, present—B. Scarth, Esq. who presided, and Messrs. T. Hargreaves, Throp & Ward, and Mr. J. H. Lee, the clerk.

The minutes of last meeting having been signed, the following fees were reported to have been paid to the treasurer, for the month of June, viz—Robin Hood School, £6 14s 1d Carlton School, £5 16s 0d. The amounts are small in consequence of the Whitsuntide holidays. Cheques were signed for £34 18s 8d for teachers' salaries, &c.

The result of the examination held a short time ago, shews the passes in Reading, Writing and Arithmetic to be, for Robin Hood School 84 per cent., and for Carlton School 71 per cent. The Board requested the Clerk to get some maps that the Inspector had recommended for the Schools. In consequence of two of the pupil-teachers leaving, two more will be required, one for each school The Boarb instrect the masters to try and obtain them. The attendance at school of several children is very unsatisfactory and unless the parents cause them to attend more regularity the Board will be compelled to use means to enforce their attendance.

WESLEYAN CONFERENCE AT BRADFORD.

The meeting of the Wesleyan Conference this year is looked on with interest by many outside the pale of Methodism, owing to it being the first conference to which laymen are admitted, and on Tuesday morning, the first full sitting was held. Dr Williams, the secretary, being unable to attend through domestic affliction, the Rev. M. C. Osborn supplied his place. After the Legal Hundred had been made up, the voting for the Presidency was taken, and Rev. J. H. Rigg, D.D., was chosen, he receiving 361 votes, the other three candidates having 82 among them.

Rev. M. C. Osborn was elected secretary by 241 votes. An open session was held in the evening at which several foreign and colonial representatives spoke.

On Wednesday, the President gave his inaugunal address. Birmingham was selected as the place for holding the Conference next year. The remainder of the session as well part of yesterday was occupied in reading the obituaries of deceased ministers.

WOODLESFORD v. ROTHWELL HARMONIC.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Prospect Place, Rothwell Haigh.

Sir,—In looking over the Times for last week I find a letter headed as above, and referring to the match played by the above clubs, on Friday the 5th inst., it would be anything but fair towards the Harmonic to let the public have to judge from the first letter, which is a fiction from beginning to end which I will endeavour to prove.

In the first place I find that the umpire's decision had not been twice challenged. Now I beg to state that his decision had been three times challenged before the final dispute arose. The first time as to the number of runs that should be counted for a ball driven over the fence. Before the match commenced it was well understood that a ball driven over the fence to the right hand, as we enter the field, should count three. In the first or second over one of our opponents drove a ball over a fence (really a splendid drive) for which their umpire called four. I myself as well as our umpire objected to four being put down as three was the number agreed upon, but was told by their umpire that the ball had gone over two fences and must count four. Two fences had never before been mentioned, but sooner than have a dispute we let it pass and four was put down.

The second time his decision was challenged, it was for giving one of our men out as "run out" which was anything but fair, the batter being well over the crease.

The third time he said the batter played the ball with his glove, and was caught by the wicket-keeper. Now I myself heard him say after the match that he did not see the ball played, but heard it. I ask any person who understands the rules of Cricket, is this fair?

The fourth time he was appealed to he gave the batter out leg-before-wicket (the bowler bowling round the wicket). In the letter of last week the bowler tells the ball was pitched between wicket and wicket and would have taken the middle. I was the batter at the time, and must say the bowler's statement is untrue; if the ball was on the wicket at all it was the leg, but I doubt that. He then refers us to Rule 24, and asks us to become more acquainted with the rules. I am glad to state that we were well acquainted with the rules before we played Woodlesford, but I rather think our friends do not understand them or they would not have refered us to rule 24, which plainly shows the decision of their umpire was wrong.

I was sorry to see that we are charged with betting on the result of the game, we did not bet on that or any other game and I am glad to state that I have never seen such a thing as a sweep on our ground, which is a regular thing on a cricket ground not 20 miles away from Rothwell.

We are also accused of using bad language on the ground, I did not hear any, but I did hear some of our men told by some of the Woodlesford players to get away home or they would give them a good thrashing. Now I think this was the reverse of gentlemenly but I often find that clubs which do not care about the honour will do anything to get a ball.

Before concluding I have to thank the Editor for inserting rule 24, as it gives your readers an opportunity of judging for themselves.

I am, sir,
Yours respectfully,
WM. HARRISON.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Aire Dale Terrace,
Woodlesford, Leeds,
24th July, 1878.

Sir,—I have read the letter of a "Lover of Fair Play" with feelings of astonishment, amusement, pity and contempt. Astonishment at the appearance in a well conducted newspaper of such a scurrilous production; amusement at the writers floundering attempt at what he no doubt calls wit, but which all right thinking persons will receive with the ridicule which it merits; pity for the writer, who in order to make his case appear better to the public, tries to strengthen it by false statements, and contempt for the antagonist who, coward-like makes his attack in the dark.

I should have deemed the letter in question unworthy of notice, had it not contained such an unwarrantable attack upon the character of the Woodlesford Umpire. I have moreover no desire to prolong the controversy, and shall therefore close my part of it with this letter.

In the course of his highly creditable epistle your correspondent makes assertions which are utterly devoid of truth. In the first place when he says that our umpire meant to win the match by fair means or foul—a statement which I beg to refute point blank—secondly, that he gave a batter out and then said he had a doubt about it—also in reference to the umpire not seeing the ball strike but hearing it. The second statement is as untrue as the first, and as to the last I beg to say that I myself, have known many cases identical in character with the one in question and have no doubt other cricketers can bear a like testimony.

This infant genius next endeavours to be facetious by inventing a title for our club which no one but himself ever heard applied to it, and further concentrates his keen wit upon bowler and umpire, who, have the satisfaction of knowing the intended ridicule has fallen with the greatest weight upon your correspondent.

It must be evident to all readers of this remarkable document that the writer is not such an ardent lover of fair play as he would like us to believe; from the fact that he makes an unprovoked attack, and has not the courage to append his signature to the letter I think foul rather than fair is the play to which your correspondent is most attached

There is an old saying at the Bar, "No case, abuse the other side," and this seems to be the maxim of this "Lover of Fair play."

In refraining from giving his name and address our friend deprives the public of the opportunity of learning to whom they are indebted for this refreshing piece of wisdom. I myself should greatly like to make the acquaintance of such a celebrity as intercourse with men of genius must certainly be advantageous to others who are less favoured in that respect.

I am, sir,
Your obedient servant,
ROBERT J. SMITH.

CRICKET.

The editor will be glad to receive reports of matches from the Secretaries of Cricket and Football Clubs, for insertion in this paper. All copy should be sent on or before Wednesday.

NOTES.

Middlesex scored a victory over Yorkshire, though at one time it looked well for the latter county, but eventually Middlesex won by 90 runs. The Australians beat Hull town by 10 wickets. Cambridge University gained an easy victory over the Colonials.

On Wednesday the Australians were entertained at a grand banquet at Willis's Rooms, St. James's. The chair was taken by the Duke of Manchester, who after eulogising the pluck which they had shown in coming half round the world to visit, and the admiration it had excited, bid them welcome to "Home, sweet Home." Gregory and Conway replied in suitable terms on behalf of the team. It appears the trip was Conway's idea, and he has hopes of bringing a stronger team next journey.

Our local teams generally have come off victorious this week. Rotnwell (2nd.) proved too heavy for New Leeds, the fielding of the former not adding one "extra" to their opponents score. The Harmonic beat Christ Church, Whiteley taking the greater part of the latter's wickets. Woodlesford nave gained two victories, one at Richmond Hill and one at home. Oulton St. John's defeated Woodlesford (2nd).

ROTHWELL (2nd), v. NEW LEEDS.

This match was played on Saturday last at Rothwell, when the Second Eleven were victorious by 161 runs, the chief contributors for the home team being Ellis, 26, W. Brears, 25, and A. Fowler, who made the creditable score of 56. The visitors were fairly out-classed. Score appended:—

ROTHWELL v. CARLTON.

This match was played on Monday at Stye Bank, Rothwell. The majority of the players were dressed in fancy costume, which gave the field an animated appearance, the grotesque head-dress of the fielders being very suggestive of the 5th of November. The match resulted in an easy win for the visitors. The affair created some interest from the fact that the members of both teams are pigeon-flyers. At the conclusion of the match the teams marched up the town in "close column" as far as the "Hare and Hounds," and very soon the merry jingle of glass and occasional song spoke of an evening ending pleasantly. The following is the score.

WOODLESFORD v RICHMOND HILL.

Played at Leeds on Saturday last, and resulted in an easy win for Woodlesford. In consequence of the Colliery trip to Liverpool on the same day, several of the Woodlesford players were absent, but thanks to the friendly assistance of some of the Rothwell men, a respectable team was got together. C. Tiffany distinguished himself, both in batting and bowling, scoring 44 in good style, and clean bowling 6 wickets for 13 runs. W. H. Waterhouse also contributed a useful 20.

WOODLESFORD v. SHEPHERDS' UNITED.

This match was played at Woodlesford on Monday, and some good cricket was displayed on both sides, notably in the innings of the Rev. H. M. Sims, who scored 65 in splendid style, driving the ball out of the field in all directions. Mr. Sims was ably backed up by the Rev H. Stuart King, and the Rev. A. J. Irvin, who played good cricket. Mr. Sims took the highest honors in the bowling department for Woodlesford, and E. Williams for Shepherds' United batted well for 24 not out, and also bowled effectively. Score:—

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adopted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watch maker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."
JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain—

LIVELY SCENES IN PARLIAMENT

THE PREMIER CHARGED WITH TREASON.—Last week a document was presented in the House of Commons from the Foreign Affairs Committee, by Mr. Cowen, M.P., charging the Earl of Beaconsfield with high crimes and misdemeanours in connection with the Berlin Treaty, and asking the House to impeach him as a traitor to his country.

LORD CARNARVON AND THE EARL OF BEACONSFIELD.—Closely following the sharp words of Lord Derby and Lord Salisbury last week, comes another warm encounter between Lord Carnarvon and the Prime Minister, in reference to the observations of the Earl on Monday night. In reference to Lord Carnarvon's retirement from office, the Earl stated that Carnarvon had sanctioned the policy of the Government to a certain point, but when the time came for carrying the resolutions into force, he had shrunk from the responsibility. This Lord Carnarvon distinctly denied, and although the Premier reiterated the statement, it is probable a little more of the "behind the scenes" arraugements will leak out, as regards the cabinet consultations.

MR. LOWE AND FALSEHOODS.—Yesterday, in the course of his speech against the Anglo-Turkish Convention, Mr. Lowe said it looked as if it had been done for the mere pleasure of seeing how many falsehoods could be put into the first act of the comedy. The Chancellor of the Exchequer rose to order against the word "falsehoods," and by pressure of the Ministerialists secured the withdrawal of the word.

MR. GLADSTONE AND LORD BEACONSFIELD.—The letter of Mr. Gladstone to the Premier, read by him in the House on Monday night, and to which Lord Beaconsfield replied on Tuesday, both betray a degree of hatred to each other which one hardly likes to see in gentlemen of such high position It is probable the remarks in the speeches and letters of the two great leaders will be heard of again.

DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT.—Rumour is again very rife as to an early dissolution of Parliament. The recent disclosures as to the splits in the original Cabinet, and the onslaughts of Messrs. Gladstone and Lowe are pointed to by the Liberal press as reasons for an immediate appeal to the country: while the Government will stand a better chance now perhaps, while the glory of diplomatic triumph, and the comfortable feeling of present "peace with honour," is in the ascendant.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

At a meeting of the School Board on Friday evening last, present, Mr. Wm. Hargreaves, (chairman), Messrs. Seanor, J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, and the Clerk.

The amended plans of Rothwell School, were finally agreed to, and tracings of the same will be forwarded for the approval of the Department.

It was also resolved to offer Mr. Nicholson the use of the Rothwell Haigh Boy's School Room to be opened as an Evening School.

The Rothwell Haigh Schools not having been whitewashed since they were opened, it was decided to ask for tenders in the Rothwell Times, for whitewashing, &c.

ROTHWELL FLOWER SHOW.

As will be seen in our advertising columns, and by the bills and cards distributed over the district, the thirteenth show of the Rothwell Floral, Horticultural and Agricultural Society, is to be held on Monday next.

As the oldest show in the district, (almost the only one) the Society has continued each year to maintain its position, and, by the offer of worthy prizes to stimulate Cottagers and Amateurs to the cultivation and exhibition of useful and homely flowers, fruit, plants and vegetables, while the gentlemen of the neighbourhood, and others increase the attractiveness of the display by the addition of fancy and hothouse productions.

Should the present weather continue, (which we all hope will be the case) there is no doubt that Monday's show will be well patronised, by all classes, and that with the various attractions of Ventriloquism, Tug of War, Sports and Music added to the legitamate show of Earth's products and live stock, a pleasant day may spent in the Whitehall Field.

A suggestion has been made to us that the opponents in the "Tug of War" stand on either side the "beck" the watercourse to be the "line." We offer this suggestion to the Committee for what it is worth, but for ourselves shall more fully consider the questio before putting our names to the list of intending competitors.

C. TIFFANY'S BENEFIT.

On Tuesday next Mr. C. Tiffany takes his benefit on the Rothwell Ground, and there can be no better testimonial to the respect in which the cricketer is held than the names of the gentlemen who have kindly agreed to contest against the players.

The latter team is composed of some of the best men in our town and neighbourhood, but the gentlemen present a formidable front, the Reverend gentlemen, (Mr. Sims' top score in the first innings of the Leeds Clarence v. Harrow Wanderers for instance), form a host in themselves.

We hope the promoters will be able to hand over to Tiffany a substantial token of the public's appreciation, and we have little doubt but that the Ground will be most liberally patronized by the lovers of the game.

The Rothwell Model Brass Band will be in attendance, and surely good music and good cricket ought to satisfy everybody. The prices are but sixpence to the top ground, and threepence to the lower.

THE LATE MR. A. GOLDTHORP, AND BELL-RINGING.

The ringing of a muffled peal on the Church Bells on Sunday last, by a company of Bell Ringers from Hunslet, Woodlesford, and Rothwell has reminded one of the old times when campanology was far more in vogue here than it is now, and when the science was more fully practised.

The late Mr. Adam Goldthorp was one of the old set of change-ringers, his first connection with the church bells being in 1837, when the peal of six bells replaced the ancient three, of which our friend of the "Old White Hall" speaks.

On Sunday, June 29th, 1837, the new peal was opened by a company from Leeds, the Rothwell men being—

Wm. Gill,	A. Goldthorp,
Benj Ely,	J. Smith,
W. Armistead,	J. Flockton.

During Christmas, 1838, the tenor bell cracked, and was replaced, together with an additional two, making a complete octave peal, several other ringers joining the society, among whom were Joseph Bumby, Wm. Gibson, Isaac Hordwick, and others. Several peals of 5000 were rung, and on July 18th, 1841, Mr. Goldthorp was one of a party that rang a complete peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, consisting of 8000 changes in four hours and 40 minutes.

The company included—

Treble, William Scott, Wakefield,
2 James Firth, Wakefield
3 William Gibson, Rothwell
4 S. Smalpage, Leeds
5 Adam Goldthorp, Rothwell
6 Thos. Dawson, Bradford
7 Benjamin Ely, Rothwell
Tenor, George Milnes, Wakefield.

The peal was composed by Mr. Hugh Wright, Leeds, and conducted by Benjamin Ely, Rothwell.

Mr. Goldthorp was well known amongst the ringers in the West Riding, and it will be long before he is forgotten amongst his friends in the charmed circle of Rothwell bell-chamber.

LOFTHOUSE.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—On Saturday last, an accident occured at Messrs. Armitage's Quarry, at Robin Hood. A large block of stone had been hooked on, ready for being pulled up by the Crane, when in order to fasten it more securely, it was drawn across the quarry perpendicular, to the crane. Whilst slightly elevated it slipped on to the foot of a man named John Billington, severly crushing his toes, he was immediately conveyed to the Leeds Infirmary.

TRIP.—On Saturday several of the Senior Scholars attending the Robin Hood Uuited Free Church Sunday School, together with a few friends numbering about 40, had a trip to Roundhay Park. They were conveyed thither in two waggonettes, which had been secured for the purpose. The party assembled a little before 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the appointed for starting. Exactly at three the conveyances drove up, and were soon filled by the anxious party. Having arrived at Roundhay all the objects of attraction were visited. Considerable amusement was afforded to the spectators by the party visiting the Skating Rink, not being much used to that mode of travelling, they frequently measured their lengths on the floor.

Notwithstanding the rain which fell constantly, the party, making the best of a rainy day, enjoyed themselves immensely.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.—On Friday last an accident occured resulting in the injury of a boy named Joseph Farmery. It appears the boy was returning home from School when he came up to a Soap Lurry (which was stood opposite the Brighteyes Row) he waited with the intention of having a ride. He was talking to some other boys with his hands upon the waggon, when the driver came up and unconscious of the boy's position began to drive the waggon. The result was that the last wheel passed over the boys toes severly crushing crushing them.

A HAZARDOUS VOYAGE.—The Nautilus, a boat 14ft. long, has arrived in the English Channel, having been navigated across the Atlantic from Boston by two men in 36 days. The men declared themselves bound for the Paris Exhibition, and said they had much enjoyed the voyage.

FATAL COLLIERY ACCIDENT IN LEEDS.—Yesterday Mr. Malcolm held an inquest relative to the death of Wm. Nicholson (48) coal miner, who lived in Museum Terrace, Beckett Street, Leeds. The deceased was employed at the Rock Colliery, Burmantofts and on the 16th of May was in a portion of the colliery where he ought not to to have been. Whilst there the roof fell upon him. His back was broken, and he died a few days ago from the injuries. It appears that no one was to blame for the accident, and a verdict of accidental death was returned.

COLLIERY ACCIDENT AT WATERLOO MAIN.—A collier, named James Northgate, aged 28, was taken to the Leeds Infirmary last Wednesday suffering from a compound fracture of the right leg, caused by the roof of the bank in which he worked at the above colliery falling upon him. The fracture was set and the patient is going on favourably.

COLLIER'S STRIKE.—At a meeting held last evening at the Miners' Institute, York road, Leeds, of the men now out on strike against the introduction of the riddles or any further reduction of the wages, it was resolved not to submit to the use of riddles, or to suffer any further reduction in wages.

THE

"OLD WHITE HALL,"

(A TALE OF OLD ROTHWELL).

By G. Gibson, London.

CHAPTER IV.

"The First Day of May." What speculation there is in these few words, the long dreary winter having passed away with its bitter cold winds, its ice, frost, and snow; the wild songsters cheer the woods, dells, valleys and copses with their glad and sweet toned voices; the trees wave their green leav'd branches in the passing breeze; the flowers seem to vie with each other with their odour and brilliant colours, and all nature appears to rejoice and make merry.

In each successive year there can be but one "first" of May, and the Rothwellians of the period we write about, made it a general holiday, and there was not a happier day in all broad Yorkshire than the one we will now depict.

To quote an old writer:—

"Let us all to the fields repair,
'Tis now spring-time;
To gather the flowers, that bloom in our bowers,
To make us sweet posies
Of violets and roses,
And weave a gay wreath, to deck our May Queen."

Thanks, my venerable friend, for your kind invitation, but we are bound for May Pole Hill (that pleasing remembrancer of a bye-gone time), where the sun is rising over it in all his morning splendour, the "young men and maidens" are busily engaged in the interesting occupation of raising the May Pole, which the maidens had gaily decorated with the sweetest flowers of the season. The young men had dug a hole in the earth, so that it might have a good understanding; when firmly fixed in an upright position all these joined hands and danced right merrily around it.

But we surely shall not forget the old, old market cross, that once stood on this little bit of truly historical ground. Now in its palmiest days this interesting relic of a long past age, presented a much more picturesque appearance than it did fifty years before it fell down. It was once protected from the weather by a stone covering, supported by four pillars of the same material. In shape they were round, and rudely carved, and no doubt have witnessed many a rural festival.

On this special morning the cross and its surroundings were also garnished with floral decorations, and really looked beautiful; but to our story:—

At three in the afternoon a gay assembly had congregated on the famous May Pole Hill, and by previous arrangement they soon formed a procession which reached a long way down the village. One of Rothwell's prettiest daughters had been chosen for the representation of the "May Queen," and she rode on a white pony, whose flowing mane was trimmed with the brightest of coloured ribands, &c.

The queen's head was adorned with a beautiful garland of the choicest flowers, her dress was white and tastily trimmed with delicate pink ribbons, and on her feet she wore the neatest of shoes with silver buckles, and as she sat and held the bridle reins daintily in her little hands, she really looked charming.

In a public procession music is generally at the head of it, indeed in a procession of this kind if music, exhilarating music, was absent what a dull affair it would be; but the old village could always boast of its musicians, both vocal and instrumental, and on this bright May Day they were very lively, and so was their music.

The signal for starting was given by the three bells in the old church tower chiming out their very best. The band of music, which was decidedly not so good as the present one, struck up a lively air, and soon the whole floral procession was in motion.

Now this was the way our forefathers conducted their spring show in Rothwell more than a century ago. There were no prizes given for fat cattle, or for agricultural implements, &c., the goddess Flora reigned supreme, and many were her worshippers, but we digress.

As the May Queen slowly passed the old White Hall, she was presented with a beautiful bouquet by Eleanor (Mr. Harrington's daughter), a joyous shout was given and the Queen followed the music down White Hall road, over the wooden bridge that spanned the mill stream; then turning to the right and straight up Woodlesford lane; then again to the left, and past where the old ruined Toll Bar House now stands, and straight on until it turned down Wood lane, past the Manor House, the Church, and the spring well, and so on to the place where it started from, namely May Pole Hill. The Queen now quickly dismounted from her snow white pony and ascended the steps of the cross where she was greeted with rounds of applause. Then commenced the popular games and pastimes of the period, and continued until a late hour, which terminated once very pleasant day in Rothwell.

CRICKET.

The editor will be glad to receive reports of matches from the Secretaries of Cricket and Football Clubs, for insertion in this paper. All copy should be sent on or before Wednesday.

NOTES.

On Saturday the Leeds Clarence concluded their match with the Harrow Wanderers. The weather was miserably wet, and the attendance much smaller than Friday. The Wanderers gained a one innings victory, and would have continued on but the weather was so bad that the stumps were drawn sometime before it was intended. The Rev. Sims (who plays on Tuesday at Rothwell), made the top score for the Clarence in their first innings (36), and the Rev. A. J. Irvin also contributed a few.

Gloucestershire had to succumb to Lancashire, although the Grace producing county had a balance on the first innings, but the Northerners second was a twister. Mr. Hornby scored an exact "century" and Messrs. Patterson, D. Steele and Barlow were also heavy contributors, the former making 50; the total for the innings being 262. This left Glo'ster more to do than time would allow of, but they made a grand effort and run up 125 with the loss of only five wickets Mr. W. G. being not out for 58. The attendance was very large.

In our own district the majority of the clubs had to suspend operations in consequence of the heavy rain making the play impracticable otherwise there promised to be a close match between the Harmonic and Hunslet teams. The Hunslet first took the defence, but the fielders were so drenched that the match was discontinued. At Woodlesford, Rothwell secured an easy victory.

On Monday T. Emmett's benefit commenced at Bramall Lane, Yorkshire confronting her old opponent Gloucestershire. The first part of the day was dull but as the match progressed the weather brightened up considerably. Yorkshire won the toss and elected to bat, and W. G. Grace led his men into the field amid the applause of the spectators present. The chief feature of the day's play was the determined stand made by Hall: the Yorkshire team were all out for 158. On Tuesday Gloucestershire were disposed of for 201, and of these W. Grace contributed 62, when he was grandly caught by Emmett, who was heartily applauded. Yorkshire again went on, Ulyett compiling 109 by dint of the hardest hitting ever witnessed even at Bramall Lane. When he was at 23 he gave a chance to mid-off which was not accepted, so that miss cost the visitors dear. When the day's play closed Yorkshire had obtained 221 for the loss of 3 wickets. The last day saw Yorkshires second innings close for 360, leaving the Southerners 318 to get, but this they failed to do, and Yorkshire won a splendid victory by 244 runs. Emmett will receive a handsome sum, which he richly merits.

Her Majesty the Queen witnessed a cricket match played at Osborne, on Thursday, between the Royal Household and the Royal Yacht.

ROTHWELL v. WOODLESFORD.

Played at Woodlesford, on Saturday, and resulted in an easy victory for the visitors.

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. In any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected in all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s. and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The inventor in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.
IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, and that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known.
YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY
Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

JURORS AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain—

FRIDAY, AUGUST 9, 1878

ROTHWELL FLOWER SHOW.

After the fine sunny weather of the early part of last week, it was very disheartening to watch the downpour of rain of Saturday and Sunday last, and however much good it certainly would do to the land, the thoughts of many Rothwellians turned to the prospects of the Show, and gloomy forebodings cast their shadow before on the success or non-success of Monday's holiday.

Sufficient time however elapsed between the last shower on Sunday afternoon to allow the show-field to get pretty well dried, and the only drawback (and it was a serious one) was a shower or two during the afternoon of Monday.

However, "all's well that end's well," and the Committee have every cause for congratulation on the final result of this year's exhibition. Though the number of people appeared to be below the mark during the shilling portion of the day, the ground rapidly filled after five o'clock, and the money taken at the gate was larger in amount than has ever been received before.

From an early hour in the morning of Monday the carts, waggons, and live stock proceeded from all directions towards the show ground in Whitehall Field, and on every hand Rothwell soon presented a most animated appearance, while in the show ground all was bustle and preparation for the Thirteenth Annual Exhibition of Horses, Pigs, Poultry, Plants, Flowers, Fruits, Vegetables, Roots, Grain, &c., under the auspices of the Rothwell Floral, Horticultural and Agricultural Society.

By ten o'clock all the specimens were within the enclosure, and the process of stacking the plants, flowers, &c., and getting the live stock into their various pens and places was completed, after which the judges commenced their somewhat thankless but important duties.

In order more efficiently to advertise the show, and attract people to it, the Society had not only arranged for a number of waggonettes to bring passengers from Leeds, Hunslet, and other places, but as a preliminary fillip to create interest in the day's proceedings, our martial looking Brass Band was sent in a waggonette to play round the streets of the "city" and remind the Leeds Loiners that it was Rothwell Flower Show.

At one o'clock, the gates were thrown open and shortly after the band entered the ground with a lively strain. The music having ceased, the opening of the show was proceeded with. Unfortunately the president (C. E. Charlesworth, Esq.), was unable to get to the opening, though it was anticipated he would arrive in time for luncheon. On learning the possibility of Mr. Charlesworth being unable to be present, the Committee waited on the Vicar, and he very cordially agreed to fill the president's place should he not arrive.

Accordingly the Rev. G. Heberden, M.A., accompanied by a number of other gentlemen, patrons and vice-presidents of the show, proceeded to a spot near the Committee's tent, and said that as Mr. Charlesworth, their president, had written expressing his regret at being unable to be present, for some reason best known to themselves, the Committee had requested him to open the show. He was glad to think that it was so easy a matter to congratulate the Committee on the success of the show. He had been twice round the field, and was told by those who were well informed in such matters, that it was the best show they had ever had. The cottager's department possessed a great interest for Rothwell, and especially the show of vegetables which were worthy to compete with any in the show. The cottagers' exhibits were a credit to the working men of the district. It was all important to the community generally that they should be thrifty and industrious, and the care of a garden was one of the best incentives to be upright, sober, and thoughtful. He had also to congratulate the Committee, not only on having a fine day, but that they have the monopoly of the Bank Holiday. He hoped the show would turn out all that could be desired, and he now declared the show opened accompanying it with the best wishes of himself and those around him (cheers.)

The party then adjourned to the Committee's tent, where luncheon had been provided by the president.

The Vicar took the chair, at the head of the table, the vice-chair being occupied by H. Raikes, Esq. There were also present a number of the vice-presidents, whose names are appended below. After luncheon the Chairman proposed "Prosperity to the Society" trusting the Committee would still maintain the character of the show by not allowing any case of insobriety to remain on the ground, and thus promote the good of the place.

The toast having been drunk, the chairman proposed "The health of Mr. and Mrs. Charlesworth," coupling with it the name of Mr. Wm. Hargreaves.

The toast having been duly honored, Mr. Hargreaves said he was sure Mr. Charlesworth would have been very happy to have been present, but through some misunderstanding as to the time, his other engagements would not permit him to leave. He might say Mr. Charlesworth wished every success to the Rothwell Show, and was proud to be the president of the Society.

Mr. Hargreaves, in appropriate words asked the gentlemen to drink the health of the Chairman, the Rev. Mr. Heberden, remarking on the kindly words used by the Vicar in opening the Show, and feeling assured that no village in Yorkshire could display better specimens than Rothwell cottagers. In responding, the Vicar again expressed his pleasure in taking the president's seat, and the company then separated.

Among the ladies and gentlemen present during the day were the Misses Charlesworth Mrs. and Miss Heberden, Mrs. Bentley, Wm. Smith, Esq., John Dobson, Esq., Mr. Wm. Hargreaves, Mr. J. North, Mr. Thos. Hargreaves, Mr. Josh. Bumby, Thos. Craven, Mr Blyth, T. W. Jewison, Esq., T. Horn, Esq., Rev. G. Heberden, Wm. Wood, Esq., T. C. Hudson, Esq., J. G. Turner, Esq., Rev. A. J. Irvin, Rev. H. S. King, J. Farrer, Esq., Hy. Raikes, Esq., George Wood, Esq., J. Appleyard, Esq., Henry Bentley, Esq., and others.

The arrangement of the various exhibits was the same as in previous years, the plants were ranged on three shelves, one above the other, down the centre of the large tent, which, although fully ten yards longer than last year was filled in every department. The collection of ferns was something very fine, while the large and varied display of stove and greenhouse plants was better than Rothwell has yet seen. The fuschias and geraniums in all the departments called forth general admiration, the cottagers and amateurs shewing up well. The mosses in the Amateurs really surpassed the gentlemen's gardeners' specimens. The coleus plant was very fully represented by gardeners, amateurs and cottagers.

In cut flowers, the dahlias attracted the most attention, the competition being very close, and the specimens numerous and fine. The large number of entries for bouquets of wild flowers was highly commended.

Fruit was also well competed, there being some tempting exhibits in every class.

Vegetables, however, can be grown as well and perfectly by the cottager as by the salegrower, and our working-men proved that it is possible to raise as fine and perfect vegetables in his own little plot, as the gardener whose sole business it is to attend to earth's produce. Some of the cottagers' samples were really better than those shown in the higher classes.

It was not until two o'clock that the judges completed their work in the tent, so numerous were the exhibits, and so close was the competition. Prizes were awarded as follows:—

The pigs did not come up well in number at all, although 25s. was offered for first and 10s. second prizes, with the exception of Class 13, Boar, (middle breed), for which £2 was offered as first prize, yet in this class there were only two entries, both of George Hutton, Rothwell, who accordingly took both prizes. That only four entries came in from the parishes of Rothwell, Swillington, and Mothley for the Working Man's Pig, shews unmistakeably that if there is not so much distress here as in some parts, yet the working man must be very much pressed if if he cannot keep his pig.

THE HORSE SHOW.

The British love and interest in horseflesh made itself conspicuous by the crowd round the leaping enclosure at the bottom of the field. Yorkshire, proverbially, is a county that holds more good judges of what a horse should be, than the rest of England put together, and a Southerner would have wondered at the readiness with which the spectators spotted the winners.

The judges were Mr. Carr, Rowley Grange, Seacroft, Mr. Thos. Hodgson, Skelton Grange, Leeds, and Mr. J. Gowland. Thorp Grange, Little Ouseburn, York, and a more painstaking lot of gentlemen it would be hard to find. The class of animals under their inspection was, in most cases good, and in some the question as to merit was so close that the extra time taken to decide the merits of competitors was fully made up to onlookers by the justness of the final award.

To give an exhaust of all the prize winners is not in place here, but full particulars will be found in the prize list.

The agricultural and heavy draught stock passed under examination first, and Messrs. J & J. Charlesworth, and Mr. Jowett were the principal prize takers. Among the Extra Stock we noticed a promising yearling by "Prince Arthur," which will pay its way in the future and Mr. Andrews made no mistake in showing him, although he was not quite fit. Class 10, (leapers), was, as usual, one of the main features of public interest, and the contest went in favour of Mr. Crossley, of Adwalton. But of equal interest was the Ponies in Harness competition, and Mr. Oddy, butcher, of New Morley, with Mr. Foster of Pontefract, came in for the greater portion of the criticism that was freely given by the on-lookers. The former had in the shafts "Miss Patching," and the latter "Young Bosco." When trotting round, the action of both excited general admiration, and Mr. Oddy's white-faced black came in for hearty applause on rounding the top-turn, and when the Society's Cup went to "Young Boscoe," and the second prize to "Miss Patching," both the exhibitors seemed highly pleased, for the award was for turn-out as well as action, and and Mr. Foster's was exceedingly neat.

The President's Silver Cup for Weight-Carrying Hunters, went to Mr. Brown, Elmsall Hall, Pontefract, who also took the second.

The prize list is as follows:—

As soon as the award had been given to the ponies, the grand stand, though well filled during the afternoon, was speedily emptied, and the requirements of the "inner man" attended to. A Tug of war was advertised, but only 2 teams had entered and these both from the same locality, the anticipated interest was reduced to a minimum, and it is hardly likely the society will try this feat of physical strength another year. Eight men from the Kirkstall Iron and Steel Forge Company pulled against a similar number from the Kirkstall Wheel and Axle Company, A mark having been made on the grass, the two "Eights" took hold of either end of the rope at an equal distance from the "crease", and by dint of steady, strong pulling, the first named company, fetched the other eight clean over the line; at the second trial, the other team scored a victory: at the third pull, the first prize was won by the Kirkstall Iron and Steel Forge Company, the second of course falling to their competitors.

The Rothwell Prize Brass Band in uniform, greatly enlivened the afternoon by a first class selection of operatic & other suitable music, the taste displayed in their treatment of it being remarked by those who "know". In the evening the programme consisting of Polkas, Quadrilles &c other dance music, to the strains of which many a couple enjoyed a turn on the "light fantastic toe."

The festivities were brought to a close by the finest and most novel display of Fireworks yet given by Professor Caldwell.

The takings at the gate amounted to £105 a larger sum than has ever been taken before, and altogether, there is no hesitation in pronouncing this years show the most successful the society has yet had.

Of course this result must have necessitated the expenditure a vast amount of labour and time and the committee and especially the Secretary Mr. T. Wormald, are deserving of thanks of the public, and the congratulation of all connected with the affair.

The Refreshment tent was under the care of Mr. D. Crossley, and the ale & spirits &c, were supplied by Mr. E. Wright, both of Carlton. We are happy to learn that there was not a single instance calling for the police except one drunken man, who was soon expelled.

On Tuesday the Band had been engaged for a grand gala, and a public tea was also advertised but owing to the awfully bad weather, neither were very successful.

C. TIFFANY'S BENEFIT MATCH.

GENTLEMEN v. PLAYERS.

This Match was played at Rothwell on Tuesday, August 6th, and owing to the rain ended in a draw. As it rained pretty sharply in the morning the game did not commence until twelve o'clock, when the players went to defend the wickets, being first represented by T. Hammond and C. Abrams, against the bowling of the Rev. H. M. Sims and Mr. C. J. S. King. Both batsmen played carefully and a few runs, chiefly single, were put down, when unfortunately for Abrams, he hit his wicket after having scored 3, 1 for 10. R. Whiteley, the representative of the Harmonic Club, was the next man, and on making his appearance was heartily cheered. A few overs were now played without the score going up very fast, when Hammond warmed nicely to his work, and gave the gentlemen some leather hunting. He was well supported by Whiteley, who batted very carefully. Runs now came very rapidly and the score was carried up to 50, which looked very well for the players, when a change took place in the bowling, as the Rev. H. S. King took the ball in place of his brother. The change proved effective, as in his second over he displaced Whiteley's wicket, 2 for 56. T. Dobson went in next but he soon lost his partner as Hammond was well caught by the Vicar for a splendid innings of 31, 3 for 59. F. Lockwood now joined Dobson, who was soon after bowled for 3, 4 for 68. There was now a good attendance of spectators, and as C. Tiffeny was the next man in he got a good reception on going to the wicket. A stand was now made, both batsmen playing carefully, and the score was run up to 78, when Lockwood was run out after having scored 14. G. Gibson now joined Tiffany who was batting in his usual style, when suddenly his career came to a close as the Rev. H. M. Sims spread-eagled his wickets with a trimmer, but not before he had put down 20 to his credit, 6 for 88. After this no stand was made of any length, and the innings of the players closed for the respectable total of 111.

All the players then retired for luncheon, after which on resuming play the Revs. H. M. Sims and A. J. Irvin went to the wickets against the bowling of T. Dobson and A. Atkinson. The spectators now naturally expected to see some good batting, as the Rev. H. M. Sims has established no mean reputation as a batsman, and the Rev. A. J. Irvin's batting abilities are well known. Mr. Sims, soon got to work as he cut the first ball for two. and then followed with two singles, but just as the batsman seemed well in, Mr. Irvin gave Bennett a chance at point, which was secured, 1 for 12. Mr. W. M. Wood, now joined Mr. Sims, but unfortunately for the spectators the latter gentleman was soon after taken at the wicket by Hammond after having scored 11 2. for 17. The Rev. H. S. King then went to the wicket but sooned returned being caught by Hammond for 2. 3 for 25. The next man to go in was Mr. C. J. S. King, he however was soon disposed of by Atkinson. 4 for 33. Mr. W. Charlesworth, who came next retired with a duck, but Mr. Joe. Charlesworth, was more fortunate, as he and Mr. Wood ran up the score to 54 when Mr. Charlesworth, was bowled by Dobson, 6 for 54. Owing to the rain which fell at this time the game was stopped and was not resumed. For full score see back page.

During the afternoon the Band played selections of music. The amount taken at the gates was between £5 and £6.

WESLEYAN SUNDAY SCHOOL TRI...

According to their usual custom, ... teachers and friends connected with ... Wesleyan Sunday School, Rothwell, st... for their annual outing on Tuesday mor... about 8.20, arriving at Woodlesford in ... for the 9.8 train for Leeds, whence they ... the 9.45 for Ilkley. It could not be said ... the trippers were disappointed in the weat... for throughout the day the air was su... and the clouds heavy. Very soon, howe... the rain began to pour, and it was ne... noon before the pleasure takers dare vent... out on to the ancient slopes of the Ilk... hills. For an hour or two the weather ... "not wet," and the young and old, ladi... and gentlemen, climbed towards the ... cow, some getting far on to Rumbald... Moor; but fairly away from habitations, t... lowering clouds began again to break, a... suddenly the poor mortals found themselve... drenching to the skin, surrounded on a... sides by little cataracts of water, flowing dow... the rocks in numberless streams and makin... it almost impossible to keep their "under... standing," while to increase their troubl... and misery, the heavens opened with thunde... artillery and lightning flash. Down, down the hill they go, many slipping, some falling into mud and wet grass, while others grazed their precious bodies (one or two somewhat badly), until they reached the hospitable roof of the keeper's cottage, when, "wearied and worn and sad," they sat down to rest.

Amid all the troubles, however, there was a large admixture of the ludicrous, as when one tripper who had tripped beyond the others turned to beckon the laggards forward, but almost at the very instant fell most ignominiously; or when another friend, by suddenly turning round to the string of companions behind, happened to touch the tramper following, who, not over firm, slipped back and caused half-a-dozen to topple over like so many nine-pins.

Still the rain kept on most of the day, and though the spirits of the holiday makers kept well up, none of them were at all sorry when the return train drew up at Ilkley, and drenched and weary as they were, they got fairly on their way home, where they arrived about nine o'clock.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

Owing to the Flower Show being held on Monday, the meeting of the Board was adjourned to Wednesday, when Mr. Wm. Hargreaves occupied the chair, there being also present, Messrs Lunn, Smith, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes, and the Clerk, Inspector, and Treasurer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the plans of property belonging to Mr. S. Marshall, Commercial-st. were considered, and with the exception of some alterations required were approved; on these suggestions being complied with, they will be formally passed at the next meeting.

There were only two tenders for the work required to be done at the property near the Black Bull Inn, purchased for the widening and improving of the street.

It was moved by Mr. Holmes, seconded by Mr. Hawden, That Michael Lynch's tender be accepted for £103 10s.

An amendment was proposed by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Hawden, That Mr. Stainer's estimate for £106 9s. 8d. be taken.

All the members agreed on the relative fitness of both persons for the doing of the work, but as Mr. Bramley went with the amendment, and Mr. Lunn with the proposition it fell to the lot of the chairman to decide the question, which he felt to be difficult. It was, however, eventually decided in favour of our townsman, Mr. Stainer.

Mr. Schofield had forwarded to the clerk the agreement proposed to be entered into with the sanitary authority for taking the Rothwell drainage into the Oulton mains.

The several clauses were satisfactory with the exception of two which it is thought can be amended. The principal clauses set forth the liability of the Board to pay compensation for all damage in making the connection, to make the Oulton portion of the road good, to pay such a proportion of the cost of working as the two engineers shall decide, and on conditions that the agreement only holds good for 50 years (the term of the lease with Mr. Calverley), that no other authority be allowed to drain into the Rothwell mains, and other powers.

A resolution was passed agreeing to pay Mr. Pickhall £160 on account, on certain conditions.

The complaint from Stourton of short water supply having been forwarded to Mr. Filleter, his reply has been received.

Mr. Holmes said that it had been off al that day.

Mr. Lunn and the chairman both expressed their anxiety to test the pipes, and the amount of pressure possible, in order to judge of the probability of the reservoir filling easily.

The various accounts and salaries were ordered to be paid.

It was resolved that in future, every person desirous of setting up a stall, shall pay the amount due at the rate of 2d per foot, to the Inspector, before setting up his stall or else he shall not be permitted to put one up, and that no member of the Board be required to accompany the Inspector in levying these rates.

LOFTHOUSE.

TRIP TO ILKLEY.

On Saturday, the workmen employed at Mr. J. Holroyd's Quarry, Robin Hood, had a trip to Ilkley. They started from Robin Hood very early in the morning, arriving at Ilkley a little before 9 o'clock. Owing to the rain which fell constantly all the day the party did not derive much pleasure from their treat.

TRIP TO SALTAIRE.

On Monday a number of the scholars attending the Lofthouse Wesleyan Sunday School, together with their friends, numbering 150, had a trip to Saltaire and Shipley Glen. The party met at Ardsley Station, and all having booked for Shipley, they went down by the 9.25. express. Having arrived at Shipley they walked to Saltaire visiting all the objects and places of attraction. After being at Saltaire for a considerable time they retraced their steps to Shipley Glen there to spend the remainder of the day. The rain which fell did not fall so plenteously as to damp their pleasure, for all seemed highly satisfied with their days pleasure. This is the second trip from this district to the above place, and both parties have expressed their opinion in approbation in regard to the beautiful scenery that is to be met with in that district.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.

IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known. YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:—

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—
BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865.

After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

THE BRITISH NAVY.

It is the Navy, "whereon, under the good Providence of God, the wealth, safety and strength of the kingdom chiefly depend." Such is the language of the Act of Parliament annually passed providing for the government of this arm of the service. As an institution indeed the navy of Great Britain is centuries older than Parliament itself, for it is now close upon a thousand years ago, that King Alfred, to whom even at this distant day we owe so much, built the first fleet of galleys for the protection of his dominions. In that far-off time there was an idea that a country eternally washed by the waves of the sea might, through its ruler, claim to be lord of the ocean immediately surrounding our shores. This claim, originally advanced by Edgar, has not only been maintained throughout successive ages, but extended, and the demand that Britain should be mistress of the seas has been conceded. Between nine and ten centuries have elapsed since naval salutes to the British flag were introduced, and though sometimes disputed the objectors have never been long successful in evading it. The Dutch agreed to strike to the English colours in the British seas in 1673. The honour of the salute at sea was also formally assented to by France in 1704, although it had long previously been exacted by England. Whatever might have been the ambitions of the various lines of kings who, since the days of Alfred, have reigned over the people, Norman or Plantagenet, Tudor or Stuart, whether they came from the rival Houses of York and Lancaster, or from Brunswick, the maintenance of the navy has ever been a source of pride and pleasure. The honour of the flag has been held high above dynastic jealousies or State intrigues, and to this day the reputation of the navy, at whatever cost, is a point upon which every Briton feels justly proud.

The great naval demonstration at Spithead this week was probably the most imposing display of power upon the sea ever witnessed in our waters. Those of us who have not yet advanced to middle life can remember the naval review at Spithead, on the 23rd of April, 1856, when the Baltic and Black Sea fleets passed under the official inspection of Her Majesty. In all ages Englishmen had regarded with pardonable pride the exploits of their battle-ships, and when the review of twenty-three years ago took place we had just emerged from a war in which the navy had gained mere than its usual share of honor. In the days of Lord Nelson, when the enemy fought upon the open sea, the British ships were invariably victorious; but it was the misfortune of our naval commanders during the Russian war that they could never induce the foe to come out and fight them. Rather than run the risk of a contest in the Black Sea the Russians scuttled their fleet there, and by sinking it right across the mouth of Sebastopol harbour, prevented the allied fleets from attempting to force an entrance, thereby causing the siege of that fortress to be conducted by land. In the Baltic the Russian fleet had withdrawn to the protection of the fortifications of Cronstadt, where the navigation of the channels was of such a character as to render it impossible for large men-of war to attempt the passage. In neither the Black Sea nor the Baltic, therefore, had the hopes and expectations of the navy been fulfilled, and in a sense the results of war had been disappointing. It was discovered when too late, that gunboats of light draught of water were better fitted than great battle-ships for such warfare, and just as some scores of these had been built, the struggle came to an end by the Treaty of Paris. Still, on the 23rd of April, 1856, as spectators in tens of thousands gazed upon the great display of naval power, they felt that, although the Fleet had not done so much as was expected of it two years before, its laurels had not been gained for a very sufficient reason. No enemy had ventured to show upon the open sea, and therefore it was impossible to fight him. He had either sent his ships to the bottom, where ours could not follow them, or had withdrawn them behind stone walls, where it was equally impossible to pursue them. We should have gained credit and renown upon the sea had an opportunity been afforded to us; but instead of naval victories we had to be content with such deeds as the bombardment of Odessa, and the capture of Bomarsund.

In more senses than one the spectacle at Spithead this week differs from that of 1856. The time which has elapsed, although a considerable one in the life of man, is but a mere speck in the history of a state that has for a thousand years claimed to be mistress of the seas. In that brief period a complete revolution has taken place in the construction of the navy. Up to that time, from the days when the Syrians and Phœnicians first crossed the sea vessels whether of war or commerce, had been built of wood, and this had been the material used for thousands of years. Now our men-of-war and the great steamers of our mercantile marine are made of iron. The armament of our battle-ships to-day would have been deemed incredible by Sir Charles Napier and Sir Edmund Lyons. The idea of twenty-four inches of armour-plating, and a twelve-hundred pound solid shot would have been laughed to scorn. In another respect also there is a wide difference between this review and its predecessor. Then we had come out of a two years' conflict with a great European power, and the cemeteries at Sebastopol contained the remains of thousands of our brave soldiers who had gone forth to fight the battles of their country never to return. Now there has been no war. During the early part of the Session the country seemed to be perilously near it; but that calamity, at all events, has been averted. This has not been done without a sacrifice of money, it is true; but in 1856 both money and life had been expended—life to a prodigal extent, the loss of which we have happily not now to mourn.

BAND OF HOPE DEMONSTRATION.

The summer festival of the Rothwell Band of Hope, was held on Wednesday, when the children (about 120) and friends paraded the town, and with the aid of string and brass instruments, sang before the houses of their patrons. The company then partook of a good tea, and afterwards adjourned to a field of Mr Shearman's where amusements of various kinds were engaged in. We wish the society every success, and should be glad to hear of large accessions to its numbers.

WORK AND WAGES.

COLLIERS' WAGES IN SOUTH YORKSHIRE.

A mass meeting of miners was held at the Manor, Sheffield, on Tuesday evening, and was addressed by Mr. Chappell, secretary of the South Yorkshire Miners' Association. Five hundred colliers were present. The object of the meeting was to consider the action of the miners employed at the Parkgate pit of the Nunnery Colliery Company, who are at present out on strike against a proposed reduction of 20 per cent. A resolution was unanimously passed to support the Parkgate men in their resistance. Several speakers stated that the prices at present earned by the colliers were so low that they were unable to live by them. There are wages disputes at over a dozen pits in the South Yorkshire district, which has not been so unsettled for years.

BREACH OF PROMISE AT ROTHWELL.

The following characteristic letter detailing the outrageous (?) conduct of one of those "depraved men" is pathetically described by one who has apparently suffered intensely, and we don't know whether the now "unprotected female" will not proceed to take legal action, and enter a case in the Assize Courts.

The letter itself has had some ups and downs. It is dated August 8th, and to the editor of the "Rothwell Times," and has been stamped and posted at Rothwell, but had of course, gone to Leeds, where it was duly delivered at the Leeds office of the R. T., and by degrees arrived at Rothwell, and was carefully secured in the hands of your humble servant—the Editor.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

August 8th, 1878.

Sir,—Will you insirt these words for mee. A grand way of leavin a sweethart. A yung Man Not twenty Miles from here went to Rothwell Flour Show on Monday Night, and got a gate Playing at Kissing Ring and Jolly Miller, and he got a sweethart Wile he was there, and he promesed to see her home, and she wanted to go home at 9 o'clock, But he got her to stay till a 11 o'clock and he Brout her to gate and thay stopped there a few Minets, and then he Told her to stop there Till he came Back, and he did Not get Back till Tuesday Night at Six o'clock, and then She Wos Not there, and it Wos a fault Becouse she Was Not there.

The Poor girl add only to Methley to go.

Yours truly,
PEEPIN ROUND THE CORNER.

Surely some good Samaritan will take up this heart-rending story, and bring the culprit to justice, and so avenge the young lady. Alas, alas, these men.

ACCIDENT AT ROTHWELL HAIGH COLLIERY.

On Monday, August 12th, a miner named John Wood, whilst engaged in baring coal at the above pit, was severely injured by a piece of coal flying out and alighting on his foot, dreadfully crushing his great toe, so much so that he will not be able to resume work for some time.

A PRIZE FOR RARE VIRTUES.

The French Academy has been authorised by the Minister of Public Instruction to accept a legacy of 40,000fr. bequeathed by M. Lelevain for founding an annual prize for wisdom, virtue, and probity.

REMARKABLE ACCIDENT.

On Wednesday, the 24th ult., a pony belonging to Mr. Barraclough, of Bank House, Waterloo Colliery, was drowned under peculiar circumstances.

It appears that on getting through the gate by the water-side, the person in charge having got down to fasten it, left the horse standing on the road close to the canal. Some boys on the other side were shooting stones across from a catapault, one of which struck the animal on the eye, and it at once backed into the river, and in trying to struggle to the opposite bank, was drowned by the weight of the cart.

This, we regret to learn, is not the only accident that has happened at the same spot, as Mrs. Barraclough some time since had the great misfortune to lose a brother and his son, by a horse backing into the canal at the same place, and the fatality then would have been greater but that one lad saved himself by jumping out.

It is high time that something was done to remedy this state of affairs, and some guard put up to prevent the recurrence of a similar accident in future, and we feel sure that a representation made in the proper quarter, would meet with immediate attention.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE IN LEEDS.

At the Leeds Police Court on Tuesday, —before Ald Luccock and Mr Cliff—Henry Devill (21) was brought up on remand charged with attempting to commit suicide. The prisoner had leaped into the river at Warehouse Hill. He had been employed in selling oranges, and as a reason for attempting to drown himself he said that the orange season was over, and he had not sufficient money to get a hawker's license. He had made a previous attempt to drown himself in June. On promising not to offend again he was discharged.

LOFTHOUSE.

ANNIVERSARY.—On Sunday the anniversary in connection with the Lofthouse Primitive Methodist Chapel took place. Sermons were preached in the afternoon and evening by Mr. W. H. Cooper to large audiences. During the intervals the scholars, under the leadership of Mr. E. Dews, sung their hymns in a very creditable manner. Collections were made at the close of each service in aid of the Trust Fund. This chapel, which is built almost entirely of wood, has only been erected very recently, and is generally designated by the villagers as "Noah's Ark." However for the time it has been up it has made very good progress and is always well attended.

AN "ANCIENT CROSS."

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Sir,—When a mere youth, some twenty to twenty-five years ago, I remember going with an uncle of mine into Rothwell Churchyard, where we saw some carved stones that appeared to be part of an old cross lying at the north-east end of the Church, near the present walk. At that period of life I was not sufficiently curious to take particular notice of them, or to obtain from those learned in this kind of lore, a minute account of their character and import.

Since then—years ago—they have entirely disappeared, and I have not been able hitherto to trace them out, or ascertain what has become of them, or to what base uses they may have been applied. I should feel glad if any of your older readers could throw light upon (what is to my mind and I trust to others), an interesting enquiry.

I am quite sure that an old parish church like ours, the interior and outside of which has been the receptacle for the dead of well-to-do families, and of those which hoary time has made illustrious, for many generations, must have possessed at one period far more ancient monuments than now appear. It is evident that in times past there has been a strange irreverence for old tombstones, and that a species of vandalism in connection with them has been exercised by those ignorant of their value to the future historian and archæologist—the former having been left too much to their own courses during the many Church alterations—without proper superintendence; a pitiable and most annoying thing to those of an antiquarian type of mind and feeling, otherwise (I fear) this wholesale destruction of interesting relics might have been prevented.

A friend of mine, who likewise recollects these said stones (though not then an archæologist), believes they were originally part of a medieval cross of somewhat large dimensions, and were marked with a scroll or border of a floral description.

Any information as to their whereabouts, particulars of their history or style represented by them, will be highly gratifying to

PEDESTRIANISM.

On Monday evening, Commercial Street was in a hubbub in consequence of a young fellow having undertaken to walk to the Royal Oak, near Methley, and back, a distance of about six miles in an hour and twenty minutes. He was to have performed a longer journey earlier in the day, but for some reason or the other—most probably the public nature of the place, and the scantiness of his attire—it fell through. He toed the mark opposite the "Hare and Hounds," and punctually at half-past five sped on his way followed by an assemblage of all sorts. He was dressed in the regulation "peds" costume, and walked with a jaunty self-confident air which he maintained until the finish, doing the distance in an hour and three minutes, thus leaving the "enemy" 17 minutes to the bad. Whether pedestrianism is an approved sport or not the public thoroughfare is hardly the place to shew its perfections; a measured bye-path would afford equally as much sport without provoking comment. We have not heard the exact amount subscribed for the feat, but taking for granted what we have heard, we should imagine it hardly paid him for taking his clothes off.

On Saturday last the Cricketing Week at Canterbury came to a close. The weather during the greater part of the week was fine but Saturday shared in the general down-pour. This re-union was a few years back the delight of every Man of Kent and Kentish Man, and its glories are yet undimmed. Lords, ladies, and ecclesiastics gather together under the shadow of our ancient historical Cathedral, and the solemnity of surrounding such venerable memories is dispelled by merry jest and silvery laughter. But there comes a tinge of regret with all this, for it betokens the too rapid approach of the end of the legitimate season, but the tardy arrival of anything like fair playing weather and the desire of ground lessees to make as much hay as possible while the sun does shine, and the like aspiration on the part of professionals and their amateur brethren, drives the season close upon the nipping chills of winter. There was a large number present to witness the opening match between All England and 13 of Kent. England were all out for 192, Shrewsbury's 43 was the highest individual score. The county showed good form, being 102 to the good at the close of their innings. Lord Harris made 93, and G. Hearne, 83; the result was a victory for the county by 8 wickets.

The next match was between the M.C.C. v. Kent. For the county Hearne played a not out 60; F. Penn making the next highest, 51. The M.C.C. scored but 108, W. G. Grace had the misfortune to be bowled for a "duck" in the first, and a single in the second innings, Kent eventually won by 8 wickets.

The third and last match of the week was between the Gentlemen of Kent and Gentlemen of Neighbouring Counties, but owing to the steady downpour of rain on Saturday it ended in a draw.

The match between Yorkshire and Lancashire had to be abandoned owing to the excessive wet. An interesting feature of the match was the presentation of £6 to Ulyett for his fine display of batting. Surrey v. Middlesex also ended in a draw owing to the weather.

Local matches are conspicuous by their absence.

THE

"OLD WHITE HALL."

(A TALE OF OLD ROTHWELL).

By C. Gibson, London.

CHAPTER V.

We will now conduct the reader to the little village of Carlton, which is not devoid of antiquarian interest.

There is an old Hall or Manor House situated at one end of it which has gone through many vicissitudes, and sheltered many a human being since its ancient roof spanned its now venerable walls. How gratifying it would be to a lover of antiquity could he be truthfully informed as to how and when the original hall itself was first erected, and what was the state of the surrounding neighbourhood at that time, the reflective reader must imagine, as it is sufficient for our purpose to inform him that Captain Sidwell once inhabited this old mansion whose peaceful floors he then trod instead of the turmoil and bustle of the deck of a man-of-war.

Now the Captain had done good service for the honour of his country, and he had lost one of his legs while in an engagement at sea, which sad affair terminated his career as commander of His Majesty's ship of war, the famous "Never-give-in."

Ten years beyond the half-a-century had passed over the head of the old captain when he lost his left leg, and when he was being removed down into the cockpit, amid the roaring of cannon and the clash of steel, he exclaimed,

"What was once my right leg is now my left, and I hope it will be a right good leg still, for it is the only one I have left."

After a certain time we find the gallant captain in the old Hall at Carlton, with a miscellaneous collection of rare and interesting curiosities, lots of prize money, a servant or two, and alas, a wooden leg (there are cartloads of such things always to be found in the country, which I am sorry to say their respective owners have been obliged to have recourse to.) Well, the old sea captain did not allow this artificial leg of his to disturb his mind: he said it was as sound a bit of timber as ever sailed on dry land, and it was strong enough to support one half of his figure-head for the rest of his lifetime.

"Now this old hulk, with its weather-beaten timbers is just the very thing for me, shipmate." (this was a favourite expression of the old captain's), he said one day to his favourite man-servant, Harley Nelson, who had sailed with him in the good ship "Never-give-in." "I am its commander on this side of Davy Jones's locker, so just to brighten up an old remembrance or two let us overhaul the curiosities."

Aye, aye, sir:" said Harley; "where shall we begin."

"Well, I think we will rummage that old sea chest in the corner: there is a box in it that I want to see, which I gave to my daughter Alice (Mrs. Harrington), when I first took command of this two-decker," answered Captain Sidwell, as he looked around the apartment they were in

Harley now brought out of the capacious old chest which had been covered over many a time with white-wash, a middling sized box bound round with iron, and on the front of it hung three large padlocks.

"My eye, how heavy it is, captain; shall we open it."

"No, no, Harley, I vow by the good deeds of the man that stuck this little bit of fancy plaster work on the ceiling that it shall not be opened until it is wanted. I and Alice have arranged what to do with it. I dare say you know how I came to be possessed of this mysterious box; if you don't I will tell you."

"One day Will Jackson was dying when we were in the Mediterranean. The poor fellow sent for me as he had something of importance to communicate, so you know, Harley, I went to see him; he was laid in his hammock, and I could plainly see that he would not live long."

"'Captain Sidwell,' said the poor fellow, as the tears rolled down his cheeks. 'I feel I am about to slip my moorings, and as I have no relations in this world to leave my little fortune to, I just thought that I would make you my heir; that is if you will accept that title. You have always behaved well to me, sir, and I hope you will please a dying man by so doing. I am sorry to say that in my younger days I was a pirate, and I had my share of a good deal of plunder; amongst it was a box which is now in my locker; just open it, sir.'"

"Now as we were alone, Harley, he gave me three keys, and it took me a few minutes to find out the right one to each lock, as they are all different, you see; well, I opened it, and oh, its contents! But, never mind, shipmate, I closed and locked it up again, and turned round to give him the keys back, but he had fallen back in his hammock and was dead. I now walked up on deck, threw the keys overboard, and after acquainting the rest of the crew of his death, I gave orders for his burial, which took place the next day. He was sewn up in his hammock, and two heavy shot were fastened to his feet, and poor Will was then committed with appropriate ceremony to the deep blue sea, but the box is here, Harley, and you may now lower it into the chest."

"I will, sir, and now I should take it as a favour, captain, if you would give me the history of this bit of a trinket," and he held up before him a curiously wrought neck-lace which had a bright appearance, and it seemed to be of a superior kind of metal for it was rather heavy.

"Now this old hulk is just the thing for me, and as you have caught me in a good humour, I will tell you something about it, but just pull the fire together, shipmate, the air in this old cabin is rather chilly, and my old timbers are not so weather proof as they used to be."

"Well, you must know, when I commanded the Sea-gull, a vessel of ten guns, and a hundred and twenty men, we were cruising off the coast of Africa one cloudy April afternoon, when Jack Wilton, a fore-top man, lost his hold in the rigging and fell upon the deck. The poor fellow only lived a week afterwards and two or three days after he fell we noticed two black objects swimming astern of us."

"They were sharks, captain, sharks," said Harley.

"You are right, shipmate, and so they were. Well we determined to have a game at least with one of them: the boatswain had some proper tackle to catch such voracious sea cannibals with, so he baited a large hook with a piece of pork. He then fastened the line to the taffrail, and lowered the bait into the sea. We were going at a good speed, and had promised ourselves a good treat. A few of the men had armed themselves with hatchets in order to dispatch the lively customer, when we had caught him: well in a short time one of them turned on his back and springing forward caught the bait in his capacious mouth and bolted it, and now began the tug of war. He had got the hook fairly stuck fast in his throat; he jump'd and dash'd and flounder'd in the sea like a mad thing: I thought that he would surely break the rope, which, however, proved strong enough to hold him. After a while a dozen stout fellows hauled him on to the deck; but didn't they have to run and get out of his way. He flew about in all directions for a good half-hour. At last the boatswain managed to get a few cuts at his tail which soon disabled him, and cut off his head, and then he was dissected, and what do you think they found in his stomach? why that necklace that you have in your hand."

"And a very good find indeed, captain, but I once heard of a shark that swallowed the ship's carpenter's grindstone; but that was rather too tough a yarn, and I never yet could believe it."

"Now if you had said that the shark had swallowed the ship's carpenter, we might have both believed it."

"Aye, aye, sir. How rusty this old helmet and cutlass are getting, I shall have to brighten them up a bit, and I may safely say that this old iron hat was the means of saving somebody's life if I may judge by the large dent in the top of it," remarked Harley.

"Ha, ha, my true born sailor, thereby hang's a tale," said the jolly old captain; "but, hark how the wind is getting up, it will be a rough night at sea."

"While here in this old timbered hulk,
With bolts of iron tether;
We'll safely ride at anchor boys,
In calm or stormy weather."

"Bravo," said Harley, when the captain had done singing; "You haven't lost your voice not yet forgot your old sea chorus."

They now inspected articles of more or less value, and the brave old commander had a story for each of them; but as it was getting late he "piped all hands" to supper, after which Harley slung his hammock (for he would not sleep in an ordinary bed), took off his wooden leg, the hearty old son of the sea, after taking off his wooden leg was soon in the arms of Morpheus.

Now previous to Captain Sidwell's death, and before all his goods and chattels had been removed to the White Hall, at Rothwell, a box (which the reader will no doubt have recognised), was buried in the quarry in Woodlesford Lane.

Mrs. Harrington (who was Captain Sidwell's daughter Alice), said that during her lifetime it should never come into the hall for though she was a good and handsome woman yet she was very eccentric.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Indigestion, stomach and Liver Complaints.—Persons suffering from any derangements of the liver, stomach, or the organs of digestion should have recourse to Holloway's Pills, as there is no medicine known that acts on these particular complaints with such certain success. Its peculiar properties strengthen the stomach, increase the appetite and rouse the sluggish liver. For bowel complaints it is invaluable, as it removes every primary derangement, thereby restoring the patient to the soundest health and strength. These preparations may be used at all times and in all climates by persons affected by biliousness, nausea, or disordered liver they are specifics.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with
of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES,
IN THE
WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT,
OF

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.
A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adopted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.
JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.
IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT. than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known.
YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY
Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

TABLE I.
Shewing the quantities of different illuminating materials necessary to produce the same amount of light.

Refined Colza Oil,	do.	1 in. Argand	do.	1·88 do.
London Gas of 16 Candle Power,				503 cubic feet.

TABLE II.
Assuming that Young's Paraffin Oil and American Petroleum are each valued at 1s. per gallon, Colza Oil at 3s. 6d. per gallon, and London Gas at 3s. 6d. per 1000 feet, then to produce a light of 22 Standard Candles—

1d. worth of Young's Paraffin Oil will burn	6	hours.

JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, two FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

A TRIP TO MOUNT SNOWDON.

(From a Correspondent).

Your account of the Wesleyan Picnic was so cheerless a fortnight ago, that one might have imagined that your reporter was suffering from an influenza cold caused by the trip and shivering from the effects of it, whilst penning such descriptions as "weary, worn, and sad," "drenched to the skin," &c., for to the best of my remembrance, our party was a very merry one, despite the war of elements on that eventful day.

However, a few Wesleyan friends dared to go tripping again, and this time fortune favoured the brave. We were seven, and started on our expedition during the rain at nine p.m. on Sunday evening, walking to the Leeds L. & N. W. Station. Twenty minutes after midnight our heavy train started for the far west, dragging its weary length along rather cheerlessly until we arrived at Crewe, there overtaking another train which had preceded us from Huddersfield and district. How strange it is that if we lodge in a railway train, so many extra meals are needed, for which no names are given. Our advice is—be fairly supplied with eatables and drinkables, and don't be tempted to buy twopenny pies or bottles of beer from some midnight adventurer calling out "no time for refreshments until you get to the end of your journey." The railway rats may enjoy the pies thrown to them, but you won't.

After passing the grand old city of Chester, our route was very beautiful and interesting, especially so from the fresh hue of morn being cast upon the smiling waters on Deeside. Further on, early bathers were enjoying their morning dips, and our first destination, Rhyl, was reached about six a.m. Here a portion of our fellow-travellers left our train, but most of us sped forward to further ports. The sea beach at our right hand, towering hills and woody slopes, half hiding the domains of the wealthier residents, on our left,—our further progress was very delightful, and we felt thankful to live in an age when the iron horse can fly with us through such enchanting scenes and long distances for a few shillings outlay.

Llandudno Junction, our next stoppage, is but a few minutes ride from that most beautiful and salubrious watering-place, which is sheltered from wintry blasts by the lesser and greater Ormsheads. Curious Conway Castle and city next attracted our attention. What a mixture of ancient and modern as our train rushes on through the Norman arch built into the old wall, and then through an iron tubular bridge; after this we rush through deep cuttings of granite and limestone rocks, along hill and mountain sides. Close upon the pebbly beach small but pretty seaside resorts, with new hotels, lodging-houses, and gentlemen's seats follow each other with double-lettered Welsh names, "Aber" being the only one we could possibly pronounce.

By and by we emerge from a short tunnel and the ancient city of Bangor is reached. But as our aim to-day is to reach Snowdon, we snatch a hurried breakfast, leave behind our heavier incumbrances and take 9 a.m. train for Llanberis; unfortunately for us the train was delayed half-an-hour by pressure of tourists for Holyhead and Carnarvon. Another long wait at Menai Bridge severely tries our patience but throws us into the company of a few Welsh young ladies, who furnished us with interesting information about the district, one of whom told us that she could ascend the mountain in one hour from Llanberis. It was well that we did not meet with that fair deceiver on our return or we might have talked Yorkshire to her, as the sequel will show.

After leaving Menai Bridge Station we had a splendid view of both the Victoria Suspension Bridge, which forms the Queen's highway into the Isle of Anglesey, and the Britannia Tubular Bridge, on the line to Holyhead. Both these bridges are marvels of engineering skill, and the pair of massive stone lions on both ends of the latter, are very conspicuous objects both from their size and symmetry.

Carnarvon created a very favourable impression upon us with its shipping, ancient castle, and bustling population. Should very much have liked to halt here; but "Excelsior" is our motto to-day. And excelsior it was from the hard puffing of our engine along its single line and stony way, across brawling streams, marshy but rock besprinkled route. Just a village here and there where clearings had been made of stone and moss, and we are evidently nearing the end of the iron road. Whilst stopping at the romantic little village of Cym-y-Glo we watched some fine eels sporting at the bottom of the clear lake stream. Soon after this we ran along one side of Lake Llanberis and reached a place bearing the same name at the foot of the extensive mountain range. Here we left the rails, wending our way through the village, and enquired for Snowdon. A guide offered his services for a six hour's journey up and down the mountain, but as we had only four hours at our disposal and, of course, must top it in that time, if possible, off we went guideless, trusting to our good sense and seven pairs of serviceable legs to do Mount Snowdon in that short time.

Soon we found the way as there were other climbers on the track. A very pretty and gentle ascent through shady avenues of firs was a pleasant beginning with a warm sun, invigorating breeze and such a clear view upward as Snowdon puts on but few times a year.

On we go the fine turf under our feet, sheep and lambs with fleeces nearly as white as snow, springing out of our path, turning round now and then to admire the deep blue lake and many the hued slate quarries glittering like pearls on the opposite mountain across the lake. Well worth coming for, say we, to see scenes like these! But where is Mount Snowdon? ask we of a milk-maid who supplied us with some very sweet mugs of milk at one of the gates. Can't see it for a few miles yet, is her reply. Along paths stony and wet like beck bottoms with slate blocks edges upward, we persevere onward, and make our way to a stone shed where a solitary mortal sells lemonade and other refreshments at prices becoming higher as higher we go; for panniers on ponies are expensive freight trains to these regions. Can't see Snowdon yet, but we have come three miles and have other two and half miles to go to reach the summit. The slate mountain, which was a great height from Llanberis, we now look down upon, and still a very bleak straight precipice is upon our right hand. Must we climb round that awful and dizzy height before we can say that we have mounted Snowdon? Worse and worse is our path with sharp stones, and we try the mossy, but, still stony short, cuts until we can scarcely get one foot before the other. Some of the younger ones are on before, as we have rested so often on our way. Ah! we are getting older; many a steep hill of life have we climbed since we were as young as they, really it is so bad, we shall have to give it up—out of puff, very hot, head aches too. But it won't do to give it up, and be laughed at! With all these trying thoughts in our minds we sat down on the path-side upon marble-like rock, Presently two ladies turn round the circuitous path, slowly, but surely on they go. We join them and enter into conversation, finding that they set off an hour before us. Must not be beaten by ladies surely. Presently we get on so very nicely. Was it meeting with them that spurred us on, or what? Well, never mind, it might be; but also the path was much smoother, not so steep and we go on our way rejoicing and singing "Better on before," How well it was that we didn't give in when it was so bad, what a good thing perseverance is, quite a lesson in life.

We look back again upon silvery lakes between the high mountains stretching many miles. What an extensive view and so beautifully clear. All the Island of Anglesey and its bridges in our view. The Welsh coast from 50 to 40 miles can be seen and many miles past into the open sea. But where is Snowdon? Won't ask any more and we didn't, for soon afterwards a steep conical mountain is seen above us on the edge of a deep precipice, with house and lake at the bottom looking like children's toys.

The last climb is steep, but then it brings us to the top and we push on through the strong and cold wind, which prevails there, and soon reach the summit, and taking our breath, climb up the mound of stones which is reared on its head.

The coming down in our next

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD.

A meeting of the above board was held on Wednesday the 21st of August 1878, present:- Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Messrs. Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Hawden, Holmes and Bramley, the clerk, the Inspector of Nuisances and Surveyor.

After the minutes of the last meeting as also minutes of a special meeting, had been read and confirmed,—

It was resolved that the Bye-laws and charges for the water supply be approved of, and the same forwarded to the Local Goverment Board for confirmation.

Plans submitted by Mr. S. Marshall, of Rothwell, of alterations to his property in Commercial Street were approved of.

The lighting of the lamps was considered, and a committee was appointed consisting of Messrs. Lunn, Hawden, Bramley and Holmes, to look through the district and ascertain if any new lamps were required. The lamplighter, C. Longley, was reappointed and instructions were given to have the lamps painted, and the Clerk was instructed to write to the Secretary of the Rothwell Gas Company and the Leeds Corporation Gas Committee for the terms upon which they would find gas for the lamps for a period of eight month viz.: from August, 1878, to April 30th. 1879, the lighting of the lamps, if arrangements could be made, was to be on the 31st, August inst.

Mr. Wright's tender for the insertion of ferrules for water supply was accepted, and the Clerk was directed to ask him to complete the extension of the water supply from Stourton Lodge to Lower Gosler.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

On Friday evening, the usual meeting of the Rothwell School Board was held; present Mr. W. Hargreaves (chairman), Messrs. Seanor, Batty, Jewison, and the clerk and attendance officer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, a note from Mr. Whicker was read tendering a three month's notice of resignation, which was referred to the School Management Committee.

A resolution was also carried offering a gratuity of £2 to Mr. Nicholson in addition to the grant of school pence, and use of room, fuel, light, &c., in opening a Night School at Rothwell Haigh School

The usual school salaries and several accounts altogether amounting to about £90 were passed.

The fees of some children whose fathers are on strike at Middleton and another child whose father has been seriously injured were remitted for a short time,

The lists of wants, having been agreed to, the business was brought to a close.

ROBBERY AT ROTHWELL.

Last night some person or persons broke into the house of Mr. Vero, near the Cross, and stole a sum of money amounting to nearly £2 nothing else as yet been found to be missing, the robbers seemingly wanted nothing but money. An entrance was made through the back window, as it was found wide open and a chair standing under it bore imprints of bare feet. The police have been made acquainted with the robbery, but as yet found no clue.

WILFUL MURDER AT CARLTON.

On Saturday last, August 17th, an inquest was held at the Queen Hotel, Carlton, on the body of a newly-born infant. From the evidence it appears that Emily Speight (the mother of the child), went to the privy early in the morning of the 15th inst., and whilst there was seized with excessive pain. Leaving there she went into the coal place, and was there confined. She went into the house, leaving the child wrapped up in her petticoat in the coal place. Soon after, her mother coming into her bedroom, she told her what had taken place. The child was fetched in and washed, but was found to be quite dead, having several bruises on the head. Upon examination, Mr. Jas. Nowell. surgeon, said his opinion was that the child had been born alive, and had lived about half-an-hour, and that death had been caused by striking the body against some hard substance, or by treading upon it. In defence it was stated that the child had been born whilst she (Emily Speight) was standing up, and that the bruises were caused by the fall. A verdict of wilful murder was returned.

LOFTHOUSE FLOWER SHOW.

The Annual Show of the Lofthouse Floral and Horticultural Society was held on Saturday last, August 17th, in the Cricket Field. The show of plants was very good including some choice specimens; there was also a good show of cut flowers. An exceedingly strong display of vegetables was shown, and the quality was such as could scarcely be surpassed anywhere. The show of agricultural produce was rather small, but the quality was good; the same may be said of the pigs.

Early in the day might be seen making their way towards the show ground, waggon after waggon of plants, flowers, fruit, vegetables, roots, &c., most of them covered in so as to hide their contents from the eyes of the public until they have passed through their inspection, and the show been declared open. The waggons having arrived and delivered up their contents to the committee, then came the task of classifying and allotting to them their respective positions, work of no small difficulty, especially when there are such numerous competitors as came forward on Saturday last. This part of the proceedings being completed, then followed the important yet unthankful part of the work, viz.: the judging and awarding of prizes, which was not completed until after one o'clock. At ten minutes past one the Rothwell Model Prize Band entered the ground with strains of martial music, making everything seem brighter and more exhilarating. The president, committee and judges, and others now repaired to their private tent, where an excellent luncheon was provided for them by Mr. Walton, of the Rose and Crown Inn, Lofthouse. The president (J. Charlesworth, Esq.) presided at the table. When the cravings of the inner man had been satisfied, several toasts were proposed and drunk by the whole company.

J. Charlesworth, Esq. proposed "The Queen," remarking upon the late Congress and the way in which the Queen under the guidance of her ministers, has successfully been enabled to bring this country through the late crisis. This toast was duly honoured by all.

Mr. Moorhouse (chairman of committee) proposed "The health of the President," and spoke in glowing terms of the energy and ability, coupled with the liberality which had been shown by Mr. Charlesworth in connection with the Show, and also of the way in which he always strove, to the best of his advantage, to forward the interests of Lofthouse and neighbourhood.

Mr. Charlesworth, in response, stated that whatever he had done for this Show had been a pleasure to him, and hoped that this year's exhibition might prove more successful than any preceding one. This toast was very cordially drunk by all.

Mr. Armitage then proposed "Success to the Lofthouse Flower Show," followed by Mr. Charlesworth proposing "The health of the Committee and Judges." These were also honoured in the usual way.

Whilst the above had been taking place the gates were thrown open, and the public, dressed in holiday attire, began to make their appearance, not very fast at the beginning but gradually increasing in number, until five o'clock, when the "rush" commenced, and the field soon presented a lively appearance. At one side of the field the great Yorkshire attraction of horses and ponies in their leaping contests over the hurdles, was drawing together most of the company present, great merriment being caused by one of the horses, which declined to jump, running away with one of the hurdles across its chest; whilst at the other side of the field the band was playing, people were going in and coming out of the show tent in streams, some were patronizing the swing boats, others—

"Old Aunt Sally,
Three sticks a penny,"

while others were crowding round the sweet stalls, photographic gallery, &c. Up to this the weather had kept very fine, but now it began to look gloomy, and presently a shower came on, making all look out for shelter. But no sooner had they got nicely out of the way of the rain than it was fine again, so out they came to their amusements. Bailey's Punch and Judy was advertised to be on the ground during the afternoon, but for some reason or other it never put in an appearance and the Committee had not any chance of providing a substitute for it, as no notice had been given to them.

At six o'clock, when everybody had had an opportunity of inspecting the plants, flowers, fruits, &c., and to see who had been the principal prize-takers, (a list of which is given below), in came the waggons once more, and then commenced the work of removing and clearing all away, which was very speedily accomplished, the last waggon leaving the ground about 8.30.

The following is the list of prize-takers, with the number of first and second prizes won by each:—

The hurdle leaping by horses and ponies was one of the great events of the day, as was shown by the way in which the people gathered round to witness this sport. Mr. Chas. Sanderson, of Womersley Grange, ran away with the first prize easily with his horse "Clear the Way," the same animal that took the second prize at the Rothwell Show The second prize fell to Mr. A. Slater, of West Ardsley, won by his grey pony, "Little Wonder." This splendid little animal well deserves its name, jumping as it does in fine style, and competing against horses standing two or three hands higher than itself. The same animal took the first prize for ponies leaping, no second prize being given.

The last but not least entertainment of the evening was a most brilliant display of fireworks. Here again was shown the energy and promptness of the committee. Mr. Caldwell, of Leeds, had been engaged to give the display of fireworks, but sent word that he should not be able to come, being taken ill. The Committee at once applied to Mr. Tranman, of Wakefield, and with no small difficulty managed to get him to fill Mr. Caldwell's place. The change proved to be for the best, as all will say who witnessed his display, and compared it with the one given by Mr. Caldwell at Rothwell. The superb designs and the skilful manner in which the whole was conducted so as to keep all the company rapt in admiration, will not be very soon forgotten by the people of Lofthouse.

The Rothwell Model Prize Band, under the leadership of Mr. Sam Fowler, was engaged for the afternoon and evening, and enlivened the whole proceedings. Some fine selections of music were given during the afternoon, among which were the following: "Will o' the Wisp," "Merry England," "The Bride of Neath Valley," selection from Mozart's Twelfth Mass, "La Fete Musicale," grand selection from Haydn's "Creation," "Ireland," "Hail, Memory, hail!" "Recollections of Donizetti," and others. The evening was devoted to dance music, so that all who wished might have a "spin" on the greensward. At a quarter to ten o'clock "God save the Queen" was played, and a heavy shower coming on, the field was soon cleared and another day's enjoyment ended.

Refreshments were provided by Mr. Walton, of Lofthouse.

Nearly £50 was taken at the gate, though, doubtless, had the weather been favourable a much greater amount would have been taken.

HUNSLET FLOWER SHOW.

The Annual Flower Show is the main attraction at the Hunslet Feast, and owing to it being held during holiday time it always receives a fair share of public patronage. But this year it seems, one show is not enough for Hunslet, so that another society has been formed amonst the working classes in rivalry of the old-established one, owing to some ill-feeling that has sprung up in the minds of some of the exhibitors who thought that their exibits did not receive their due share of prizes. Suffice it to say that each side claims to be right. The old show, however, does not seem to have suffered very much by opposition either in the quality or number of exhibits. There was a splendid collection of stove and greenhouse plants, also a splendid collection of ferns which was well worthy of inspection. The horse show was very creditable, and in some of the classes the competition was very keen. Owing to the exclusion of mares and foals this year, the number of entries is not quite so many as last year.

In the evening there was a display of fireworks by Mr. Paine, of London.

The new Society, under the name of the Hunslet Working Men's Floral and Horticultural Society, held their exhibition on the Hunslet Union Cricket Ground. Over the entrance there is a good display of bunting, which at once attracts the attention of the passer-by, and in large letters are the words "Hunslet Show." The display of fruit, plants, and flowers occupies two tents, and is of a very creditable character; one of the tents is especially devoted to some stove and greenhouse plants not for competition, which have been lent by the Horticultural Gardens Company.

Tyler's Silver Band, the Leeds Model Prize Band and Bell Ringers played at intervals during the afternoon. There was also athletic sports and fireworks, &c.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.

IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT. than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known. YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

TABLE I.

Shewing the quantities of different illuminating materials necessary to produce the same amount of light.

American Petroleum, do. 1¼ in. do.	1·22	do.
Refined Colza Oil, do. 1 in. Argand do.	1·83	do.
London Gas of 16 Candle Power, ...	503	cubic feet.

TABLE II.

Assuming that Young's Paraffin Oil and American Petroleum are each valued at 1s. per gallon, Colza Oil at 3s. 6d. per gallon, and London Gas at 3s. 6d. per 1000 feet, then to produce a light of 52 Standard Candles—

1d. worth of Young's Paraffin Oil will burn	6	hours.
1d. do. American Petroleum do.	5	hours.
1d. do. Refined Colza Oil do.	1	hour.
1d. do. London Gas do.	3½	hours.

Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from. PURCHASE DIRECT FROM THE MAKERS. The Advantages are obvious.

Messrs. HOPKINSON are the only makers in GREAT BRITAIN who obtained PRIZE MEDALS for their Pianofortes at all the following Exhibitions:— THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851. THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855 and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR. THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Excellence of Tone," THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865. After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. H. did not exhibit at Paris in 1867. PRICES FROM 30 TO 250 GUINEAS. ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS FORWARDED ON APPLICATION. CASH CUSTOMERS LIBERALLY DEALT WITH. SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES At Tempting Prices. THE HARVEST.

We are pleased to observe from the reports from all parts of the country, that there is a prospect of a bountiful harvest. The heat and brightness of June and July has hastened the growth of corn generally, and although showers have fallen and thereby impeded the gathering of the heavily laden grain, yet, should we be favoured with a few days of continuous fine weather, the farmers would seize the precious moments and we should soon have to rejoice over large crops safely housed. Wheat, we understand is over the average, while oats and barley are about a moderate yield. Turnips have profited by the rain, while potatoes, beans and peas all promise well. The extraordinary hay harvest and the rich profusion of after grasses, are cause for general and heartfelt thankfulness to the—

"Bountiful donor of all we possess," and with the prospect of cheap bread and a brighter political atmosphere, we trust the spring of trade will also revive, and that "there will be no complaining in our streets" but that all will look on the bright side of things and joyfully praise the Giver of all Good.

COMING DOWN MOUNT SNOWDON.

(From a Correspondent).

Well done! seven from Rothwell have ascended Mount Snowdon, the highest mountain in England and Wales, and it is very seldom climbed in less time than we had accomplished the feat—two hours and twenty minutes. The best view of the mountain is from the opposite side to that which we climbed, but its top is seldom seen to such advantage as favoured us. Usually the top is encircled with white misty clouds or covered with snow; hence its name Snowdon, the Alps of England. And what saw we from that high altitude? Some 70 or 80 miles square of choice scenery. Mountain after mountain to the south-west until some were so dimly visible as to be confused with banks of clouds. Seaward the white and yellow fringe of foam and sand are distinctly visible, but inland, from our great height, town could scarcely be distinguished from country scenery. Our stay on the mountain top was of necessity very limited, having only one hour and forty minutes in which to reach our train at Llanberis; but many thoughts crowded themselves into those ten minutes which will live in our memory for many years.

Full advantage is taken on Snowdon of the propensity for eating and drinking which forms so important a part in the programme of English and especially Yorkshire men. Tea and coffee and also a few beds are furnished in the wooden huts; there are fires too, but not such as we see at Rothwell. Whether the charges for lodgings are moderate or not, we did not seek to know, but half-a-guinea might have been spent in a cup of tea with bread and butter for each. But of course we had not time to indulge in such expensive luxuries, so off we shot down the steep portion, running and jumping until our breath was spent, and then we halted for a view.

Some three or four mountain ponies had carried some ladies to near the top, and were impounded in a rocky pinfold for fear that they should descend without their burdens. And, also, as another of those sure-footed animals was turned out of the straight path by the guide, in order to gain an easier ascent, the lady exclaimed "Oh, no! I dare not go up there;" and well she might, with such a yawning gulf within a few feet of her. "Quite safe, ma'am," said the guide and her male friend; but she was soon seen walking in preference to such nerve-trying feats.

How different were our feelings coming down, and how confident we must have looked as we answered enquiries similar to what ours had been as we ascended. What words of encouragement we could give to other climbers. "Push forward, sir (or ma'am), you are climbing the worst of it now, a good path round the turn there and you will soon see the top."

Just then a trim, taut young lady met us. No tight skirt to impede her walk, nor any loose cross-over or fringy superfluities to check her progress against the strong breeze; with plain Scotch cap on her head and alpenstock in her hand, upward she went like a mountain fairy. No need to give any counsel there. But what a contrast next moment in a gentleman holding the rein of a fine pony on which a lady is sat, a little out of the beaten path. What means their standing here think you? Very evident is their discomfiture, indecision is written upon their faces. Is it their wedding tour, we wonder, or has their pony failed them? No! Then what has happened to produce such sorrow on a happy day like this? Be warned, ladies, that the like happen not to you. Do not be the slaves of fashion as that lady was on this mountain side; for do what she would, she could not for one moment leave hold of her head gear, being scarcely able to keep it in position with both her hands. Next we met a stout but elderly gentleman stripped to shirt and trousers, puffing manfully along, helped forward by the stirrup of a horse loaded with a lady of nearly twenty stones. That horse had a load up Snowdon. Very busy day for the horses and guides, being so favourable for the climb.

We note further how well developed the guides were in their most useful parts for mountain climbing: how steady and firm their tread, and how easily compared with us they seem to stride along with their well laced up calves.

An apparently consumptive gentleman rides up with his tender and solicitous partner walking at his side. May the mountain air do him good and cheer his spirits, poor man.

On going up our knees and ancles were heavily strained, and we wonder what new sensations will be experienced in going down—well, the change was very agreeable for a while, but for the last mile our muscles all round, both propelling and restraining, were severely taxed, and we were very thankful to reach Llanberis Station, just ten minutes before train time, one hour and a half from leaving the summit.

Did we see nothing then coming down? Oh, yes! we did. A mountain, having the appearance of a crouched elephant,—trunk, tail, and all—was pointed out to us. It is called the Elephant Rock. We observed, also, where a portion of a cliff straight as a wall had broken off and fallen into the valley; traced, also, immense land-slips into the same valley. And what had been the agent at work there? Why, tiny springs in the mountain, for Snowdon is well watered; springs and steams running down all its sides, except the highest peak of all.

From its slaty strata being as a rule edge uppermost, we judged it to be the result of volcanic action, or in homely words,—

A pimple raised upon earth's skin
By fiery humours from within.

We think, also, that its highest cone shows signs of a crater of some extent having existed there, the rock having a dark burnt appearance. There is also no vegetation there. Lower down, many sheep feed on its well watered and mossy pastures.

We must not omit to relate what a grand temperance banquet we had coming down. Many refreshing draughts at sweet streams crossing our hill-side tracks had helped us on our way, but the grandest of all we found near the top on coming down, running from a small spout, the most deliciously cool, pure and sweet water that we ever remember to have drunk since joining the cold water army many years ago. Would not our ranks be recruited if we could get such water at Rothwell. Let us hope that our Local Board's scheme will lead to less drinking of that which inebriates rather than cheers.

More beauteous scenes, say we as we near Lake Llanberis, and admire the regular mathematical outline of the slate quarry with its terraces, galleries, trams, &c., on the mountain side, glistening with the sun's rays. Grander still again its glorious reflection upon the still blue water of the lake at its foot. The lake—its Creator's unrivalled casket—reflecting myriads of radiant sun-born pearls from man's industrious labours above.

Weary as we were, we could not refrain from keeping a sharp look out for catching views of the retreating mountains, woodlands, and the waterfalls on the beautiful river which ran under and alongside of our line to Carnarvon. Another peep at the massive bridges stretching across the straits, with abundant height to spare for ships passing under; also wood-encircled Beaumaris nestling on the side of Anglesey, and we get back to Bangor seven and a half hours from leaving there. Having had no solid refreshment during the time, we very much enjoyed our Welsh bread and butter at tea. We strolled about the city until 6.40 p.m., when our train started in good earnest home again. Old Sol, who had been so benignant all day, set in a clear sky upon the spray-tipped waters, between Puffin Island and Anglesey, showing some large ships in beautifully distinct outline as he sunk into his apparently watery bed. We saw him no more until reaching Rothwell Haigh next morning, when his fiery rising seemed to denote that we had snatched just weather enough for our trip.

In conclusion, your correspondent enjoys his trip over again (to some extent, at least) whilst telling his tale, and hopes that his example will be followed by others doing the same. Should we be spared until another Bangor excursion, please to consult the editor about another trip to Snowdon, and he may ask some of the seven to join you.

The Editor, in the name of the public, cordially thanks our Snowdon Climber for his racy and interesting story, and is pleased to announce that a friend promises a paper or two on his trip to the Isle of Man, beginning next week. Shall be glad to receive other contributions of a similar character.

BREWSTER SESSIONS.

On Monday, the annual brewster sessions were held at Wakefield, before Mr. W. H. Leatham, and a full bench.

Supt. Hall reported 149 licensed victuallers and 148 beerhouses doing business in the district. Their is a decrease of 121 in the number of persons convicted of drunkenness, there being 683 this year against 804 last year. He further deplores the amount of female drunkenness, due principally to the granting of out-door licenses; but was pleased to know there was a probability of remedying the evil somewhat.

Mr. Leatham said the bench were glad to find that the number of convictions against persons for drunkenness showed a decrease, and they believed that if licensed victuallers and beerhouse keepers would refuse to supply beer to persons who had had sufficient, cases of drunkenness would not be so frequent. The licensed victuallers and beerhouse-keepers who had been convicted during the year were then cautioned, after which the bench heard seven applications for full licenses, all of which they refused.

Mr. S. Clough was granted a license to sell off the premises, Mr. J. Hopton's application being adjourned till Sept. 30th.

ROTHWELL CHORAL UNION.

On Wednesday evening last the usual meeting for practice of the above Union was held in the Mechanics Institute. There was not a very good attendance. After the practice a copy of the rules was read and passed.

LOFTHOUSE.

LOFTHOUSE-with-CARLTON SCHOOL BOARD.

A meeting of the Board was held at the Robin Hood Board School, yesterday.—Present:—J. Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman) Messrs. Hargreaves and Throp, and Mr. J. H. Lee, clerk. The minutes of the last meeting were confirmed and signed. The fees paid to the Treasurer for July were for Robin Hood School £9 10s. 7d., and Carlton School £8 10s. 7d. The amount of Government grant received for Carlton School is £114, for Robin Hood £134 12s. 4d. Eli Milner, aged 10 years, attending the latter school has obtained an Honor Certificate, school fees for whom will be paid by the Educational Department for 3 years. Cheques were signed amounting to £36 3s. 2d. for teacher's salaries. The Board appointed Miss Laura Robinson, of Beeston, a pupil teacher in her 3rd year, to the Carlton School, at £15 per year; and also appointed temporarily Miss Abbishaw, of Rothwell, as pupil teacher at Robin Hood School, at £10 per annum. An application for the remission of fees was granted by the Board.

NOTICE OF REDUCTION.

The workmen employed by Messrs. Armitage Brothers; George Armitage, and William Denham & Co., Limited, Thorp Lane Quarries, Robin Hood, have received notice of an alteration in their wages. Hitherto the workmen have been receiving weekly wages the same in summer as in winter. The owners have resolved on paying the men by the hour as long in the winter as in summer. This proposition has not been received very favourably by the men as they say it will make six or seven shillings a week difference in their wages. It is thought they will call a meeting to consider the question.

TEA AND LECTURE.

On Thursday evening August 22nd, a public Tea was held in the Primitive Methodist Chapel to which a good company sat down. After tea it had been arranged to have a lecture and as soon as the tables could be cleared and the room got ready the persons assembled to hear it. The Lecturer was the Rev. J. Hirst, Superintendent of the Wakefield Circuit, Mr. Lunn of Rothwell, having been nominated as chairman, after a few remarks briefly introduced the lecturer to the company. Mr. Hirst then began his lecture which was entitled "Martin Luther", handling the subject in a very skilful manner, and fully illustrating many various events which had occurred in the life of this great hero. At the close of the lecture, Mr. Hirst proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman for presiding at the lecture, and before any one could thank him for the part he had taken he departed. Mr. Lunn, in responding to the vote of thanks said that he was always glad to labour in any good cause like the present, after which the lecture was brought to a close. It was not so well attended as had been anticipated, nor as it deserved, there only being a very poor audience. The proceeds of the tea and lecture are to be devoted to the purchase of a new harmonium, of which this chapel is greatly in need.

ACCIDENT AT STANLEY.

On Monday an accident occured at Stanley in the pit known as the "Deep Drop," resulting in the injury of a shot firer. It appears that after he had lit the shot in some manner not yet ascertained his clothing ignited severely burning him. In this state he crawled to the pit bottom and had to signal and get into the cage himself, the hanger on contrary to the rules, having left the pit. One of the inspectors has come down to enquire into the affair.

This is the second accident that has occurred during the past week; last week a boy sixteen years of age named Wm. Henry Broadhead was accidentally killed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE REV. ROBERT BOND.

To the Editor of the 'Rothwell Times'

Doubtless it will be interesting to the Wesleyan portion of your readers to know that the Rev. Robert Bond, who was resident minister here forty years ago, recently came to our village, where his ministrations had been most acceptably received, and which still afford a pleasing remembrance.

Several old members of society who knew him then, were favoured with a visit, and were pleased with the brief but kind interview he had with them.

It is to be regretted that his visit had not been more generally known, and made more practical use of. There is little doubt, had he been asked to preach, but that he would willingly have given a sermon in the evening, and even at the short notice of a few hours a large number of people would have congregated to hear him.

Yours truly,
AN OLD METHODIST.

THE SPRING OR TRUST NOT TO APPEARANCES.

Under a spreading old oak tree,
A little spring bursts forth;
It's waters then roll pleasantly
Amongst the rocks and earth.

The villagers for water come
Beneath the old oak tree,
While with a silvery bustling sound
It hastes to join the sea.

The village children also come,
When they from school are free,
To quench their panting little tongues
Beneath the old oak tree.

The spring then joins a larger stream,
O'er stones and rocks they go;
Till, with a mighty, noisy roar,
Into the sea they flow.

But gazing on it at its source,
How tranquilly it goes,
Unlike the noise that's in its course
When to the sea it flows.

Judge not, then, by appearances
What people say or do,
Or like the noisy little spring
They may deceive us too.

E. W. HOBSON.

THE "OLD WHITE HALL,"

By C. Gibson, London.

CHAPTER VI. (Continued)

The following was the contents of the paper mentioned in our last—

"To my Husband, Son, or Daughter,
The contents of the box you will bring, or perhaps have already brought to the Old White Hall, are to be my daughter Eleanor's wedding portion. The box was buried at my request in the quarry, not far from the windmill on Holmsley. It was a gift to me from my father, Captain Sidwell, in the old Hall at Carlton.
Witness my hand,
ALICE HARRINGTON.

"Deeary me, what a strange thing this is to be suar," said Sally, "nah I'll be bound to say at this writing is all abart that box at aar Joe browt into t' hall soa varry sooin this morning. I can see how it is 'at they wor awl soa late aht yesterday neet; my maister mun see this," and Sally hastened down stairs with the precious document, and presented it to Mr. Harrington, telling him how and where she had found it.

Mr. Harrington read it aloud, and then handed it to Robert, saying at the same time—

"That paper, my son, now clears up the secret which your mother in her life-time never would reveal to me, and she must have written that statement just before she died."

After reading the paper, Robert said, "Now my dear father, is this treasure honestly come by? But why my mother should have caused it to be concealed in such a peculiar manner I cannot comprehend."

"There is no accounting for such an extraordinary proceeding," answered his father, "but do not breathe a word about it to Eleanor; at some future time, if I live, she shall know all."

CHAPTER VII.

THE brightness of day had fled, and night had thrown her sable veil over the village, and lights might have been seen shining out of the windows of a few of the thatched cottages that stood near to the White Hall.

Mr. Harrington and Stephen Milman were conversing together in the front and what was termed the best parlour of that once interesting building.

A beautiful oil lamp illumined the apartment, and the walls were beautified with a few superb transcripts of nature, bearing the names of eminent men, taht will no doubt live for many generations to come. Mr. Harrington was seated in a chair that showed the beautiful handiwork of the celebrated wood carver, Grindling Gibbons, (there are some rich specimens of his workmanship in the interior of Hampton Court Palace) and the jolly miller made himself at home in a high-backed chair that Captain Sidwell had spun many a long-winded yarn in at the old Manor House, which is still inhabitable at the little village of Carlton. On the table was a small tankard which was about half full of a beautifully coloured liquid, which the miller eyed with evident satisfaction, the fire burnt cheerfully and the whole room looked particularly comfortable.

"Will you take a drop of real Burgundy," said Mr. Harrington.

"My palate is seldom tickled with such a luxury," answered the miller, "but at your request I will moisten my lips with that sparkling liquid."

"You shall, my friend," and Mr. Harrington filled two small goblets, giving one to the thirsty miller who, with a suitable acknowledgment, drained it to the bottom.

"How like you that beverage, Mr. Milman?"

"It is very good indeed," answered the miller, smacking his lips, "but too much of it would make me see more than one candle in my old lantern."

"That is true, my old friend; and now I will tell you why I am pleased with your company here to-night. I have heard of, and have also observed a growing attachment between my daughter and your son, Linton, which at present I am not in favour of."

"Neither am I," said Stephen, "they are too young for anything more than common friendship; it is quite soon enough for a man to think of ever taking a wife at thirty, and five more years to be sure he has found what will prove a good one, and five more to make up his mind to marry her, because I think a man does not know his own mind until he is forty."

"A very good idea," said Mr. Harrington, laughing, "but not very often put into practice, as this old village can testify; but does your son intend to follow your humble yet straightforward calling for his business in life, my friend."

"If he does he will be but a sorry workman," said the miller, "the greater part of his time is occupied in a spare corner at the top of the mill, drawing with chalk and daubing with bright coloured paints on canvas any object that may please his fancy. I have heard him speak with pleasure to his mother about those very pictures that are hung on these walls, and I may truly say that he likes the smell of paint better than the dust from a corn sack."

"I have proof of the words that you have just spoken, for in my son Robert's bedroom there is a little picture of the mill that you are so familiar with, and I think that he hath talent, which if properly cultivated will place him in a good position in life. Now, I have a friend in London who is a patron of the fine arts, and if you are agreeable I will introduce your son into his society."

"In London!" said the miller, lifting up his eyebrows.

"Yes, in London," responded Mr. Harrington; "my friend, Sir Joshua Gainsborough, would be delighted with such a promising youth, and I think Linton would not say nay to have the privilege of studying and learning properly the beautiful art which he seems so well adapted for, and also to have the pleasure of viewing the wonders of so great a city."

"I can answer for him and myself, but his mother will not be easily persuaded to lose sight of him, I fear me, for any great length of time, said the miller."

"Surely she will not stand in the way of her son's advancement, and there are few in this neighbourhood who can appreciate th[e] talent which he appears fully bent on developing."

"I thank you for your kindness, and I will consult with my wife and son on the important subject that you have so kindly spoken of."

The miller now rose to depart, and at the request of Mr. Harrington he drank another drop of wine, had a homely chat with Sally in the large and cheerful-looking kitchen, and having lit the solitary candle in his faithful companion, the old-fashioned lantern, he took his way down Oulton Lane towards home.

NOTES.

GLOUCESTERSHIRE v. YORKSHIRE.—The two day's return match between the above-named ... Cheltenham, terminated on Saturday last, and resulted in a win for Yorkshire. There was little more than time for a single innings on each side, although Yorkshire commenced a second at a quarter-past five and at the call of time had made 20 for two wickets, the score being, Yorkshire 212, second innings 20, Gloucestershire 173.

NOTTS. v. MIDDLESEX.—This match was stopped on Saturday by the rain which fell in torrents, the result was largely in favour of Nottinghamshire. Middlesex 85, 2nd innings for four wickets, 20, Nottinghamshire 265.

YORKSHIRE GENTLEMEN v. UPPINGHAM ROVERS.—On Friday and Saturday, the Gentlemen of Yorkshire faced the Uppingham Rovers at York, in which the Gentlemen just managed a victory, largely due to the firm stand taken by W. F. Forbes, who went in first and remained nearly the whole of the first innings and scoring 58,—the bowling of Ackroyd was very efficacious in disposing of the other gentlemen for single figures. The Rovers batted well and steadily, securing 106, to which all their men contributed. Yorkshire Gentlemen 117, 2nd innings 45 for 4 wickets; Uppingham Rovers 106.

AUSTRALIANS v. 18 OF SCARBRO'.—The wonderfully victorious Australians have not yet finished their list of engagements, and appeared last week against 18 of Scarbro' and District, at the favourite watering place. Owing however, to the rain, there was not a large audience. At the close of Saturday's play the Australian team had scored 295 in one innings, while the two innings of the Scarbro' eighteen numbered respectively 124 and 125, or 46 less than the single play of their powerful opponents. This makes the 27th match the Australians have played, of which 12 have been won, 6 lost, and 9 drawn.

Next week and week after, Lord Londesborough's Great Cricket Carnival is to take place at Scarborough, commencing September 2nd, 1878.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.

IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES above the British Government's standard of Fahrenheit whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known. YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

TABLE I.

Shewing the quantities of different illuminating materials necessary to produce the same amount of light.

American Petroleum,	do.	1½ in. do.	1·22 do.
Refined Colza Oil,	do.	1 in. Argand do.	1·88 do.
London Gas of 16 Candle Power,			503 cubic feet.

TABLE II.

Assuming that Young's Paraffin Oil and American Petroleum are each valued at 1s. per gallon, Colza Oil at 3s. 6d. per gallon, and London Gas at 3s. 6d. per 1000 feet, then to produce a light of 22 Standard Candles—

1d. worth of	Young's Paraffin Oil will burn	6	hours.
1d. do.	American Petroleum	do.	5 hours.
1d. do.	Refined Colza Oil	do.	1 hour.

JURORS AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—"For Great Britain—BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865. After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. A Week at the Isle of Man.

Oh! let us go to the Island,
Come, let us off to the Island;
Let every man-jack
With his pack on his back,
Take tickets, and start for the Island.

So sings the minstrel that goes across and across in the Company's steamers between Barrow and Douglas.

But, stop a bit! let us begin at the beginning; we Rothwellians want to know why we should go to "The Island," and how to get there, and what there is when we arrive at the island you talk and sing about. All right, friends!

Having arranged with a friend to spend a few days at the Isle of Man, we started from Rothwell one Saturday morning about half-past eight, laden with a carpet bag, umbrella and overcoat, taking care also to provide ourselves with a glass and a decent stock of sandwiches to serve the day. At Woodlesford Station we obtained two months' return tickets for Douglas, Isle of Man, costing us 13/6 each, and bidding adieu to our friends, soon arrived at Leeds Station, where we had a full hour to wait for the boat train. After spending our time as best we could, we at last entered a well-cushioned third class carriage (very different from the cattle pens in which third class passengers were doomed to travel some years ago) and having stowed our bags below the seat, and our overcoats and umbrellas above our heads, awaited the signal for off. Nearly half-an-hour after time the guard blew his whistle, to which the engineman quickly responded and away we whirled on our trip.

The first visit to a new place is always full of interest, and imagination is busy conjuring up some idea of the scenes and people we expect to meet and spend these few holidays with; and so with us, as we sped on our way, waiting at Shipley to have the Bradford contingent hooked on, and then the long train of carriages whirled away again, calling at Keighley and then on to Skipton, where another short stoppage takes place; again away, till we draw near the great Carnforth iron and steel works, with their smoking chimneys and blazing furnaces, painfully reminding us of business and push, the thoughts of which we wanted to leave behind. In beautiful contrast, we soon pass and repass the estuaries in Morecambe Bay, every now and then getting glorious glimpses of the blue, blue sea, and then passing through a beautifully wooded country. Anon we are on the verge of the bay, nay, our train is passing over the water; see, water on either side, how strange! Again we are in the country, and see amongst the ancient trees noble residences peeping through, on the left hand is a little well-wooded island on which is situated the residence of the engineer of this line; and here on the right, stretches the handsome bay of Morecambe, while on its verge stands the charming little duck of a village, Grange-over-Sands, whose praise has reached far and wide, and truly it makes one long to take up our abode in one of those little palaces dotting the shore and wooded hill beyond. Our train stays a short time and two passengers alight whose luggage label denotes that this is their resting-place for a time.

Leaving this enchanting retreat we push along to Ulverstone, a flourishing town; to Lake-side, whence we might in an hour's ride reach Lake Windermere; and on to Furness Abbey, where the railway company have consideration enough to allow passengers to rest half-an-hour and to visit this, one of the finest and largest ruins in the kingdom. We have not time to enumerate the beauties of the fine old Abbey, nor to tell of the many interesting mementoes of those who have been buried within its aucient walls, but an instructive and pleasing day might be spent there.

The bell rings, we run up the shaded walk on to the platform, and jumping into our carriage, the engine whistles, and away we go to Piel Pier, Barrow. A ride of ten minutes brings us to the pier end, and before we know it we are alongside the platform, close by the good vessel which is to take us the rest of our journey.

Gathering up our carpet bag and umbrell , and putting on our overcoats (for it is raining, sorry to say), and pitying paterfamilias with his numerous family cares and his little crew, and the fastidious young ladies and fashionable young men who must carry with them "large box, little box, carpet bag and bundle;" we trudge along the wooden platform, down the steps, on to the paddle box and to the upper deck of the steamer, "Herald." We speedily carried our traps into the crimson velvet cushioned saloon, and place them snugly above one of the attractive looking couches, quickly returning up the stairs and on to the deck, where we await the shipping of our fellow voyagers and their luggage.

At last, after any amount of shouting and pushing, the luggage was stowed, and the three or four hundred people got aboard, the gangway is drawn in, the captain mounts the bridge, the ropes are unloosed, the steersman is at the wheel, the bell is rung, the engines slowly move, the paddle-wheels turn round, and away we go to plough the deep, deep sea.

We had observed with some sort of fore boding that the sailors who were walking about on the platform of the Piel Station were covered from head to toe with mackintosh hat, coat, and leggings; and although it was raining, mizzling, we couldn't suppose that our hardy tars would dress up in that fashion for a drop of rain. Ah! we found it out pretty soon that we should have need of our "sea legs," and gather up all the nerve and endurance we could muster. Scarcely had we got loosed from our moorings before we were courteously informed, in reply to our enquiry as to the probable time of landing, "Oh! if you get in at all to-night, it will be about half-past eight o'clock, but I question whether we can get into Douglas to-night."

What a consolation! Here we were in for a six hours sail on the angry sea, knocked about by every wave that came. Having from previous experience on steamers, learned the advantage of being at the stern or cabin end of the boat, we at once decided to exchange from the bow of the vessel to the better end and paid the difference for a cabin ticket, and mounted to the upper deck, though that was not so easy as running up stairs at home. Having thus secured the best place we could find, we had time to collect our thoughts and make ourselves comfortable.

Comfortable! well, we tried, but how would our friends be, if they had rain and wind to contend with on board ship, and the waves tossed you hither and thither, now spraying you over on one side and next moment lifting you on the breast of a mighty wave; pitching one end and then the other. Oh! I hear some wiseacre say, I'd be sorry to get wet through that way, I'd go down into the grand cabin you told us about, and lay down on one of those delicious crimson velvet couches. Would you, eh! I had to go down to get something to eat, but what a sight met my eye. Delicious couches, yes, they were there and were occupied, but no sooner had I got into the room than I got out again as fast as I could. "Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the gates of Ascalon. How are the mighty fallen." The strong man of business has become sickly and pale, the young city dandy has thrown away his fancy tight-fitting gloves, and has most ungallantly left his lady love to "fend for herself" while he gives way to all the horrors of sea-sickness, the fashionable young belle is glad to throw herself on to a couch and in a most disorderly state to use one of the unmentionable repositories which appear in every part of the boat, while her hair falls away from the style in which she had so carefully dressed it, her frills and ruffles are all forgotten, in the one awful feeling which possesses her mind, now wishing the boat would sink and again fearing that it might go down, rueing she ever came, and vowing she would never cross again.

No, I won't stop any longer, it is a scene once witnessed, once experienced, never forgotten—poor creatures, and its so suffocating and hot; No, we'll go upstairs, thank you. Scenes of a similar character meet our gaze all round the bulwarks, but as we are pretty good sailors and are not of the sea-sick class we can look on and moralize on the frailties of human nature, while we hold fast to the friendly ropes which alone prevent us from measuring our length on the floor.

Maybe, we have somewhat frightened our friends and they saying to themselves "I'll never go to the Island" if that's the sort of thing folks are to be treated to. Well, don't decide too hastily, we have just given a description of the voyage we had, and we were told it was the worst of the season; besides this, the doctors say sea-sickness is beneficial in its after effects, so don't be disheartened; we have begun with the worst of it, and all the pleasures are to come. Looking round us, we observe that the boat has made considerable progress and the English coast is rapidly fading away, while all around us is water, water, occasionally a vessel bound for a foreign shore is sighted, and onward bounds our own boat in a westerly direction. By-and-bye after being out three hours (we had started an hour and a half late at three o'clock) the sharp eye of the sailors sighted land, and the lighthouse could be descried at fifteen miles distance, an hour or so later the whole of the beautiful Bay of Douglas was clearly seen, as well as the hotels, the piers and other objects of interest.

All is now bustle, those who have been "feeding the fishes" turn to look after their own business, the luggage is being got together; a good wash in the well-fitted lavatories, and the sickness and weariness of a bad passage are soon forgotten in the joy of once more seeing land, and the prospect of a happy holiday. Leaving the Tower of Refuge on the right we make for the Victoria Pier where our arrival is heralded by the firing of a gun from Port Skillion, and by the hundreds of people on the Pier Head, calling out "Hi, Kelly," a name which every visitor to Mauxland is well acquainted with, and is replied to by those who have been before with a laughing "Yes, yes, Kelly." But here we are round the Pier Head to the right hand side of it, the rope is thrown, the ship is securely moored, the gangway is moved out, and a shoal of porters almost tumble down the paddle box, on to the deck and seizing hold of three or four boxes, sling them together in a rope, and hoist them on to their shoulders ready to lead the way to the cars.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

On Monday evening the usual Board Meeting was held, present; Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Messrs. Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes and the Clerk, Inspector and Treasurer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the recommendations of the lamp committee were considered suggesting the erection of certain new lamps in the district.

It was then proposed by Mr. Hawden and seconded by Mr. Holmes. That two new lamps be erected at Stourton, two in Wood Lane, one in Church Street, one in Commercial Street, and that the lamp now fixed near Mrs Nickols be altered, and the one at the corner of Church Street and Cross Street re-erected Considerable objection was raised by Mr. Greenwood to a pillar being placed opposite his door, as he feared it would prove disagreeable by attracting numbers of people to stand about the door.

Several members thought it would rather be an advantage, and hinted that some shopkeepers would be very pleased to have a public lamp near their door.

Mr. Greenwood however stood out against it and proposed an amendment that a bracket be fixed in the building. Their being no seconder, this was declined, as it was felt that a lamp from a bracket would not illuminate the four street ends, which a pillar lamp would do.

Mr. Greenwood then asked that it might be left open, and he would call a ratepayer's meeting.

Mr. Holmes warmly declined being dictated to by the ratepayers, and if so, he would stop at home. As members of the Board, representing the ratepayers, they were there to do their duty, and their best for the general good and were not to be compelled to do certain things by the threat of calling a ratepayer's meeting. "I say, put it up, and let him call a ratepayer's meeting."

The motion was then put, and carried with the exception of Mr. Greenwood's vote.

Mr. J. Hargreaves proposed—That six pillars, &c., be ordered of Messrs Nelson & Sons. Mr. Bramley seconded the motion which was carried.

A resolution was also carried on the proposal of Mr. Bramley, seconded by Mr. Hargreaves, that the metal work of all the lamps be painted.

The Rothwell Gas Light Company having agreed to supply the Board's lamps with gas from August 31st, 1878 to April 30th, 1879, for the sum of 37/- per lamp it was moved by Mr. Bramley, seconded by Mr Lunn and carried: That the offer of the Gas Company be accepted. (This price is 1/- less than last year, and extends over eight months instead of seven as last time.)

The Leeds Corporation Gas Committee have not yet replied to the enquiry as to their terms for lighting the Stourton lamps; they have however commenced lighting them on Saturday last

A lamp having been broken by a person at Stourton, the police have been communicated with, and the offender discovered, it was unanimously agreed that he should pay the damage or proceedings be taken against him for the amount.

A complaint having several times been made about the hedge at Royds Green Farm being allowed to grow over the footpath to the great inconvenience of passengers, and private representations being in vain, it was resolved that the clerk write to Mr. Wiley at once to put the hedge in order, under pain of a summons.

In refering to the highways, Mr. Hawden complained of the bad state of Wakefield Road, especially near Thwaite Gate, where hardly any metal was left; he thought the contractors were very much at fault.

Mr. Holmes asked if the board knew anything as to the thickness of metal there was on the roads when Messrs. Elliott & Sons took them.

The Chairman.—Oh! yes, we have a plan shewing the depth of metal by drills every 20 yards.

In further conversation, the chairman fully bore out Mr. Hawden's complaint, and also that Rothwell was not up to the mark in some of the streets. He thought Royd's Green was kept pretty well.

It was eventually resolved through Mr. Holmes and Mr. Hawden: That the Highway Committee meet on Friday and go through Wakefield and Pontefract Roads and Rothwell Streets with Mr. Elliott. Carried.

It was also resolved that Mr. Simpson be written to, on making the Wakefield Road good, where the drainpipes have been laid.

Mr. Holmes proposed and Mr. Bramley seconded that a cheque for £252 8s. 0d. be granted to Messrs. Elliott & Sons for one quarter's road repairing. Carried.

Mr. Holmes asked whether the Board might not now dispense with the watchman at the reservoir.

After some discussion, it was decided to discontinue him the week after next.

There being a somewhat serious outbreak of typhoid fever at Stourton, the Medical Officer was sent for. His monthly return up to August 17th shewed that there had been births, males, females. There have also been 9 deaths in the district, 8 of which, strange to say, are under 1 year, the one adult died of heart disease.

Dr. Heaps then stated that there was a serious outbreak of typhoid fever at Stourton, in which there had been two or three fatal cases; he had made some investigation into the probable causes, but was not yet in a position to say what it had arisen from. He was still making every enquiry and would report at the next meeting.

The chairman said that by all means they must get to the bottom of it. The Board was very much concerned, and were resolved if possible to nip this outbreak in the bud, whatever trouble or cost there might be attending it. He knew there were some bad privies on the estate before the Board was formed, and also which were built before the Byelaws were passed.

Mr. Holmes referred to some cellars which were flooded, and also stated that he feared some of the old drains were cracked or broken in the course of their new drainage scheme and that the liquid was percolating through the soil into the cellars. Some houses he mentioned, were all right before the drains pipes were put down, but the cellars of which are now inundated and often very offensive; something must be done at once. The question will be taken up at the Committee Meeting at Stourton on Friday.

The Doctor also complained of the bad condition of Mr. Fatkin's house, and considered it unfit for the people to live in, it was being constantly inundated; he had written to Mr Bromet (Lord Stourton's Steward) on the subject.

Mr. Hargreaves proposed and Mr. Bramley seconded:—That the several accounts and salaries be paid, including £10 to the inspector for men's wages. Carried.

In reply to the clerk, a letter had been received from the Leeds and Barnsdale Trus stating that they did not hold themselves responsible for the repairs of the bridge on the Leeds and Pontefract Road, and also that their terms would expire on the 30th of next month.

Some inclination was expressed to fight the question, but it was eventually resolved to authorize the Surveyor to instruct Messrs. Chapman & Sons to repair the bridge as quickly as possible.

A letter was read from Mr. Kinchley, about a culvert on Wakefield Road which is choked up; orders were given for it to be cleaned out.

The connection of the water pipes not yet having been accomplished, it was moved by the chairman that the clerk write Mr. Filleter, requesting him to have the pipes tested within a fortnight. Seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried.

Mr. Lunn wanted to know who was getting all the fruit in the orchard belonging to the Board and also what became of the grass.

Some members jocularly assured him that they had not tasted an apple, and the inspector answered very seriously in the same terms.

It was proposed by Mr. Hargreaves seconded by Mr. Bramley and carried.

That an advertisement be inserted in the Times to let the surplus land at Gillett Bridge.

ROTHWELL AND DISTRICT CHORAL SOCIETY

By some mistake, our informant last week, had understood there was only a small attendance, but we are corrected by the Secretary who states there were nearly 70 present.

We should be sorry to hear of any falling off, and on the contrary are pleased to know that the society is so strong.

RECOGNITION OF REV. G. RENTON.

The New Wesleyan Minister.

A very pleasing and interesting meeting was held on Wednesday, in recognition of the newly appointed Wesleyan Minister to Rothwell, which was preceded by a social tea in the school-room. The meeting in the chapel was presided over by Mr. J. H. Wise, circuit steward, who, after singing and prayer by the Rev. Thos. Hind, (another of the new ministers in this circuit) proceeded to address the audience, assuring his Rothwell friends of his pleasure in being with them on this occasion. After giving some good advice as to the profit and benefit of serving God, both in regard to worldly prosperity and spiritual peace, the chairman went on to refer to the special purpose of the meeting, which was to recognise and welcome the Rev. Gregory Renton, who was now appointed the Methodist Vicar of Rothwell. He hoped this year would be one of profoundest peace, a year of increase, and that Mr. Renton's coming would exert a very blessed influence on the people.

After another hymn, the Rev. Thos. Hind was warmly received, and after reciprocating the kindly sentiments with which the chairman introduced him, assured his hearers that he was fully resolved to lay himself out for the benefit of the circuit, and he meant to make every one of his hearers a friend. He also expressed his pleasure in having such colleagues as he was now associated with, and hoped his connection with the circuit would be very happy.

After another hymn, Mr. Batty, in the name of the Rothwell Society, cordially welcomed Mr. Renton amongst them, and felt sure that if the church united together, God would honour them and him, and that they would feel it was a happy thing that he had come amongst them.

The choir then rendered the Jubilate, from Bridgewater, after which Mr. J. B. Senior asked the sympathy and help of all for the extension of the cause in Rothwell, and especially for the success of their new chapel scheme. He had heard of Mr. Renton from all quarters and very heartily joined in welcoming him to Rothwell.

The Deus Misereatur having been nicely sung by the choir, the chairman introduced Mr. Renton in a few suitable words.

The Rev. Gregory Renton, on responding to the call, was warmly welcomed by the congregation, and said he had felt somewhat uncomfortable while the previous part of the meeting had been proceeding, but now he had got introduced he felt very happy in being with them. He was greatly delighted with the singing and with the very kind reception he had met with on all sides. He felt very confident of a successful year, especially when he saw what a band of young people were present. Exhorting the people to rally round the Gospel banner, Mr. Renton concluded a short but earnest gospel address.

Votes of thanks were then unanimously passed to the chairman, the ladies, and the choir, on the motion of Mr. Clarke, who cordially joined in welcoming their new minister.

The meeting was soon after brought to a close with the benediction.

A YOUNG MAN DROWNED AT THWAITE GATE.

A sad occurrence has taken place this week in our district of which we have learnt the following particulars: A young man, aged 19, named Asher Smith (son of William Smith, of Carlton Lane, Rothwell), miner and a member of the Rothwell Brass Band, left home on Wednesday evening about 7 o'clock, and was last seen alive with his sweetheart, Sarah Kilburn, living at Stourton. He appears to have left there about half-past ten, and is reported to have hinted that she would not see him again; however, he went in the direction of Leeds. Nothing could be heard of him, and his friends were searching and enquiring for him all over, the whole of yesterday till late at night, when a hat and stick were found near the water at [illegible], and recognised as belonging to the young man. The river was dragged this morning, and his body was found near the Thwaite Gate, his legs seeming to have been broken by a passing screw. He was brought home this morning about 11 o'clock. An inquest will be held to-morrow.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT ON THE THAMES.

NEARLY 600 LIVES LOST.

The saddest and most fatal home marine accident of the present generation, happened on Tuesday evening, on the river Thames, involving the sudden death of some 600 pleasure seekers. The Princess Alice saloon steamer left London Bridge on Tuesday morning for Gravesend, with a living freight of happy, merry excursionists. The vessel left Gravesend on her return trip about six o'clock, with about 700 persons on board, many of them women and children. All went well till a few minutes before eight, when at a sudden turn in the river, near Woolwich Arsenal, the passengers were alarmed at the sight of a large iron screw steamer bearing right on them. Fright and excitement immediately filled the minds of the ill fated people, and in a moment the bow of the Bywell Castle had cut into the side of the slightly built steamer and within five minutes the pleasure boat went down, precipitating the horror stricken passengers into the water, where, alas! nearly 600 souls must have perished. Gallant attempts were made to rescue the drowning persons, and many were fortunately saved by boats, buoys, ropes, &c., but the misery entailed on hundreds of families is indescribable; in some cases even whole families have been swept away, while there are few houses about Woolwich but have to mourn lost members. An inquest was opened on Wednesday and will be continued till a thorough investigation is completed.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT. IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the Government's standard of Safety, whereby ALL COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT. than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known. YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

TABLE I.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862. Awarded for "Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITION IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone." JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, two firms in GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any one shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commission do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of the head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON." AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867. After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and of the three this honour was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. H. did not exhibit at Paris in 1878. FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1878

As, however, we are not troubled with a great amount of luggage, we march away, disregarding the entreaties of the lads to "carry your bag, sir," and also, the enquiries of the scores of car drivers "want a car, sir," right along past rows of searching eyes, and sometimes saluted with kind (?) enquiries as to what sort of a passage we've had, or a knowing one who hints "they've had a bad time" followed by a laughing chorus; until we reach the end of the handsome peir, and make for our lodgings. Here let us warn our intending visitors to secure apartments before they go, or they may be doomed to walk the streets all night. Very pleasant accommodation may be secured at reasonable rates, if properly secured before-hand.

Safely housed, we gladly take the opportunity of a good wash, and sit down to the cheering cup of tea, with eggs to which our canny hostess invites us, after which we sally out for a look at the town, and retire to bed when we soon fall asleep, and dream we are still "rocking in the cradle of the deep."

On Sunday morning the sun peeps into our window and arouses us with his bright beams, and rising we look out, on to the beautiful bay, its waters laving the beach so gently, and brilliantly reflecting the rays of the glorious "lord of day" while the Tower of Refuge stands prominently forward in the centre, adding immensely to the beauty of the view, Douglas Head flanking one end of the Bay, while Derby Castle and the exalted village of Onchan are seen, nearly at the other extremity.

The Manx people are generally very religious, and there are a large number of churches and chapels in the island, which are not only well attended in the season by visitors, but when the holiday time is over and the inhabitants are their own masters, the places of worship are nearly as well filled as in summer.

Most people pay a visit to Kirk Braddan on Sunday morning, and if fine, they will hear a good evangelical discourse from the aged clergyman in the old churchyard when we went, however, the new church had been opened and service was held there.

The walk is a most enjoyable one, through the enchanting Nunnery Ground, and a visit to the old churchyard well repays your trouble there being a large number of ancient Runic crosses and Memorials, as well as some modern ones of an eccentric character.

Taking a walk after dinner on the magnificent promenade which skirts the bay, than which there is not a finer in the British Isles we inhale, with intense pleasure, the mild, fresh breeze from the sea before us, and sitting down on one of the seats we think of the "dear ones at home"

We might have gone to one of the Manx Chapels where a service is held in the original language, but we were not aware of it till too late.

In the evening we visited another place of worship, where we heard a capital sermon and some good singing.

A stroll on the promenade which was crowded with pedestrains, who, with us, were enjoying the sweet evening zephyrs, brought the Sabbath to a close.

As it would occupy rather too much time and space to fill up every day's adventure in detail, and precisely on the day and in the manner in which we spent it, we shall avail ourselves of the license allowed to tale writers, and cull from our several visits such items as would well supply an idea of how to spend a pleasurable week in the island.

After the walk or bath, it is always the thing to go on to the Pier and see the boat off, and so did we on Monday morning; cars of all sizes, principally for 4 persons, drive past us in quick succession, bringing visitors and their luggage, bound for home.

The pier is crowded with people in undress, who have either called here on their way from bathing, or have arisen early to see their friends off. The water is beautifully calm and tranquil, we can hardly imagine it is the same as that on which we were so unmercifully tossed on Saturday. On the right hand side of the pier end is the fine Liverpool boat "Ben-my-chree" capable of carring 1,000 passengers, on whose capacious deck the home bound visitors are crowding amid all the push and bustle of friends leaving and luggage carrying

This is Monday morning and there is always an extra boat required, the first gets off at seven o'clock. No sooner is "Ben" fairly off, than "King Orry" takes his place, and is also filled while later still, the Douglas or the Snaefell takes off the remainder.

On the left hand of the pier, lies our friend "The Herald" with her white newly painted bulwarks and boats, on which are gathering passengers for Yorkshire, and neighbouring counties, while the boat for Fleetwood also takes a smaller number in the same direction.

Soon they are all filled and away, and the stream of friends turn round and make for breakfast.

As Castletown was our destination, we turned to the left from our lodgings and in a minute or two arrived at the Railway Station where a small engine and carriages are waiting to carry us on the narrow gauge rails to the metropolis of the island, Castletown. In order, however to make the most of our outing, we stayed a while at Ballasalla, where the Ruins of Rushen Abbey are an attraction; again going forward, we noticed King Williams College and Derby Haven, arriving at Castletown about one o'clock. After having some refreshments, we went forth to visit Castle Rushen, the walls of which vary from 7 to 12 feet in thickness, and a cell was shown in which Bishop Wilson was confined. The castle is now the prison for the island. We were also considerably interested in the plain little House of Keys, where the laws of the island are passed. In the evening, after we got back to Douglas, we had a most delightful row in the bay, the water being quite clear and "as in measured time we row" we experience the exhilarating influence of being borne on the lively wave the sweet sea breeze fanning our cheeks; or resting on our oars, allow the boat to float at its will on the outgoing tide, and listen to the music of the rippling sea. Anon the shades of eventide draw on, and feasting our eyes on the glorious setting of King Sol on the distant horizon of waters, flooding the waves with gorgeous light, we turn the boat's head and "pull for the shore."

Tuesday, being one of the days for a trip round the island, we were down at the pier about 10 o'clock and having got our tickets 3/6 each, and secured a supply of eatables, our moorings were loosed and we took up a position for seeing all we could. Rounding Douglas Head, we passed Port Soderick and Castletown. Here we get a good view of the mountains on the island, the highest being Snaefell. Going closer in shore, we were pointed to Spanish Head, where it is said a portion of the Spanish Armada was wrecked. The two light-houses on the Calf were built so as to guard vessels from being wrecked on the "chickens" a reef near to, but now a fine light-house is erected on the reef itself about three quarters of a mile out at sea. The Calf of Man is a huge rock islet' at the southern-most point of the island.

Going northward, we crossed the charming Bay of Port Erin. All along this part of the ccast, the scenery as simply magnificent, and baffles descripton. The almost perpendicular rocks, the miniature bays, the wave washed reefs, the corn-covered fields followed each other in quick succession as we gazed delightedly on the panorama which passed before us. After Port Erin Bay, the Ennyn Moar Mountain rises to a height of 800 feet from Fleshwich Bay and again another hill 1445 feet above the sea level.

At Contrary Head and until we turn the Point of Ayre, we had rather a rough time of it, as here the tides meet from north and soutl. Peel Castle on its own little island was seen to considerable advantage, from this point the coast was all rocky and did not call for any special notice till we rounded the Point of Ayre, where there is a very good and useful light-house. Ramsey Bay is entered, after a seven miles sail, and presents a very pleasing sight, the view being delightfully varied with numerous trees. We could just see some of the prominent objects of the town, which is becoming more popular every year. The next point of interest was Manghold Head, where the rocks are disposed in most eccentric forms. We could observe the summits of several mountains rising behind the shore line, and soon found ourselves in Laxey Bay, which is of considerable size

Passing Clay Head we shortly after entered Douglas Bay about four o'clock thoroughly pleased with our trip of 80 miles.

Getting in in good time, we went and had tea, and then, on a beautiful calm evening, climbed up Douglas Head and stretching ourselves full length on the sea-ward slopes of the grand old heather covered rocks, we watched the incoming steamers as they gracefully moved into harbour and the little boats dancing on the water far down at our feet.

THE REV. GREGORY RENTON.

Mr. Renton; the newly appointed Wesleyan minister, commenced his public duties at Rothwell on Sunday last, when there were good congregations to hear him. The morning sermon was very effective and touching, on the text, "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him." In the evening an earnest exhortation was given to a large audience to decide for Christ and join His church.

Also, on Wednesday evening the Rev. G. Renton preached a sermon from the text, "We all do fade as a leaf." He handled his subject in a masterly manner, taking the falling of leaves in all the different stages, and applying them to the deaths of human beings, from youth to old age. There was a very good congregation present.

This evening there will be a meeting to consider the question of building a new chapel.

DISGRACEFUL PROCEEDINGS AT ROTHWELL.

On Sunday night last, the sergeant of police visited the house of 'Gent' Townsley, and found several persons there dressed in a very unseemly manner. On further investigation, as far as we can learn, it seems that one of them had been to Leeds and brought back with him a woman of loose character. Leaving her in Wood Lane, he came to the above-named house and then sent for her. After getting her there, grossly immoral scenes were enacted, the sergeant coming upon them in the midst of their revelry. Proceedings are being instituted against them.

ANOTHER DROWNING CASE AT THWAITE GATE.

On Sunday Morning, a woman was taken out of the Canal at Thwaite Gate, and indentified as Mary Johnson, aged 42 of Waterloo. From what we can learn she had been at Leeds with her husband on Saturday night, and stayed at the public house after he had gone, and it is supposed had fallen nto the water on her way home.

THE YOUNG MAN DROWNED AT THWAITE GATE

THE INQUEST

An inquest was held on the body of the unfortunate young man, Ashur Smtth' on Saturday morning, before T. Taylor Esq. coroner, at the Unicorn Inn, Carlton.

Wm. Smith, miner Carlton Lane, said that his son Ashur, was 19 last March, and was a miner. He had sprained his wrist a few days before and frequently complained of it. He went to work on Monday in his usual health and spirits. On Tuesday he intended going to work, but did not, spending the afternoon with a mate of his, and going to bed in good time, after rubbing his wrist with something. He went to his work on Wednesday morning as usual, and returned about two or half-past, and complained very much of his wrist. After getting his dinner and rubbing his wrist, he went to sleep in the chair for about two hours. He (the father) went out about six, which was the last time he saw his son alive. It appears that Ashur washed and dressed himself shortly after, and went out about a quarter to seven. In reply to questions the father said his son was sometimes out till 11 and even 12 o'clock, when he had been to Thwaite Gate courting, that there had been no disagreement at home; that Ashur had never hinted anything about making away with himself, he always said, when the subject came up, that "he'd never spoil the water," that he had no reasou to suppose any one had any ill will towards him.

Sarah Kilburn deposed-I live at 2 Bateson St, Stourton, and am a power loom weaver. Have known Ashur Smith 14 months, he came regularly on Saturday and Sunday nights and on Wednesday or Thursday. Last Wednesday he got there about eight o'clock, he was quite sober, and seemed in trouble, but would not tell me what about. He has been so several times lately, he did not complain of any one or of his work. He was with me about an hour and half at the bottom of the street. He said he was going away, and had put another shirt on, so that he would not feel cold so soon; he did not say how long for nor where he was going, he had neither money nor bundle with him. He went towards Thwaite Gate, he had always gone the other way before; he complained of his wrist and arm for a week and said he could not get on so well with his work. In reply to a juryman, she said he had said to her that "she would have to wear black for him before he had to do so for her," and he had also said that "she should not see him any more while she came to see him." They had parted quite friendly as usual. He had never said to her that he would eulist as a soldier. (The poor girl, who seems a respectable young woman, was very much distressed while giving her evidence.)

Wm Townsley said he had known deceased months and last saw him standing at the bottom of the street with his young woman about 10.10 on Wednesday night when they seemed all right, and bid each other good night. He heard he was missing on Thursday night and assisted in the search for his body. The policeman had found a hat and stick on the canal bank on Thursday morning. The body was found about 8.25 on Friday morning, when it was sent home. His left arm was broken, and his trousers slop t r n, supposed by a screw.

After some consultation it was agreed that the verdict should be Found drowned, but there is not sufficient evidence to show from what canse.

OULTON FOOTBALL CLUB.

Two meetings have been held in Oulton with regard to the above. At the first meeting it was unanimously resolved to establish a Football Club for the village. A committee was formed, who set about their duties assiduously, and their efforts have so far been crowned with success that all has now been prepared in readiness for the coming season A field has been secured, and at the second meeting a number of rules were passed for the working of the club Its existence has been hailed with satisfaction and its members are anxiously awaiting the season, at which time, no doubt, the villagers will be supplied with some rare treats of an unaccustomed kind A few matches have been arranged notably one with the Rothwell Harmonic. Of course, it would be premature to estimate the strength of the club, but a few of its members are, at any rate, of a very promising appearance.

SHERBURN.

INQUEST AT LEEDS.—At the Leeds Town Hall on Wednesday, an inquest was held by Mr. Rider (acting for the Leeds Borough Coroner), relative to the death of Christopher Nichols, chimney sweeper, Sherburn. The deceased was subject to fits, and on Sunday he sent his daughter to fetch some water for his breakfast. During her absence he had a fit and fell against the fire. He was slightly burnt on both sides of the body. The usual remedies were applied, and at Dr. Scott's suggestion he was removed to the Leeds Infirmary, where he died on the following day. The house surgeon made a post-mortem examination, and found that death had been caused by a tumour on the brain. The jury returned a verdict accordingly.

GARFORTH.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT NEAR LEEDS. TWO MEN KILLED

Early on Wednesday morning an accident, involving the death of two men and serious injury to a third, occured on the North-Eastern line of railway between Garforth and Micklefield, near Leeds. The names of the deceased are Hashill and Longbottom, the former of whom resided at Church Garforth, whilst the other lodged at what are known as the "Black Pits," near Garforth. The injured man is named Goodall, and he also resided at Garforth. The three were employed at the Micklefield collieries, and left together for their work some time before six o'clock on Wednesday morning. It is supposed that they walked along the railway embankment from Garforth to within three-quarters of a mile of Micklefield station, when they descended into what is known as the "Rick cutting," and entered the "four foot" way of the "down" line. The atmosphere was thick and foggy, and an engine and tender, coming up unperceived behind, knocked them down. The driver, we understand, noticed the men before him, and being unable to pull up in time to prevent an accident, sounded his whistle. This, however, the men would not hear, owing to a heavy luggage train passing at the time along the up line in the direction for Leeds. Hashill and Longbottom, who were killed on the spot, were frightfully mutilated; whilst Goodall, who was thrown into, and some distance along, the "six foot" way, had his arm broken. He also sustained other serious bodily injuries. The engine and tender in question were on their way from Leeds to Church Fenton, thence to work the passenger traffic on the Wetherby side of the Scarcroft cutting, near Thorner, at which a landslip, occured on Monday last.

The dead bodies of Hashill and Longbottom were conveyed, immediately after the accident to a public-house at Micklefield, in the occupation of Mr. Wainwright, where they await the Coroner's inquiry. Goodall was removed to his home, where, he is progressing as favourably as circumstances would permit. Hashall, we understand, is about 45 years of age. and has only resided at Church Garforth a short time. His companion, Longbottom, is several years his junior. Both are married, and leave families to mourn their loss. They were each looked upon as steady and respectable men, and were greatly esteemed by their fellow-workmen.

The inquest was held yesterday at the Bland's Arms Inn, Micklefield, before Mr. Taylor, the Railway Company being represented by Mr. Chamberlain. After hearing the evidence, Mr. Taylor remarked that the line was for the trains, the men were trespassing, and being in the four-foot and foggy, there was no chance of their being seen by the driver. Verdict, Accidentally killed.

THE ACCIDENT ON THE THAMES.

The Mansion House Fund in aid of the sufferers by the loss of Princes Alice continues to increase. Last evening it amounted to £11,000. The LORD MAYOR and ALD. PHILLIPS visited Woolwich on Wednesday, and had an interview with the Rector and the other authorities who are acting on behalf of the Mansion House. Numerous offers have been received to take charge of, and to adopt children who have been left orphans by the disaster. These will be matters upon which the Mansion House Committee will have to decide. The Australian Cricketers have sent to the Lord Mayor a cheque for £100 as a contribution to the fund. The total number of bodies recovered up to last evening was 635. About 150 persons are reported as saved.

COLLIERY ACCIDENT.

Another terrible calamity, involving great loss of life, has taken place. A colliery owned by the Ebbw Vale Company, Wales, "fixed," as the miners so significantly put it, on Wednesday whilst some 300 miners were in the working. The shaft and pit head gearing being fatally destroyed by the fearful blast, no comunications could at first be made with the entomed men.

It appears that the lamp man gave out 373 lamps that morning, and 82 persons have been saved before the flames broke out. When the fire burst out at the pit's mouth, there was felt to be no further chance for the men below, and after a consultation held yesterday morning, between the proprietors and a number of eminent engineers, it was decided to flood the mine by letting the water of the canal flow down the shaft, and so extinguish the raging fire. The water will then be pumped out, and the sad work of recovering the bodies proceeded with; this cannot be done until some days have elapsed. There must be at least 291 poor men lost by this sad accident, while hundreds of houses have lost their bread-winners. Subscriptions are pouring in for their help.

MR. J. S. CALVERLEY'S ELEVEN VERSUS LEEDS CLARENCE.

On Tuesday last, the above match was played in the Cricket Field, Rothwell. This match has been looked forward to by the inhabitants of Rothwell for some time in the expectation of seeing a grand display of cricketing talent. In this they were not disappointed. The weather throughout the day was very fine, tempting many to the precincts of the field, who would otherwise have stayed away. During the morning the grass was cut and the field well rolled by members of the Club, and by the time to commence play the ground was got into fine condition. At the far side of the field was the refreshment tent under the supervision of Mr. J. Steele, Coach and Horses Inn, Rothwell.

This being the second time the Leeds Clarence have played against Mr. Calverley's Eleven, they did not appear on the scene as strangers, so that one had an idea what to expect of them. However, Mr. Calverley's Eleven was a very formidable one, including members from both Harrow and Cambridge Elevens, also the captain of the Harrow Eleven. The Clarence played exceedingly well, running up a score of 159, of the number the Rev H. M. Sims scored 50, this being the highest number obtained during the match. D. Eastwood (Prof.) was the next with his score of 21. C. Tiffany, (one of the Rothwell team) bowled very well, taking six stumps out of ten. Mr. Calverley's Eleven made no stand whatever, the whole being disposed of in three quarters of an hour for 24.

The Clarence won the toss and at 11 30 sent the Rev. H. M. Sims and A. Motley to the wickets, to the bowling of C. Tiffany and E. M. Lawson. The score was rapidly put up at the beginning, until a change was effected in the bowling when the rapid scoring was stopped. Motley gave a chance at mid-on but being missed, he scored three more, when Tiffany lifted his stump for 19. A. Lambert took his place, and the runs continued until 1.15, the score standing at 83, when all the players adjourned to the tent and partook of an excellent luncheon given by Mr. Calverley and supplied by Mr. J. Steele.

Play was resumed at 2.15, and very soon after Lambert was caught by Irvin at the wicket, Eastwood joining Sims. The ball was now driven out of the boundary a few times by both batsmen, the score very soon rising to 100. The Rev. H. S. King and Dobson now took a turn at bowling, but after another change, Tiffany was again put on, and managed to take Rev. H. M. Sims' wicket, after he had made a score of 50. C. W. Scott took his place, and very soon afterwards Eastwood was caught by L. K. Jarvis. Peacock next went in but failed to score, and was followed by E. Roberts, who was missed by Mr. Calverley at point. Scott was then bowled by Tiffany, and was succeded by H. Topham. Roberts and he kept together for some time, although they did not rise the score very rapidly. After a time, however, Tiffany succeeded in levelling his stump. Skinner was next sent in, but was run out ere he had a chance of scoring, F. W. Brown succeeding him, Topham was next run out, and Brown bowled by Tiffany; T. Talbot, the last man to go in having no chance to make a score. The total score was 159.

After a short interval, Mr. Calverley's Eleven went to the wickets at five minutes to four, represented by the Rev. A. J. Irvin and A. W. Jarvis to the bowling of Motley and D. Eastwood. Motley made sad havoc, five wickets falling in twenty-five minutes; in fact the innings of this eleven was of such a short duration that it is next to impossible to give anything like an accurate account of it. Within the short space of three-quarters of an hour, all the eleven was disposed of for 24.

After another short interval Mr. Calverley's Eleven wen to the wickets again for their second innings, the Rev. A. J. Irvin and F. L. H. Morrice being sent in to the bowling of the Rev. H. M. Sims and Motley; but the latter very soon disposed of Morrice, L. K. Jarvis, and C. J. E. Jarvis. A. W. Jarvis neqt joined Irvin and they succeeded in making a very fair stand, but "extras" was by far the heaviest scorer. Irvin scored 10, but having another engagement was obliged to retire. The Rev. H. S. King followed but his first ball floored him. E. M. Lawson was treated in the same way. The Rev. G. Heberden was the next, and he gave way at the second ball from Motley. The last three wickets were taken in one over. The next stand was made by Dobson and Tiffany, but eventually Motley felled Dobson's stump with one of his shooters, very soon after six, Tiffany was caught by Scott, having made 8. The following is the score:—

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.
IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known. YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY
Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1878

A Week at the Isle of Man.

Wednesday is decided to be the Ramsey day, so one of our "house" having engaged a car for ten, we mustered that number, and got away before ten. It would be a pleasing task to tell of the many interesting spots and to detail the glorious sea views which are constantly passing before one's eye, but a few words must suffice. Starting by the Long Road as it is called, we drive past the little roofless church by St John's, near to the charming Swiss Cottage at the entrance to Glen Helen and the Rhenas Waterfall, which is a delightful pic nic "out." Kirk Michael is a pleasing village, said to be the most salubrious part of this very salubrious island. Hidden by trees, we pass on the left, Bishop's Court, the palace of the Bishop of Sodor and Man. Next we come to Ballaugh the birth-place of eloquent Rev. Hugh Stowell. We have frequently to give the poor horses ease by using our own legs, as the drive is very hilly, though the roads (kept by the farmers entirely) are very good. As we went up the hill towards Ballaugh, we jumped over an earth fence (there are few hedges in the island) and had a few minutes chat with a primitive sheep shearer, who, with a huge pair of scissors, was seated on the ground, cutting off the superabundant wool of his flock. Passing further still, we were invited to a glass of real, thick milk, which half clad girls offered on the road side. On our drive we were frequently followed up the hills by a shouting, singing tribe of lads and lasses, who could only be satisfied by a few "bawbees." As we passed along we observed quantities of mushrooms in the fields, and when we spied some plates of the freshly gathered fungus being offered for sale, the temptation was too great to be over come, and we bought some for future discussion. Near Sulby the scenery is astonishingly grand, the glorious old hills rising on the one side, while on the other beyond smiling corn-fields, you catch the glint of the afternoon sun on the limpid wave. Ramsey is reached about two o'clock, and we are agreeably disappointed in its size and appearance. The bay, naturally, surpasses in beauty and extent that of Douglas, and the beach is not so pebbly, and more suitable for children. The Albert Tower commemorating the late Prince Consort's visit, is a commanding monument on the summit of a hill overhanging the town.

Commencing our return journey about half-past four, we pass St Manghold, formerly a great resort of pilgrims, and here one might stay a night and ascending North Barrule Mountain (1850 feet above the sea level) have a view of parts of England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales. The Ballaglass and Dhoon Waterfall are both highly romantic and well worth a visit.

King Orry's "grave" is shown as a relc either of history or tradition, and about half a mile further on is Laxey, to which place we paid a visit on another day. In the course of another hour we reach the village of Onchan, whence we speedily drive down to old Douglas. No pleasanter day can be spent than the "Ramsey drive," the panorama on both sides is constantly changing, mountains hiding their ancient heads amid the clouds, gentle rivulets murmuring at their feet, corn-fields bending beneath their heavy crops, precipitous rocks close at your feet against whose weather-beaten sides may be heard the distant roar of dashing waters, waterfalls playfully leaping from ledge to ledge, legendary churches and tombs, hoary Druid monuments, with almost every variety of scenery and attraction.

Thursday we must have a yatching excursion, and though, the sea was not particularly calm, we were not going to be beaten from our purpose by the prospect of a little swell.

Lots of boatmen anxious for your fare, dilate on the advantages of their several yachts, and by and bye we enter one bound for Laxey, as we had very little time to visit the wonders of the place on the previous day. Having taken on about 20 to 24 passengers, we draw up the anchor and unfurling our sails the little ship is soon out of harbour and on her course. Very different is the feeling experienced on board a little yacht to that on a row boat. In the one case you have some command over the craft, but when you are placed at the mercy of the wind and waves and have to sit or stand still and watch with interest (and amusement too sometimes) the various manœuvres of the two or three sailors in whose hand you have placed your destinies, there's a sortt of helplessness comes o'er you, and you are compelled to place all your confidence in the boatmen's ability. However, somehow or another, whether the wind be against us or with us or neither, we manage to struggle on, and in the course of two hours, we reached Laxey Bay where, after a little adventure or two we landed in safety. There the great thing is the Laxey wheel, the largest in the world, 72 feet in diameter and 6 feet in width

We travelled up the winding staircase and along the little platform erected over the monster wheel, and watched it turning round and round till we were almost dizzy. The wheel is used for pumping water out of the Laxey Lead Mines, which it does at the rate of 250 gallons per minute. It takes the men (800 in number) two hours to reach the deepest works in the mine.

After visiting the pretty Victoria Park, we hailed our sailors, and commenced our return voyage. Fairly out at sea, we found we were well in for a bit of rough usage. The sea had become quite stormy, and throughout our sail of three hours we were kept in the most delightful uncertainty whether we should make the "blest shore." In swinging round one of the sails from one side of the boat to the other (which often had to be done to catch the winds) one gentlemen had the misfortune to have his hat knocked into the sea, and after "tacking" round several times almost getting drowned with spray, we at last succeeded in securing the head piece. Eventually we hailed the "bonny bay" and our teas suffered considerably when we sat down at eight o'clock.

Peel with the fine old castle, was our port on Friday. On the road, however, we pass Aitken's Castle, and further on we pass Greeba Mountain with its Castle and Tower. Getting off the rails at St John's we walked up the road to Tynwald Hill, said to be built of soil brought from all parts of the island, and on which every 5th of July all laws which have received the royal assent are read and promulgated. Again entering the train, of which there are several during the day, we went on to Peel and visited its, jetty and quay. Peel Castle, however, is the principal attraction to us, and taking a boat we were ferried over to the island on which the Castle is built.

Arrived at the weather worn gateway, an old soldier met us and after collecting a sufficient number, led us through the various objects of attraction, many of them having peculiar traditions which are repeated by the garrulous old pensioner. The guardroom, 1000 years old, is connected with a ghost story called the "Moddey Doo" and is referred to in Sir Walter Scott's, "Lay of the Last Minstrel."

"For he was speechless, ghastly, wan,
Like him of whom the story ran,
That spoke the spectre hound in Man."

The Cathedral of St German is also enclosed in the castle walls, and its original erection dates back nearly 900 years. The present half ruined edifice was used for worship up to the end of the last century.

In 1446, Eleanor, wife of the Duke of Gloucester was found guilty of treason and sorcery: and it was said that she made a waxen image of the King (Henry 6th) and that as the image melted away, the health of the King would decline. The Duchess having been compelled to walk several times through the city without a hood, having a lighted taper in her hand, was sent to Peel Castle, a close prisoner for life. Shakespear in the second part of Henry VI, act ii., immortalises the incident:—

King Henry.—
"Stand forth, Dame Eleanor Cobham, Gloucester's wife,
In sight of God and us your guilt is great.
Receive the sentence of the law for sins
Such as by God's book are adjudged to death.
You, madam, for that you are nobly born,
Despoiled of your honour in your life,
Shall, after three days' open penance done,
Live in your country here in banishment,
With Sir John Stanley in the Isle of Man."

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

On Monday evening the usual meeting of the Local Board was held, present: Messrs. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes and the Clerk, Medical Officer. Treasurer and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, Mr. Holmes reported that the Inspector and he had had the drains at Stourton opened at several places, and found, as was feared, that in laying the new pipes, the old drainage had been considerably disturbed, and the pipes broken or disconnected, thereby causing the sewage to stand, and in some cases to inundate the cellars.

The Inspector said that the Stourton drains were now in a much better condition than they had been before, and were as right as they could be under present circumstances.

The chairman expressed the opinion of the Board as being highly pleased with the result of the enquiry.

The last lot of cement for the Reservoir not being up to the mark, the works have had to stand a day or two. As to the pipes being tested, every thing was ready, except two branch pipes required to connect with the reservoir, and which the Inspector stated had arrived that day (Monday). All the water pipes are now laid and the entire connection will be completed very soon.

A letter was read from Mr. B. Clark, drawing the attention of the Board to the want of gas light at Churchfield, and respectfully suggesting certain additional lamps.

The Board quite agreed on the necessity for more light, and a member reminded the Board that the question was brought up last year, but too late to be considered at that time. After some conversation as to the best and proper places for other lamps, it was ultimately proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Bramley:—That the Board fix a pillar lamp at the bottom of Price's Lane and another at the bend between the Swan Inn and the hearse house, requesting the Gas Company to attach the necessary pipes. Carried.

The Medical Officer reported that during the past four weeks there had been 11 deaths as against 3 last year, the number of births (17) being the same. Of the deaths, 2 were from typhoid, 2 bronchitis, 1 diarrhœa, 1 whooping cough, 3 general debility, 1 convulsions, 1 drowned.

In regard to the outbreak of typhoid fever at Thwaite Gate, Dr. Heaps stated he had spent four days in endeavouring to trace the cause of the the epidemic, and felt, satisfied that it had arisen from the milk supplied from Barraclough's farm. He had visited the farm, and had received every facility from Mrs. Barraclough in examining the place, but he had found the sewage from the mistal carried into large tubs sunk into the ground a short distance from the house, a portion of it percolating through the soil and doubtless into a well near, the midden was also offensive, but the principal cause was no doubt, that the cows drank the canal water, which according to the Analyst's report was injurious either to man or beast.

He was further confirmed in the opinion that it had arisen from this place, as the first case, (that of Charlotte Pitts, some six or seven weeks ago) was next door to the farm. There were now 13 cases of fever all traceable to the milk.

The following report was then read, respecting the milk submitted for analysis.

The microscopic examination shows the presence of a comparatively considerable quantity of dirt, and particles of matter not found in milk of good quality I have not, however, recognised any pus or blood corpuscles such as would be distinctly indicative of diseased milk. The microscopic examination of milk does not always enable one to diagnose disease in the cows and should be properly regarded only as an adjunct to a careful examination of the animals and of the food and drink supplied to them.

16 East Parade, Leeds,
September 14th, 1878.

Samples of the Canal Water had also been forwarded, in which Mr. Fairley states, that it contains 1 per cent of nitrogenous organic matter. Writing of samples taken from the canal and from the well, he says:—

Neither of these waters can be considered safe or wholesome to drink either for man or beast. Cows supplied with such water would no doubt be injured by it and be very susceptible to disease.

The milk of these cows drinking such dilute sewage cannot be considered wholesome. The microscopic examination shows that the milks are dirty and somewhat suspicious in appearance and a veterinary examination of the animals is therefore advisable.

Until a favourable medical report of the animals has been made and the mistals, fold yards and dairies thoroughly cleansed and the cows well supplied with pure clean water in the place of the above, I would recommend that the milk should not be used for food.

THOMAS FAIRLEY, F.R.S.E., F.J.C.
16 East Parade, Leeds. Public Analyst &c.
September 14th, 1878.

Mr Holmes said the Inspector would bear him out, that there were other places in the district in a far worse condition than Barraclough's farm, and that water from the well was non used for anything but slopping.

It is a month since he sold any to Batty's (who used to retail it) and he could hear of no cases at Hunslet, where the milk was also sold. He quite agreed that a very strong letter should be written to the Aire and Calder Navigation Co. (the owners) to make the place, right Batty's had also got from two other persons.

Dr. Heaps maintained that although there might be other farms with the middens as near and whose sanitary condition was even worse, yet, this being an infected district it was the duty of the Board to see it put right.

The chairman agreed with the Medical Officer ann Mr. Holmes that the tanks should be removed, and the place put into a better state as well as a better supply of water, the present canal water being declared by the analyst as unfit for man or beast. He was pleased that they had at last got their foot on this matter as it was a very serious affair.

Mr. Holmes asked the doctor, "supposing Barraclough's milk was right, when it came to Batty's, whether the fever then in Batty's house, would affect the milk and so be spread."

The Medical Officer thought not, except the cans were rinsed out with surface water, or if touched with excremental matter.

Mr. Holmes stated that Barraclough was prepared to make some alterations in the position of his drains and midden, but had been delayed by the Aire and Calder Navigation Co. not carrying out their promise to build a new stable, and that he believed he had been as careful as he could.

Some further conversation ensued on the subject and it was eventually resolved on the motion of the chairman, seconded by Mr. Hawden.—That the clerk write the Company ordering the making of a proper drain, the suitable repair of the premises within 14 days, and the supply of good water to the place.

It was also agreed that Barraclough shall obtain a temporary supply of better water, and remove the midden to the back of the house.

The Cheques for several accounts and salaries were passed and signed.

On the motion of Mr. Holmes, seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves, it was resolved that the the footpath from the "Woggan" to the corner of Commercial St, be flagged and curbed.

Mr. Lunn, moved an amendment (seconded by himself) that the proposal be not entertained at present.

Mr. Bramley suggested and proposed that the footpath near the Primitive Chapel be curbed: seconded by the chairman and carried: —Mr. Holmes dissenting, wished to have it properly done.

Mr. J. Hargreaves and Mr. Bramley seconded. That the Leeds Corporation be written to requesting that the Wakefield Road be properly repaired, where the ground has been opened for the drainage. Carried.

FIRST WEDDING AT OULTON CHAPEL.

Wednesday was an interesting and memorable day among Oulton Methodists, as the occasion of the first marriage being solemnized in their beautiful little chapel. The place of worship has been registered for the purpose more than a year, but hitherto, there has been no happy couple presenting themselves at the hymneal altar. For some days it has been hinted that there was going to be a wedding, and on Wednesday morning, Mr. A. Williamson, of Belle Vue, Wakefield, was married to Miss Sarah Walker, of Oulton, (daughter of Mr. John Walker). The Rev. G. Renton, of Rothwell, performed the ceremony, in the presence of a highly respectable company of friends, who have often been delighted with the singing of the young lady, who by means of her sweet voice and musical ability, has not only been the leader of the service of praise on the sabbath, but has frequently assisted very efficiently in raising funds by means of concerts, both for the Oulton Chapel and other objects. A very handsome family bible was presented to the newly married pair, as a remembrance of this the first marriage in this chapel, Miss Walker has received several pleasing tokens of the esteem in which she was held by those who knew her, Misses Rice and Mair, of 37, Commercial St., Leeds, having presented her with table cutlery, tea and dessert spoons, and a pair of terra-cotta vases. The bride's bouquet was composed of very rare flowers from the nursery of an Oxford friend; the breakfast table was also adorned with a variety of beautiful greenhouse flowers and bunches of grapes, and other presents from her Oulton friends. Both bride and bridegroom hrve earned the affection and esteem of all who know them, and carry with them the best wishes of many friends.

LOFTHOUSE.
FORMATION OF A CHOIR.

Several persons connected with the church, at Lofthouse, have been engaged during the past few weeks in the formation of a choir. Their efforts have proved successful, and already a goodly number of choristers have got their names enrolled. Monday evening, was their third practice, which took place in the National School. Mr. Marshall has been appointed choir-master. A new organ has been purchased for the church, which will arrive next month.

A BRADFORD HERBALIST COMMITTED FOR MURDER.

After several days investigation at the Bradford Police Court, Hezekiah Thornton, herbalist, of Leeds Road, Bradford, was committed for trial at Leeds Assizes for the wilful murder of Miss Margaret Allison in endeavouring to procure abortion.

THE THAMES COLLISION.

The inquest has been, and is still proceeding on the cause and circumstances of the awful calamity. The amount collected at the Mansion House has reached £23000

ARCHDEACON DEALTRY.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has appointed the Rev. Thomas Dealtry, Rector of Swillington, near Leeds, a son of the late Bishop of Madras, to the Vicarage of Maidstone, vacant by the preferment of the Rev. D. D. Stewart to the Rectory of Coulsdon.

THE ABERCARNE COLLIERY ACCIDENT.

The engineers, having stayed the flow of water into the pit, are now engaged in preparations for bringing the bodies of the entombed miners to the surface. A message has been received from the Queen tendering sincere sorrow for the sufferers by this sad calamity, and enclosing a cheque for 100 guineas. The fund now amounts to £8000

THE STANNINGLEY ROBBERY.

The police have at last secured three persons connected with the daring robbery of £15,000 from Mr. Sowden, at the Thornhill Arms Inn, Stanningley, on the 26th July last. On Monday, at the West Riding Police Court, Bradford, Alex. Burrows, Geo. Hill, and Joseph Wilson, all of Leeds, were brought up, charged with the robbery. Mr. Sowden identified two £500 notes by their numbers as being a part of his property. The case was remanded till Wednesday next.

HUNSLET GUARDIANS.

On Monday afternoon some thirteen of the guardians for this union visited Rothwell, in order to meet the various recipients of relief at the Board-room. Mr. Thomas Schofield, clerk to the guardians, was also present, with Mr. Mitchell, relieving officer. We understand it is the duty of each person receiving relief to appear at the Board-room, Hunslet, at stated periods, but as many are old and infirm, the guardians make it a pleasure to come over to Rothwell to meet them. After a short interview several dog-carts, gigs, &c., conveyed the members through the town towards Oulton, whence they returned home.

SEVERE GALE.

The storm which raged over the west of England and Scotland on Sunday and Monday, has caused several wrecks and some loss of life. In Leeds, four newly built cottages at Belle Vue Place, York Road, were blown down. Several trees had been broken down in this district, but we have not heard of anything serious.

MINERS' MEETING AT BARNSLEY.

A mass meeting of miners was held at Barnsley on Monday, when Mr. Macdonald, M.P., and others spoke. Resolutions were passed advocating the establishment of a Board of Conciliation to settle strikes and lock-outs, expressing sympathy with the sufferers by the Abercarne Colliery explosion, urging that the law of compensation should be extended to meet such cases when they arose from neglect, and that the attention of Mr. Cross should be directed to the subject.

DEATH OF MRS. BRAVO.—Mrs. Bravo, whose name was prominently before the public in connection with the Balham Mystery, died on Tuesday at Combe Villa, Lumps near Portsmouth, after a weeks illness. An inquest was held on Wednesday, when a verdict to the effect that the deceased died from excessive drinking was returned.

THE AUSTRALIAN CRICKETERS.

The Australian Cricketers, after being entertained at a banquet on Tuesday evening at Sunderland, left there for Liverpool about ten on Wednesday morning and went to their old quarters—the Union Hotel. The day was spent very quietly. All salied on Thursday in the City of Richmond which left the Liverpool landing stage about 2 p.m. for America, where they will play seven matches. They will also play four matches in Australia before disbanding.

CRICKET.
NOTES.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that it being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.

IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT. than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known.

YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865. After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD.

The monthly meeting of the Rothwell School Board was held on Friday evening, presnet—Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman), Messrs. Seanor, Hargreaves, Batty, the Clerk, Treasurer and Attendance Officer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the Clerk proceeded to read the correspondence with the Department, from which it appears the plans for the new schools have not yet received their Lordships' approval, but it is expected every day.

In consequence of Miss Pitts having been ill and unable to return to her duties in the Rothwell Haigh Infants' School, the Chairman suggested that Miss Ward (who is temporarily engaged at Rothwell,) should be transferred to Mrs. Dobson, who is short of teachers. It was proposed by Mr. Jas. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Batty and carried—That Miss Ward be transferred from Rothwell to Rothwell Haigh Infants School.

The Chairman reported having visited Rothwell Haigh School, and stated that a number of the children were away on account of fever in the district.

The attendance at Waterloo had considerably improved, and the number of children at Rothwell School averaged 106 last week.

The fees of several children were remitted for short periods, the parents of some being out of work owing to the strike.

Resolutions were passed, sanctioning the payment of several accounts and salaries, and also the supply of articles required in the conduct of the schools.

It has been finally arranged that Mr. Nicholson open a night school at Stourton, on Tuesday, October 1st, all books, &c., used by the scholars being paid for by them.

Notices were ordered on several persons to send their childoen to school.

THE CERTAIN CURE FOR WORMS IN CHILDREN is "KEATING'S WORM TABLETS," very pleasant to the taste, so mild in action that the youngest infant can take them. Price 1s. 1½d. at all chemists.

THE LEEDS AMATEUR ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

We doubt not this Society is pleasantly and favourably remembered in Rothwell through the medium of a concert which the practical members gave during last winter for the benefit of our Mechanics' Institute, and for the part which they contributed to a very successful concert at Woodlesford for the benefit of the Church funds. We are therefore quite sure that a report of its annual meeting preparatory to the commencement of the ensuing session will be interesting to many of our readers. The meeting was held in their room, Albion-street, Leeds, on Tuesday evening, and was well attended, Mr. W. Flockton, (of Oulton) the President occupying the chair, and Mr. J. Sidney Jones, the conductor, being also present. The first business was the election of officers and committee for the year, which was commenced by the cordial re-election of Mr. Flockton, as President, followed by the equally cordial re-election of Mr. Joues as conductor, Mr. A. J. Jeffreys (of Woodlesford) as Secretary, Mr. M. Kirkby, (of the Leeds and County Bank) as Treasurer and Mr. W. E. Hartley as Librarian. The Committee was then chosen by ballot and the voting resulted in the election of Messrs. J. Hartley, G. Waithman, W. Lockwood (of Woodlesford) G. T. Holey, Arthur Whewell, J. Close, and D. Johnson. The President and other officers are ex-officio members of the committee. Other general and special business was then transacted and the first meeting of the session for rehearsal was fixed for Monday evening next. We understand the last session was a very successful one in most respects and that the balance-sheet shows a very satisfactory balance to credit wherewith to begin the year. We are also informed that the Society has been invited and has consented to play the Orchestral parts in "Paradise" and the "Peri" which is to be given by the Woodhouse Vocal Society and many of our readers will be glad to learn that the Soeiety has also consented to assist at another concert in Rothwell, for the benefit of the Mechanics' Institute during the forthcoming winter.

THE OPENING OF A DRAWING CLASS AT ROTHWELL.

A Drawing Class under the auspices of the Science and Art Department was opened by Mr. Thompson, last Tuesday evening, we are glad to be able to state that between twenty and thirty pupils have already joined; a good selection of models and drawing copies have been ordered from London, and there seems every prospect of the class proving a great success, and a boon to the youths of Rothwell.

THE WEST YORKSHIRE MINERS' ASSOCIATION.

On Monday evening a public tea, provided by Mr. Fosdick, was held at the Hemsworth Main Colliery in support of the West Yorkshire Miners' Association. The chair was taken by Mr. Fosdick, and speeches were delivered by Mr. W. Parrot, Mr E. Rymer, Barnsley; Mr. B Swaine, and Mr. B. Pickard of West Yorkshire, on subjects in connection with trades' unions. A resolution pledging support to the Union was passed.

H. M. STANLEY, THE AFRICAN EXPLORER.

It may interest our readers to know that the world-renowned explorer of Africa, Mr. Henry M. Stanley, will give this autumn a series of lectures in the principal towns of Great Britain and Ireland. The lecture will be entitled. "Through the Dark Continent," and will be in fact, a narrative of his last journey through Africa. Besides giving geographical details and touching on subjects of scientific interest, Mr. Stanley will recount many of the stirring scenes of adventure he has passed through, the conversion to Christianity of the Emperor of the vast territory of Uganda, details of the home-life of the inhabitants of Central Africa, &c., &c. Mr. Stanley will be accompanied by a very interesting African, and will exhibit a large map, shewing his route. Mr. B. D'Oyly Carte, of Beaufort Buildings, Strand, London, has the management of Mr. Stanley's Tour, and societies and others wishing to arrange for lectures should apply to him.

THE REV. A. C. DOWNER.

The residents of Stourton will be pleased to know that their late neighbour, the Rev. Arthur Cleveland Downer, M.A., of St. Silas', Hunslet, was instituted, on Thursday the 19th, to the Vicarage of Ilkley, by the Right Rev. Lord Bishop of Ripon.

The installation of the Rev. A. C. Downer, M.A, in the place of the late Rev. John Snowdon, M.A., for 36 years Vicar of Ilkley, took place on Tuesday afternoon, in the presence, amongst others, of the Rev. E. T. White, curate, and Messrs. W. Marjenson and John Milner, churchwardens. The usual form was read by the Rev. A. P. Irwine, Vicar of Bingley and Rural Dean, after which the keys were handed to the new Vicar, and that gentleman unlocked the church doors and entered the edifice, where he performed the old ceremony of ringing the bell.

ON LEAVING A VILLAGE.

Farewell, the village of my youth,
From thee I now must part;
And quit the scenes of boyhood's pride,
With yearnings of my heart.

What memories now float in my mind
(Perhaps never more to see);
Of lonely nooks and pretty glens,
All visited by me.

What thoughts of friends now fill my breast,
Of friends who now must part;
Who oft together with me played,
From these I now depart.

The village school where I was taught,
Comes faintly in my mind;
The church that I attended too,
All these are left behind.

Yes, village of my youth, farewell!
From thee I wend my way;
'Mongst stangers I must make my home,
My last farewell I say.

ERNEST A. HOBSON.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS!—Are you broken in your rest by a sick child suffering with the pain of cutting teeth? Go at once to a chemist and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor sufferer immediately. It is perfectly harmless and pleasant to taste, it produces natural, quiet sleep, by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is sold by Medicine dealers everywhere at 1s 1½d per bottle.—Manufactured in New York, and at 493 Oxford-street, London.

FLORILINE!—FOR THE TEETH AND BREATH.—A few drops of the liquid "Floriline" sprinkled on a wet tooth-brush produces a pleasant lather, which thoroughly cleanses the teeth from all parasites or impurities, hardens the gums, prevents tartar, stops decay, gives to the teeth a peculiar pearly-whiteness, and a delightful fragrance to the breath. It removes all unpleasant odour arising from decayed teeth or tobacco smoke. "The Fragrant Floriline," being composed in part of Honey and sweet herbs, is delicious to the taste, and the greatest toilet discovery of the age. Price 2s 6d, of all Chemists and Perfumers. Prepared by Henry C. Gallup, 493 Oxford-street, London.

REALLY SOMETHING NEW.—A GREAT WANT SUPPLIED.—CONDENSED LEMONADE and CONDENSED GINGER BEER. Lemonade or Ginger Beer of the most delicious and wholesome kind can now be made instantaneously by simply adding a teaspoonful of either of these fluids to a tumbler of water. One Pint is sufficient to make two or three gallons. Recommended by the highest Authorities, being pure Fluid Extracts of the Lemon Fruit and Ginger. They are the most portable preparations known. Pints 15s. per doz.; Quarts 28s. per doz. Obtainable through all Chemists, Grocers, &c., or direct from "THE LONDON LABORATORY," 79, Mark Lane, London, E.C.

LOFTHOUSE-with-CARLTON SCHOOL BOARD.

An ordinary meeting of the Board was held at the Robin Hood School, on Thursday evening, present—Jos. Charlesworth, Esq., B. Scarth, Esq., Vice-Chairman; Messrs. Throp, Ward and Hargreaves and Mr M Lee the Clerk. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and signed, the Clerk reported the payment of fees for the month of August, viz., Robin Hood School £7 1s. 4d and for Carlton £6. 10s. 1d. Cheques were signed for Salaries amounting to £90 17s. 7d. this includes a third of the goverment grant due to Mr. H. Moorhouse at the Robin Hood School, and for accounts £26 3s. 6d.; total £117 1s. 1d. A new arrangement in the duties of the school-cleaners was made, for which they are to receive 8s. per week for each school. The report of the Robin Hood school was read, which was a very good one, and that of Carlton fairly so, considering the school has not long been opened, and there being no school at Carlton previously. The Board arranged with Mr. H. Moorhouse for a night school to be opened at Robin Hood school for which they are to guarantee him £10. A circular from the Educational Department was read, asking what religious instruction was given. The clerk was instructed to say that there was no alteration, viz., that Scripture is read and explained half-an-hour each day. Other minor matters concluded the business.

ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday an accident resulting in the injury of a youth named Jonathan Ward occured at Messrs Charlesworth's pit, Rothwell Haigh. It appears he was walking in front of the corves holding them back when he slipped and they ran over his leg breaking it in two places. He was immediately conveyed to his home where he now lies under the care of the Doctor.

CRICKET.—On Saturday last a match was played at Robin Hood between the home team and the Rothwell Juniors. The home team proved victorious managing to score 21 whilst their opponents only obtained 14. Full score in our Cricketing Column.

TEA MEETING.—On Tuesday a Tea in connection with the Wesleyan Methodist Tract Society took place in the Lofthouse Wesleyan Chapel to which a goodly number sat down. The party then adjourned to the Chapel to hold a meeting. The Secretary having read the report of the progress of the Society for the past year, Mr. J. Keighley was nominated Chairman. The Chairman then briefly introduced the objects of the Society after which suitable addresses were delivered by Messrs. Renton, North, Cuthbert and Stephenson. The evening was also rendered very entertaining by the efforts of the choir who sung during the intervals of the meeting. A vote of thanks was then given to the Chairman, Choir, and the ladies who had presided at the tea-table; this terminated the meeting.

POLICE NEWS.

Before T. Holdsworth and E. B. Mackie, Esqs

ROTHWELL.

Edward (otherwise 'Gent') Townsley was brought up on Monday, for being drunk and disorderly, at Rothwell, on Sunday, Sept. 8th. Police-sergeant Turton gave evidence on the charge, also narrating some of the disgraceful conduct enacted at Townsley's house along with others on the day in question. Prisoner was fined 7s. 6d. and costs.

CARLTON.

A quarrel which has before been brought into Court from Carlton, in which Joseph Parkes had summoned S Goodall, was again introduced on Monday, when Jane Goodall, wife of Sam Goodall charged Joseph Parkes with using threatening language. After hearing some evidence the case was dismissed

METHLEY.

THORNTON v. THORNTON.—This was an application from Mrs. Thornron for a judicial separation from her husband Wm. Thornton, of Methley. Mr. Wainwright appeared on behalf of the husband, while Mr. Williams was for Mrs. Thornton. Mr. Williams in conducting his case in support of Mrs. Thornton's application explained the bearing and intent of the Matrimonial Causes Act, this being the first case at Wakefield, under the Act. After hearing both sides, the Magistrates came to the conclusion that Thornton should be bound to his good behaviour in future, himself in £10, and two sureties of £5 each. Police-sergeant Turton had charge of this case.

AN ANTI-VACCINATOR CONQUERED AT LAST.—John T. Robson, wholesale clothier, Thwaite Gate, was charged with refusing to have his child vaccinated.—The defendant did not appear.—Mr. Thos. Stephenson, vaccination officer of the Hunslet Union, said he had seen the defandent twenty times about this case, and had written a dozen letters. He had not seen him since a summons was taken out.—The Chairman said he held a written consent on the part of the defendant to have his child vaccinated.—Mr. Stephenson: I think he means to do it now, but I have had considerable trouble with him. I should wish you not to inflict a penalty for two weeks to give him the opportunity of doing it.—The Chairman: You ask for an adjournment for a fortnight?—Mr. Stephenson: I think it will be the best way. He is now wishful to perform what he ought to have done three years ago: the child is three years old. He has always told me that he did not oppose vaccination, that he would have it done; but he never did have it done.—The Chairman: I think it is the proper thing to do, to adjourn the case for a fortnight to give him a chance. But he will have the expenses to pay.

Next week will be commenced a short account of "A Trip to Paris" by Mr. C. Gibson, after which a summary of the previous chapters of the "Old White Hall" will be written, and the tale continued.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY FOR THE HAIR.—If your hair is turning grey or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots, were the glands are not decayed. Ask your chemist for "The Mexican Hair Renewer," prepared by Henry C. Gallup, 493, Oxford Street, London, and sold by Chemists and Perfumes everywhere at 3s. 6d. per Bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—A Cure for Abscesses, Piles, Fistula, and Sores of every description.—The very satisfactory results arising from the use of this invaluable Ointment, when the patients have been suffering from any of the above disorders, have induced the Medical Proffession to introduce it into the hospitals and their private practice, and in many instances where the sufferer was considered incurable, Holloway's Ointment, in conjunction with his Pills, healed the most desperate cases. They are also unequalled for the cure of scrofula, scurvy, and all diseases of the skin, and the cures they effect are not temporary or imperfect, for by their purifying powers they bring about a marvellous and most beneficial change in the whole system, and enable it, with renovated powers, to resist the approach of all future attacks of the same disease.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

THE FEVER AT STOURTON.

Thwaite Mills, Leeds, September, 26th.

Dear Sir,—

In reading over your report of the Meeting of the Rothwell Local Board last week, I was somewhat surprised at the (what I think) unwarrantable assertions and conclusions of Mr. Heaps, the Medical Officer of the Board, with regard to the spread of Typhoid at Stourton. He charges the milk from Barraclough's farm as the only cause of the same, and as a proof of this instances the case of Charlotte Pitts living next door to the farm, who (he says) had the fever some six or seven weeks ago, and then he gives some microscopic data which if his conclusions are worth anything simply contradicts all he has said before.

Allow me to ask Mr. Heaps one question and then I have done with him. Who told him that Charlotte Pitts had the typhoid fever six or seven weeks ago? I have a medical certificate before me while [I] write this from a gentleman whose opinion I would sooner rely upon than that of the Medical Officer of Health of the Rothwell Local Board, and it runs thus:—

Hunslet, Sept. 23rd, 1878.

This is to certify that I have been attending Miss Charlotte Pitts and Wm. Hy. Holdgate, of Bank House, and that they were not at that time suffering from typhoid fever. During my patient's illness I ordered them milk from Mr. Barraclough's dairy. (Signed)

This gentleman not only ordered his patients milk, but was so satisfied with its purity and nourishing properties, that he always asked for a glass for himself when he visited his patients, and asked Mr. Barraclough to supply him with it at his own house.

I will only say this about the unhealthy state of Stourton, the wonder with me is that fever has not swept off one half of the inhabitants, and if it had not been that the weather had turned very much colder, you may depend upon it that the result of the Local Board breaking up the old drains before they had got an outlet for the new ones, and so turning the cellars into seething cess-pools, would have been fearfully fatal to human life.

Miss Pitts is a pupil teacher in the Board School at Stourton, so can anyone wonder that she had an illness? In conclusion, it may be interesting and funny to an irresponsible body like the Rothwell Local Board to sit and listen to what they think a learned disquisition on hygiene, no matter if it does ruin a poor farmer by damning his milk, if it only frees them from blame. I would just say to those gentlemen, remember, "what is sport to the dogs, is death to the fox."

If you can find a corner for the above in your next issue and will kindly insert it you will oblige

Yours truly, THOMAS HORN.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.

IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT. than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known. YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

TABLE I.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

We can commend this as a very good and convenient Marking Ink, we have submitted Linen marked with it to some of the most powerful of Chemical agents, including Acids, Alkaline and Chlorine, and Cyanide of Potassium, and have found that it was very much easier to destroy the Linen than the marking upon it; in short the writing could not be effaced by any of the Agents we employed. THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865. After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1878

From London to Paris and Back.

Five tickets for Paris!

Such was the order given by a Rothwellian for himself and four companions at Cook's Tourist Office, Ludgate Circus, London, on the night of the 7th ult., the day had been a beautiful one, but this special night certainly rivalled the day, for the sky was clear and scarcely a cloud was to be seen and the beautiful lamp of heaven shone out with unusual splendour.

At half-past seven o'clock all was bustle and excitement at the London Bridge Station, a train consisting of 33 carriages and a powerful engine was awaiting to convey at least five hundred people of both sexes to Newhaven en route for Paris, carpet bags, portmanteaus, umbrellas, &c. were very numerous and their respective owners were each on the look out for the best and most comfortable seats, for it is a good two hours ride to Newhaven on the Sussex coast.

It is now eight o'clock, and all are in their places, carriage doors are slammed, the guard gives the signal for departure to the engine driver, a shrill whistle is heard and away we go.

Our first stoppage is at East Croydon, a little station beyond the far-famed Crystal Palace, a few more passengers step nimbly into the train, and we go again merrily on our way passing Red Hill and all the intermediate stations until we reach Newhaven, we have now completed the first stage of our journey.

The luggage which was stowed away over our heads at starting is unceremoniously lifted from its place, and a rush is made for the two or three large steamers that are lying in the snug little harbour, we show our tickets and pass on to the steamship "Paris."

Now for a sixty miles ride on the briny ocean.

A peculiar feeling takes posession of one's mind, especially when about to leave our "island home" to visit a foreign land, we must cross the treacherous sea, we have never been but a few miles on its surface, what sort of sailors are we? we shall soon know, for after roaming about the deck for a considerable time, strong ropes are unloosed, another whistle is heard, the mighty cranks begin to move and we glide slowly out of the quiet harbour at eleven o'clock.

We pass Seaford on our left, then Beachy Head, which is a large chalk cliff that rises 600 feet very abruptly from the level of the sea, and we are now out at sea, which is to use a sailors phrase as smooth as a mill pond and the reflection of the moon on its glassy surface is something splendid.

We walk about the deck and amuse ourselves as best we may while about one o'clock, and then we dive down into the after cabin, which is beautifully fitted up for the convenience of passengers to sleep in, but we are not sleepy but hungry.

A long table is set out with very tempting viands which we heartily partake of, we then pay 1s. 6d. and rest awhile on the soft velvet cushioned seats and then return on deck again.

Time seems to fly rapidly, for it is now four o'clock and a sweet sabbath morning, the morn is fading away and a soft rosy light is seen far away on the horizon, the pure light of day is fast approaching, the clouds are breaking, and eager eyes are strained to catch a first glimpse of the French coast, the sun is now rising as it were out of the sea, which is a most beautiful sight and the sublimity of the scene is truly enchanting.

The goodly vessel speeds along and it is now daylight, and we sight the chalk cliffs on the French coast at five o'clock.

We were a motley crew, and by every appearance, also very good sailors in calm weather, the steamer was stopped at a quarter past five a short distance from the shore, we were not allowed to land while six o'clock, when that time arrived we steamed steadily into the harbour of the quaint old town of Dieppe.

As we sailed along we observed a large cross which stood at the end of the pier, it was about twenty feet high, with two figures upon it, one representing our Saviour in the well-known position in which He died, and the other represented the Virgin Mary.

Just before we landed much amusement was caused by a dozen of French fisher-folk, they were towing into the harbour a middling sized fishing smack. Look at number two said a fellow voyager, pointing to an old French woman who was tugging at the rope of the fishing smack, did you ever see such a miserable object? she had on her head an indescribable bonnet which would have been invaluable for a Yorkshire farmer in seed-time and harvest to scare the birds

Well, we first put our feet on French soil a little after six o'clock, and after passing through the custom-house we began to hear a very unintelligable language.

We had just left the sea, but still we were all at sea in trying to find a place to have breakfast in. at last we were successful, we entered a Cafe and not one of its occupiers could speak a word of English.

Luckily we had exchanged a part of our English money for French coin before leaving England, and by making signs with our hands and mouths we obtained some excellent soup and real French coffee for the half of a franc (fivepence).

To be concluded in our next.

Harvest Thanksgiving Services.

ROTHWELL PARISH CHURCH.

On Sunday last, the annual Harvest Festival was held at the Rothwell Parish Church which was most tastefully decorated for the occasion. The morning service was opened by the singing of the processional hymn "Come, ye thankful people come" and the whole choral service was well rendered. The Rev. H. S. King, preached an excellent and appropriate sermon from "The harvest is the end of the world."

In the evening the sacred edifice was crowded to exess, every available seat being filled, and a number of chairs having to be obtained for many, a large portion of the church being occupied before service time.

The processional hymn was "We plough the fields, and scatter" (360), the anthem being taken from Ps. xxiv. 1v. "The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein".

The Rev. the Vicar occupied the pulpit, and preached a suitable and encouraging sermon from the text "Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, for they are white already to the harvest" (John iv. 35.)

A large number of people remained after the services, to inspect and admire the beautiful decorations which "the labour of love" had placed in different parts of the church. The altar table was appropriately adorned with three vases of beautiful flowers (dahlias, roses, lilies, &c.), in front of which stood a large basket of grapes, pears, apples, and other fruits. The large cross was covered with ears of corn set off with flowers, and on either side of the cross, were the mottoes "Thou visitest the earth and blesseth it" and "Thou crownest the year wiih Thy goodness." The Candelabra in the chancel were all festooned with corn, geranium flowers peeping out here and there while the base was encircled with small apples, grapes and other fruits. The pulpit, reading desks and font were all similarly adorned, while the stall heads were capped with bunches of corn ears, &c. Arching the organ was the motto "The reapers are the angels," and at either side of the chancel arch were two elegant pieces of coloured straw work.

The offertory, amounting to over £12, will be divided between the funds of the Scarbro Convalescent Home, and the Leeds General Infirmary.

ROTHWELL WESLEYAN CHAPEL.

The service at the Wesleyan Chapel, Rothwell, was specially adapted to the season of the year and proved very successful. The preacher was the Rev. Thomas Hind, (one of the newly appointed ministers) and the service could hardly have fallen into better hands. Opening with the hymn "Come ye thankful people, come" the well arranged and heartfelt prayer was again followed by the hymn "We plough the fields and scatter," both of which were well sung under the guidance of a full choir. After suitable lessons had been read, the hymn "Sow in the morn thy seed" was sung. The text was the parable of the sower (Luke viii., 5.) Giving a vivid description of the scene and circumstances under which the parable was delivered, the placid water of the lake gentle leaving the beach on which the congregation was gathered, the rising hills in front with the deeply furrowed fields at its base, the preacher beautifully pictured out the details of the scene, and brought before the mind's eye, the sower with his well laden basket of precious grain, the hard beaten path through the centre of the field, with the fowls stealthily picking up the seed fallen on the wayside, the stony places, the portion where thorns had already secured a place in the land, and the good fresh soft soil from which the abundant harvest was to be reaped. The sermon was divided into three parts:—the sower, the seed, the soil.

After expressing thankfulness that the Christian worker was not likened to tentmaker or a boat-builder, where the workman's skill was an all-imporatnt necessity, but to a sower, where nearly every thing depended on the favouring blessing of heaven, the minister referred to the various descriptions of work; and as with a sower, it did not depend so much on the Christian worker's skill as on earnest, liberal sowing of the word, and prayer for God's blessing upon it.

The varied and minute processes by which the hard grain becomes soft, swollen, germinating, productive were carefully and interestingly given, all which were made to beautifully illustrate the germinating power of the word of God in the minds and hearts of men.

Its persistency of life was also taken up as an illustration of the never dying power of truth.

The various classes of hearers were lastly shown up, as illustrated by the parable:—the hardened listener, on whose heart the seed falls, but has no lodgment and is speedily eaten off by the evil winged thoughts, or crushed into premature meal by the wheels of the lumbering wagon of worldly things: the hearer who, without proper thought, joyfully receives the word, but as soon as trial comes, is like the seed fallen on stony ground; the man who is too much troubled about the things of this world, and the sap and interest which ought to be largely devoted to the soul's welfare are taken up by the present life, and so choke the word, and it becomes unfruitful; and, lastly the cheerful receiver of the seed; who, cherishing it by the grace of God, brings forth fruit, some a hundred-fold, some sixty, some thirty.

The service, which was heartily enjoyed by all present, was concluded by the hymn, "This is the field, the world below" and the benedictory prayer.

WOODLESFORD HARVEST THANKSGIVING.

Following the custom which we believe has been observed from the consecration of the Church, these services were held on a week-day. Tuesday, Oct. 1st, was the date fixed upon, though last year owing to the late harvest it was at the end of the month before the public Thanksgiving was offered. The occasion which summons a community together, for this public act of thanksgiving is universally popular. There are comparatively few who regard a prolific harvest as an accident, there are few who forget that God retains it in His power to withhold the gift, if He thinks fit to do so. The morning service consisted of a celebration of the Holy Eucharist, the highest act of thanksgiving the Christian Church is able to offer. The evening service consisted of the ordinary evening pryers, proper Psalms and lessons, an anthem and a sermon by the Rev. J. R. Crawford, curate of Holy Trinity, Ely. The other clergy present were the Rev. H. M. Sims, vicar designate of the new parish of St. Cuthbert's, Hunslet, the Rev. H. S. King, curate of Rothwell, and the Vicar. The choir was augmented by members of Holbeck and Rothwell Parish Churches. Punctually at seven o'clock the choir and clergy entered the church singing the favourite harvest hymn commencing, "Come, ye thankful people, come," which was heartily taken up by the congregation. The chief feature of the service was the anthem, "I will give thanks unto Thee, O Lord," the respective parts being well sustained. The services were the same as were sung at the late choral festival at Wakefield, and were rendered with skill and effect. Great credit is due to the untiring exertions of Mr. Towler, the choirmaster, in contributing to the success of the musical portions of the service. The preacher took for his text the words of St. Paul to the Galations, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." From these words Mr. Crawford preached a plain and practical sermon enforcing the truth of the apostle's words from the experience of everyday life, and pointing out the special application of the words to the spiritual training and life of the soul. The offertories during the day amounted to £5 12s., £4 of which has been forwarded to the Mansion House Abercarne Relief Fund; the remainder (after paying expenses) will be given to the poor of the parish. The decorations were tastefully done. It may be added, however, that there were no ladies engaged in the work, a remarkable feature, we believe in the history of church decorations. They, however, contributed to the success by sending gifts of beautiful flowers.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

The ordinary meeting of the Rothwell Local Board was held on Monday, present—Messrs W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes and the Clerk, Medical Officer, Inspector and Treasurer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the nuisance caused by the Leeds Corporation leading night soil over the Board's roads, not only at night, but in open day, was strongly complained of.

After some conversation, it was resolved, on the motion of Mr. Holmes, seconded by Mr. Lunn; That the clerk write Mr. Haley, night soil contractor to the Leeds Corporation, to discontinue leading night soil over the Rothwell Local Board's Roads.

Mr. Stainer having satisfactorily completed the works at the corner of the Black Bull Inn estate, was granted a cheque on the architect's certificate for £80.

The Highways Committee also reported that Mr. Nickols had done even more than he had contracted to do at Bell Hill in a satisfactory manner.

On the motion of Messrs. Holmes and J. Hargreaves, several cheques for accounts and salaries were signed.

Reference was made to a letter signed "Thomas Horn" which appeared in the Rothwell Times of Friday last, strongly animadverting on the Board's action in regard to the fever at Stourton.

The chairman thought the latter porton of the letter was certainly untrue, and could neither be supported by the report of the meeting, nor by the actual conduct of the Board.

He was sure every member felt wishful that what was done should not injure the man, if possible, but rather make the matter as easy as they could for Mr. Barraclough, and avoid extreme measures.

The Inspector also stated that the Board did not break up the old drains, some one else did that, and the Board rectified them.

The chairman also spoke of the continuous exertions of the Board to put a stop to the fever and its causes, spending 4 nights over the matter.

The Medical Officer just coming in at this moment reported that he had just come away from Stourton and Hunslet and had to state that one death had occured from typhoid fever since last meeting, Hargreave's boy.

He had also heard of a new case to-day, that of Mr. Broadbent's servant girl, who was sent home last Wednesday (25th) and he held a certificate from Mr. T. Smith, surgeon, setting forth that she was suffering from typhoid fever.

He had been through the whole estate that day; there were no other new cases. The houses contiguous to the broken drains, were quite free from fever. In reply to a question the doctor stated that typhoid fever also went by the names of low fever, slow fever, gastric fever, but was properly called enteric fever.

The parents of Charlotte ... had told him in the presence of the girl the symptoms of fever, and Holgate's child had also manifested all the symptoms, and in fact the medical man attending it had called the disease fever.

The chairman having asked the doctor if he had seen Mr. Horn's letter, replied that he had, but considered it beneath his notice. The assertions were certainly untrue, and he should do his duty whatever the consequences might be, and trusted the Board would always find him anxious to do it.

Dr. Heaps reported the district clear of sickness, except whooping cough, which he believed was now on the wane.

Mr. Stainer's tender for curbing, &c., at the corner of Commercial Street and Marsh Road for £13, was accepted.

The next meeting was arranged to be on Tuesday the 15th, instead of Monday.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for our Correspondents opinions.—ED.

THE FEVER AT STOURTON.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Sir,

With reference to a letter which appeared in your issue of the 27th September emanating from Mr. Thomas Horn, I should like to say a few words. In the first place Mr. Horn, states that he has a medical certificate (from whom he does not say) that the milk at Bank House Farm is good, Mr. Heaps the Medical Officer of Health for Rothwell Local Board says that the milk is bad and to support him on this opinion he produces an analysis from Mr. Fairley the analyst for the Borough of Leeds who reports the quality of the milk as not being good.

Mr. Horn further says, "it is no matter if it ruins "the poor farmer by damaging his milk if it only frees "the Local Board," and he also states "I will only "say this about the unhealthy state of Stourton, the "wonder with me is that fever has not swept off one-"half of the inhabitants, and if it had not been that "the weather had turned much colder, you may depend "upon it that the result of the Local Board breaking "up the old drains before they had got an outlet for "the new ones, and so turning the cellars into seething "cesspools, would have been fearfully fatal to human "life." Surely Mr. Horn might have been more charitable and truthful in his remarks, as one has reason to expect better treatment than this at the hands of a Guardian of the Poor.

I emphatically deny these statements, which are utterly groundless, whether with regard to ruin the poor farmer for the purpose of shirking blame, pulling up the old drains, or making cellars into seething cesspools. The facts shortly are these; the Board have been examining the old sewers and cleansing them, also putting 12in. pipes in where formerly there were only 9-in pipes, and also putting the old drains into a better sanitary state than they have been for years.

I trust that the inhabitants of Stourton Lodge will have no fear; they probably agree with me in saying that Mr. Horn, in stating what he has, has drawn largely on his own vivid imagination.

I may say that the Board have spared no expense in trying to improve the sanitary condition, not only of Stourton but the whole of the district, and whether the milk from Bank House Farm is good or bad, it is certain that the farm is not in that sanitary state that it ought to be, and the owners have got notice to that effect.

The Local Board as a public body is always open to be shot at, but those who shoot should fire with sound shot, and not with glass balls, as they are liable to break.

Trusting that Mr. Horn will have the good sense to acknowledge that he is in the wrong,

I am, Sir,
Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH HOLMES.

Haigh Villa,
Stourton Lodge, Oct. 2nd, 1878.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

10, Upper Fountaine Street,
Leeds, Oct. 3rd, 1878.

THE ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD AND THE FEVER AT STOURTON.

Dear Sir,

Seeing in your issue of Sept. 27th a letter from Mr. Thos. Horn respecting the above matter. I feel it my duty on behalf of the Rothwell Local Board and also on my own behalf, to set the public and your correspondent right with regard to one part of the above-mentioned letter.

Mr. Horn charges the Board with breaking up the old drains before getting an outlet for the new ones. He is right in the latter part of this clause, as we have no outlet to the new drains at present, owing to the delay on the part of the contractor for the Leeds Corporation who has the outlet works in hand.

With regard to the former part of the above mentioned clause, I beg to state that no old drains have been broken up; in cases where they required removing they were carefully taken up, cleaned, and re-laid in their original positions, and in one case where some 9-inch pipes were found in the middle of a length of 12-inch pipes the former 9-inch were removed and some 12-inch pipes laid in place of the same, and the old drains are now going their old courses and emptying themselves at the same outlets as they were before the new work was commenced.

Yours truly,
A. T. G. PARKINSON.

Prepared by Henry C. Gallup, 493 Oxford-street, London.

BUGS, FLEAS, MOTHS, BEETLES, and all other insects are destroyed by KEATING'S INSECT DESTROYING POWDER, which is quite harmless to domestic animals. In exterminating Beetles the success of this powder is extraordinary. It is perfectly clean in application. Sold in tins 1s. and 2s. 6d. each, by all Chemists.

THE CERTAIN CURE FOR WORMS IN CHILDREN is "KEATING'S WORM TABLETS," very pleasant to the taste, so mild in action that the youngest infant can take them. Price 1s. 1½d. at all chemists.

REALLY SOMETHING NEW.—A GREAT WANT SUPPLIED.—CONDENSED LEMONADE and CONDENSED GINGER BEER. Lemonade or Ginger Beer of the most delicious and wholesome kind can now be made instantaneously by simply adding a teaspoonful of either of these fluids to a tumbler of water. For children and invalids the cooling properties of these drinks are most beneficial, and when added to Seidlitz and Saline Draughts, Mineral, and Ærated Waters, even the nauseous become palatable. One Pint is sufficient to make two or three gallons. Recommended by the highest Authorities, being pure Fluid Extracts of the Lemon Fruit and Ginger. They are the most portable preparations known. Pints 15s. per doz.; Quarts 28s. per doz. Obtainable through all Chemists, Grocers, &c., or direct from "THE LONDON LABORATORY," 79, Mark Lane, London, E.C. Single bottles at retail price.

THE ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP.—Beautifying, purifying. It is elegantly white and the purest of soaps, not making the water dark, brown, or green, like coloured soaps. "It is the most agreeable and elegant preparation for the skin that I know." James Startin, M.R.C.S. "Permit me to add my testimony to the value of the Milk and Sulphur Soap."—A. W. Postans, F.C.S. "It is specially nice for children."—Dr. J. Evans, State Apothecary, Dublin. By all chemists and perfumers, in tablets, 6d. and 1s. The Albion Sanatory Soap Co., 532, Oxford Street, London. Refuse all substitutes.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS!—Are you broken in your rest by a sick child suffering with the pain of cutting teeth? Go at once to a chemist and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor sufferer immediately. It is perfectly harmless and pleasant to taste, it produces natural, quiet sleep, by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It soothes the child, it softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for dysentery and diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is sold by Medicine dealers everywhere at 1s 1½d per bottle.—Manufactured in New York, and at 493 Oxford-street, London.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is now in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.

IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES ABOVE the British Government's standard of Fahrenheit, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known.
YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

NOTICE.—Captain A. H. Markham writes ("The Great Frozen Sea") that "In any future Arctic Service the problem of how to make the supply of Lime Juice portable and drinkable will have to be reconsidered." It is a specific for Scurvy and other Blood Impurities which no ship or household should be without. City Depot—40, Aldersgate St., and retail of all respectable Chemists at home and abroad.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain—
BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865.
After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKEY.

The large increased consumption of, and the reputation obtained for Irish and Scotch Whiskeys by W. and A. Gilbey during the past few years, render the brands of Whiskeys quoted above especially worthy of attention at the present time. The stock of old matured Whiskey held by W. and A. Gilbey in their bonded stores is now, without doubt, the largest in the world, exceeding as it does 5000 butts of Irish and 3000 butts of Scotch Whiskey, equal to upwards of a million proof gallons. Their sales of Whiskeys last year exceeded two million bottles.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER , 1878

From London to Paris and Back.

As we returned towards the train which was to convey us to Paris, which is 60 miles from Dieppe, we were much amused at the poorer class of the French women, both young and old were going towards a fine old cathedral in the town, with their frilled caps on their heads and books in their hands, but their dresses would have been much more becoming had they been a little longer. We took our seats in the train which consisted of two engines and a goodly number of not very nice railway carriages, and at eight o'clock we started once again on our way to Paris.

At first we made but very slow progress, but gradually got into a good speed and when fairly out of Dieppe the scenery was beautiful and the old houses that are peculiarly built of wood and plaster, appear to have all been erected at the same time, for they have each one the same aged appearance and they present a very woeful and dilapidated appearance to the eye of a casual observer, but to the artist they are truly pleasing.

As we go along we notice a cemetery, which presents a very picturesque appearance, there are a number of crosses standing up, and they appear to be inlaid with beautifully stained glass, pretty little villages now seem to fly past us, some are on the hillsides and others are in the valleys. As we burst out of a tunnel a little beyond the old and interesting town of Rouen, a most unexpected scene came suddenly to our view, a huge hill rose up at least a thousand feet from a broad and shining river (probably the Seine), a few quiant old houses stood here and there on its steep sides, and also on the top of it, and as we hurry along more old and curious cottages appear at the foot of a hill and a peculiar shaped church crowns it summit.

To view the gardens and orchards between Ponte lar che and St. Pierre where we have now arrived, is something very pleasing, the fruit trees are heavily laden and the vineries are very pleasant to look upon.

We now run for fifty miles along side the river Seine which carries on its surface oddly shap'd fishing boats and steamers, one we noticed with its two paddle wheels behind and it was dragging a heavily laden corn barge.

We are now at Vernon and fifty miles from Paris, our eyes are wearied and as we have had but little sleep we doze off and awake to find ourselves at a standstill in the station of the gayest and most beautiful city in Europe at 2 o'clock p.m. much in want of a half a gallon of cold water and a piece of soap.

We now gladly leave our seats and pass into the station yard where we have much difficulty in procuring a cab, for ever since the building of the "Tower of Babel" there has been more thwn one language spoken and the French people are a set of gabblers and if you have not some idea of their language it is an utter imposibility to understand them when in conversation.

By the aid of an interpreter we managed to procure board and lodgings for 9 francs per day, we now made ourselves at home and had a good wash which we very much needed.

After our first meal in Paris which was neither dinner nor tea we took a walk down one of the principal Boulevards towards the river Seine where the small steam-boats were crowded with pleasure seekers for I am sorry to say that the Parisians pay but little regard to the sabbath day; we should certainly have gone to a place of worship of our own persuasion had we known where to have found one but being in a foreign land we could not gratify our desire, so when night put in an appearence we went back to our apartments and went to bed.

The next day being Monday it was decided upon to go to the exhibition; but we must have some breakfast so we enter on the ground floor of our lodging house a middling sized dining room where there is a great show of crockery ware, there is a small piece of very salt bacon and a fried egg for each one, some very good butter on a glass dish in the centre of the table, but strange to say the bread stood up in a corner close to the window it is baked in rolls six or seven feet long but it is not half so wholesome as a good "Roddil Oven Cake," the French coffee is very good indeed two jugs are on the table, one is full of hot milk and eggs mixed together and the other with very strong coffee half of each is poured into a half pint cup and then sugared to your taste.

We will now leave the culinary part of our doings in Paris and make our way to the Exhibition; we get into a swift litlle steamboat and pay 25 centimes (2½d) and after a pleasant ride we land on one of the piers, we then walk up a number of steps and take tickets which cost a franc (10d) each in a very neat affair that is fitted up for the occasion and then enter the now world fam'd Paris Exhibition.

Now to give a description of every thing that is within this attractive display of works of art and manual labour would occupy an immense amount of time and space and as we were only in the exhibition but 8 hours we could only thoroughly see but a thousandth part of it.

It covers a hundred and fifty acres and is on both sides of the beautiful river Seine which runs through Paris; we entered on the right hand side and were at once pleased with the nice arrangement of everything, in the second room we were particularly interested in the various models which showed something new in our line of buisness.

As we wandered through the different compartments, we observed specimens of everything that is interesting to everybody there are cotton looms from Bolton in Lancashire, railway engines from Leeds, &c., in fact the English Section, which contains machinery of all kinds, is a credit to the nation, and there are works of all kinds that represent the labour of almost every civilised corner of the world, therefore any one that is in any mechanical buisness will find in the Paris Exhibition something new and interesting and well repay a visit, it will also serve him with material to converse about at different periods for the rest of his life time.

After seeing more in the Exhibition as it is possible for any one man to see in the time, and far more than he could possibly remember, we took a walk in the grounds.

There are scores of model houses built of all kinds of material which are very interesting owing to their peculiar construction and the different countries which they represent, but the most imporing building in the whole grounds is the Palace of the Trocader'o, it is of stone and stands on an eminence which commands a splendid view of Paris.

As Mr. Editor's space is valuable, we must leave the Exhibition and return to our lodgings which are in a very respectable locality not far from the station, where we spent a very pleasant evening; having the privilege of amusing ourselves on a good piano, we entertained the company both English and French with several good old Rothwell Psalm Tunes and finished up with the Old Hundred, the singing calling forth special applause for although that good and impressive Psalm Tune is very old, yet to the French part of the company it was perhaps quite new.

Early the next morning we left our beds and after the usual preliminaries, we sallied forth into the city to see the sights which are always prevalent in a large capital town, the streets of Paris are very pleasant indeed the Boulevards especially so, green trees stand on each side and the shops and cafes present a beautiful and animated appearance they put those of London entirely in the shade, Rue Halevy Avenne De L'Opera, Place Du Theatre Francias &c., are lit up at night with a charming soft and enchanting lime or electric light which to any one whose home is in a country village must appear almost like fairy land.

We now engage an open conveyance and request (in the best French language that we have at our command) the driver to take us to the finest church in Paris that is "Notre Dame" we pay ½ franc each and then enter a magnificent doorway, on one side are two blind beggars asking alms and just within the building is a nun, she is uttering something very unintelligable and is holding in her hands a small bag for the passers by to drop money into.

We walk along stealthy (for we have been requested to walk on our toes and speak with our eyes) and plainly see Roman Catholicism on every stone, we are requested by an interpreter to follow him but we have to pay another ½ franc and receive a ticket then he shows us the golden cross, caskets inlaid with precious stones, &c., &c., and explains to us (in English) a few of the principal features of the enormous building; it is said that among the relics of this historical place there are two thorns from the crown of our Saviour and one of the nails of the cross (a most incredible assertion surely.)

The day is getting shorter and we now make our way to see the gigantic captive balloon, it is close by the Palace of the Tuilleries which was burnt down by the Communists in the late French War; the balloon is allowed at certain times during the day to ascend to a very great height, and by the aid of powerful machinery it is drawn down again, twenty franc's is the fare to go into the upper regions and many have paid that amount of money to have the pleasure of saying "Up in a balloon, boys" since the opening of the exhibition.

Very tired and weary we once more seek our temporary home, and after dinner we rest ourselves (we dined at 6 p.m.) awhile, pay pay our bill, and get ready for Old England again. After waiting at the station for almost an hour, we at last got into a good carriage, and at 9 o'clock we left Paris and all its gaities, and after a jolting ride we arrived at Dieppe at half-past one o'clock in the morning. the moon shone brightly over all the harbour, numerous lights twinkled here and there out of the windows. We were left out in the streets and the night air was very chilly,—we could procure no lodgings, for every body was in bed, so to pass the "weary time away" we were compelled to wander about the streets (and very curious streets they are) and look up at the quaint old houses which by—

"The soft pale light
Of the Queen of Night
Look'd very romantic indeed."

After satifying ourselves that the slumber of those that were in bed were much more pleasanter than our wanderings in the street, we walk'd on to the end of the pier; it was then about 3 o'clock, and we could see in the the distance a lighthouse with a revolving light similar to the one we now stood against.

In a short time the fishing boats began to sail out to sea, and to test the little French we had learnt in Paris we shouted to two fishermen in a small boat "Bon soir" to which one of them responded with "Bon soir, Monsieurs" (good bye, sir.)

We walk'd back again and when the shops were open we supplied ourselves with a few necessary provisions which we very much needed, and at 20 minutes to 8 we sailed for Newhaven, which we reached after a most pleasant voyage at half-past one p.m. We then took train for London and arrived safe at home very much gratified and with our first visit to the gay capital of France.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

"I have it now," said Mr. Edison on Saturday, while vigorously turning the handle of a Ritchie inductive coil in his laboratory at Menlo Park,, "and singularly enough, I have obtained it through an entirely different process than that from which scientific men have ever sought to secure it. They have all been working in the same groove, and when it is known how I have accomplished my object, everybody will wonder why they have never thought of it—it is so simple. When ten lights have been produced by a single electric machine, it has been thought to be a great triumph of scientific skill. With the process I have just discovered I can produce 1000—ay, 10,000—from one machine. Indeed, the number may be said to be infinite. When the brilliancy and cheapness of the lights are made known to the public—which will be in a few weeks, or just as soon as I can thoroughly protect the process—illumination by carburetted hydrogen gas will be discarded. With 15 or 20 of these dynamo-electro machines recently perfected by Mr. Wallace I can light the entire lower part of New York City, using a 500-horse power engine. I purpose to establish one of these light centres in Nassau street, whence wires can be run up to town as far as Cooper Institute, down to the Battery, and across to both rivers. These wires must be insulated and laid in the ground in the same manner as gas pipes. I also propose to utilize the gas burners and chandeliers now in use. In each house I can place a light meter, whence these wires will pass through the house, tapping small metallic contrivances that may be placed over each burner. Then housekeepers may turn off their gas and send the meters back to the companies whence they came. Whenever it is desirable to light a jet, it will only be necessary to touch a little spring near it. No matches are required. Again, the same wire that brings the light to you will also bring power and heat. With the power you can run an elevator, a sewing machine, or any other mechanical contrivance that requires a motor, and by means of the heat you may cook your food. To utilize the heat, it will only be necessary to have the ovens or stoves properly arranged for its reception. This can be done at trifling cost. The dynamo-electric machine, called a telemachon, may be run by water or steam power at a distance. When used in a large city the machine would of necessity be run by steam power. I have computed the relative cost of the light, power, and heat generated by the electricity transmitted to the telemachon to be but a fraction of the cost where obtained in the ordinary way. By a battery or steam power it is 46 times cheaper, and by water power probably 95 per cent. cheaper. It has been computed that by Edison's process the same amount of light that is given by 1,000 cubic feet of the carburetted hydrogen gas now used in this way, and for which from 2.50 dols. to 3 dols. is paid, may be obtained for from 12 to 15 cents. Edison will soon give a public exhibition of his new invention."

DISPUTED RIGHTS OF PASTURAGE.

At the West Riding Court of the Leeds Town Hall on Tuesday, before Mr. John Ellershaw, Mr. J. Lupton, Mr. J. L. Ikin, Mr. Jowett, Mr. Middleton and Mr. Stansfield, David Edward Hardwick, joiner, Kippax, was summoned for having unlawfully released a calf from the Kippax township pinder, whilst on its way to the pound. Mr. Beverley, barrister, defended. Wm. Bywater said he was the Kippax township pinder. On the 24th September he found a calf owned by defendant straying untended in a lane, the pasturage of which was let by the Surveyors to Mr. Hudson, and about 300 yards from the defendant's house. He was taking the animal to the pound when he met the defendant, who, after some conversation placed himself before the calf and said he would give him (witness) something which would stop him if he took it any further. He then, under protest, delivered up the calf and demanded 4d. for poundage, which the defendant would not pay.—Cross-examined: He found the calf in an occupation lane, which was a road to certain land occupied by Mr. Christopher Hudson. Any one might take a calf there to graze if the animal was tented. Mr. Beverley.—When were you appointed town pinder? Witness: I was sworn here over two years ago. Mr. Beverley (to the Bench): I believe the pinder should be chosen yearly. The Magistrates' Clerk (Mr. Teale): Yes, it is an annual appointment.—Has the witness his appointment papers with him? Witness: No. The Bench said that being so they would adjourn the case. Mr. Beverley consented to waive this point, and said that the defendant's wife had taken the calf out to graze, and was minding it when the pinder seized it. Moreover, under 6 and 7 Vic., cap. 30, sec. 2, the magistrates had no jurisdiction in the case of pound breach, where there was any dispute as to rights over the land. The Magistrates' Clerk said he thought there was a dispute in the township as to whether the surveyors had a right to let the eatage of this occupation lane. Mr. Wm. Hill, surveyor, of Kippax, who said he did not wish to give evidence, said the part of the lane where the calf was grazing had been let to Mr. Hudson at a meeting of the surveyors in his presence. The Magistrates' Clerk: Has any one a right to let it? Witness: I cannot answer that. The matter is in dispute.—Is it an occupation road? Yes.—Then what claim has the township to let it if it is an occupation road? I cannot say.—The Bench said that as the right of the surveyors to let the lane or the pasturage to Mr. Hudson was disputed, the summons would be dismissed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for our Correspondents, opinions.—ED.

THE FEVER AT STOURTON.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.
Thwaite Mills, Leeds, Oct. 10th, 1878.

Dear Sir,
Is there no one on the Rothwell Local Board but Mr. Joseph Holmes to reply to me, and have they no better reply than the one he has sent you in answer to my charge of the week before? With all due respect to Mr. Holmes, he must allow me to tell him that for weakness of argument and verdant simplicity, his letter beats all I ever met with in print. Will Mr. Holmes refer to Mr. Fairley's analysis of the milk and tell me what part of it hints that it is the cause of fever; I fail to see it, and the Medical Officer of the Board had the common prudence not to advance arguments at the last Board meeting, that he well knew were untenable; but poor Mr Holmes like many a better man has given us another instance of the old saying that fools step in where angels fear to tread." And now, sir, for downright common sense, will Mr. Holmes and some other member of the Rothwell Local Board meet me at my house on some early day, and we will go to Barraclough's farm and have some milk taken from the cows in our presence and taken to Mr. Fairley for analysis, and if he finds fever particles in it, then I will withdraw (as Mr. Holmes asks me) what I said in my last letter and I will pay a donation to the Leeds Infirmary, but if he does not, then Mr. Holmes and the other members of the Local Board shall compensate Mr. Barraclough for the injury done him in damning his milk, in what I consider was the unfair way in which they dealt with at their meeting of which I complained. I am as much opposed to the retailing of unwholesome milk as any member of the Local Board, but at the same time as a "Guardian of the Poor" a poor farmer has quite as much of my sympathy as a poor member of the Rothwell Local Board, and I hope so long as I can either speak or write, I shall always be found doing my duty in the cause of the poor in whatever walk of life they may be. Neither Mr. Holmes nor anyone else knows that the milk submitted for analysis (I am informed) was from Barraclough's farm, it was not taken from the farm for analysis, as Mr. Holmes knows it ought to have been, before a public charge was laid against it, and so in common fairness the Board ought to sift it to the bottom and either prove what their medical man said, or admit he has misled them. With regard to the drainage at Stourton, Mr. Holmes only proves what I said about it, they have put down large pipes without any outlet and the result is they hold a greater amount of filth, which is so much greater a source of the generation of sewage gasses, and which as a natural consequence must force its way back into the houses and so poison the atmosphere. Allow me to thank you for publishing my last letter, and if you will kindly publish this in your next issue I shall be still more your debtor.

Yours truly,
THOMAS HORN.

375,000 MARKS, or £18,750, amount of chief prize, may be won, in case of good fortune favouring the holder of a ticket of the Principal Drawing of the Money Lottery authorised by the German Government. The drawings commence on the 23rd October next, and terminating on the 13th November following. During these 20 days 28,100 prizes will be drawn. Only 69,000 lots will participate in these drawings. The chance of winning is therefore very great, as every second lot is bound to draw a prize. Among these 28,100 prizes, besides the great chief prize, the following large special prizes may be obtained:—

1 Prize of 250,000 marks, 1 of 125,000, 1 of 80,000, 1 of 60,000, 1 of 50,000, 2 prizes of 40,000, 2 of 30,000, 3 of 20,000, 4 of 15,000, 20 of 10,000, 30 of 5000, 70 of 4,000, 200 of 2,400, 400 of 1,200, 600 of 500, 700 of 250, and 26,065 pribes of 138 marks.

Total amount of all the 28,100 prizes—
6 Million 486,970 Marks, or £324,348 sterling.

The price of the tickets has been fixed officially, and we therefore send out only original Lots at the price fixed officially, that is to say:—
Entire Original Lots at £6
Half ditto at £3
Quarter ditto at £1 10s.

The amount has to be transmitted at once, together with the order, in Bank of England notes or English postage stamps, immediately on receipt of which the original lots will be despatched, accompanied by complete programmes of the drawings to take place during the 20 days of drawing. In consequence of the great demand from England for tickets for this State drawing we have established a department for English Correspondence in our offices, and applicants will therefore receive their correspondence and all printed matter couched in the English language. The Government of State in Hamburg guarantees the punctual payment of all winnings by pledging the entire State property. The payments, also, take place under the control of the Government and through the agency of the BANK OF ENGLAND.

Be pleased to address orders direct to the Chief Office: ISENTHAL & CO., Bankers, Hamburg, Germany.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.

IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known. YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same power over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen. Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, two FIRMS only IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867, After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE. THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.

We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.

"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.

CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.

Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

MR. CURZON'S LECTURE ON "YORKSHIRE."

The first lecture of the present session was delivered on Friday last, in the Mechanics' Institute, Rothwell, by Frank Curzon, Esq., the talented lecturer to the Yorkshire Union of Mechanics' Institutes.

Wm. Mason, Esq., President of the Institute, occupied the chair and briefly introduced the well-known speaker.

In opening his lecture, Mr. Curzon characterised Yorkshire as the "queen of counties," either in regard to size, political importance, mineral wealth, natural beauty, commercial enterprise, &c., and as having almost every variety of climate in itself. The origin of the division of the county into ridings, and the various watering places (marked on the black board, of course) were all touched upon. As might be expected, the glorious old ruins of the county roused the poetic fervour of the lecturer, and most eloquently he spoke of Fountain's Abbey and others in their pristine glory, and their no less glorious ruins.

Passing to the beauties of the county, the the lecturer maintained that except for extent and ruggedness, no finer or more enchanting scenery could be found anywhere than in Yorkshire, and from personal visits, could assure his audience they had no need to visit France or Italy for splendid natural beauties.

Mr. Curzon then sketched with chalk and voice some of the prominent Englishmen who had their birth-place in Yorkshire commencing with—

John Hampden, the stalwart puritan.

Sir Thomas Fairfax, born in Wharfedale, the stern honest soldier, who declined to be a party to the death of King Charles.

General Lambert, with his twisted features, the invariable index of a twisted conscience or of a twist somewhere.

Andrew Marvell, the patriot and poet, born at Hull, educated at the free Grammar School (really free to poor as well as rich in those days) with his full forehead, arched brow, and a face betokening the honesty and firmness which could decline the bribe of a king.

John Smeeton, born near Leeds, the constructor of the grand Eddystone Lighthouse, a nautical illustration of what Mechanics' Institutes are intended to be. as safe guides to the young men of our land.

Captain Cook, born near Middlesbro'. the greatest navigator ever known perhaps, who had sailed three times round the world, and had discovered more colonies and islands than any other man.

Wm. Wilberforce, born at Hull, the glorious liberator of British-held slaves, and the strong supporter of all that was good and great.

Joseph Priestley, who was so far ahead of his times, that people burned his valuable books.

Yorkshire had not produced many poets. but even such a busy, hard, matter of fact town as Sheffield had produced a man, whose birth-place and appearance was anything but favourable to poetry.

Ebenezer Elliott, who, by his songs had (said the lecturer) done as much as Cobden by his speeches.

Some of the greatest English sculptors had been born in Yorkshire, for instance:—

John Flaxman, of York, who by dint of hard labour, and the assistance of a faithful helpful wife, had raised himself to the high position he had attained, as the illustrator of Milton, Dante, and Shakespeare.

A trio of noble literary men were next depicted, only one of whom now remains, the originators and fathers of the Mechanics' Institute.

George Birkbeck, born at Settle in 1776, who many years ago commenced a science class in Glasgow, which gradually developed, and afterwards removing to London, started a similar institution there, and some years afterwards, with Lord Brougham on one side and Edward Baines on the other, opened the first Mechanics' Institution, the father of 5,000 others.

Lord Brougham was also a Yorkshireman, and his name, works, and genius stand high among us to-day.

Edward Baines, born in 1800, than whom no man has done more for the cause of religion, education, and temperance, and who 40 years ago, inaugurated the Yorkshire Union of Mechanics' Institutes and became its first president. First in every good cause, he yet lives a proof of his principles. When the Permissive Bill was first broached in the House of Commons, and only three members out of the whole number of 658 supported it, Edward Baines was one.

Charlotte Bronte, the great authoress, nearly all whose work was done on a sick bed, yet produced such a sensation in the literary world by such books as "Jane Eyre."

Frith, Leighton, and other noted artists were all born in this grand county.

Sir Titus Salt, whose monument stands in the model town he has created, and whose death was mourned not by a few, but by a whole district following his remains, orphans, widows, working-men, trades-people, nobles mourning his loss as of a father and friend.

The lecturer concluded his illustrated address by an eloquent preroration, urging all to use well the influence each one exerts in his own little circle.

Mr. Mason felt they had, that night had the richest treat Mr. Curzon had ever afforded them. If he had touched on all the beauties of Yorkshire and the characters of great and good Yorkshire-men, he could have very easily kept talking a week. They all felt deeply grateful with the lecturer.

The Rev. G. Renton in proposing a vote of thanks, expressed the great pleasnre he had had in listening to Mr. Curzon's lecture, and said that as long as he remained in Rothwell, he should be glad to be connected with the Institute, and to give any help it was in his power to afford.

Mr. John Batty in seconding the resolution, had been highly gratified with the lecture, and had learnt something more about the county. Mr. Curzon had not mentioned a number of names with which he was no doubt well acquainted, but he should like to refer to one or two who had risen from this immediate neighbourhood. Dr. Bentley, the great classic scholar, was born near Rothwell; and the Rev. Thos. Taylor, a Wesleyan Minister, born at Royds' Green, who had done more perhaps as recruiting sergeant to Methodism than any other man.

In replying, Mr. Curzon heartily thanked the audience, and conducted a round or two of Kentish fire for the benefit of Mr. Mason, the chairman.

LECTURE ON "AUSTRALIA."

Last night, an unusual opportunity was afforded for hearing a lecture on "Australia," by the Rev. J. Bickford, (President of the Australian Wesleyan Conference) in the Wesleyan School-room, Rothwell.

Mr. Batty having opened the proceedings by singing and prayer. Mr. J. Hargreaves took the chair, and in a few well-chosen remarks expressed his pleasure in being present, and had no donbt they would hava a treat in hearing Mr. Bickford, whom he now introduced.

The Rev. J. Bickford, (who was heartily received) then proceeded to narrate the circumstances by which he was led to come to Rothwell, by the pressing request of Mr. Renton (whom he met at East Keswick) and afterwards by invitation of the New Chapel Committee. Born in Devon, and converted when 16 years of age, Mr. Bickford gave himself to the mission work when 22, and was appointed to the West Indies, where he laboured 15 years, when his health broke down, and he had to come home.

After recruiting his health, Mr. Bickford was appointed to Melbourne, Australia, where he has been nearly 24 years. Proud of being an Englishman, he also gloried in being a subject of the great British Empire. Of the 50 colonies belonging to England, the largest is Australia, which though discovered in 1531, was not seized by any power till 1770, when Captain Cook hoisted the British flag on its soil, and claimed it for his country.

Australia, with its adjacent islands, is 26 times the size of the British Isles, and five times as large as India, a very large proportion of its vast extent of land, being still untouched since the creation, only 2½ million of English speaking people living in the great island continent, and more contented, happy, comfortable, well-to-do people do not exist.

The several routes by which Australia may be reached, was then interestingly traced on the map.

The fertility of the soil and the salubrious climate were enthusiastically dwelt upon by the lecturer, who stated that its fruitfulness was described without break or flaw, in the description given of Canaan in Deut. VIII, 7, 8, and 9 v.

The continent is divided into five provinces, each embracing some hundreds of millions of acres. The wonderful railway in New South Wales, where the trains have to rush up the hills by zig-zag ascents, and thence on the ledge of precipitous rocks where there is only room for a single line of rails, was described as the most astonishing piece of railway engineering in the world.

Refering to the convict establishments, Mr. Bickford strongly denounced the Game Laws, which, some years ago, sentenced to transportation. men whose only crime was catching a salmon, or shooting a hare on their own farms.

Gold was first discovered in 1851, by a man whose name was Hargreaves, (turning to the chairman)

Good Bishop Brown was the first to establish a church at the 'diggings,' he himself getting together the wood, &c., necessary, and going with the waggons conveying it to the gold mines. Here he arrived on the Wednesday night, and securing the assistance of several miners on Thursday morning he took off his coat, dug a hole, and firmly fixed the first post of Christ Church, which the Bishop had the pleasure of opening on the Sunday, preaching from the words "All the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God."

In 1816 the first missionary from the Wesleyan Missionary Society was sent out, the Rev. Samuel Lee, and now in New South Wales alone there are 298 churches and 1154 other preaching places, 99 ministers and 50,000 adherents.

Considerable amusement was caused by Mr. Bickford's stories of sailors' fun, of their landing at Sydney, of their first experiences in home life, the difficulty of getting servant girls, (the first he had he paid her 8s. a day) The circuit at Ballarat embraced 1314 square miles; during his three years at this place they built 30 churches and raised £15,000 for them.

South Australia he strongly recommended for emigration, he having himself got 100 free passages out there, and all whom he had assisted had written most satisfactory letters.

Speaking of Methodism in Victoria, he wished to make a remark on a circumstance which had been going the round of the papers respecting the Rev. Mr. Schofield, who had just died worth £50,000. The money had come to the reverend gentleman by means of his second wife (and he did not know but what ministers had as much right to have money as any one else, if honestly got). When Mr. Schofield died the will revealed that he had £50,000, and directed that £45,000 be devoted to the building of Wesleyan Churches in Australia.

In Western Australia, land can be had for 5s. an acre, and the lecturer had seen farms of from 50 to 120 thousand head of sheep.

In Australia there are three reasons which enable any man to get on who is willing to work:—Free selection of land, free education, religious independence and liberty. Any poor boy has as good a chance of rising to the highest positions as the governor's son, all is free and open, and obtained by merit.

The lecture was frequently applauded and listened to with marked attention by a large audience.

Mr. Batty proposed and Mr. J. R. Seanor seconded a warm vote of thanks to the lecturer, and a hearty vote of thanks was also given to Mr. Hargreaves for his kindness in taking the chair. The proceeds are for the New Chapel.

ROTHWELL PRIMITIVE METHODIST CHAPEL.

On Sunday last, the 13th inst., the Rev. S. Griffiths, reurned missionary from South Africa, (Fernando Po) preached two excellent sermons to good congregations; in the afternoon a service of song entitled "The Voyage of Life," was well rendered by the choir.

On Monday, the 14th inst., a public tea was provided in the school-room, and by the generosity of Mr. Wm. Hargreaves nearly 60 widows were among the partakers of an excellent repast. A few aged and infirm that could not attend had their teas sent to their homes. After tea, a public meeting was held in the Chapel, at which Mr. Wm. Hargreaves took the chair, expressing his pleasure at seeing such a good gathering, especially so at the number of widows who were present. Mr. Bramley and Mr. Tempest spoke a few words of sympathy and consolation to the old people. The Rev. W. Scafe gave a very thoughtful and suitable speech relative to the work of the church and its prosperity, urging those present to more earnest effort. On the motion of Mr. Jas. Batty, seconded by Mr. W. Lunn, a very hearty and enthusiastic vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman for his well-bestowed charity, one of the speakers saying he had made the widows' hearts to leap for joy, an expression which was verified by the old ladies making their hands warm by approval. A collection was made at the close of each service on behalf of the chapel funds. The customary votes of thanks concluded the meeting.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD.

At a meeting of the Board held on Tuesday the 15th inst., at five o'clock, present, Mr. Wm. Hargreaves (chairman), Messrs. Lunn, Holmes, Jas. Hargreaves, Hawden, Smith, and Bramley, the Clerk, Mr. Blyth (for the medical officer), and the Inspector of Nuisances and Surveyor; the minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, the agreement for the disposal of the Rothwell sewage was again discussed and certain modifications were made therein as to storm water, as recommended by the Local Government Board. Some persons having tampered with the hydrants thereby wasting a quantity of water, several members expressed themselves strongly that the persons doing this should be prosecuted, and it was resolved that notice be given that the Board would prosecute to the utmost rigour of the law any offenders, and that any person giving such information as will lead to the conviction of any offender would be rewarded with five shillings. The clerk was instructed to prepare a bill and have a quantity posted, informing the inhabitants that the Board were now prepared to supply them with water, and to impress upon owners of property the necessity of getting their houses supplied with water forthwith. The salary of the Inspector and Surveyor was advanced to 30s. per week. The Clerk brought before the Board a memorandum received from the Local Government Board with reference to the Highways and Locomotives Act, 1878, but the further consideration of this matter was adjourned until a copy of the Act had been obtained. As the reservoir will be finished on or about Tuesday next, the engineer was requested to meet the Waterworks Committee to go generally into the question of the water supply.

A STRIKE AVERTED AT HUNSLET.

A strike amongst the colliers in the employment of Messrs. Charles Grosvenor and Son, New Hall Colliery, Middleton, has just been averted. The men sent in notices a fortnight ago for an advance of one penny per ton for using lamps, though they have been in use since 1862; and aleo for sixpence per man per shift for, night work. The firm offered them fourpence per shift, but objected to the penny per ton for lamps. The men had an interview with the manager and one of the firm, when a compromise was effected. The men yielded the claim for night money, and the employers agreed to give the penny per ton.

LOFTHOUSE.

CRICKET MATCH.—On Saturday last a match was played at Robin Hood between eleven of the workmen employed at the Bye Pit and eleven plate-layers employed at Ardsley Sidings. The Bye Pit eleven gained the victory, scoring 30 to their opponents 22. This match was for a supper the expense to be borne by the losing eleven.

BICYCLE RACE.—On Saturday last a bicycle race between J. Fox, of Robin Hood, and T. Neale, of Carlton, took place. The route was from Rothwell Haigh round Lofthouse and Carlton back to Rothwell Haigh, a distance of about 3 miles. J. Fox won the race, both parties having a wooden bicycle called a 'bone shaker.' From what we could hear the money won was well earned.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING.—On Sunday the usual yearly harvest thanksgiving in connection with Christ Church, Lofthouse, took place. The church was crowded, every available space being occupied. Sermons were preached in the morning and afternoon by the Rev. Robt. Chadwick, whilst the choir under the leadership of Mr Marshall sung the customary hymns. Mr. J. Ward presided at the organ. The church was tastefully decorated both by the produce of the garden and field; the offertories for both services amounted to £6 6s. 10d. which will be devoted to church expenses.

MISSIONARY SERVICES.—On Sunday the services in aid of the Missions was held in the Wesleyan Chapel at Lofthouse. Sermons were preached in the morning by Mr. Brunyate, and in the evening by Mr. Wice. On Tuesday a missionary meeting was held in the Chapel, which was presided over by Mr. J. Wainwright. Suitable addresses were delivered by Messrs. Renton, Hind, and Lowe. A vote of thanks to the chairman terminated the meeting. Collections were made at the close of each meeting, amounting altogether to £5 6s. 4d.

A MEETING in connection with the Working Men's Institute was held in the schoolroom on Tuesday evening last. Present—Mr. Marshall in the chair, Messrs. Hutchinson, C. Green, J. Green, and M. Lunn. After discussing several minor subjects it was resolved to hold a concert but no definite date was fixed.

One of the largest transactions ever recorded in brandy has just been concluded between La Grande Marque of Cognac and Messrs. W. and A. Gilbey, resulting in a purchase of 2500 hogsheads of 1865 brandy landed in 1870. This contract amounts to nearly 80,000l.—The Standard, 27th August, 1878.

FOOTBALL.

ROTHWELL NATIONAL SCHOOL versus OULTON ST. JOHN'S.

On Saturday last, October 12th, the return match between the above clubs was played at Rothwell, and won by the Rothwell team, who got nine goals and Oulton two. For Rothwell F. J. Seanor, got three goals, W. Bennett two, A. W. Seanor one, F. Waterhouse one, A. Ellis one and E Newbould one. The following were the players on Saturday last. A. W. Seanor, (captain) Brown, J. Walker, T. Turton, M. Ward, Dobson, M. Fowler, F. Waterhouse, A. Ellis, A. Ward, J. W. Wright, W. Bennett, Newbould, F. J. Seanor.

ROTHWELL HARMONIC FOOTBALL CLUB.

The opening match of the above Club was played on Saturday last, in a field kindly lent for the occasion by Mr Braim. The opposing teams were Married v. Single. but owing to the "matrimonials" being in a minority, they had to make up their team with a few "untied ones." The Married, having won the toss elected to play down the hill. At 4 20 p.m. the captain set the ball in motion. Before ten minutes had expired the Singles had secured a goal, to which they added another before half time was called. On the play resuming, the Married worked hard to retrieve their fortune, but it is was not to be. The Singles scored three more goals, and now the determination of the Married became aroused. With a piece of really good play they succeeded in getting a goal. Play was now even until the time was called, when the Singles were declared victors by five goals to one. The players on each side worked hard without exception. Every one was "all there," and to particularize them would be a task of no common order. It may be remarked that the players were equipped in their new colours—scarlet and black—and really presented a grand appearance on the field.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for our Correspondents, opinions.—ED.

THE FEVER AT STOURTON.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Sir,

Mr. Horn may think it very clever of him to use the patronising mode of writing and seek popularity by setting himself up as the protector of the poor, while false statements are made and incorrect suppositions are accepted, but it is evident from his last letter that he shirks the question of drainage, and asks me to go over the ground with him, which has already been examined and reported upon by a far more competent person than myself, and possibly Mr. Horn will admit than even he is. If Mr. Fairley's high standing in Leeds, is not sufficient to satisfy Mr. Horn, it is futile my attempting to do so.

As to the cause of fever, Mr. Horn will have learned that the first case occurred next door to the farm, and that another has also existed in Holgate's house. The drainage could not be held responsible for these, as there is none.

Although I endeavoured (as shown in the report of our last meeting but one) to show that the fever was not due to Barraclough's cows, and supported the man's case almost alone yet when other evidence was brought, it was clear that it arose from the milk somehow. Mr. Fairley's analysis of the water and his remarks on it shows that the milk was not wholesome, and I am sure the Board, while anxious to stay the fever, desired to do so, not by shutting the man up altogether, as would probably have been done in Leeds but by using such means as might enable him to remove the cause of injury to his milk. The Board cannot be accused of using harsh measures in the matter.

As to the drainage, and the charges Mr. Horn makes against the Board, it is not for the Board to take up a correspondence, but as I happen to be a member of that much abused body, I beg to point Mr. Horn to the letter from Mr. Parkinson and to the facts of the case as reported in the Times. Here, Mr. Horn has made another foolish mistake, there are really two outlets to the old drains, the new ones are not used at all, and by recent and personal examination, the system such as it is, was never in a better state than at present, and until the new scheme can be completed by the Leeds Corporation outlet, answers its purposes well.

Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH HOLMES,
Haigh Villa, Stourton Lodge,
Oct. 16th, 1878.

Mr. Editor,

I think Mr. Horn must fancy himself a wonderful good sort of fellow, and be anxious to use is spare time and spare cash for the benefit of the poor.

I also think the best thing Thwaite Gate folks can do will be to send Mr. Horn to the Local Board and he'll find plenty to do, I fancy, with his spare time, and maybe get a taste of the honour and dishonour attaching to that office. From what I can see and hear, people that talk longest and write strongest when "irresponsible ratepayers," are those that say least and do less when they happen to get on to the Board, either Local or School.

I wonder what Mr. Horn would have done, if he was taken ill, and his doctor had told him the milk he and his family were drinking was tainted with disease; would he have continued drinking it, and slapping the doctor on his face, tell him he knew nothing about it?

But when, to support his case, Dr. Heaps took the milk and the water to Mr. Fairley, the analyst, and found his opinion confirmed, how then? Oh! says the sick gentleman, I don't believe it was our milk, you got somebody else's, and put poison in it, and then went and paid 3 or 4 guineas for the analysis; I'll get up, and take some myself and if it's as you say, then you pay Mr. Fairley another 2 or 3 guineas and I'll give 1s. to the Leeds Infirmary. Well done Mr. Horn!

I say, let us trust and support the Board when it tries to rid us of disease and let Mr. Horn provide the district with a little Fever Hospital with his spare guineas.

Truly yours
POZ.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuable articles from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.
IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known.
YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY
Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

TABLE I.
Shewing the quantities of different illuminating materials necessary to produce the same amount of light.

Refined Colza Oil,	do.	1 in.	Argand do.		1·88 do.
London Gas of 16 Candle Power,					503 cubic feet.

TABLE II.
Assuming that Young's Paraffin Oil and American Petroleum are each valued at 1s. per gallon, Colza Oil at 3s. 6d. per gallon, and London Gas at 3s. 6d. per 1000 feet, then to produce a light of 22 Standard Candles—

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

Extract from "THE LANCET," January 5th, 1878.
NIGRINE: A JET BLACK MARKING FLUID. (W. MATHER, Farringdon Road, London).
We can commend this as a very good and convenient Marking Ink, we have submitted Linen marked with it to some of the most powerful of the Agents, including Acids, Alkalies and Chlorine, and Cyanide of Potassium, and have found that it was very much easier to destroy the Linen than the marking upon it; for the writing could not be effaced by any of the Agents we employed.

JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain—

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.
SOLE MANUFACTURER:—J. T. DAVENPORT, 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London.

GREAT BRITAIN AND RUSSIA.

The jealous hostility which for centuries existed between England and France has passed away. For at least 500 years the two nations, separated by the streak of silver sea, were in a chronic state of enmity; age after age there were gigantic and sanguinary wars; tens of thousands of valuable lives were sacrificed and money was expended on slaughter and bloodshed which if devoted to the peaceful development of the resources of both countries would have rendered myriads happy. Certainly from the battle of Agincourt in 1415 to the battle of Waterloo, exactly 400 years later, the strife was fierce and oft-repeated; but with the overthrow of Napoleon a better day dawned for each of two great peoples. No one now, on either side of the Channel would speak of the land upon the other side as that of an hereditary foe. Even the periodical panic of a French invasion has departed, and left merely its ghost, dim and shadowy in the shape of an indistinct remembrance, to remind us that it had ever been. It has disappeared as a phantom of the night is chased away at the coming of the dawn The cordial feeling between the two nations has never been more thoroughly exemplified than during the present year, in the holding of the Paris Exhibition and the enthusiastic reception of the heir to the British Crown by all classes of the population in the French capital.

One traditional enemy passeth away and another cometh. It is no longer France of which we are bidden to be on our guard, but the great Colossus of the North, bestriding two Continents, and ever, according to its enemies, seeking to seize India by steadily and stealthily advancing through Central Asia, and endeavouring to undermine our influence in Europe by moving southwards towards Constantinople, there to become possessed of the entrance to the Mediterranean, from which her ships of war are now excluded. Three and twenty years ago, the feelings against Russia in this country became so strong that, in company with France, we went to war to clip her wings. As to France, people were ill-natured enough to say that the French as a nation cared nothing about the war, and it was undertaken solely for the dynastic cause of the Emperor. But without controverting or admitting the truth of this assertion, of one thing there can be no question, that the English, as a nation, were at that time thoroughly aroused against Russia. Granted that a great deal of this feeling might have been due to misrepresentation, undoubtedly we were at that time determined that the Muscovite should be no competitor of ours either in Europe or Asia, and the Treaty of Peace, signed at Paris in 1856, laid down some very stringent conditions, binding Russia by land and sea. One of these, after having been endured by Russia sixteen years, was repudiated by her in 1870 when France, one of the high contracting parties, was prostrate at the feet of Germany, and had not the power, even if she had possessed the will, to enforce the provision of the infracted Treaty. Great Britian unquestionably had the power, but the enforcement of a Treaty is a collective and not an individual duty; and besides this the strong feeling against Russia had subsided. A nation, no more than a man, cannot be always thinking of one subject, or indulging in one aversion. The absorbing topic of one decade becomes a matter of history the next; and as the vast universe moves on, subjects of importance continually arise. Each has its day and gives place to another. Like the shifting scenes in a kaleidoscope, there is a constant succession of change. The topics before the nation in 1870 were not those of 1856; it had other affairs to think about and to talk over. There were a few who contended that the repudiation of Russia of the Black Sea clauses of the Treaty rendered the Crimean War of non-effect, that we had thus sacrificed everything for which we had gone to war, and had therefore much better have our men and our money. But we were so engaged in contemplating the troubles of our neighbours that these objections were unheeded, and a new Convention was signed in London agreeing to what Russia had done. Indeed, the feeling against the Muscovite died away to such an extent that in January, 1874, a son of the Queen was united in marriage to the only daughter of the Czar, amid many prophecies of the friendship which was in future to exist between England and Russia.

During the last two years there has been unmistakeable evidence that the antipathies once so manifestly marked had but faded for a time, and then revived. The insurrection in Bulgaria, suppressed by the Turks with a ferocity that elicited a burst of indignation here, was declared to be due to Russian machinations; and when the Czar declared war for the avowed purpose of liberating his fellow-Christians from an intolerable yoke, he was denounced as a hypocrite, who merely wanted Turkish territory. So strong did the tide of public feeling against Russia run last winter, that war was shouted for with almost barbaric ardour. It was hoped that the Treaty of Berlin, by establishing peace upon a permanent basis, would have allowed the nations to settle down each to its own affairs, that trade would revive and prosperity return. Suddenly and unexpectedly the Afghan scare appears upon the scene, and bids us prepare for war. A cry goes up that it is all the doings of Russia. Her invasion of Central Asia has assumed such proportions that Afghanistan now is the only barrier between the Muscovite power and British India; and the experience of Khiva and Bokhara show that Cabul will too surely fall into Russian hands, and that then the forces of the Czar would be thundering at our very gates. In days long ago it was asked "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" The Russophobists of the present age declare that nothing good can possibly come out of St. Petersburgh. And so two great peoples who would find ample occupation in pushing forward the work of peace, are once more set by the ears, and shaking fists at each other in the most warlike of attitudes. Meanwhile that rest and confidence which alone can promote prosperity is unknown, to the loss of those who directly suffer, and to the regret of all rightly-thinking men.

ROTHWELL CRICKET CLUB.

The Annual Meeting of the above Club was held on Thursday. Oct. 17th, at the Working Man's Club-room. Over 40 sat down to an excellent knife and fork tea, which had been provided by Mrs. Lambert. L. Calverley, Esq. having kindly presented the Club with a dozen rabbits. After having partaken of the good things prepared, and the wants of the inner man had been fully satisfied, the Annual Meeting was held, the President (Rev. G. Heberden) being in the chair. The meeting was opened by the chairman, who made some very complimentary remarks on the general behaviour of the members, he also hoped all would endeavour to avoid disputes, and abstain from using bad language. Six bats were then presented to those who had been most successful with the ball and bat during the past season in their respective Elevens. The following received bats for having made the highest average number runs, G. Gibson, T. T. Rawling, S. Waterhouse, and for bowling T. Dobson, F. Green, and J. Wilson. It should be mentioned that C. Tiffany has got the best average in the first eleven for batting but he is debarred from receiving a prize because he has previously had a benefit. A. Fowler had also received a bat from the Rev. H. S. King for having been the first to score 10. The Secretary then stated that the Club had not been as successful as last year, this year more matches have been lost than won, but it was cheering to hear that the Club was still in a good financial position there being a balance of over £4 in hand. The Officers were chosen for next year. Votes of thanks were given to the Rev. G. Heberden and the Rev. H. S. King for their great interest which they had shown in the welfare of the Club, and also to the late secretary for his services, during the year. The proceedings then terminated. A list of the averages are given:—

WAKEFIELD WEST RIDING COURT.

Monday, before Messrs. W. B. Leatham (chairman) Col. Mackie, R. B. Mackie, Dr. Kendal and W. B. Beaumont, M. P.

A WARNING.—Geo. Jennings appeared in the dock charged with an infringement of the rules in use at the Lofthouse Gate Colliery on the 11th, by not having his lamp more than 2 yards from him.

Geo. Sugden under viewer said that it was the rule to have the lamps more than two yards from them. The prisoner confessed to having broken the gauze of his lamp by accidentally driving his pick through it. The manager of the colliery was then called, he said that he believed that it had occurred by accident but they wished to press the case as this would be a warning to others. He also said that as there was a quantity of gas in the pit, an occurrence like this might cause an accident. The prisoner who said he was very sorry for what he had done, had only to pay the expences which amounted to 15s.

ANOTHER RULE BREAKER.—Benjamin Rogerson, was charged with an infringement of the rules of the above colliery. George Sugden said that the prisoner had infringed the rules by throwing his lighted lamp at another person, which if there had been a quantity of gas where it occurred would have been sufficent to have caused an explosion. The prisoner said he was helping a boy to get his corve on the road when the other man ran away with his (prisoner's) he told him to stop and on him not doing so, he threw his lamp at him. The prisoner who had been previously convicted was fined 10s. and 10s. costs.

On Saturday last a supper was held at Mr. Eddison's, the New Inn, at Ouzlewell Green, to which about 26 sat down. This supper was in connection with the Cricket Match played a week last Saturday, particulars of which appeared in our last issue. Mr. Charles Green having been nominated chairman was called on to sing a song, and caused much amusement by the way in which he rendered it. The evening was pleasantly spent. A vote of thanks to the host and hostess terminated tha proceedings.

On Wednesday, three or four cases of "drunk and disorderly" were brought up from this district, the prisoners being fined 5s. and costs in each case.

On Friday last, the Wakefield magistrates signed a new Poor Rate for Rothwell, of 1s.1d. in the pound.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—A Cure for Abscesses, Piles, Fistula, and Sores of every description.—The very satisfactory results arising from the use of this invaluable Ointment, when the patients have been suffering from any of the above disorders, have induced the Medical Profession to introduce it into the hospitals and their private practice, and in many instances where the sufferer was considered incurable, Holloway's Ointment, in conjunction with his Pills, healed the most desperate cases. They are also unequalled for the cure of scrofula, scurvy, and all diseases of the skin, and the cures they effect are not temporary or imperfect, for by their purifying powers they bring about a marvellous and most beneficial change in the whole system, and enable it, with renovated powers, to resist the approach of all future attacks of the same disease.

COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, DIFFICULTY OF BREATHING, are speedily cured by KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES (recognised and recommended by the Medical Faculty). No other remedy is half so effective. One Lozenge alone gives relief. They contain no Opium, Morphia, nor any violent drug; and may be taken by the most delicate. One or two at bed time ensures rest when troubled by the throat. The proprietor receives, constantly, the most gratifying letters from those who have obtained great benefit from their use. KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES, prepared by Thomas Keating, St. Paul's Churchyard, are sold by all Chemists, in Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. each.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for our Correspondent's opinions.—ED.

THE FEVER AT STOURTON.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Dear Sir,

As Mr. Joseph Holmes brings no new arguments into this correspondence and as I have established to the satisfaction of all right minded men that it was not caused by the milk, but bad drainage, (whether the Local Board is responsible for that or not, I leave to the consideration of all whom it may concern.) I now beg to say that so far as I am concerned this correspondence will cease, it was begun with the best intention and has been carried on without any personal feelings, as I believe Mr. Joseph Holmes is a very single minded man, and from the course he took at the board meeting of which I complained I am sure he did not think the milk was the cause of it, neither does he yet.

I am satisfied that good must come out of the vinelation of the doings of the Local Board; and as it is admitted that all men who seek public honours should have thick skins, I hope my remarks have only penetrated as far as their thinking powers and that in future they will let common sense have fair play in their deliberations. I beg to say, in conclusion, that whenever I find anyone writing to a paper who has not the manliness to sign his name, I treat it as the braying of a Donkey, well knowing that he is ashamed to write "Jackass."

As I intend to remain here about a month I shall not have the pleasure of again troubling you till after the expiration of that time.

Yours truly
THOMAS HORN.

THE ATTACK UPON A POOR MILKMAN AT STOURTON.

Stourton Vineries, Oct. 24th, 1878

Dear Sir,—If you will allow me a small space in your valuable and wide circulating paper to make a little comment and some general remarks on the above matter I shall be much obliged. I would not have troubled you, but as Dr. Heaps and the defence letter writers have not retracted their statements and their insulting letters against a poor cow-keeper and Mr. Horn, and also that the public think I have helped Mr. Holmes to make up his letters—be it known I would disdain having anything to do with the concoction of such letters for in my mind I am convinced that neither Dr. Heaps, Mr. Holmes, nor Mr. Parkinson has proved, nor cannot prove, what they say as regards the milk and drains.

At the Board Meeting on Sept. 20th, Dr. Heaps says that he has traced the cause of fever at Stourton to Mr Barraclough's milk, and he has taken some milk, supposed to be from his farm, to Mr. Fairley for analysis—a more unfair and roundabout transaction was never invented. If Dr. Heaps had done his duty, and been such a dutiful officer as he would like the Board to have him be, he would have gone to Mr. Barraclough at milking time and bought some new milk, taken it along with a witness to see that it was not tampered with on the road; then, and only then, will I believe the milk which Mr. Fairley had before him came from the accused farm.

Dr. Heaps again at the next meeting says—I have seen Mr. Horn's letter but consider it beneath my notice. I should like to know if he or any other officer of the Board are doing their duty by such remarks; neither are such becoming of any public man. I would also ask all those connected with the replies to Mr. Horn's letters—What has Mr Horn done? Has he or has he not, done the duty which any honourable man would do for another, and especially for a milkman, who cannot be equalled for his long hours, hard work, and little pay; he must go rain or fair, we expect him to come no matter what happens That being true, I say it is very hard lines to charge and make public anything which has a tendency to be his ruin.

Mr. Horn is a model of a man and has stood by a milkman's side, therefore he is insulted by men who ought to know better. Public men should bear talk fair to and not think that when they fire they fire glass balls! My opinion is that the shot has been too hard and not much glass about it

I have seen Mr. Barraclough's farm and I fail to see or smell anything which is not on every farm; and as to his cows, why they cannot be beaten, let any man see them and he will then think (if he be a judge of a cow) that they are in good health. And as to the cows drinking water from the yard,—if they do take a little it will do them no harm, it is good for them, I have repeatedly seen cows drinking worse water than what is in his farmyard (I may say sewage water). Then again, where did the cows on the farms below the Leeds Sewage Works, for scores of miles, get water from, before any sewage was taken out of the river? Did it taint the milk with fever? If it did, then what milk we give to pigs comes into our stomachs through a flesh similar to ours. If it is filtered by passing through the pig, it is the same by a cow; it the milk is poisoned it is afterwards, and nothing will do it better than gases from drains when it is put up to cream.

And about our drains, Mr. Holmes admits at the Board Meeting on Sept. 20th, that they have been stopped and in his letters he contradicts himself. Mr. Parkinson also says there has been no stoppage of old drains by putting in the new. I say it is not true! but he does admit of a few pipes being taken out and cleaned and repaired, this cannot be done without breaking part of the pipe to get them out and in. If Mr. Parkinson can dig a drain ten feet deep and undermine an old drain and put the soil in as solid as before, then I will believe that the old ones have not sunk and hence the stoppage. Of course it may now be set at liberty again. But I say it did occur, and water was in cellars. I have seen the soil settle eight inches in one night, some time after it has been filled up.

I may add that Mr. Batty did not take up any milk from Barraclough's Farm to Stourton after Aug. 17th last, also if Barraclough's milk was bad at Stourton, would milk out of the same vessel be good in Hunslet where ten to one are sold. If it had been tainted in Hunslet, would not the Leeds Officers have detected it.

It appears to myself all this has arisen from a calf being sold off the farm a short time since, which was to all appernance healthy, and was one week old. after it was killed in Hunslet, Mr. Barraclough was sent for and informed that the calf was not fit for food, and was subsequently summoned, when Dr. Goldie, of Leeds, said it was his opinion the calf had never lived at all, for that he had to yay a fine of £10, so because Mr. Goldie gave his opinion in that direction it has led to suspicion about the milk, when no traces of fever can be found.

Another fault is the way in which the Board have proceeded with the drains: nearly three years ago, I suggested to the Board the line of sewers to carry it to Knostrop, to save expense, no doubt someone else has been credited with this, as I have received no acknowledgement of the letter, but I did not tell them to work on the plan they have—start at the top first. Were I to slate a house and build the brick-work down to the bottom after, I should be called in ane—that is just what the Board has done, they say that it is Leeds fault I say it is not so, the Board should have waited until an outlet was effected, and let the sink pipes, &c., into the main as they proceeded—they have also put new pipes down, when theold ones would have done; there must be about £400 in the old pipes wasted—and the saving of property owners connecting the sink would have been great I have spent over £40 round my land and I have again to contribute towards new ones.

I am, dear Sir,
Yours truly,
CHARLES MIDGLEY.

"OLD WHITE HALL,"

(A TALE OF OLD ROTHWELL).

By C. Gibson, London.

CHAPTER VIII.

While Linton is fast asleep and dreaming of being in London painting grand pictures and receiving handfuls of gold for them, we will let him enjoy his bliss, and describe for you an incident which our friend Joe played a very conspicuous part in.

Meg (the little white pony with which our reader is already acquainted) one Saturday night had been allowed to graze in a field close by the hall, but not being content with her pasturage she had strayed into another field adjoining, therefore she had placed herself within the reach of the law as a trespasser. The village Pinder of that period had a very sharp eye and he was a rare fellow to leave his bed very early in a morning, and as a matter of course he caught Meg, not napping, but nipping off the sweetest blades of grass that she could find in the field wherein she ought not to have been.

She was now a prisoner and very soon found herself in the pinfold on the Sunday morning; here was a disgrace for a female to be in who belonged to the Old White Hall.

Joe of course was quite ignorant of Meg's doleful situation; at the usual time he is at his post in the old church steeple pulling and tugging at a bell rope quite unconscious of what was in store for him.

Well, after his services as a ringer were concluded, instead of going into the church he must needs take a walk, and enjoy the sweet fresh air that is generally to be found in the outskirts of a rural village, and when he arrived at the place where he expected to see Meg, he was surprised to find she wasn't there.

"Nah, I'll be baand ta say at Benny Blackburn hes put her et t'pinfold," said Joe to himself, "I'll go an see if he hes."

He accordingly did so, and found Meg looking very disconsolate on the bare ground within the pinfold.

"Meg," said Joe, rather sharp; "what ta been doing ta get thesen put e this hole?" She pricked up her ears at his well-known voice, but not being gifted with the power of speech she could not answer his question.

"Theear's nobody abart," said Joe, looking around and I'm suar shoo can jump ower this owd pinfold door I knaw it is'nt as heigh as t'wall "Ill just try her."

"Nah, Meg, nivver mind Benny Blackburn, jump ower that owd door my lass," Joe he made a peculiar noise with his mouth and the nimble little pony, as if knowing what he had just said, gave a spring and cleared the pinfold door just in time for the pinder to see her perform so clever a feat, and make her escape from "durance vile,"

"Stop that pony, shouted Benny Blackburn to Joe."

"Nay, ye mun stop her yersen, answered Joe, I are'nt a pinder."

"But ye hev made her jump art t'pinfowd, an I'll mak ye suffer for it, and Benny tried to catch hold of Meg, but she threw up her hind legs and showed a clean pair of Johnny Murmill's iron shoes, and soon was in her stable at the back of the hall."

During the time that the pinder was employed in the fruitless attempt to catch Meg Joe was nearly convulsed with laughter, which did not tend to appease the ill-humour of Benny, and as luck would have it (at least for the pinder) two or three of the churchwardens were coming from the "Old Black Bull Inn," where they had been in search of some sabbath-breakers, and not having found them, they had taken their way up the Marsh Road.

When Benny saw them, he said to Joe, "if I can't catch t'pony, I can thee," and suiting the action to the word and being a strong muscular man, he held fast the offending Joe, until the churchwardens came up and enquired the cause of the disturbance.

Now it is very likely that Joe being a useful member of the church would have been allowed to go away unmolested, but the pinder would have lost his fee for the imprisonment of Meg; so after a deal of angry talking among the parties concerned, it was at last decided to put Joe in the stocks, which were near to the old cross on the top of May Pole Hill, for unlawfully releasing a certain pony, which the pinder had that morning put into the pinfold.

Joe was now in a very awkward predicament and he strongly protested against the decision which his captors had arrived at, but it was of no use, for he was soon on the little bit of rising ground known in history as May Pole Hill, where he had merrily danced with many a gay companion, but now it would have been a most superhuman feat for him to do for both his feet were fast in the stocks we will here describe them.

Two stout posts were fixed in the earth about seven feet apart, they were grooved on the inner sides to receive two oak planks about four inches in thickness, the bottom plank was a fixture, but the top one would slide up and down; there ware six holes half cut out on the inner edge of each of them, just sufficiently large enough for a man's ankle to rest in, and two large padlocks with staples in the front prevented the top plank from moving when the prisoner was seated; there was a large bench behind which was about eighteen inches from the ground.

There are many such mild instruments of punishment in different parts of country, but I believe that they are not now used, but merely left standing as relics of a time when the parish beadle was a very important limb of the law.

Now Joe presented a woeful and ludicrous appearance while seated on the bench behind the stocks; he could not use his feet, but was obliged to sit and endure the taunts and laughter of a crowd that had gathered around him.

"I'll run ye a race for awt ye like," said said one of the bystanders, "Nay," said another, "Joe is a good jumper but he cannot beat me now."

"His booits wants heeling," said a cobbler, "let us pull 'em off, an run away with his stockings."

"They aren't worth that trouble, for they are full a hoils an nearly worn out," said another, "an if ye did he'd still hev a pair a stockings at he cannot pull off."

"If I could," said Joe defiantly, "ye woddent be laughing there, I knaw."

"What a valiant man," said the cobbler, "he's brave enough to be a sowdjer."

To such conversation as this Joe was compelled to lend an unwilling ear and sit on his lowly seat until after the sermon had been preached in the old church, when he was released from the stocks by one of the churchwardens, with an exhortation on the folly of meddling with the lawful occupation of the village pinder.

We will now return to the old house at Oulton. Linton arose from his bed anticipating good news. He had been awake for hours, for sound and undisturbed sleep had had no power over him during the night, how could it when he had such "great expectations" in view.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, which occupy a very small space, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, two FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi. page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865. DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE. THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKEY.

The large increased consumption of, and the reputation obtained for Irish and Scotch Whiskeys by W. and A. Gilbey during the past few years, render the brands of Whiskeys quoted above especially worthy of attention at the present time. The stock of old matured Whiskey held by W. and A. Gilbey in their bonded stores is now, without doubt, the largest in the world, exceeding as it does 5000 butts of Irish and 3000 butts of Scotch Whiskey, equal to upwards of a million proof gallons. Their sales of Whiskeys last year exceeded two million bottles.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD.

On Monday, the above Board held the ordinary meeting. Present—J. Charlesworth Esq., (chairman) Messrs. W. Hargreaves, W. Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes and the Clerk Treasurer and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, a somewhat animated conversation ensued as to the water not being yet ready for distribution, it having been anticipated that the houses would have connected by the end of last week. As however, the engineer considers it best to fill gradually, the water will be allowed to stand in the reservoir a day or two so as to thoroughly test the tightness of the work. There was on Monday about 6-ft. 6-in. of water in the reservoir, and it was stated on authority that the height had not gone down "the thickness of an onion peeling." (A member remarked that that must be very very much thinner than the skin of "thick-skinned Boardsmen.")

It was eventually resolved on the motion of Mr. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Holmes—That, presuming the reservoir still remains tight, the water be turned on on Friday, Nov. 1st. Mr. Greenwood neutral.

The quantity of water consumed at Stourton during the last quarter was 818 thousand gallons, this being less than last quarter. In reply to a question it was stated that the water rents, more than cover the price paid and the cost of collection.

In reply to another question, in cases where a house is rated under £10 the landlord pays the rent, if over £10, the tenant is chargeable.

The clerk read over a form of agreement to be signed by persons desirous of having town's water. The Byelaws regulating the water supply will be published shortly.

Mr. Holmes suggested and proposed that a valve be placed in the main at the end of the Paddock, so that should any repairs be required to be done, it will not be necessary to stop the whole supply.—Seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves and carried. Mr. Greenwood being neutral.

Mr. Hawden and Mr. Lunn, were both wishful to know what the Board intended to do in the case of application for outside guards in yards &c.

Mr. Bramley thought it would be rather a hardship for an owner of old property to put taps into all the houses, although he purposed putting water on to the sinks in his property.

Mr. Holmes' experience led him to the opinion that it was much better and cheaper in the long run to have water in the house. He had found the expense of keeping a guard in repair to be more serious than putting in taps at once. There was also the advantage of always assuring a good tenant.

Mr. Hawden quite agreed with Mr. Holmes as to the eventual expense, and there was also the nuisance of tenants having to go out of doors in cold weather and waiting of each other for the water, besides the risk of the pipes bursting with the frost.

Mr. W. Hargreaves wanted the question settling at once, but it was eventually resolved on the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Hawden. That the question be referred to the Waterworks Committee. Mr. Hargreaves neutral.

Several properties near to the reservoir will have to be considered separately as regards their water supply.

Mr. Lunn drew attention to the fact that the Carlton sewage water is coming down into Rothwell Beck; the matter will have to be watched.

The amended agreement between the Hunslet Sanitary Authority, the Local Board and Edmund Calverley, Esq, respecting the outlet for Rothwell sewage was read over for the last time. The provisions have already been published, and the agreement has receiv... the approval of the Local Goverment Board. Subject to a comparison of the present copy of the agreement with the original document, it was resolved—That the agreement between the Hunslet Sanitary Authority, the Rothwell Local Board and Edmund Calverley, Esq, for taking and treating Rothwell sewage be now signed on behalf of the Board.

It having transpired that some persons are purposing to put in cheap taps over their sinks, &c., it is well to inform the public that one of the provisions of the water supply is that every tap shall be approved and stamped by the Inspector to the Board.

Mr. J. Hargreaves having previously given notice, moved that the old school premises be so altered and improved as to provide a office for the School Board, a waiting-room, and a cottage at the further end for a care-taker.

The question of course arose, whose is it? Mr. Wm. Hargreaves suggested that the Overseers, the School Board, and the Local Board should join in the expenses.

Mr. Holmes thought that perhaps the Overseers would waive their claim and allow the Local Board to make the alterations for the benefit of all parties.

It was however decided on the motion of Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Bramley—That the Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Mr. Lunn, and Mr. Holmes be the committee to meet the Overseers on the question. Messrs. Smith and Greenwood neutral.

The Clerk read some extracts from the new Highway and Locomotives Act, affecting the Board, setting forth that where proper conditions have been fulfilled the Board may obtain from the County rates, one half the expense of maintaining main roads; also to stop any unnecessary road; and to obtain extra rates for extra traffic. The consideration of the Act was referred to the Highway Committe.

Carlton Lane causeway having been broken up in several places where building is going on, it was resolved that notices be served on the owners of such property to repair such crossings, and if not done, to be repaired by the Board at the owner's expense.

On the motion of Mr. Bramley, seconded by Mr. W. Hargreaves, it was resolved that a gate be fixed in the entrance to the Board's field, at Gillett Bridge, and a notice board put up cautioning trespassers.

The Clerk having stated that the General District Rate is now finished, it was moved by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Hawden,—That the Clerk obtain the necessary estimate for laying another General District Rate. Carried.

Several accounts were ordered to be paid. Mr. W. Hargreaves drew the attention of the Board to the bad state of the footpath leading to Sterroid Well. Mr. Smith said he would repair it.

On the motion of Mr. Holmes, it was resolved—That the clerk write to Mr. Colman, of the Leeds & Barnsdale Turnpike Trust, enclosing a claim of £18 for the repairs of the Cinder Ovens Bridge.

Mr. Greenwood gave notice that he should object at next meeting to the payment of 10s. hire of waggonette for the use of the Sanitary & Highway Committees in inspecting the district.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

The usual meeting of the School Board was held in the Board Room on Friday last. Present—Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Messrs. Seanor, J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison and the Clerk and Attendance Officer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the School Attendance Officer made his report.

Waterloo school is being well attended. Rothwell Haigh also shows considerable improvement, though the girls still attend irregularly.

Several bad cases of non-attendance are reported at Rothwell, and it was resolved to issue summonses on two or three persons, should they not send their children to school within fourteen days.

The Byelaws are now in full force, and copies may be obtained of the Clerk.

On the motion of Mr. Seanor, seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves, it was resolved—That a precept be signed and served on the Overseers of the Poor for Rothwell for £400 to cover the Board's expenses for the six months ending March 25th, 1879.

It was also unanimously resolved to advance the salary of Mr. Denton, School Attendance Officer to £20 per annum.

The newly appointed master of Rothwell School (Mr. Harms) presented a report in which he stated that the organization was very imperfect, and the discipline bad, but both these were now considerably improved. He spoke highly of Miss Jowett, and had no doubt that the monitors would in time make useful teachers. The attendance was improving, there being an average last week of 135.6.

The auditor's report respecting the books of the Board was satisfactory, and the balance due to the Treasurer at the end of September was £53 10s.

The various lists of wants were ordered to be obtained.

Cheques were signed for the salaries of the teachers due Oct. 31st.

On the motion of Mr. Batty, seconded by the chairman, the usual extra allowance of 2s. per week during the next 6 months was granted to S. Lorriman, for night school work &c.

LOFTHOUSE SCHOOL BOARD.

An ordinary Meeting of the Board held at the Robin Hood School on Thursday, present:—J. Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman) B. Searth, Esq., Mr. Throp and Mr. J. H. Lee, the clerk. The minutes of the previous meeting were confirmed. The school fees for the month of September were, Robin Hood School £7 11s. 8d., and Carlton £6 16s. 4d. Cheques were signed amounting to £38 5s. 2d. for Teachers Salaries and Cleaning. A precept was signed upon the Overseers of Lofthouse-with-Carlton and for Thorp equal to 4d. in the pound. Two applications for remission of fees were made to the Board, and being found deserving were granted. The Books made up for the year ending Sept. 30 were laid before the Board and inspected by them and signed by the chairman.

THE LATE MRS. RICHD. HARRISON

Only from a feeling of sincere sorrow and sympathy, in which all who knew her join, would we reverently mention the unexpected and distressing death of Mrs. Richard Harrison, of Grimston Lodge, Tadcaster, better known in Rothwell as the youngest daughter of the late Vicar, the Rev. John Bell. But a few days ago cheerfully visiting and chatting with some of her many friends in Rothwell, it was sad to witness the funeral cortege which on Tuesday last wended its mournful course along the streets, bearing all that remained of that once lovely, loved form to its last earthly resting-place. Very appropriate and befitting the intense sadness of the occurrence was the rigid plainness and absence of all show in the arrangements of the funeral, only private carriages following the hearse.

Amid the crowds of people who thronged the streets many an eye moistened as the funeral passed, at the remembrance of the kindly actions and cheery words with which Miss Gertrude (as she was called) soothed many a widow's heart and dried many a sorrowing one's tears. Several wreaths of flowers were placed by loving hands on the coffin while it rested in the church. The scene in the churchyard was one which will not soon be forgotten; hundreds of people awaited the completion of the solemn service, and an almost deathlike stillness prevailed, while reverence and sorrow were depicted on every countenance.

GERTRUDE MARY HARRISON,
WHO DIED OCTOBER 26TH, 1878,
AGED 30 YEARS

The Revs. the Vicar and Mr. King officiated at the funeral, and — Fielding, Esq., (owner of Grimston) and the Vicar were present, with other friends.

Mrs. Harrison is laid by the side of her late lamented father, there to await the re-union of the body with the happy spirit at the resurrection of the just.

CONCERT AT LOFTHOUSE.

On Tuesday last, a literary and musical entertainment was held in the National School at Lofthouse. This entertainment was in connection with the Working Men's Institute, and was very well patronized. The principal vocalists were from the Outwood Glee and Madrigal Society, assisted by Mr. J. E. Taylor of Stanley, whilst the readings were given by the Rev. J. Gammell and Messrs. J. E. Taylor and H. Moorhouse. Mr. George Goodair, who conducted the singing, opened the entertainment by playing Mozart's overture 'Zauberflote,' in his usual brilliant manner. The glees on the whole were very creditably rendered, especially 'Awake Æolian Lyre,' and 'Farewell to the Forest.' The songs of Messrs. J. E. Taylor, W. Baldwin and J. Whipp were well received and drew forth rapturous encores; and Master W. E. Frost sang 'Far Away' so effectively as to receive a very warm recognition from the audience, and promises with care to become an attractive singer and one worth hearing. The readings which included both grave and amusing pieces, were all well received. The evening's entertainment was of an enjoyable character, having a nice variety of both music and readings, but it is to be hoped in future when any pieces are being sung or read which do not smack of the ridiculous, that the somewhat boisterous youths who were certainly annoying on Tuesday evening, will have a little more respect for the tastes of others, and give them the opportunity of receiving pleasure as well as themselves.

LOFTHOUSE CRICKET CLUB.

The annual meeting of this club was held on Saturday last at Mr. Hammonds, when upwards of 30 members sat down to a substantial supper, after which the business of the evening commenced; Mr. Charlesworth, the President of the Club, presiding. The Secretary's report shewed that the number of members during the past year were considerably less than last year, the scope of players being very much limited in consequence. The following result of matches played still shews that the club is keeping up its name and standing: in the 1st Eleven 26 matches were played, 13 Won, 7 Lost, and Drawn; T. Hammond is the highest average batter with 18½, and W. Atkinson the best bowler with an average of 7. In the 2nd Eleven 25 matches were played, 9 won, 11 Lost, and 5 Drawn; John Noble has the best average for batting, viz., 11½, and Geo. Dews for bowling with an average of 5½. The financial position of the club is not good, which is caused by additional outlay in putting up new Tent accomodation. Mr. Lee was re-appointed Secretary and Treasurer, and the following are the Committee for the coming year; Messrs. B. Colley, W. Newton, H. Moorhouse, M. Lunn, A. France, W. Atkinson and W. Idle. "Success to the Lofthouse Cricket Club," coupled with the name of the President, was proposed by Mr. Moorhouse, who alluded to the liberal manner in which the club was supported by the President, and by his kindness in coming amongst them as a player, and the health of Mr. Charlesworth was drunk most heartily, to which he suitably replied. The members enjoyed themselves the remainder of the evening singing songs, &c.

MAGIC LANTERN.—On Saturday last a Magic Lantern Entertainment took place in the Robin Hood Sunday School. We think it will have proved a great success judging from the number of persons present, the room being quite full. The subject was "Two Hours in London," and amongst other scenes the following were shown:—St. James Palace, The Houses of Parliament, Westminster Abbey, containing the big bell called "Big Ben," the Nave was shown with its magnificent roof supported by so many massive pillars of stone, by the finest architects; Victoria Embankment, and many other places of interest too numerous to enumerate.

The scenes were very interesting to any lover of Architectural Building, but to the company of which the entertainment was composed, we should scarce think it to be of sufficient interest.

Great praise is due to Mr. Horner who on every scene gave a brief but vivid description.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for our Correspondents' opinions.—ED.

THE FEVER AT STOURTON.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Sir,—As many letters have appeared in your paper on the Outbreak of Typhoid Fever in Stourton, and it has been stated more than once that Charlotte Pitts, and Holgate's son (both of whom were my patients) have had typhoid fever, I deem it my duty to correct any erroneous opinions that may have been formed on this subject.

Neither Charlotte Pitts nor Holgate's son were suffering from enteric fever whilst under my care.

I remain, Sir,
Yours truly,
ALFRED NICHOLSON, L.R.C.P.

OULTON FOOTBALL CLUB.

The opening match of the above club took place on Saturday last. The attendance was poor, although the Oulton Brass Band kindly volunteered their services and played a selection of popular airs during the game. The field was unsuitable as regards a "gate" and many persons availed themselves of a neighbouring eminence to watch the game, rather than part with the small sum charged for admittance, while others actually came through a gap in the hedge. The opposing teams were Captain's Side v. Vice-captain's. The ball having been set in motion by Mr. W. Abbey, it quickly traversed the ground, and at length became dangerously near to the Vice-captain's goal. A shot by the Captain was unsuccessful, the ball striking the cross-bar. Ultimately however, he passed it through thus scoring a goal for his side. Play was confined to the Vice-captain's territory until half time was called. On the resumption of hostilities the Vice-captain's side were now to the fore, and the Vice-captain getting the the ball, passed it through the posts, thus obtaining a goal for his side. Play now became very loose, and was not at all satisfactory, some players having to play by themselves, while the rest would have been far better absent. Good play was shown by some, notably Gosney, Herbert Bell, Wright and Clarkson. Each side had the advantage over the other when playing down hill, and many shots were made, but proved fruitless and on the call of time the score stood thus: Captain's Side, one goal. Vice-captain's one goal, thus leaving the game drawn. Of course much could be said in regard to the play shown, and taken on the whole it was very fairly done, but a few of the players need as much practice as they can obtain.

The teams were:—Captain's Side Frith and Davy, backs; Mirfin, Hy. Bell, and W. Todd, half backs; Herbert Bell, L. Lee, J. W. Moore, C. Britton, W. Hutchinson, J. Braithwaite and E. Boothroyd, (Captain) forwards: E. Wright, (goal.)

Vice-captain's Side:—R. A. Harrand, (goal) T. D. Jackson, R. Jowitt and Chadwick backs; A. Thomas, G. Arber and J. Wrigglesworth, half backs; A. Gosney, J. Clarkson, W. Inman, W. Butler, J. Stead and G. M. Abbey, (Vice-captain.)

ROBBERY AT STOURTON.

On Tuesday last Mr. W. Bird, Insur... Agent, Stourton, gave notice to the po... that a cash box containing several deeds... papers, a silver pencil case, some rings... precious stones, and £9 10s. 0d. in gold h... been stolen from his house. TWO WOULD-BE BURGLARS CAPTURED.—On Monday last, Geo. Ashman and James Wilson, miners, living at Thwaite Gate, appeared in the dock charged with having been on the premises of Mr. James Hargreaves, of Rothwell Haigh, on Saturday night for an unlawful purpose. Sergeant Turton, of Rothwell, said he was on duty on Saturday night last, when he saw the prisoners prowling about the above-named place, and thinking they were there for an unlawful purpose, he apprehended them. The prisoners were both committed to the House of Corection for two calendar months.

FOOTBALL.—On Saturday last a football match was played at Rothwell, between Rothwell Juniors versus Hunslet Second, but at half time neither side had gained any advantage. The ball been called into play once more, each side strove to defeat the other, until the ball burst and stopped the play, the match ended in a tie.

ROTHWELL MECHANICS INSTITUTE.—We understand that the Committee of the Mechanics' Institute have purchased the house adjoining, belonging to the late Mrs. Moxon, for £250. The institute is greatly in need of a retiring room and we suppose the new purchase will be partly used for that purpose.

PRESENTATION.—The members and congregation of the Oulton Wesleyan Society have just presented Mrs. Williamson (Miss Walker) with a silver cruet stand and butter knife beautifully engraved, as a mark of their esteem and appreciation of her valuable services in the choir and school.

ERROR.—By a typographical error in our report of the Rothwell Cricket Club, A. Fowler was stated to have received the reward of a bat from Mr King as being the first to score 10 runs. It should have been 50 runs.—ED.

DISEASES OF THE STOMACH.—Mr. Page D. Woodcock M.P.S., Calvert Street Norwich, has issued a pamphlet, entitled "An Enquiry into the Character, Causes, and Cure of the principal Diseases of the Stomach; also instructions for the cure of all scorbutic diseases, and diseases of the eye, &c." He lays down some excellent rules for the perservation of health by careful diet and regular habits, and says:—"Millions lead a lingering life which might be called a living death! And why? Because all pain is the consequence of violated laws. These laws are supreme, and from them there is no appeal. Cause and effect govern all nature. These laws are not a sealed book to the diligent and honest student. They are open to those who will and can discern them. It is upon these laws that Page Woodcock has composed his Wind Pills; they are the means to effect certain ends that is, these tonic purifying, invigorating, vegetable pills are based on the supposition that the stomach is the fountain of health, and if diseased, the smallest streams of life must also be deranged, but if the functions of the stomach be restored, the wheels of life move easily along, and every department of our entire nature overflows with the bliss of health. The pamphlet is well worth a perusal, and a copy will be sent free to any person addressing Mr. WOODCOCK, at Calvert Street, Norwich.—Birmingham Gazette.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—A Cure for Abscesses, Piles, Fistula, and Sores of every description.—The very satisfactory results arising from the use of this invaluable Ointment, when the patients have been suffering from any of the above disorders, have induced the Medical Profession to introduce it into the hospitals and their private practice, and in many instances where the sufferer was considered incurable, Holloway's Ointment, in conjunction with his Pills, healed the most desperate cases. They are also unequalled for the cure of scrofula, scurvy, and all diseases of the skin, and the cures they effect are not temporary or imperfect, for by their purifying powers they bring about a marvellous and most beneficial change in the whole system, and enable it, with renovated powers, to resist the approach of all future attacks of the same disease.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjecting the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and nearly give it its ordinary appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

A few doses quite effectual.—Caution.—The extraordinary medical reports on the efficacy of Chlorodyne render it of vital importance that the public should obtain the genuine, which is protected by a Government stamp, bearing the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne." See decision of Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood, the Times, July, 16th, 1864. Numerous testimonials from eminent Physicians accompany each bottle. From W. C. WILKINSON, Esq., F.R.C.S., Spalding. I consider it invaluable in Phthisis and Spasmodic Cough; the benefit is very marked. From Dr. M'Millman, of New Galloway, Scotland. As a Sedative, Anodyne; and Anti-Spasmodic, I consider Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne the most valuable medicine known. Sold in bottles, 1/1½, 2/9, & 4/6 by all Chemists.

THE WANT OF THE AGE SUPPLIED. MATHER'S NIGRINE. A JET BLACK MARKING FLUID FOR MARKING LINEN, COTTON, &c. NO PREPARATION OR HEATING REQUIRED AFTER BEING WRITTEN. Extract from "THE LANCET," January 5th, 1878. NIGRINE: A JET BLACK MARKING FLUID. (W. MATHER, Farringdon Road, London). We can commend this as a very good and convenient Marking Ink, we have submitted Linen marked with it to some of the most powerful of Chemical Agents, including Acids, Alkaline and Chlorine, and Cyanide of Potassium, and have found that it was very much easier to destroy the Linen than the marking upon it; in fact the writing could not be effaced by any of the Agents we employed. Sold in Bottles, 6d., 1/-, and 2/6 each by all Chemists and Stationers. SAMPLE BOTTLE SENT POST FREE ON RECEIPT OF 13 STAMPS. WHOLESALE WAREHOUSES, W. HOPKINSON'S PIANOFORTES are unequalled for PURITY AND PERFECTION OF TONE, DELICATE TOUCH, GREAT DURABILITY, and ELEGANT APPEARANCE. Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom, to select from. PURCHASE DIRECT FROM THE MAKERS. The Advantages are obvious.

Messrs. HOPKINSON are the only makers in GREAT BRITAIN who obtained PRIZE MEDALS for Pianofortes at all the following Exhibitions:— THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851. THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855, and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR. THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITION IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS only IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi. page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any exhibitor shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of the list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867. After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. H. did not exhibit at Paris in 1878.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

ROTHWELL WESLEYAN METHODIST ANNIVERSARY.

The Anniversary in connection with the Rothwell branch of the Wesleyan Methodist Missions has been celebrated during this week, the sermons last Sunday being preached by the Rev. G. Renton, and Mr. Thomas Stephenson, of Rothwell Haigh, collections being taken after each sermon.

On Wednesday, the Annual Public Meeting was held in the chapel, there being a good audience and excellent speeches. After the usual devotional exercises, Mr. Renton introduced Mr. J. H. Cookson, of Stanley, who was warmly received. On taking the chair, Mr. Cookson expressed his pleasure in being connected with the great missionary enterprise. He said Methodism had been a missionary church from its commencement and made some remarks on the work in Rome and in Paris. He trusted the Rothwell friends would succeed in their new chapel scheme, and be as well satisfied with their new chapel, as they at Stanley were with theirs.

The Rev. G. Renton then read extracts from the report as follows:—

Total Receipts ...	£146,022 17s. 9d.
Total Payments ...	£159,808 8s. 10d.
Due to Treasurer	£13,785 11s. 1d.

In Europe, India, China, Africa, West Indies, Australasia, there are 6,496 chapels, 890 missionaries, 6,176 other paid agents, 25,185 Sunday school teachers, &c., 147,103 accredited church members, 20,040 members on trial, 185,537 Sunday scholars, 5 printing establishments.

Collected in Wakefield circuit £331 7s. 6d., of which Rothwell contributed £19 13s. 6d., and Christmas offering £3, making a total of £22 13s. 6d.

Mr. Mosby, of Garforth, followed in a short speech showing that Christianity is the great elevator and improver of the human race bringing joy and sunshine to the family and the nation. Although times were bad and trade depressed, there were articles of luxury and even harmful things with which we might easily dispense and give to the cause of God and the spread of the gospel. He congratulated Rothwell on having a resident minister, and trusted Mr. Renton would prove a very great blessing to the people.

The Rev, Thos. Hind next addressed the meeting in an eloquent and masterly review of Christianity in its origin and spread. Looking at the times just prior to the birth of Christ, the speaker mentioned the perfection and beauty of the Greek language as eminently suited to be the medium in which the gospel should be written; the almost universal dominion of the Roman Empire was shown to be a providential preparation for the messenger of the gospel of peace to go on the well made Roman roads into distant and heathen lands. The invention of printing in later ages, opened the means of multiplying copies of the scriptures, while the discovery of the new continent, America; and the rapid increase of the English speaking race, have promoted the cause of Christianity wondrously. The vast territories held by England have been given to her by God, not for the purposes of commerce only, but for the extension of his kingdom. Speaking of India, among several other cheering statements Mr. Hind said that everywhere the English Brahmins were seeking to know the English language, and it was a grand fact, that the best and purest English is found in the English Bible: for this reason and also, because it is the cheapest book, hundreds of thousands of Hindoos are reading the Bible for their intellectual improvement, while it will also open their minds to a higher and better life. Bibles are as cheap in Calcutta as in England, and you may purchase a Testament for 4d. or a Bible for 10d. in the streets. Science is also being made the hand-maid of religion. The sacred books state that round India flows a sea of salt water; round that again a sea of milk; still further out, a sea of honey; and beyond that, a sea of toddy. But Hindoos come over the sea to London, Manchester, &c., and they find their sacred books untrue; they never get as far as the sea of milk; and they think, if our books are wrong in this matter, perhaps they are in other things; and so they are fast losing their faith in their ancient religion. Closing with a reference to the famine, the speaker held that the munificent charity of England in sending money and rice to the starving people of India, had done more than anything else to assist the spread of Christianity.

After singing a hymn, the Rev. Wesley Brunyate addressed the meeting, and while thankful for the many openings for missionary enterprise, warned the people, that it became more than ever their duty to assist in entering these openings, lest, proving unfaithful, God should do with England, as He did with the Jews and with the corrupt early Christians. Special reference was made India and the threatened war, and the need of supplying the Hindoos with the true religion, now that they are forsaking their former faith. Adverting to the extraordinary faith and energy of the early Methodists, and the great advances foreign missions made, even before the death of John Wesley, Mr. Brunyate drew a sketch of the state of Wesleyan Missions Society in many lands in East, West and South Africa are all prosperous, and he thought of the day when the Christian natives of that continent would have pushed their way inland, till their voices united in one grand doxology on some of those glorious plains in central Africa. Australia had now a conference of her own and was nearly self-supporting. In China there are 13,000 native converts, whereas only a few years ago, there were but 3. In India there is a great grand work going on through the schools. America now sends out more missionaries than England herself. The Rev. gentleman closed with a warm appeal in support of missions, from the fact of the self-sacrifice of missionaries.

The collection was then made, after which the usual vote of thanks was presented to the juvenile collectors and to the Chairman, when Mr. S. Batty and Mr. S. Seanor spoke a few words.

The doxology and benediction closed the meeting.

The collection amounted to £4 6s. 6.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT WATERLOO.

This afternoon, at half-past one, at the Woodlesford Colliery a fatal accident occurred to two men named Solomon Butterworth and R. Inman, living at Stourton. It appears that they have been safely wound up in the cage, but by some means or other, although the rope was knocked off, the catch which should have held the cage at the top failed to act, and the poor men in the cage were precipitated to the bottom, one of them being so mutilated as to be past recognition. We suppose an inquest will be held to-morrow.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills—Glandular swellings in the throat, neuralgia, tic doloreux, rheumatism gout, lumbago, and other diseases affecting the glands muscles, and nerves of sensation are permanently eradicated by this healing anti ferbile and soothing preparation. It is also a perfect remedy for skin diseases, and every kind of superficial inflammation, which soon lose their angry and painful character under this invaluable Ointment. The Pills have never been administered by either hospital or private pratcitioner in dyspepsia or liver complaints without producing the desired result.

ROTHWELL WORKING MAN'S CLUB.

The above institution held its Annual Tea and Meeting on the evening of Thursday, Oct. 31st, under the Presidency of the Rev. G. Hebreden. About 40 sat down to an excellent knife and fork tea, J. C. Calverley, Esq, having kindly presented a good supply of rabbits. After tea the members retired to the large room upstairs, where the President gave his opening address, after which the report for the past year was read by the Secretary, and there seems every prospect of a successful season. The attractions are numerous and varied, and there seems to be a fair proportion of the young men of Rothwell ready and willing to avail themselves of the institution. After the transaction of all the business the members spent a very pleasant "Free and Easy" evening, many contributing songs, readings, or recitations.

COWARDLY ATTACK ON A POLICEMAN.

On Sunday evening P.S. Turton was returning from Methley up Oulton Lane about half-past five o'clock, when he heard some men in Mr. Calverley's park and waited a short time at the bridge. In a few minutes two men jumped over the wall, and on being accosted by the sergeant,—What are you doing over there? they replied, We've been trespassing. What authority have you for going into the park? Oh, we go where we like. "Indeed, then you are outlaws, I suppose, and I shall want your names and addresses." "Wait a minute, then, said the fellow, and he accompanied his remark with a blow from a piece of wood he had in his hand. The policeman at once closed with him and broke his stick in the struggle, but as the other man fell to as well he stood no chance, and after being most severely handled and mercilessly kicked, fell to the ground, having lost his helmet in the struggle. The two men, seeing Turton on the ground stunned, with an oath left him for half-dead and rejoined their companions in the field, who had been urging them on in their cowardly attack. Recovering himself, however, the sergeant found his helmet had been taken away, and he again started in pursuit of his assailants, who speedily turned upon him, knocked him down, and infuriated, took him up, head and foot, and threw him into the beck, fully three feet deep in water. Here there seemed little doubt they intended him to have drowned, but revived by the water, scrambled towards the side, when one of the men pushed him back again with a wood rail, with an oath that he was "done for." The seven men than ran in the direction of Pontefract Road, and half-insensible, Turton managed to get out of the water and rested against the hedge. One or two persons passing about this time assistance was obtained, and the sergeant in great pain walked home.

On being examined by Dr. Heaps, it was found that, though no bones were broken, his side was badly bruised and some ribs crushed with the kicks; there is also a bad knock below the left knee and several lumps on the head. Fortunately the skin is not broken, and we trust the gallant, highly respected sergeant will soon be out again, and that the offenders will meet with the punishment they so richly deserve.

The police are in possession of a dog belonging to one of the men, and have hopes that they will soon succeed in capturing the ruffians.

ALLEGED CHILD MURDER AT CARLTON.

EMILY SPEIGHT (19), spinster, servant, was indicted for the murder of her new born female child, at Carlton, near Wakefield, on the 15th of August, 1878. About three months before the birth of the child the prisoner had been in service, but had come home to her mother's house. On the 15th of August the prisoner's mother was roused about five or six o'clock in the morning by the prisoner calling out. When she got to the girl's room she found her lying on the bed with a petticoat over her. The prisoner said "My child is born." The mother inquired where it was, and the prisoner said it was outside in the coal cellar in the yard, a place detached from the house. The mother went to the place mentioned, and found the child covered with a petticoat. It was quite warm. She took the child upstairs, and put it into a cradle in the girl's room. About twelve o'clock a Mrs. Fox came to see the girl, and spoke to her about it. The prisoner said the child was born in the coal cellar. After it was born she became insensible, and remembered nothing more. On the child's head there were some bruises. When told about these, the prisoner said she did not know how they had come there.

The Jury found the prisoner not guilty, and she was discharged.

"OLD WHITE HALL,"

By C. Gibson, London.

CHAPTER IX.

Before the swift and powerful locomotive engine was invented, travelling from Yorkshire to London was a serious undertaking; it was attended with very great danger, for the rascally highwayman plied his unlawful trade, very often with success and gratification to himself; wills were made before starting, and last long looks were taken of friends and relations, just the same as we should do at the present day if our destination was to be a thousand miles away from the shores of Old England.

The time was drawing near when Linton would bid farewell to the old windmill, wherein he had spent so many happy hours in the pleasing occupation which he was now so anxious to become perfect in; he looked forward with joy and hope and his heart bounded with delight when he thought of the golden future that he imagined was in store for him; yet when he thought of Eleanor whom he would so soon have to leave two hundred miles behind him, he half regretted the resolution he had taken. Would she be faithful? Why should he doubt her? Had she not presented him with a token of her affection? Oh! could he but see her once again. Such thoughts as these would often enter his mind as the days and hours grew less in number when he and his father would be on their way to London.

Now the miller had another interview with Mr. Harrington, and everything that was requisite for Linton's presentation to Sir Joshua Gainsborough in London was ready. Seats had been procured in one of the stage waggons that ran from Leeds to London, and a day or two would now see them on their journey.

We will pass quickly over the parting leave-taking which took place in the mill house at Oulton, for hot tears ran down the cheeks of Linton when he kissed his mother on that memorable morning. "Good bye and God bless you," were all the words that he could utter; but his father would only be a few weeks away, was less sorrowful, he heartily shook hands with his wife and bade her be comfortable until he should return. "There is one consolation my lass, I have signed my will in your favour and it is in the cupboard, take care of it, good morning"

Nothing very remarkable happened on the road that they were now travelling; there was the usual amount of stoppages at the different roadside inns,—the scenery and incidents that met their view found ample material for conversation until they arrived at the good old town of Bedford, which is about fifty miles from London, where an incident occurred which put the miller and Linton in a state of mind more easily to be imagined than described.

They put up for the night at the principal inn, not far from the place where the beautiful statue of John Bunyan, the author of the world-renowned Pilgrims Progress, now stands, and during the evening as they sat before a roaring fire in a room which they had engaged for the night, the miller thought he would look over the contents of his pockets and see that all was right, when to his utter amazement, the letter which Mr. Harrington had given him to present to Sir Joshua Gainsborough on his arrival in London, could not be found. He turned his coats inside out, and even felt in his high-topped boots—but no letter was there. What was to be done? without that precious missive their wearisome journey would be of no avail, for neither he nor Linton had any idea of the whereabouts of Sir Joshua Gainsborough's residence than the mythical man in the moon, for his address (Sir Joshua's) was on the letter. All sorts of questions and answers were asked and given to each other, but they did not tend one jot towards the finding of the lost letter.

"Have you dropped it in the waggon?" suggested Linton.

"I may have done so," eagerly answered his father, "let us go and see."

The waggoner was snoring and fast asleep in a quiet corner of the taproom; he was aroused from his heavy slumbers, and the waggon was searched, where the all-important letter was found, lying under the seat where the miller had ridden so many miles; never did a drowning man seize a straw with such eagerness as Stephen Milman did that inanimate piece of paper.

Early next morning they resumed their long, weary journey towards London; the waggoner whistled and cracked his whip at the lively horses, and his dog which had accompanied him all the way from Leeds, barked and ran nimbly along the pleasant road.

Now of all the four-footed animals that Noah had with him in the ark there was not one among them that was more faithful than a dog, for be his owner either a duke or a dustman, a marchioness or a milkmaid, if treated with kindness he will never desert them. I could relate many instances of the sagacity and faithfulness of dogs, but they would, perhaps, be out of place in the present story.

Well, as night advanced our travellers reached the last stage before entering London, and as nothing happened that night or next morning that is worthy of being recorded, the reader must imagine the waggoner stopping his horses before an inn that rejoiced in the name of "Blue Boar," which was, at the time we write, a favourite place for the Yorkshire stage waggoners to stop at; it stood in Holborn, a well-known locality in London.

"At our journey's end at last," said Linton.

"Right glad am I to hear you say so," said his father, "for this waggon is not so easy to sit in as my old arm-chair is that I have left behind me at home in Oulton."

They now entered the inn and the miller soon made himself acquainted with the host, who could tell at a glance that the newly arrived travellers were from Yorkshire. He accordingly led them into a quiet little parlour, whose furniture comprised a few chairs and a table, a few sporting pictures hung on the walls, and the very small bit of fire that was in the grate was trying its utmost to burn bright, but could not possibly do so, its efforts in the landable object of putting on a bright appearance, must have been beyond its strength, for in a very short time afterwopds, it suddenly expired. However at the miller's request it was re-lit, and some refreshments were placed on the table, which our two travellers heartily partook of.

During the evening Stephen Milman explained to the host of the "Blue Boar" the object of his visit to London, and the worthy proprietor of that well-known establishment promised to direct them to the house of Sir Joshua Gainsborough, which stood in Leicester Square.

"As this is my first, and it is not at all improbable but that it may be my last visit to this world-famed city of London, I should like to see a few of its principal attractions," said the miller, "before I return to Yorkshire."

"I'll gladly shew you them," said the landlord, "but as the night is growing somewhat late and my young friend looks tired and sleepy, the next best thing for you both will be a soft bed and a good sound sleep, and on the morrow we will begin our adventures."

Both father and son were glad to have the privilege of embracing such a desired luxury, and in a short time they were in a large and comfortable bed and fast asleep.

Linton was dreaming of the dear old home he had left at Oulton: he dreamt that he was plucking some flowers in the little garden before his father's house to make a nosegay for Eleanor; then he was in the arbour in the orchard close to the Old White Hall, awaiting the coming of his first and only love, when the scene changed,—the old hall was in ruins, grass and tall rank weeds grew in abundance among the bricks and stones that once formed part of the walls of that beautiful building; a tall, commanding figure, dressed in purest white, waved her hand and it resumed its former appearance again.

The miller was also in dream-land: he was on the top of Holmsley searching for the windmill, but could not find it; he sat down in despair, when, to his utter amazement, his old-fashioned lantern arose out of the earth right before him, appearing as large as the windmill, and the huge candle that was in it assumed the shape of the sails of his windmill, and came trundling swiftly towards him, when the miller shouted in his sleep with fright, which awoke both himself and Linton.

"What is the matter?" said Linton, somewhat alarmed.

"I have had an ugly dream, my boy—but; look out of the window, it is open daylight and the sun is rising; let us get out of bed."

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES,
IN THE
WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT,
OF

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

NIGRINE: A JET BLACK MARKING FLUID. (W. MATHER, Farringdon Road, London).
We can commend this as a very good and convenient Marking Ink, we have submitted Linen marked with it to some of the most powerful of Chemical Agents, including Acids, Alkalies and Chloride, and Cyanide of Potassium, and have found that it was very much easier to destroy the Linen than the marking upon it; in fact the writing could not be effaced by any of the Agents we employed.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Excellence of Tone."
THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872.
For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."
JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:
"For Great Britain—
BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."
AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865.
After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by
J. & J. HOPKINSON.
At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by
J. & J. HOPKINSON.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKEY.
The large increased consumption of, and the reputation obtained for Irish and Scotch Whiskeys by W. and A. Gilbey during the past few years, render the brands of Whiskeys quoted above especially worthy of attention at the present time. The stock of old matured Whiskey held by W. and A. Gilbey in their bonded stores is now, without doubt, the largest in the world, exceeding as it does 5000 butts of Irish and 3000 butts of Scotch Whiskey, equal to upwards of a million proof gallons. Their sales of Whiskeys last year exceeded two million bottles.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD.

On Monday evening, a meeting of the above Board was held: present—J Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman) Messrs. W. Hargreaves, W. Lunn, Smith, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes and the Clerk, Medical Officer, Treasurer and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, enquiries were made as to the continued delay of the water scheme and it appears that the reservoir being now approved as perfectly tight, Mr. Filleter, recommended the Board to have the pipes thoroughly tested, which is now in course of being done. Some of the members complained strongly of the many delays, but it was at last resolved on the motion of Mr. J. Hargreaves seconded by Mr, Holmes—That should the pipe-test prove satisfactory to Mr. Filleter, the Inspector has power to turn on the water at once. Mr. W. Hargreaves neutral.

Dr. Heaps reported 7 deaths and 23 births (14 boys, 9 girls,) have been registered during the past 4 weeks, as against 8 deaths and 21 births in the correspouding period last year; being 2 per cent less death rate than last year. So far as can be ascertained Stourton is clear of fever, but there is one case of typhoid in Carr Lane, and there are two cases of Scarletina in the district. Whooping cough is still prevalent but on the wane. In reply to the chairman's enquiry, the Medical Officer stated his inability to isolate cases of whooping cough, it being seldom thought necessary to call in the doctor except in serious cases.

Mr. W. Hargreaves called attention to the fact that a person had been stopped putting in some lead water pipes, and wished to have the matter clearly understood, whether lead or iron pipes were to be used for water connection.

Dr. Heaps stated that he preferred iron to lead and in advising the man to "stay his hand" was simply desirous of benefitting the man and ascertaining the opinion of Mr. Filleter and others.

The chairman stated that the Board having decided six months ago, that lead piping should be used for the house connections, the Medical Officer was exceeding his duty in stopping any one from putting his water pipes down.

The doctor was not aware that any such resolution had been come to, and had acted from an earnest desire to preserve the health of the people. Mr. Filleter had acknowledged the advantage of iron piping over lead so far as health was concerned, but it had been found impracticable, owing to the corrosion of the iron and the unsightly appearance of the water. In Oxford, the Medical Officer had had iron piping put down for water, but was now having to take it up, and lay down lead pipes.

The chairman again pointed out that by this action, the Medical Officer had exceeded his duty.

Mr. Holmes had felt very strongly in the matter, and was sure any member would have been glad to have given any information. He might state that the serious leakage which was discovered at Stourton some time ago, arose from an iron pipe which had been put in without the knowledge of the Board.

The explanation having been accepted the matter dropped.

The clerk read an estimate of the probable expenditure during the next half year, which amounted to £1370, £230 of which is for repayment of loan and interest thereon. This amount will be nearly raised by a 1/8 rate which realizes £1340, last year the rate was 1/9 and it is expected that the next rate will be a little lower still.

It was then proposed by Mr. Lunn, seconded by Mr. Bramley and carried—That a general District Rate of 1s. 8d. in the £ be laid for the next half year.

A letter from Mr. Lawton respecting the improvement of the causeway near his house was referred to the Highway Committee.

On the motion of Mr. Lunn, seconded by Mr. W. Hargreaves, a cheque was signed for £182 2s. 9d. repayment of loan and interest.

In regard to the old schoolhouse it was suggested that the chairmen of the Overseers, Local Board and School Board be a joint Committee for making the necessary alterations required. After the various authorities have consulted, the trustees will be again considered.

In reply to a letter from Mr. Colman, clerk to the Leeds and Barnsdale Highway Trust stating that, so far as he knew, they were not responsible for the repairs of the bridge on Pontefract Road, it was resolved that the Clerk press the claim for the cost of repairing the bridge, on account of the above Trust being the original builders of the bridge.

Messrs. Elliott & Sons having applied for an advance on the amount received for repairing the roads, several members thought the roads were too bad to entertain any proposal for an advance.

Mr. Holmes agreed, although Elliott's had had exceptional difficulties lately on account of laying the sewage and water pipes.

Mr. Elliott having been introduced, maintained that the roads were in as good a state as when they took them, and that they were doing them at a loss. After further conversation, Mr. Elliott suggested that the roads should be gauged, for which he would stand half the expense. As this was acknowledged to be a very reasonable offer, the Board passed a resolution accepting the offer, and directing the clerk to have the Wakefield Road gauged at once.

After Mr. Greenwood's notice respecting the 10s. cheque, all the members declined to accept anything, paying the expenses themselves, so that the cheque was cancelled.

COLLIERY ACCIDENT AT WATERLOO

THE INQUEST.

On Monday last an inquest was held before Mr. MALCOLM, at the Old Red Lion Inn, Thwaite Gate, Hunslet, on the bodies of Solomon Butterworth (29), miner, and Bob Inman (30), miner, who met with their deaths at the Waterloo Collieries on Friday last Mr. HALL, solicitor, Wakefield, watched the case on behalf of the Waterloo and Woodlesford Colliery Company Limited; and Mr. FERNS, solicitor, watched the case on behalf of the relatives of Inman. Mr. WARDELL Government Inspector, was also present at the inquiry.

William Jennings, a hanger-on at the Beeston shaft of the Railwayside Pit, Waterloo and Woodlesford Collieries, stated that he was hanging on on Friday last between twelve and one o'clock. He saw the deceased men get into the cage, and gave the signal for it to ascend. The cage went up and witness stepped aside. Shortly afterwards the cage fell back again. He saw a substance like a black cloud pass him, but he could not make out at the time what it was. On the cage being examined Inman and Butterworth were found in it quite dead.

John Leeson, banksman, stated after being cautioned that he received a signal from the hanger-on on the day in question that men wanted to come out of the pit. He answered for them to get into the cage, and then received the signal that they were ready to come up. After receiving the last signal on Friday, he went to hang up some tickets about five yards distance from the pit mouth. His duty was to remain at the pit mouth, until the cage came up. As soon as the cage appeared at the pit mouth, it was his duty to put the "rests" down. This was done by pulling a lever and throwing a projection over the pit mouth. When the cage came up he was just turning from the tickets to go to the pit mouth again. He heard a noise and in turning round saw the cage falling back again. He could not see the engineman from the pit mouth. The engineman had a signal in the engine-house. Witness had to give no notice to anybody when the cage came up. His only duty was to turn out the rests for the cage to rest upon. Witness was not the head banksman, but he was in charge on the day in question. He had occasionally been in charge before. A man was employed over him, but when he was not there witness acted as first banksman. When the head man was there, witness assisted to hold the corves on the bank.

Joseph Jackson, engineman at the pit, was also cautioned before giving his evidence. He stated that he did not receive the first signal in his engine-house, because the wire connected with the bell was slack, and did not answer. He heard the bell, however, at the pit top. The bell in the engine-house had worked irregularly ever since he had been employed there, and that was a fortnight ago. He had mentioned to his mate, Sidney Waterhouse, that the bell did not rap properly.

By Mr. WARDELL.—You say that the indicator is out of order? Well, it is not right. It does not rap the bell.—And you say you have never complained to the proper authorities about it? No, I believe not.—Where were you before going to that pit? I worked for the Low Moor Company for five months, and before that I was at Stanley Main Pit.—Have you ever "pulled" any men before? Never.—How long have you been an engineman? Twenty-two or twenty-three years.—Have you ever had any men killed in the shaft in any way at all, when you have been in charge of the engines? No.—Were you the engineman at Glass Houghton Pit when men were killed in the shaft? They were not killed in the pit then; they were in the sump.—But that is at the bottom of the shaft? Yes.—Was your name Jackson when you were engineman at Glass Houghton? No, it was Johnson.—How is that? Because my proper name is Johnson.—Then you have changed it to Jackson? Yes.

Did you look towards the shaft when you found the engine was getting the master of you? No, we have not to look at the top.

But this was an extraordinary case. I tried what I could do with the footbrake, and I kept it applied until the accident occurred. I could not see the cage go up, but after it got to the top it dropped on the side of the headgear. The engines were going slow.

Mr. FERNS.—Were you indicted for manslaughter in the case where two men were killed at Glass Houghton Colliery? I was.

And you were convicted, I believe? Yes,

And you had only been employed at this colliery fourteen days? Yes.

In reply to further questions put by Mr. FERNS, Witness said that his attention had not been called to the imperfection of one of the ropes, though he heard that one of them was deficient. It was condemned for winding men with by the steward, Mr Waterhouse.

Did you not afterwards draw 180 men with the same rope? Yes

Were you convicted in the name of Jackson? Yes.

Witness continuing, said that immediately after the accident Mr. Waterhouse asked him if he could lower him and another gentleman and pull them up again. He replied "Yes" and he then lowered and drew up the cage and the valve did not stick. He believed that the sticking of the valve was the cause of the accident. He afterwards found that the valve was almost completely furred up. The engine had been running for five years without an examination of the valve.

Edward Rose, surgeon, Hunslet, described the appearance of the bodies of the deceased, and said the men's skulls were fractured, that one of them was beyond identification, and that all their bones were smashed.

Isaac W. H. White said he had been certified manager of the pit since the beginning of 1876. The enginemen and the banksmen were under his superintendence. He walked through the engine-house at times, and it was the duty of the engineman to report to the engine wright anything which was defective, and the engine wright should report to witness as to the state of the engine. He had never received any complaint about the non-working of the signals. The banksman was under the control of the underviewer in his absence. He was away when the accident occurred, and when he examined the indicator in connection with signalling, he found it rather faulty. He had not ascertained the cause though the reason the vibrating plate had not struck was that the wire was slack. From what he saw of the engineman on the first day they employed him he thought he would be fully equal to his work. He had heard for the first time that day that Jackson had been previously convicted of manslaughter.

John Kirby, engineer, Wakefield road, Leeds, said he had, by the instructions of the Coroner examined all the machinery connected with the winding at the Beeston Side Pit. He considered the engines to be all right, but considered that the position of the engine men might be improved. The safety clip seemed to be all right, but the eye or support which should have held up the cage had failed, and he thought the cast-iron supports should be replaced by steel, wrought iron, or best malleable iron ones. The apparatus for supporting the cage should be made self acting in one direction, so that as soon as the cage arrived at the landing stage the apparatus would fall into such a position that it would be impossible to fall down the shaft until liberated by some one in charge. He did not think the sticking of the valve in question should have prevented the man stopping the engine. The noise of steam escaping through the exhaust pipe would draw the engineman's attention from the indicator, and thus be would be ignorant of the position of the cage.

The inquest was then adjourned till to day.

The adjourned inquest was opened at half past twelve to-day, but owing to the mass of evidence to be heard, it is not improbable that the jury will have to sit another day.

CHARGE OF OBTAINING GOODS UNDER FALSE PRETENCES.

The case against Geo. N. Topham, of Rothwell, which charged him with obtaining goods under false pretences from Mrs. Laverack, of Rothwell Haigh, and remanded till Friday last, came on on that day, and on it being thoroughly gone into it appeared that Topham had paid to Miss Laverack a cheque for the amount which was dishonoured, and he was taken into custody on a warrant. The cheque was dated forward to the 4th inst, and if it had not been presented till that day it would have been all right, but being presented earlier there was nothing in the bank to meet it. Mr. Lodge banded in the defendant's bank book, showing that when last made up in August there was a balance of £4 to his credit. He said it had been decided that such transactions could not be considered as obtaining goods by false pretences, and he submitted that if there was any case at all it was a case for the county court.

Dr. Kendall agreed with Mr. Lodge's view of the case, and therefore gave a verdict for defendant, ordering Mrs. Laverack to pay costs.

A MINER'S LETTER, or rather Essay, on "Praise and Flattery," is very creditable and deserves praise for its compilation, but is hardly suitable for a matter-of-fact publication like a newspaper; it would be found in more congenial company at a mutual improvement class, or in a literary magazine.

A MAN SHOT AT OUZLEWELL GREEN.

At the West Riding Police-court, on Monday, before Messrs. W. H. Leatham and T. H. Holdsworth, a youth named Joseph Pearcy, was charged with having shot at Richd. Johnson, a miner, living at Ouzlewell Green, near Wakefield, with intent to murder him. Mr. Lodge appeared to watch the case on behalf of one of the witnesses named Wm. Nee, a gardener. The prisoner was not defended. On Saturday the prisoner, who lives with Mrs. Nee, had been to Leeds market, and returned home along with several other persons connected with Nee's family. A quarrel arose on the road, and it seems to have been renewed about eleven o'clock at night in Mrs. Nee's yard. The prosecutor, Richd. Johnson, was sent for, and on reaching the yard he found Nee there, and the two men had a struggle. Whilst this was going on, Johnson was shot, and fell to the ground insensible. When raised from the ground, it was found that his face, neck, breast, arms, and other parts of his body had been penetrated by pellets or shot corns, eight or nine of which were successfully extracted next day by Dr. Heaps, of Rothwell. Another young man, named Joseph Walker, who was close by at the time, was shot at the back of one of his ears. The prisoner had been seen about the place before the shot was fired, with a pistol in his possession, and immediately after the report was heard he was seen running away. Shortly after midnight he was taken into custody, and a number of shot corns similar to those in the prosecutor's face were found in his possession. A portion of the pistol was found in a garden, and another portion on the highway. The prisoner, who made no defence, was committed for trial at the assizes.

ENTERAINMENT AT LOFTHOUSE.

On Saturday last an entertainment consisting of songs, readings and recitations, was given in the schoolroom at Robin Hood. This entertainment (which is the first of a series about to be given) was in connection with the Sunday School, and was given for the purpose of effecting the purchase of necessaries of which that edifice is in need.

Mr. S. Renton presided. The following pieces were worthy of note: The Story of an Irish Servant, by Mr Wildman; song, Why do Summer Roses Fade, by Miss Wrigley; recitation, Death and Burial of Lord Macaulay, by Mr. Horner. The company was very small, but were evidently satisfied with the way in which they had spent the evening.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD.

A special meeting was held on Friday afternoon, present; Mr. W. Hargreaves (chairman), Messrs Seanor, J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, and the Clerk and Architect The principal business was the consideration of tenders for erecting new schools at Rothwell. There were over 100 competitors, and owing to the large number and also for enquiry respecting some of the firms, the final decision as regards several trades was adjourned till next Friday: we shall therefore delay the publication of the successful contractors till we can give a complete list.

A cheque for the purchase of the land was granted in favour of Messrs. Mawson Bros.

MR. SYKES' PROPERTY SALE.

The sale of this large property took place at the Black Bull Inn, Rothwell, on Wednesday, by Mr E. W. Batley, Leeds. Although there were a large number of people present, it was evident there were few buyers, and owing probably to the bad state of trade and scarcity of money, only one lot was sold Lots 1, 2, and 3 fronting Carlton Lane were put up together, when one bid was made of £700, but finding no competition, Lot 1 was offered separately, and beginning at £150 was bought by Mr. B. Batty for £220. Lot 2, two houses, were withdrawn at £385; and Lot 3, draper's shop and house, at £250. A similar course was necessitated in the succeeding lots, there being very little spirit manifested among the audience.

SEVERE SNOW STORM.

Though everybody had been congratulating themselves on the fine frosty day we had had on Monday, about five o'clock snow began to fall and beat most blindingly; before a quarter of an hour had passed, one of the most vivid flashes of lightning we have ever witnessed, illuminated the locality, followed by a tremendous peal of thunder, another flash or two of much less brightness succeeded, and there was no more. The snow and thunderstorm together are considered something remarkable, and very seldom seen.

FOOTBALL.

HUNSLET 2ND v. OULTON.

Twelve men from the charming village of Oulton journeyed to the Hunslet ground, at Woodhouse Hill, to play the Second Team of the Hunslet Association Football Club. This being the first match ever played by an Oulton team, it naturally caused a little commotion in the village, and the result of the match was anxiously awaited by the partisans of the club. The Oulton Captain won the toss, and at 3 30 p.m. he set the ball in motion. His forwards quickly followed up, and the ball was kept in the Hunslet quarters. By a general rush they succeeded in securing a goal—the only one of the match. Hunslet kicked off, but the ball was well returned by Jackson (back) whose play throughout the game was very effectual, his long kicks being much admired and doing good service. Hebden, for Hunslet, now brought it into the Oulton quarters, but Davy and Jackson were on the alert, and the ball was speedily wending its way back again. Gosney made a short dribble and then passed it to Mirfin, who made a shot, which, however, was unsuccessful. The ball was brought out, and Broscombe essayed a dribble, but, having no help, he was soon overcome, and the Oulton Captain getting the ball, dribbled it near the Hunslet goal, but a foul occurred and thus the Hunslet lines were released. Soon after this Abbey had a chance, which was, however, not availed of. Wood, for Hunslet, now shewed up well, and assisted by Broscombe they managed to secure a corner kick, from which nothing came, and half-time was called. On the resumption of hostilities, the play became fast, the Hunslet men being put on their mettle. They put out all they knew to gain a point but it was of no avail. Hebden, Brigham, Coats and Boswick worked hard to retrieve their fortunes. Kicks, dribbles, and passings were successively tried, but the Oultonians were "all there" and on the call of time they were declared victors. The game was closely contested, but if one or two of the Hunslet players were a bit more of the gentleman it would have been better. They tried to trip and hack many better players than themselves, when they saw they had no chance against them. For Hunslet Hebden, Bringham, Coats and Boswick played well, while for Oulton Jackson, Gosney, Abbey, Bell and the Captain were to the fore. Teams:—HUNSLET, T. Coates, Boswick, Rathmell, A. Broscombe, W. Wood, J. Facer, J. Rumford, W. Hudson, N. Crowther, A. Rollinson, J. Hebden and J. W. Bringham, (captain). OULTON, G. M. Abbey, A. Gosney, W. A. Mirfin, R. A. Harrand, Hy. Bell, W. Davy, J. Stead, W. Hutchinson, R. Jowitt, J. Clarkson, T. D. Jackson and E. Boothroyd, (captain).

CHAPTER X.

The day after the visit to St. Paul's Cathedral and several other places of interest, Linton and his father found their way to the house of Sir Joshua Gainsborough in Leicester Square.

Now the waggoner mentioned in the last chapter had also received a letter from Mr. Harrington with strict orders to deliver it to Sir Joshua as soon as he arrived in London which he accordingly did, unknown to the miller, and it ran thus:—

The Old White Hall, Rothwell, in Yorkshire.
My Worthy Friend
An acquaintance of mine Mr. Milman, who resides in the small village of Oulton, near Rothwell, hath a son who is artistically inclined, and I have knowing your kind appreciation of precocious genius ventured to send him to London and at the same time ask on his behalf your introduction of him to one of your numerous artist acquaintances. Both father and son will pay you a visit shortly after your perusal of this letter.
I mention with deep regret to you that I have had an irreparable bereavement, namely, the loss of my dear wife. Trusting that you and yours still breathe the pure air of heaven.
I am, yours sincerely,
E HARRINGTON.

Now the house of Sir Joshua was not very large, nor had it any elaborate architectural display, so thought Linton when he knocked timidly at the front door and shortly afterwards both he and his father were admitted and then shown into a small room by a servant who appeared to have been expecting them; she requested them to be seated and Mr. Milman gave her the letter he had received from Mr. Harrington to deliver to Sir Joshua.

After a very anxious ten minutes our two travellers were introduced into the presence of Sir Joshua Gainsborough who was reclining in a comfortable looking arm chair; he arose, however, at their entrance and bade them welcome to London.

"And this is our youthful artist, I suppose" said he, looking at Linton with a pleasant smile and still holding the letter in his hand, my friend Mr. Harrington speaks very well of your son, Mr. Milman, and I shall have great pleasure in complying with his wishes.

"I thank you kindly, sir," said Stephen, and I hope he will do well and make himself worthy of so much generosity and goodness on the part of yourself and Mr. Harrington.

"An acquaintance of mine, and also a very good artist," said Sir Joshua, "hath his studio in Covent Garden; he is a poor man, but a splendid landscape painter, and he will be very glad of my young friend as a pupil; but we will pay him a visit."

After partaking of some refreshments kindly provided for them by Sir Joshua, they betook themselves to the studio of Richard Wilson, the celebrated painter, who often in his lifetime had to sell his splendid pictures for a mere acknowledgment, yet some of them now adorn the walls of the National Gallery, in Trafalgar Square, and also the walls of the noblest in the land, and it is known as a fact that he painted one of his most celebrated pictures for a pot of porter and the remains of a Stilton cheese.

His works, during his lifetime, were not I think duly appreciated, yet, at the present day they are eagerly sought after, and if they are sold fetch enormous prices; but to our tale.

Sir Joshua and his visitors found Wilson at home. He had but one room, which was scantily furnished—a hard bed, a single chair and a table, an easel, some canvas, a few colours and brushes, &c. (although he used but one brush to paint with), was nearly all his worldly property. He was busy at work on a picture which sent a thrill of delight through Linton when he first beheld it. A lively conversation began, and Wilson, who was pleased with the appearance of Linton, consented under certain conditions to take him as his pupil. The miller was delighted with the renowned artist, for he was anything but a proud man, although Nature had lavishly supplied him with the means of gratifying the artistic taste of the most fastidious in the land.

After staying a few more days in London, Stephen Milman took an affectionate leave of his son Linton and Sir Joshua, and in due course of time he arrived safe at home again, much to the joy of his wife, who asked him innumerable questions about her son and the general appearance of London.

"And are the streets really paved with gold?" said she to her husband, one evening.

"Well," answered the miller, "if they are, London gold is not so yellow nor so valuable as these spade guineas that I have in my pocket."

Our young artist had made his home at the house of Sir Joshua Gainsborough, in Leicester Square, and studied under Richard Wilson, in Covent Garden, so we will now leave him and return to Rothwell.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitute the tops of the safes

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.
A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.
Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Sores, and Ulcers.
By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.
Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.
Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."
JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.
AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865.
After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.
At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE. THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

ROTHWELL CHURCH MISSIONS.

The annual sermons on behalf of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts were preached last Sunday in the Parish Church, by the Rev. W. Crossland, (returned Missionary from Borneo).

In the morning the text taken was Gen. iv. 26, "Then began men to call upon the name of the Lord" In the course of his sermon, Mr. Crossland stated that it was a remarkable fact, that although the Borneo people have no written language, yet they retain in their traditions similar stories of the creation, the flood, atonement by sacrifice, &c., to those which we have in the Bible

In the evening the church was very nearly full when the Rev. W. Crossland again preached, his text being Luke viii, 5, "A sower went out to sow his seed."

Picturing the scene from which the parable was taken, the preacher proceeded to say that all were sowers of seed, good or evil, and showed that not only were missionaries and ministers sowing seed, but that every body could sow good seed at home and among their own friends.

Sowing was held up as an illustration of faith, and the congregation were urged to assist in missions by means of alms, by faithful earnest prayer and by their self sacrifice. The subject was further enforced by the measure of success which had attended missionary effort as instanced by two boys, who though Mahommedans, were brought to a mission school, and after a course of instruction were baptized. The missionary who introduced these lads into the christian church was soon after separated from them, and his faith greatly exercised as to whether, among strangers, they would hold to their new faith. After 13 years separation however, he was rejoiced to receive a letter from one of them studying in York; and who last February went out to Borneo as a missionary to his brethren. As a proof of the success of earnest faith in prayer, Mr. Crossland mentioned the case of a missionary who was taken ill without a single European being near him. In England, a sister of the missionary's felt impelled to present a special request for prayer on behalf of her brother during Intercession Week, and it was found afterwards that the day on which the request was presented the sick brother began to mend.

He therefore besought all, not only to give their alms, but their prayers for the missionaries abroad, and asked them to esteem it a privilege to do anything for Christ. Suitable hymns were sung during the evening (Nos, 217, 357, 370) and collections were taken at the close of each service.

THE PUBLIC MEETING in connection with the Missionary Anniversary was held on Monday, in the Mechanics' Hall, which was very nearly filled with a very attentive and respectable audience, there being also present ... Calverley, the Revs R. H. Hamilton, A. J. Irvin and H. S. King, and other gentlemen and families.

At half past seven, the Vicar took the chair the Rev. W. Crossland having also a seat on the platform.

The meeting opened with the singing of "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," after which prayers were offered bearing on mission work.

In introducing Mr. Crossland, the Vicar was pleased to take part in their fourth annual Missionary Meeting at Rothwell, and now that the annual Meeting was taking a more settled shape, he trusted some good would result from them. He urged his hearers to think when they prayed "Thy Kingdom Come," and try to assist in the missionary cause by giving themselves or their money that others might be sent to the heathen. They had had missionaries from Burmah, from Mauritius, from Newfoundland, and now from Borneo, whose addresses he hoped would leave impressions on their minds which would induce them to support their missionaries liberally. He would now introduce the Rev. W. Crossland, who needed little to recommend him, after the interesting and useful sermons he had preached on Sunday.

The Rev. W. Crossland then rose to address the meeting which he did in a most interesting and instructive manner, drawing largely from his own experiences, and eliciting frequent applause. He secured the attention of his juvenile hearers by narrating the story of the boy who armed with a missionary box, pushed his way along the crowded street, and in reply to a gentleman as to his anxiety to get to the Missionary Meeting, said "because he had got a share in the concern. "He strongly besought all his friends to put by regularly something for the cause remembering it was "for Christ Sake"

Mr. Crossland then proceeded to describe the position and size of Borneo, a Dutch settlement, the largest island in the world save Australia.

He then related the remarkable way in which James Brooke, an English Officer in the Indian Army, left the profession, and fitting up his own ship and took a sail round half the world, without any special object, save his own information. Hearing of the lost and brutal condition of the aborigines in this island, he was led first to assist in re-establishing one of the subsidiary kings on his throne, and afterwards of becoming king or rajah in his place, and introducing law and order among the dark skinned people. After some time Rajah Brooke found there was something else required to humanize the half clad natives, and he got a mission to Borneo commenced, which has already produced good results. The Rev. Mr. Mc. Dougall (now Bishop) was the first missionary who went out, opening first a dispensary and hospital, afterwards a school; and some time after, six young men (of whom Mr. Crossland was one) set sail for this island. This was about 17 years ago, Mr. Crossland having returned home two years ago; he remarked that some people say missionaries go out, and after staying a few years, come back and get good livings; he would very much like to see one of them, he would be quite content with a decent curacy.

Mr. Crossland then proceeded to give some account of his own experiences; his setting out in a canoe laden with an iron bedstead, mattresses, boxes and a few needful utensils, accompanied only by a Chinese cook and a boy who knew a little English. He described his landing and reception, the difficulty building of his house in a week, the difficulty of getting hold of a language of which there was neither alphabet, dictionary nor grammar, the ignorance and strange traditions of the people and their brutish customs, especially that of head taking, no one being entitled to the name of "man" till he had cut off at least one head. He then told, how, after two and a half years, he baptised two men, the first fruits of his labours, and afterwards by small degrees, the numbers increased until after 15 years labours, he could rejoice over a church of 40 communicants out of 75 native christians. There is now no head-taking, and the converts are living new lives

The address which lasted over an hour, was listened to most attentively, and was heartily applauded.

After a hymn had been sung, the Rev. G. Heberden expressed the feelings of all present when he heartily thanked Mr. Crossland for his able and interesting address. He asked his hearers to think more of the poor heathen and to give more, that the gospel might be sent to them.

He thought that yesterday's collections £12 4s. 4d. was not as much as they should send, and he impressed on them the amount of money which might be raised if each placed a small coin even a penny a week in a missionary box accompanying with a short prayer for God's blessing on it. The meeting was then closed by the singing of the 100th psalm and the benediction.

A number of articles worn or made by the natives excited considerable interest.

ROTHWELL CHURCH CHOIR CONCERT.

The Annual Concert by the Rothwell Church Choir took place yesterday evening, in the Mechanics' Institute. The audience was very select as well as pretty large, many of the ladies and gentlemen being in half-dress. The programme was pleasingly varied, and was almost wholly performed by lady and gentlemen amateurs, and by the choir. Under the circumstances it would be invidious to mention any names critically, as we are sure every one did their very best, the ladies having to struggle with natural timidity in appearing in public. The choir succeeded very well in the pieces appointed to them which were as follows, "Let the hills resound," "Sweet and low," "Dawn of day," Cheer up companions," "Sailor's song," and "Come live with me." A duet was also nicely done by Masters Bennett and Pape "As it fell upon a day." Mrs. Heberden and the Rev. H. S King sang the beautiful "Hymn of the Moravian Nuns;" Mr. King also contributing the songs "Ruby" and "Jack's Yarn," which latter was encored, and another given Unfortunately Mr. King was suffering from a cold, which he nevertheless mastered in the second part of the programme. Miss Wragg sang the homely ditty "Come lasses and lads," and Miss A. M. Wragg also rendered "Take back the heart," which she was requested to repeat. Mr. Harmes (the new Board Schoolmaster) gave efficient aid to the concert by singing "The British Lion" and "Once again," which latter was again asked for and "Sweethearts" substituted. Of Mr. Lonsdale, we may speak a little more freely as he unquestionably took the palm by his hearty and powerful rendering of "The Reefer" and the "Four Jolly Smiths" which latter fairly brought the house down, and the popular "Nancy Lee" was given with effect. We have reserved mention of Miss Law and and Miss Mountain till the last, but it is that our highest meed of praise may be awarded them for their magnificent playing of the two pianoforte duets "Don Giovanni" and "Schubert's Valses," the repetition of the latter being insisted upon; we are only sorry they had not a more melodious instrument to perform on. Mr. Wilson conducted the choir with his usual ability, and accompanied several of the songs, he richly deserved the thanks of the listeners. At the conclusion of the concert, the Vicar, in the name of the audience heartily thanked those ladies and gentlemen who had so kindly come forward to assist in the concert, and he also trusted they would feel compensated for their trouble by the knowledge that they had contributed towards the success of the concert, and the improvement of their dear old church. The National Anthem was then sung (the solo being taken by Master Bennett) and the audience dispersed.

CHILD BURNING AT ROBIN HOOD

On Monday last, Harriet Ann, daughter of Robert Binks, of Brighteyes Row, Robin Hood, got up early in the morning, before her mother, to clean her boots and do other little things before school time, when by some means her clothes caught fire from the candle she held, and she was soon enveloped in flames. The cries of the little girl (only six years old) brought assistance and though severely burnt, hopes are entertained of her recovery.

DROWNING CASE AT ROTHWELL HAIGH.

On Wednesday evening about five o'clock the body of a man, named William Hopton, a Skipton boatman, was found in the water near Messrs. Charlesworth's coal staith. The boat having to stay over-night, the deceased took up his quarters in a wood hut near the staith. In going to the boat to fetch something, it is supposed that, owing to the fog, he has missed his way and fallen in. The inquest is to be held to-morrow.

THE FATAL ACCIDENT AT WOODLESFORD.

The inquest respecting the above sad accident was continued last Friday, and after Mr. Chas. Waterhouse, Hy. Golightly, John Leeson, Jos. Jackson, Mr. Kirby and Mr. White had been examined, the Coroner summed up, and the jury retired to consider their verdict which was as follows:—

The jury, after retiring, found a verdict of "Accidently killed," adding that there had been neglect on the part both of the engine-man and banksman, in not carrying out the rules, and that the managers of the pit, had not looked after and seen the rules carried out They also recommended that self-acting rests should be applied to the mouth of the pit, and were satisfied that if there had been a wrought-iron or malleable-iron ring connected with the gearing, the accident would not have taken place at all, and that if the rests had been properly attended to the accident might have been prevented.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT ROSE PIT.

About ten o'clock on Wednesday morning news was brought into the town that an accident had occurred at Rose Pit, Rothwell and soon the sad tidings spread throughout the place.

It appears that shortly before ten o'clock, Thomas William Rawling was at work in one of the roads in the above pit, when a quantity of earth fell on to him from the roof. Assistance was speedily at hand, and willing hands commenced clearing away the debris during which his voice could be distinctly heard in prayer, but very shortly after the first fall, another mass of stones and earth came down and must have resulted in almost instant death. As soon as ever possible, he was got out, but quite dead, and the sad duty of bringing up his remains and taking them to his grief-stricken friends was performed by his fellow-miners. His father had only just got to his own door from Bullock Lane pit, when the sorrowful news reached him, and with heavy heart, he hurried to Rose Pit and went down in time to see his poor lad brought along the road to the pit bottom. Great sympathy is felt with his parents in their irreparable loss, his happy, laughing countenance and cheerful conversation having endeared him to all with whom he came in contact. In his seventeenth year, he was just bursting into manhood, and promising well for long life. The teachers and his fellow scholars in the Wesleyan Sunday School (of which he has been a scholar ever since he was a child) feel very keenly the sad stroke, and no doubt a large number of them will take part in the token of respect to morrow afternoon. The inquest is held to-morrow.

FOOTBALL.

WAKEFIELD TRINITY v. OULTON.

On Saturday last, a team from Oulton went to Wakefield to play a match against the above club under the Association Rules. The ground was in good condition, although the rain had been incessant for a few days, and a numerous company, amongst whom was a sprinkling of the fair sex, gathered together to witness the match. The Wakefield captain kicked off at 3.15 p.m., and his forwards rushing up secured the first goal. Shortly afterwards they obtained another from a scrimmage. Play was confined in the Oulton territory until half-time was called On play resuming, the game assumed a different aspect and play was chiefly in the Trinity quarters The Oultonians worked hard to retrieve their fortunes but all their attempts at scoring were frustrated. It is only fair to say, that when the Trinity goal was in danger they resorted to their Rugby tactics, and also that Oulton were minus their captain, E. Boothroyd and two of their backs For Wakefield, Haley, Baldwin, Longbottom and W. H. Bell were prominent, while for Oulton, Abbey, Gosney, Jackson and Clarkson deserve special mention. The teams were as follows:—

WAKEFIELD.—T. Wilkinson, goal; H. Haley and W. Wilkinson, backs; C.D. Baldwin and J. W. Whitehead, half-backs; J. Longbottom W. H. Bell, J. Bennett, W. Ellis, E. Stonehouse, and H. B. Pickersgill, forwards.

OULTON.—L. Lee goal; J. Stead and T. B. Jackson, backs; R A. Harrand, W. Hutchinson, and J. Clarkson half-backs; G. M. Abbey, (captain) A. Gosney, H. Bell, Hy. Bell, J. W. Moore, W. Butler forwards.

ROTHWELL HARMONIC v. YORK TRAINING COLLEGE.

The above clubs met at York on Saturday last, and played under Association Rules. The ground being very wet prevented all dribbling, which greatly disappointed the Rothwell Men as that is their favourite game. The play of the York team was wonderful, necessitating our own friends to work very hard. York appeared first on the ground, closely followed by the "Scarlet and Black," from Rothwell, both teams looking exceedingly well and in high spirits.

The ball was set in motion at three o'clock by the York captain, and was soon got into their opponent's quarters, but was as quickly returned by the Rothwell "backs," and so strong was the play on both sides, that no goals were obtained in the first half of 40 minutes.

After a short interval, Mr. Boothroyd, (captain of the Rothwell club) called out his men for the second part of the match, and after tendering a few words of advice set the ball a-going; the Rothwellers putting on the "spurt" and driving both men and ball, secured a goal by a smart kick from the captain. Not at all discouraged, the students soon had the ball again, and worked hard to return the compliment, but it was not to be; the Harmonic kept their opponents pretty much in their own quarters, though not without ploughing up the ground, as the students did not believe in being pinned in a corner. However, Rothwell thought too much of the point they had gained to allow the ball to come far from home, and although the contest was very keen for the last ten minutes, the Yorkists had to succumb, and when time was called, the Harmonics were declared victorious by one goal to none.

Rothwell Harmonic Team:—A. Judson, (goal); A. Newton, E. Benton, (backs); S. Copley, S. Newton, S. Goldthorpe, G. W. Blakey, (half backs); J. Whitehead, G. Adamson, Hy. Taylor, J. Harrison, Wm. Harrison, J. Hoobank, G. Field, (forwards); E. Boothroyd, (captain); Umpire W. Lambert.

"OLD WHITE HALL,"

By C. Gibson, London.

It is Christmas Eve, and the inside of the 'Old White Hall' has put on a very seasonable appearance; the bunches of holly with its cheerful red berries are very conspicuous on the walls, in the same room where Mr. Harrington and the miller last held a very important conversation, now sat Eleanor, and alone. It was in the early part of the evening, and she was looking into the bright and cheerful fire, and holding in her hand which rested on the arm of the chair, a letter which she had read over and over again. While she is in the midst of an enchanting undisturbed reverie, we will peep over her shoulder and give a part of its contents; we dare not divulge the whole, for love letters are generally considered as sacred things, and as a rule are only interesting to the parties concerned.

After dwelling on the constancy of the love which he hoped was still reciprocal between them, he continued,—

"I am very happy in the house of Sir Joshua Gainsborough, who is a kind hearted gentleman and a friend of your father. He often speaks to me of the Old White Hall, and he remembers Robert and yourself when you were both little children, and speaks of your dear mother as one who, when alive, was both kind and graceful. He often refers with pleasure to your grandfather, Captain Sidwell, who resided in the old Hall at Carlton some years ago.

The season of Christmas is at hand; may you enjoy the genial influence. I can even now, in my mind, hear the old church bells chiming, and the singers standing in the snow beneath your window singing their Christmas hymns.

Excuse the brevity of my letter, and believe me ever thine, LINTON MILMAN.

A footstep is heard, and the letter we have partly read is hid in the folds of a dress that graces the lovely form of Eleanor.

"What a lover of solitude you are, Eleanor," said Mr. Harrington kindly, who had now entered the room. "Hear not the bells and the singers?"

"I love the music of both, dear father," answered Eleanor.

Now this was a genial Christmas eve snow fell in large crystal flakes, and wind moaned fitfully around the old house; the three bells in the old church chimed their liveliest, and a band of village choristers were singing their ... before the Old White Hall.

After they had sung two or three seasonable hymns they were admitted into the hall, and then regaled with the good things which the Master of the House had provided for Christmas. As more than ... years had flown away since the death of Mrs. Harrington, the usual gaiety of this happy time of Christmas was now indulged in, and the friends of Mr. Harrington had been invited and had long since arrived and were making themselves very merry.

Robert, who at any time was the "life of good company," was now the principal actor in the time-honoured game of blind man's buff, &c. Supper was announced and partaken of much to the satisfaction of all who sat round that good looking table; the "Roast Beef of Old England" graced the head of it, and other good things which make a hungry man's mouth water to think about, was there in abundance.

After supper was over Mr. Harrington requested our old friend Joe to amuse the company with one of his numerous tales, and when all were quietly seated, he began the following story (which will perhaps be more generally understood if given in the acknowledged language of the Nation, and not in the Yorkshire dialect.

"My father, when alive, was a farmer; he cultivated a hundred and fifty acres of land, and he had a good stock of cattle. Well, one day when I was about twenty years old, I had to go with two horses and a waggon loaded with hay to Trimbeck Hall. I started after dinner. I had been many times on the same journey before, so I did not think much about it.

"I started in good spirits, the sun shone bright and cheerful, the thrush and blackbird sung their sweetest of spring music, the daisies peeped out of the greenest of grass, and other wild flowers looked out of the hedges quite delighted—then for a change—a shower or two came down, in fact it was real April weather.

I arrived at the Hall, which is a grand old building. I should think it is five hundred years old, and the park abounds with deer, hares, and rabbits, and a few of the oak trees are as old as the hall.

"I unloaded my waggon, and had a ... and a few horns of strong ale with the ... it was dark when I started back home again, but the moon kept shining ... between the black clouds, and ... heavy drops of rain splashed in ... could hear the wind was beginning ... rather loud though the trees ... I buttoned up my great coat ... my mind to prepare for ...

"I suppose I had arrived ... home when down came ... of lightning and a clap of thunder ... truly awful; the two horses ... unmanageable through ... waggon jolted first on one side ... the other until, I was nearly ... knew every inch of the road, ... that I was not far from the ruins ... Convent. Now in some parts of it ... still remains, but is in a dangerous condition; at all events I determined to take shelter from the now very heavy storm, so I drove and turned the horses under an old archway that had been an entrance porch, or something of that sort, to the Convent in its prosperous days.

"The wind and rain blew through it very strong, so I went a little further on until I came to a place which Squire Maynard says, used to be the refectory, (that is the hall or eating apartment of a convent or monastery, &c.), the old gentleman is a antiquarian, and he delights to talk about old churches and old ruins.

"The large room at the back of his house is full of old oak furniture, rusty old swords and guns, and all sorts of steel armour, old and rare china, pictures, &c. He once showed me some bows and arrows that had been used at the Battle of Hastings, and some cannon balls that were found on Marston Moor, that had killed somebody that were opposed to Cromwell and his warlike soldiers. He shewed me a purse that once belonged to Lady Jane Grey, and a pocket-handkerchief that had dried the eyes of that beautiful but unfortunate lady; he has a lot of musty old books and letters that I could not read, which he says are invaluable, and to crown all, he shewed me a curious tobacco pipe which he positively affirmed had been used by the famous Sir Walter Raleigh.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865. After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.
SOLE MANUFACTURER:—J. T. DAVENPORT, 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London.

The General Board of Health, London, reports that it acts as a charm, one dose generally sufficient. Earl Russell reports to the College of Physicians, London, that Chlorodyne was the only remedy of any service in Cholera. ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

The ordinary Local Board Meeting was held on Monday:—present; J. Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman) Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes and the clerk, Treasurer and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the guardians of the Poor for this township asked for an interview, and being granted, Messrs. Swales. Bumby and Denison were introduced.

A conversation then ensued as to the proposed alterations of the old school house, the real ownership of which appears to be a somewhat knotty point.

The overseers claim it, as having been vested in them for the good of the town; the guardians pay the poor money every fortnight in the room; the Local Board, as the representatives of the ratepayers have added a commodious room, and hold their meetings there; and the School Board also meets in the building.

It is now thought advisable to make another office, a waiting room and a caretaker's cottage, out of the school room formerly used by Mr. Price, but who shall make the alterations and pay for it is the question. The Local Board is willing to do it, and charge a rent to the guardians and School Board, but as the overseers hold the first ownership, they do not care to give up their claim.

Mr. Swales thought that if a resolution of the Board was submitted to the guardians, he was sure they would work with the Board in anything that was for the good of the township The Guardians having withdrawn, the chairman stated that the chairman of the Local Board, School Board and Overseers had met on Saturday, and agreed that a suggestion should be presented to each authority vesting the property in a joint trust of the three authorities. As however, neither the Overseers nor the School Board can spend money for the erection of offices, it was eventually resolved that the Local Board propose to make the alterations, and charge a rent to the School Board and guardians, and that the buildings be invested as a trust in the chairmen of the Local Board and School Board with one of the Rothwell Overseers who shall be chairman of the Trust.

On the motion of Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr Smith, it was resolved that the District rate of 1s. 8d. in the £ be now signed by five members of the Board, countersigned by the clerk, and have the seal of the Board affixed thereto.

Mr Filleter informed the Board that Mr McGourley having reported that the pipes were remarkably tight, there being a very small leakage of about 6 gallons per hour in the whole distance, or about a gallon per mile He congratulated the Board on the successful completion of their waterworks.

A resolution was passed to pay Mr. McGourley up to Saturday, and another motion was unanimously carried—That a testimonial be given to Mr. McGourley on satisfactory completing the reservoir.

After some conversation respecting the agreement with persons taking water, it was resolved that the forms be supplied to those requiring water, and 150 copies of the byelaws printed.

In reply to the Clerk, Mr. Farrer will endeavour to test the metal on the roads during next month.

Respecting Rothwell sewage an additional clause, beneficial to the Board, had been added to be agreement by Mr Calverley, which agreement is now completed.

The accounts and salaries were ordered to be paid.

A letter from Mr Newbold complained of the delay in the sewage scheme at Stourton, but it is hoped that Leeds will soon be prepared to take it.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

A meeting of the Rothwell School Board took place on Tuesday evening:—present. Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Messrs. Seanor, J. Hargreaves, J. Batty and the clerk attendance officer and architect.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the attendance officer made his report, from which it appears that both the National School and the Board School at Rothwell are well attended, but there were two or three applications for the remission of children's fees; one was granted. At Waterloo the attendance has been very much thinned by the closing of the pit. The clerk was instructed to take proceedings against a person at Thwaite Gate for neglecting to send his children to School. The tenders of Messrs. J. & W. Chapman, (builders); Mr. G. Lockwood, (joiner); Mr. J. Season, (slater); Mr. Orange, (plasterer); Messrs. A. & G. Barker, (painters); Mr. J. Tennant, (ironwork); and Mr. J. Wright, (plumber), were accepted. The total cost of the building being £2927 8s. 9d.

The clerk was authorized to ask for a loan of £3903. 17s. 9d. for the Rothwell School from the Public Works Loan Committee.

Miss Turton (being about to enter college) and Miss Kidd, sent in their resignations as teachers in the Waterloo School, which were accepted.

Mr. T. T. Rawling having applied for the situation, he was appointed Master of Waterloo School from the commencement of the new term in January at a salary of £50 a year.

The accounts and salaries were ordered to be paid, and the wants supplied.

Notices of the approaching examination were read.

OPENING OF LOFTHOUSE CHURCH ORGAN.

On Wednesday last, the dedication of the Organ which has recently been purchased for the church, was celebrated in connection with the re-opening of the church, which has been closed for some weeks for the erection of the organ, cleaning the church, and the introduction of gas. The old organ was fixed up stairs, but the new one is down stairs. It is divided into two parts, one in the left aisle and the other in the right; the parts being connected by the requisite number of pipes passing under the floor. The organ is enclosed in a large case on each side, which is trellised. Hy. Embleton, Esq., of Methley, officiated at the organ, and the choir appeared for the first time in their surplices, and lined the seats on each side of the organ, prepared for their use.

In the afternoon service the first lesson was read by the Rev. H. S. King, curate of Rothwell; the second by the Rev. G Heberden, vicar of Rothwell, who also preached the Sermon, in which he stated that the parishioners had got an organ which would greatly assist them in the singing of their devotional hymns, he also stated that it was almost essential that they should have some kind of music in all places of worship. In the Evening Service the singing was solely rendered by the Rothwell Choir. Both lessons were read by Mr. Irvin, of Woodlesford who also preached the sermom, in which he stated that he considered the dedication of an organ as the offering of a gift to God, as it enabled them more fully to worship Him, by the great aid it gave them in the singing of their devotional hymns. He went on to say that music had a soothing influence on the soul of mam, it also elevated them. He stated that the erection of this new organ was a sign that they intended to make the worship of God more impressive, he said the duty of the choir was not to sing elaborate hymns and anthems, but those most adapted to worship God.

With a few more remarks he concluded. The congregation in the afternoon was small, but this is accounted for by the fact that the working classes would be at their employment. In the evening the church was quite filled by a very attentive audience. The offertories for both services amounted to nearly £10.

The choir, after the service, went up to the schoolroom, where luncheon was provided for them.

AN EXAMPLE WORTHY OF BEING FOLLOWED.

Sir,

It is a great pleasure to notice, that Miss Charlesworth of Lofthouse House; besides her constant liberality to the poor of Rothwell and neighbourhood, is now distributing large quantities of goods suitable for the cold months of winter; Blankets, Sheets, Dress Materials, Warm Shirting, Skirtings and other articles; all of which have the tendency to gladden the hearts of the destitute and needy.

Two things are secured by such excellent benefactors,: the blessings of the poor, and the happiness arising from having the power and disposition to do others good. Let all who can, do likewise is the recommendation of AN ADMIRER OF GOODNESS.

THE YORKSHIRE UNION VILLAGE LIBARY. The Worshipful the Mayor of Leeds (Alderman Addyman), has followed the example of his predecessors, and has kindly presented the Yorkshire Union with a donation of Five Guineas, in continuation of the series of Mayors' Boxes. We understand that on the Mayor being waited on by Mr. H. B. Legg. the active Local Treasurer of the District, His Worship expressed an earnest hope that the example set by the Mayors of Leeds would be followed by the Chief Magistrate of other Towns. The Yorkshire Libary now supplies 150 Villages with 200 volumes a year each, of sound good literature; a loss of £5 a year is in every case entailed upon the Council of the Union, and the only chance of this work being sustained and extended, lies in the increase of subscriptions from the leading Yorkshire-men and Yorkshire-women in aid of this great County work.

FOOTBALL.

ROTHWELL JUNIORS v. 8th BRIGADE

The above match was played on Saturday, November 23rd and ended in a victory for the soldiers, who got three goals to Rothwell none. The Rothwell team played up hill for the first half, before the ball had been set in motion five minutes the soldiers got a goal. In the last half the Rothwell team kept the ball in the soldiers' quarters; the Rothwell Captain made a try at the goal, but it hit the goal posts. The soldiers will play at Rothwell to-morrow. Wilson, Chadwick, Tiffany, and Waterhouse, played well for Rothwell.

REARING SUPPER.—On Wednesday night last, Mr John Bennett gave a rearing supper to his workmen employed in building some houses near Gillet Bridge. The supper was provided by Mr Samuel Clough of Melborne Hoose, Carlton Lane, and was done full justice to by those present.

The engine, of the match factory of Messrs Seanor and Sons, having been repaired, the works are now in good working order.

ENTERTAINMENT.—On Saturday last, an Entertainment was given in Robin Hood Sunday School, which consisted of a Service of Song entitled "Eva". The Oak Town Road Chapel Choir, from Wortley, kindly gave their services; Mr. J. Chambers presided The singing of the hymns was very creditable, and was appreciated as such by the audience which was moderately large, A vote of thanks to the chairman and the choir terminated the evening's entertainment.

"OLD WHITE HALL,"
By C. Gibson, London.

"But to my tale. Well, I told you that I went into a place that used to be the refectory, the wind was howling and moaning round the old stone pillars and arches, and the storm outside did not seem to abate, so I sat down on a piece of crumbling stone that appeared to have been carved, for I could feel the shape of a man's nose on it; anyhow the old and desolate part of the ruin began to assume a different appearance. A faint light appeared to hang from the roof, and it gradually took the form of a large iron lamp, which soon shed a bright light over all the appartment; the roof or ceiling was formed of what the Squire called 'groaned arches,' grotesquely carved, and the walls had oddly shaped windows in them; a large table stood in the centre of the floor, and around it sat eight or ten as jolly good fellows as ever my eyes had the pleasure of looking upon. They were all eating and drinking to their hearts, contnet; one red-faced old fellow, who must have been the abbot, was cutting away at a large piece of beef that was at the head of the staunch oak table, another was slicing up a large boiled ham, which no doubt at one time when in its natural state had run about some farmer's strawyard, and another was filling some drinking horns with ale that stood on dierffent parts of the table, and they were all as merry as crickets, and quite as lively.

"When they had finished their dinner or supper (I dont know which it was) the red-faced abbot sung, in a deep toned voice—

'Oh! there's nothing so good as a monk in his cell.
While he's counting his beads he is doing very well;
After matins and ve pers are chanted or said,
He can eat, he can drink, and then go to bed.
Oh! a rare jolly life is a monks, I ween,
He's as merry as a prince, and as happy as a queen!

"They all now stood up and drank long life to the pope; then each one retired to his cell; the lamp went out and I was left in total darkness."

"I suppose you jump't up and ran away, did'nt you Joe? said Robert.

"No! I did not," answered Joe, "for I could not move from the stone that I sat upon. Well, the storm, as I thought, had abated, and now the iron lamp appeared hanging from the roof again, but the light it shed was brilliantly blue, and such a sight it revealed that I shall never forget it to the longest day I live; my teeth chattered and I trembled like an aspen leaf. A stately figure clad in armour and with a sword in his hand stood before me and in a hollow voice, it said, slowly and distinctly, 'Thou art an interloper here; why disturbest thou our midnight orgies?'

"I was just going to make a suitable reply, when the ghostly knight said, 'Open not thy mouth, for since thou hast ventured to enter these ruins, thou art bound to witness the whole proceedings.' "You may guess how many times I wished myself at home, but I could not move an inch. The knight now touched with the point of his sword a projecting stone in the wall, and I instantly appeared to be in a large room, the walls of which were crowded with pictures and every one of them was portraits of men and women, life size, and they were dressed in the costumes of an age long since passed away and never more to return. The courtier, the baron, the soldier, the scholar, the statesman, the lady with her ruffles, the old and stately dame, the young and pretty maiden with her quilted satin skirt and buckled shoes were all gazing at me through the richly gilt frames that surrounded them.

"How shall we entertain this poor mortal?" said a voice which seem'd to proceed from one of the portraits on the wall. A sweet low voice now answered—

Of entertainments we've a score,
And a dance upon the oaken floor
Shall be the first this very night
To entertain this luckless wight.
Each from your gilded frames now leap;—
"Why bless my life, heres Joe, asleep"

"The last line was uttered by my father, who giving me a rough shake awoke me out of a very curious dream. He then told me that the horses had found their way home with the empty waggon, but he could not understand why I was not with them."

"A very entertaining story for Christmas Eve," said Mr. Harrington, "but how did your father find you, for the night I suppose, was very dark?"

Well, sir, he had a lantern which gave him light"

"I see! I see!" jocularly replied Mr. Harrington.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in the shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also, by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s. and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

HOPKINSON'S PIANOFORTES are unequalled for PURITY AND PERFECTION OF TONE, DELICATE TOUCH, GREAT DURABILITY and ELEGANT APPEARANCE. Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from. PURCHASE DIRECT FROM THE MAKERS. The Advantages are obvious.
Messrs. HOPKINSON are the only makers in GREAT BRITAIN who obtained PRIZE MEDALS for their Pianofortes at all the following Exhibitions:—THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851. THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855, and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR. THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITION IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."
JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of the list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.
AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867.
After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.
At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865 the Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.
N.B.—J. & J. H. did not exhibit at Paris in 1878.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From Dr. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD.

The Government Examinations are now being conducted in the Schools under the Board.

Yesterday, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Wade Assistant Inspectors visited the Rothwell Haigh Schools, when a goodly number of children were presented for standard examination; to-day A. G. Legard, Esq, H.M. Inspector of Schools, makes the annual inspection of those schools. To-day, Mr. Taylor visits the Rothwell Temporary School, and on Monday, Mr. Legard will make the general inspection.

On Monday, also the Waterloo School will be inspected by H. P. Henderson, Esq., H.M. Inspector of schools.

LOFTHOUSE-WITH-CARLTON SCHOOL BOARD.

A meeting of the Board was held on Monday last, there was present J. Charlesworth, Esq., chairman; B. Scarth, Esq., vice-chairman; Messrs. T. Hargreaves, H. Ward, T. Throp, and Mr. H. Lee, the clerk. The fees paid to the Treasurer for the month of October were £11 12s. 8d. for Carlton School, and £12 7s. 9d. for Robin Hood School. Cheques were signed amounting to £38 18s. 7d. for teachers' salaries, school cleaning, and rates. A demand for Income Tax amounting to £4 14s. 5d. from the clerk to the Income Tax Commissioners was laid before the Board, who after discussion, instructed the Clerk to see the Surveyor of Taxes for an explanation of the charge. The report of the attendance officer shewed there were several children attending the school very badly, some not attending at all; the parents seem to take no notice of the orders served upon them for attendance of their children, the Board have agreed to grant a short time longer for them to attend the schools, and if not then, the parents are to be summoned.

CARLTON.

Mr. George Brown, of Carlton, has killed a fat pig this week weighing over 30 stones, said by competent judges to weigh 33 stones. The animal is two days short of a year old and purchased from the noted breed of Mr. Heberden, Vicar of Rothwell, when about two months old.

WATERLOO.

The Waterloo Coal Co. having given a number of their men notice to quit their employ, the houses are being rapidly emptied, and some of the men say, it is a very hard task finding employment in these depressed times.

THE COMING FOOTBALL MATCH BY ELECTRIC LIGHT.

The plucky manner in which the Rothwell Football Club (and notably Mr. W. Andrews, who has guaranteed £10) have taken up this matter, and the very great risk incurred in the undertaking, deserve the real sympathy and material assistance of the people of this town and neighbourhood

We believe Mr. Braithwaite (late of Rothwell) originated the idea of exhibiting this marvellous invention at Rothwell, and his perseverance in this matter, is only another example of the same determined "forward movement" which used to characterise him in connection with the Mechanics' Institute.

We understand the light will be equal to 9000 sperm candles, and should the night be at all favourable, a great treat is in store for us on Monday week.

We trust that everybody will purchase tickets at once, so as to encourage the promoters of the enterprise, and secure the guarantors against any loss. There are those who have gone a good many miles to see the Electric light, which is still a very great novelty, and has only been exhibited some six months in England; and on Monday week a Football Match may be enjoyed by its beautiful illumination for Sixpence.

PARLIAMENT.

THE sixth Session of the present Parliament was opened yesterday by Royal Commission. In both houses questions were asked respecting the Afghan difficulty, and the Government strongly upheld their action: after discussion, the address in reply to the Royal message was agreed to, and the houses adjourned.

THE AFGHAN WAR,

THE BATTLE AT PEIWAR
BRILLIANT VICTORY.

THE VICEROY officially announces the capture of the Peiwar last Tuesday, after an engagement in which the British forces lost two officers killed and fifty men killed or wounded. The enemy had been reinforced, and offered a desperate resistance, and their artillery was well served. The defeat, however, was complete. Eighteen guns and a large quantity of ammunition were captured.

THE ANCIENT CROSS IN ROTHWELL CHURCH YARD.

In answer to an enquiry made by "Antiquary" concerning the above, which appeared in the form of a letter, dated August 7th, 1878, and addressed to the Editor of the "Rothwell Times" the following particulars have been gleaned.

"About thirty years ago, there were lying about the Church yard at the North-east end a number of carved stones, evidently intended to form a Cross, of rather large dimentions, about 5 to 6 feet high, but it was deficient in some of its proportions. The apex part of it was marked with interlaced tracery of a Scandinavian type, and at its base there was, by some strange anomaly, carved upon it, a Norman shield."

The people belonging to a family grave near hand claimed it, and employed it as an ornamental heading to the grave. Mr. Bell with his antiquarian tastes and feelings felt so disgusted with the erroneous mixing of two distinct styles in the cross, that he ordered it to be broken up; part of it however, was used in the making of the ornate Gothic cross, now appearing at the gable end of the Chancel, put up when the new roof was erected in 1850.

Mr. Holmes, the Archeologist, from whom "Antiquary" has obtained the interesting information, regrets that such action should have been taken, and that the stones were thus destroyed, for he considers that the cross though relatively a modern specimen of workmanship, must have been a copy of a real antique, formerly existing within the precincts of our venerable Church.

Possibly if the figures or characters on the cross had been carefully examined, they might have proved symbolical of ancient ideas, and so shed light upon antiquity.

One is apt to wonder if the first settlers in this place had anything to do with the erection of the original Scandinavian or Runic Cross; or if the early name of Rothwell, namely, "Rode" or "Rood" a cross and well points to the same source.

Rothwell, Dec. 3rd, 1878.

"OLD WHITE HALL,"
(A TALE OF OLD ROTHWELL).
By C Gibson, London.

CHAPTER XII.

Three years had glided smoothly away, so far as Linton was concerned, since he and his father, had first entered the world-renowned city of London.

So ardent was he in his profession, that even Eleanor was sometimes forgotten.

A very eminent writer, informs us, that "there is a tide in the affairs of men, which, if taken at the flood, leadeth on to fortune" now, the tide of the affairs of Linton, was certainly in the ascendant, when he left his humble home, to be fortunate enough to find a luxurious, and well-conducted one, in the house of Sir Joshua Gainsborough: and also to have the rare advantage of the teaching of such a master of his art, as Richard Wilson.

To whom was he indebted for such good fortune? even in his wildest dreams, London, nor anything within it, was ever pictured; his most sanguine hopes could never have been realised, had it not been for the kindness of the father of the being he so dearly loved; and, yet in an indirect manner it was through the influence of Eleanor, that he was now so proficient in his truly engaging profession.

How he now longed to be once more in her presence,—what would he give but for one short hour's conversation with her again, in that old arbour, in the orchard? How often had the ring, which she gave him, on that starlight night, been an object of contemplation to him? His father and dear mother, and even the old windmill, would often occupy his mind, and appear so clearly before him, that come what may, he soon must once more be with them.

Having arrived at so desirable a conclusion, he made every requisite arrangement for the journey, to the old house at Oulton, wherein still dwelt his father and mother.

He took an affectionate leave of Sir Joshua, and the admirable landscape painter, Richard Wilson, with whom he had spent so many happy hours and was now fairly on his way to Yorkshire; but we will outstrip him on his journey, and shew you, dear readers, another scene in the Old White Hall. . . . .

By the bedside of Eleanor, in a front room which is neatly and tastily furnished, is standing the village Æsculapius. Mr. Harrington and Robert are anxiously watching his physiognomy, which wears not (to all appearance) a very assuring argury for the speedy recovery of the fair young lady of the house.

While he gently pressed the slender wrist of Eleanor with one hand, he carefully scann'd the dial of a huge watch which he held in the other for a space of time, then replacing that delicate piece of machinery in his waistcoat pocket, he asked his fair young patient a few professional questions, which she faintly, but satisfactorily answered.

The good doctor then turning towards Mr. Harrington said. "Your daughter, sir, is free from any external disease, but I fear me an internal disease, which is a very common one, and which no medicine of mine can remedy, is undermining her youthful constitution."

"I hope not seriously so," replied Mr. Harrington, somewhat alarmed.

"While there is life there is hope, but we need not despair, although her heart is affected. for I think that mischievious little fellow, with his bows and arrows, is accountable for your daughter's present illness, is it not so," said the straight-forward doctor with a smile, and at the same time looking at Miss Eleanor? But that fair young lady had already hid her beautiful and blushing countenance in the snow white folds of the counterpane, and returned him no answer.

Robert's face was now beaming with good humour, and as the village physician turned to leave the room, he promised to send a simple medicine, which would probably tend to strengthen the frame of the fair young lady in question. . . . .

One morning, about a week after the late occurrence, old Sally, the housekeeper, and Eleanor (who had not yet risen from her bed) were in close converse.

Sally must have dad some really good news, for Eleanor's features wore a very healthy appearance.

Good news are surely better than bad medicine, bnt are you sure?

Well, answred the old housekeeper, my husband was att'owd windmill yesterday, and heard from Mr. Milman that young Mr. Linton had come home from London, and that to-night he will be here to see you all.

Quite elated with the morning's cheerfu gossip, Eleanor was soon convalascent and well again.

When Linton arrived at Oulton, how different the little village appeared in his eyesight, the cottage that he first saw daylight in, he imagined that he could jump over it. There were no grand churches, no broad and silvery river, no Westminster Abbey, wherein he had so often listened with rapture to the echoing music that resounded among the old, old pillars and arches of that endearing, and never to be forgotten sacred edifice.

But what were all these without Eleanor? And when he first saw his father and mother again, London was entirely in the background.

His mother wept for joy on beholding her only son again; and the miller with moistening eyes could not help breaking out in his favourite song

"A truly happy man am I
A happier none can find,
I love my wife, my friend, my boy,
And the rest of all mankind."

"How did you enjoy your ride home Linton? and did you lose anything in that rickety old waggon?" said his father, as the lost letter came into his mind.

"And are you not glad to be at home again," said his mother? These and a hundred more questions were asked concerning Linton and his doings after he left his native village for the great city of London.

CHAPTER XIII.

Ye tuneful bells! with resonant sound
Your gladsome notes spread far around,
"Time honored" is the grey old tower,
Wherein you've rung for many an hour,
Unusual glad you seem to-day
What do you ring for, tell, I pray?

Excellent bells! why do you ring
For victory won, or crowned king?
Or is it some gay festive time,
That needs your sweet and "morning chime"
Why in my heart such rapture dwells
I wish to know, ye merry bells?

Triumphant bells! that side by side
Ring out your notes both far and wide,
How gay you seem, what ist pray name?
What doth your iron tongues proclaim?
Of a "wedding day" each loudly tells
While they swing and ring, those joyful bells.

A wedding day is certainly "the day" of a man's life, and if he is young it is especially so, for then begins in real earnest his joy, hope, sorrow, trouble &c. for the sun of a married life is not always rdaiant, but far be it from me to discourage a youthful mind that is connubially inclined for how many men in this sublunary world are indebted to the influence and good sense of their wives!

But to proceed with our story, never in the whole course of its existence did the Old White Hall contain within its walls so gay and select a company of friendly participators in any wedding festivity, as on this joyous occasion.

Mr Harrington looked quite young again. Sir Josherd Gainsborough, who had honoured this "happy occasion" with his presence, and who was to be the "best man" at the wedding, was very chatty. The canny old Miller and his wife were proud with self satisfaction to see, that their son had through the aid of good friends, and his own genius raised himself to such a high position.

Eleanor, who never looked lovelier than on this eventful morning, was timidly conversing with her future husband; indeed. the whole house was bent on enjoying a happy matrimonial celebration.

There were very few indeed among the whole company that day, that were prouder of their position, than our friend Joi, who was not in the old church steeple "ringing changes," but was seated on the most prominent seat of Sir Joshua's private coach with a pair of splendid "Yorkshire greys" before him.

Now this "grand wedding" had caused much gossip in the antiquated village and everyone in the "main street" especially were on the look out to see the coach of the great gentleman, who had come all the way London to be at the wedding of Miss Harrington, for such a conveyance was a great rarity in Rothwell at that period; and when the now proud "village coachman" drove briskly on his way to church, a great many followed and took their seats in the old historical edifice, to witness the interesting proceedings.

The bells now ceased to chime and while the venerable parish clerk, Robert Hey, arranged before the altar the youthful couple, that were now to be united in the "holy bonds of matrimony," and also their immediate attendants, the instrumentalists in the "singing gallery" played their choicest music, which was neither Mendelssohn's "Wedding march," nor Handel's Hallelujah Chorus" but a piece in three movements by the "first fiddle" which we may conjecture was not a very complicated composition, but still it served its purpose and put a guinea into the pocket of its rural composer.

At a signal from the clerk, the music ceased, and the Rev. S. Harper, vicar joined together two happy hearts, whose "course of true love" had run smooth. and which continued so to do for a number of years afterwards.

Now the ordinary style of tale writers I believe, is to finish up with the principal parties concerned at the altar of the church, but we will go a little out of the beaten track and follow the newly married pair to the Old White Hall.

After dinner was served at six o'clock in the evening the conversation between the "Elders" of the joyful company, at one time was turned by Mr. Harrington to Captain Sidwell, and his doings on land and sea, while Sir Joshua seemed to be much amused and interested with the finding of the mysterious but valuable box. was a prominent feature in in the conversation, and which Sir Joshua was now very eager to see.

All prejudice was now thrown aside, concerning the solitary room wherein Mrs Harrington died, and which Sally took such great delight in polishing up at certain times, for four special individuals, soon found themselves within its walls.

"This is the cabinet wherein was found the paper which explained the purpose of the contents of this box," said Mr Harrington, pointing to two ancient pieces of workmanship.

"The box has a very rough exterior certainly." said Sir Joshua.

"But its interior is golden," replied Mr Harrington, who now opened the creaking lid, and displayed the spade guineas, and Spanish doubloons, and according to this paper, which you now shall read, my good daughter, these glittering coins are your "marriage portion." "And a very handsome portion indeed," observed Sir Joshua, who before he left Rothwell, presented Linton with an equal amount of money, to that which the gallant Captain Sidwell left to his charming granddaughter.

We have little more to tell, for scarcely a vestige is now to be seen of the Old White Hall. The ruins of the windmill have entirely disappeared. The three old bells, and the stocks, are things of the past. The good old village blacksmith is now no more; and some day the reader may find on an obelisk in Rothwell Churchyard his epitaph, which may read thus:—

The bones of one whose name was John
Doth sleep beneath this sculptured stone,
A hardier son of Vulcan, mind
In all the world you could not find,
From early morn, till late at night
His bellows blew, his fire burnt bright,
His anvil you could hear him ring
His mighty "sledge" could see him swing.
His glowing iron now is "rust"
His glittering sparks are turned to dust,
And now alas! beneath this stone
Is all that doth remain of John

THE END.

APPENDIX.

With the preceding little romance, its author has ventured out into the wide world of literature; his desire has been in this instance, principally to picture in the minds of his readers, a residence which stood for a great many years in Rothwell.

The characters are nearly all imaginary; the chief aim of the author's has been to please his friends and acquaintances, and if he has been successful in so doing, he will consider himself well repaid for many hours study.

C. GIBSON, Kennington Cross.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuable articles from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the top of the safes

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION, LONDON, 1862, awarded for "Excellence of Tone," THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872 For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi, page 41.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865.
After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.
At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Group, Ague.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

The above Board met as usual on Monday evening, Present:—Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Messrs. Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Grenwood, Bramley, Holmes and the Clerk, Treasurer and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, a letter was read from Mr. Pickthall applying for certain extras &c, which after consideration was referred to the Waterworks Committee

A cheque was granted to Mr. Mc. Gawley for small payments &c made by him while engaged by the Board.

In reply to a letter from the Rev. G. Heberden respecting the terms on which the Board will supply him with water by meter, the clerk was instructed to state that the Board were prepared to supply water to the Vicarage, either by scale, or by meter at the rate of 1s. per thousand gallons, with rent of meter 16s. per annum.

On the motion of Mr. Holmes, seconded by Mr. Lunn, Mr. Price was granted a cheque for £10 for making the accounts and collecting the water rents, &c., at Stourton during three quarters.

It was decided that the question of appointing a collector for the whole district be left over till next meeting.

The difficulty of supplying Windmill houses with water was partly considered, and afterwards referred to the Waterworks Committee who shall report on the best means of doing this work.

Mr. Parkinson, engineer, stated that the contractor for the Leeds Sewage outlet, expected finishing his work by Christmas.

Mr. Farrer wrote that he would be prepared to test the roads, if convenient to the Board, on Saturday, December 14th. It was agreed to accept that day.

Mr. Smith reported that the overseers and guardians were willing to allow the Local Board to make the alterations necessary in the old school, that the Local Board, School Board and Guardians each pay a rental, and that the chairmen of the Local Board, School and Overseers be created trustees for the purpose, the Overseer's chairman to be chairman of the Trust.

The chairman asked if the Board were both to alter the building and pay rent too.

The clerk said the auditor would certainly surcharge such a payment.

The chairman then moved that the question be dropped altogether.

Mr. Holmes proposed that the place be offered for sale by auction.

Mr. Bramley thought that according to the tablet over the door, if anybody had a right to the ownership of the building, it was the School Board.

Mr. Holmes suggested that they should advertise for the owner.

The meeting then broke up.

"The materials are choice—can be used with advantage in all mild affections of the skin."—Lancet. "It is the most agreeable and elegant preparation for the skin that I know."—James Startin, Surgeon to St. John's Hospital, London. "It is specially nice for children."—Dr. J. Evans, State Apothecary, Dublin. By all chemists. In tablets, 6d. and 1s. The Albion Sanatory Soap Co., 532, Oxford St., London.

THE BURNING CASE AT ROBIN HOOD.

It will be remembered that some time ago, we reported the case of a little girl named Harriet Ann Binks, of Brighteyes Row, who, while seeking something with a candle early one morning, set her clothes on fire, and was severely burnt.

We are sorry to state, that although it was thought she would recover, the little one died on Saturday last. and was interred at Lofthouse on Monday, a large number of children attending the funeral.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT ROTHWELL.

The Rev. Geo. Warner has been holding special religious services every night this last week in the Primitive Chapel, Rothwell, which have been well attended and productive of good. On Sunday afternoon a united children's service took place, for the scholars connected with the Wesleyan and Primitive Sunday Schools, when a large number of young people and their friends nearly filled the chapel.

THE WEATHER.

The cold this week has been extraordinarily severe, a white frost prevailing most of the time. Should it continue, we may expect an old fashioned Christmas.

ROTHWELL BRASS BAND CONCERT

On Monday evening, the members of the Rothwell Model Prize Brass Band held their Second Annual Grand Concert, in the Mechanics' Institute, when a very fair audience were in attendance. The programme was pleasingly varied, there being both vocal and instrumental selections. In the former Miss Wormald, of Rothwell Haigh, sang 'Little Gipsy Jane' and the 'Mermaid's Vesper Song' very nicely Mr. Towler (Choirmaster of Holbeck Church) also contributed 'England's Home and Glory' and 'The Tars' Farewell' in a capital style, though he was rather unfortunate in his accompanyist not being quite up to this particular song. Mr. Brown gave 'Napolitaine' with his usual taste, and 'Once Again' was well rendered Mr. Harrison was in excellent voice, and notwithstanding the fact that his music had either been taken away or lost, he shone none the less in 'The Village Blacksmith;' in the second part, instead of 'The Vicar of Bray,' he sang, at sight, 'The Believer's March,' the chorus 'March on' being taken up by the members of the Harmonic Union. A new soloist appeared in Mr. T. Bedford who succeeded admirably in 'She Wore a Wreath of Roses,' his second song was also a pretty one 'Truth in Absence.' Mr. Blackburn joined Mr. Brown in a duet 'Come o'er the Moonlit Sea' in which both acquitted themselves creditably. A quartette was undertaken by Messrs. Lambert, Blackburn, Brown and Harrison in place of Mr. Lunn's comic song. The Harmonic Union highly delighted the company with their singing of the part song 'Stars of Summer Nights' and also in 'Tars,' where the bass was specially good. Mr. T. Beaumont and Miss Robinson accompanied the songs on the pianoforte, Mr. Beaumont also displayed his excellent powers of execution in two overtures on that instrument. Perhaps the great attraction of the evening, was the playing of Mr. G. F. Birkenshaw, who has already attained great celebrity as a cornet player in Yorkshire. In the first part he gave with all his previous power 'Carnival de Venice' followed by 'Jenny Jones' and an extra solo just before he left 'Weel may the Keel Row' in which he thoroughly delighted and astonished the audience.

Our capital Band appeared for the first time as No. 1 and 2 Glee Bands, and we were pleased to note the careful and often delicate manner in which emphasis was given to the music played. No, 1 played 'Hail Memory, Hail,' while No. 2 gave the glee 'Great Appolo.' We heartily wish them success in their new departure, and shall be glad to hear of some good soloists making their appearance next year.

The pecuniary result of the effort will be devoted to the purchase of new instruments

FOOTBALL.

ROTHWELL v. OULTON

These clubs met at Rothwell on Saturday, November 30th, for the first time and a very fast and exciting game was the result, ending in a tie, each side obtaining two goals. It was fully 3.30 p.m when Rothwell kicked off, thus necessitating a short time for the game. In less than ten minutes Gosney for Oulton, shied at goal which the Harmonic disputed, but which the Oulton umpire decided had gone through. This roused the Harmonic, who, by a combined effort in which Taylor and J. Harrison were conspicuous, secured a goal. On changing ends they repeated the operation. The Oulton Captain kicked off, and following quickly up secured the ball; by a judicious dribble, ably assisted by Gosney and Herbert Bell, he managed to get it between the posts. On the kick off play became very fast and continued so until no side was called, neither side being able to add to their scores. Teams:—Rothwell Harmonic, Wm. Harrison, J. Harrison, H. Taylor, G. W. Blakey, G. Adamson, and S. Gouldthorpe, forwards; Copley, J. Woobank, and C. Dobson, half-backs; A. Newton and E. Benton, backs; W. Andrews, goal. Umpire W. Lambert.—Oulton, A. Gosney, G. M. Abbey, G. Arber. Harry Bell, Herbert Bell, and E. Boothroyd (Captain), forwards; W. Davy, J. Clarkson and W. Hutchinson, half-backs; T. D. Jackson and J. Stead, backs; E. Wright, goal. Umpire, J. Rhodes.

SCARLET and BLACK v. BLUE and WHITE.

Two teams, under the above colours, played a game at Football under the Association rules on the Woodlesford Cricket Ground, last Saturday. The players hailed from the three clubs of Hunslet, Rothwell and Oulton The Blues' Captain kicked off a little before 3 o'clock, and ere many minutes had passed the Scarlets had secured two goals, one from the foot of their Captain and the other from Gosney. This roused the Blues and soon after half time, they secured one from a loose scrimmage.

They continued to press their opponents and ultimately Hill shied at goal which the referee decided had gone through, thus making the game a tie, each securing two goals. Nothing further took place before the call of time. The play was good all round, but owing to the wind and rough nature of the field in some parts, no good runs were made throughout the whole of the game. Teams:—Scarlet and Black, J. Stead, goal; T. D. Jackson, and J. Chadwick, backs; J. Whitehead, Coates, and T. Wilkinson, half-backs; A. Gosney, W. Harrison, J. Hebden, R. Hudson J. Beighton and E. Boothroyd (Captain) forwards.—Blue and White, J. Clarkson, goal; S. Gilbert (Captain), and A. Newton, backs; G. Adamson, C. Shaw, and J. Hindle, half-backs; G. M. Abbey, H. Taylor, W. Hill, J. Dowd, J. Harrison and Herbert Bell forwards.

OUR CHRISTMAS STORY.

LADY CARMICHAEL'S WILL.

By MARY CECIL HAY.

CHAPTER I.
A SUMMER EVENING.

LADY CARMICHAEL lay resting near the open French window, while Lillian and I sat together on the step of it, looking out upon the view from this new home of ours. From our feet the lawn sloped to the cliffs; beyond, the sea lay wide and still, with the sunset flush upon its waters. We had only reached Bryn Arddail this very afternoon, and after our London spring the fresh sea breeze was most delicious to us. Lillian, with her face raised to meet it, heaved a long sigh of the purest and deepest enjoyment. Lady Carmichael smiled a little hearing this. "Lillian, you will soon drop with ennui here," she said, "and pray me to take you abroad, or to one of those gay country houses to which you are invited—anywhere, in short, so that you may feel yourself again a star among women, a little goddess among men. Remember, Mr. Macan says we shall have no society here; no one to speak to but each other."

My lady said this with a quizzical glance at Lillian, but I am sure she detected, as readily as I did, the true ring in Lilian's ready answer; "I don't want society, Auntie. I don't want any new friend. I have gladly left every single one behind, except you and Stella—the two best and dearest."

Lillian said this with a smile, not only for Lady Carmichael, but for me too; once her favourite school friend, and now her paid companion.

"Miss Lillian must be so heartily tired of those carpet knights who perpetually dance attendance upon her, that one could fancy the absence of them here to be almost a blessing."

"So it is," cried Lilian, springing to her feet, and putting both her hands into those of the old gentleman, who had come round to the open window just in time to hear Lady Carmichael's last speech. "How did you come, Mr. Macan?"

"By train, my dear. How else? I've an old acquaintance here, and I wanted to see him."

Mr. Macan had been Lady Carmichael's intimate friend, as well as legal adviser; for twenty years; yet it was evident she had never heard before of his having an acquaintance in this primitive seaboard parish, to which she had been sent to recruit her failing health.

"You said we should have no society here at all," she observed, in rather an injured tone.

"Nor will you, my lady; but a village however isolated and uncivilized, has one necessary appendage—its clergyman; and I chance to know the man who is billeted in Bryn Arddail. May I introduce him to you?"

"Yes, as he is a friend of yours."

"Not for that reason," returned the old lawyer, quietly. "But as the year you have decided to spend in Byrn Arddail, will be none the less pleasant for his acquaintance, and as I can answer that he will never intrude unwelcomely, and may sometimes be an acceptable addition to your party when you get tired of each other, I will introduce him"

"We shall never be tired of each other," said Lilian, in her prompt, impulsive way. "Mr. Macan, what a beautiful place this is! I'm perfectly certain it will give Auntie back her health and strenght."

"Not a doubt of that," put in Mr. Macan, confidently. "A physician chose the spot, and I chose the house; what could result but a thorough success?"

"Tell me who is this curate of Bryn Arddail, receiving as his stipend about one-half of what they give your junior curate in town. You look surprised, Miss Lilian. I see no reason why Hugh Lindsey should not work here for about one-quarter of the sum any one of your lovers pays his tailor yearly—and help the parish on it too."

"He cannot," Lilian said. She stood leaning against the window-frame beside me, looking away to where the village nestled among the cliffs, and I thought she spoke with unusual earnestness.

"I am not to be contradicted by you young things," remonstrated the old lawyer, watching her. "I am talking to Lady Carmichael, and you need not listen."

But Lilian did listen. I do not think there was one word she missed, as her eyes wandered from the village to the gray tower upon the cliff, then away to the silent beautiful sea.

"But surely," questioned my lady, when the lawyer paused, "if this young rector be all you describe, he could obtain a richer living, where his talents would be more appreciated?"

"I don't know about appreciation for his talents," said Mr. Macan, with greater seriousness than was usual with him," but I think he is making 'other ten' with them; and perhaps his Master will be satisfied,"

"What a great thing," said Lilian, softly, "to have gained such an influence as you speak of over these rough fishermen and miners!"

"As brave a victory as ever was gained," said the old lawyer, warmly. "I have heard enough to-day to teach even an old fellow like myself. They tell me that the public-house here is almost unvisited now, while I can recollect hearing and seeing in Bryn Arddail as much drunkenness and ribaldry as I have sometimes seen and heard in the lowest parts of Hammersmith—could I say more? Of course this change has not been accomplished by teaching alone, though Lindsey works so untiringly and prayerfully—the only way a man can work who aims for such high success—for example goes farther with such men as these than any teaching, and the life their rector lives among them is his best lesson. The brave and fearless way he shows them, by every act and word of his, what love he bears his Saviour, and the proud yet humble way he puts before all other thoughts the love his Saviour bears to us, has—well, has done its work. The men are led to see what is the truest manliness as well as the purest religion, and I believe they love their young teacher with a little of such love as certain fishermen of old bore their young teacher. No wonder either, since that manly love he seeks to win from them is for his Master, never for himself."

"I see," said Lilian, quietly, and I looked up into her eyes. Beautiful eyes they always were, but I fancied at that moment there was a new beauty in their long, long gaze upon the western sea.

"Is your friend a gentleman by birth?" inquired my lady.

"No—" Mr. Macan was smiling quizzically, for he knew most of Lady Carmichael's weaknesses—

"I don't think Lindsey's forbears were ever heard of. But never mind; the pew belonging to this house is a very snug one, my lady, and will encourage oblivion of Hugh's antecedents."

"You mean," said Lilian, turning gravely to look into the old lawyer's face, "that we shall only think of what he tells us."

"Do I?" smiled Mr. Macan, well pleased, as I could see, at the way our pet read his tone. "Well, you know best, my dear. But remember, I don't expect you to stay the year contentedly here."

"I am very glad of the change and quiet," she said, earnestly. "I wish you would believe me."

He must have believed such truthful eyes and lips; yet I could understand how hard it might be. She had come from London in the very height of the season, and was forfeiting gay and fashionable seasons elsewhere—she who in all society was so much sought after, flattered, admired, aye, and even loved. Partly, of course, she owed her popularity to being sole heiress of her wealthy aunt, and to her beauty; but it could never have been what it was, except for the bright. sweet, generous nature, which was almost like a magic spell about my darling girl.

CHAPTER II.
GOOD BYE.

It was a still September afternoon, and I, sitting alone on the step of that low French window where Lilian and I had sat so long on the evening of our arrival, and which had ever since been a favourite idling-place with us, was counting almost sorrowfully the three months which had sped from those twelve we were to spend at Bryn Arddail.

"Alone still!" exclaimed Lady Carmichael, coming up to me from the garden. "Why, Stella, you are always alone now. Where is Lilian?"

"She went down to the church this afternoon, and I preferred staying here. She longed for the sound of the organ, she said, and would go and play for an hour."

"And why not play on her own piano? I do not like this new whim. It is unworthy of Lilian."

"She likes so much to practise in the church," I put in, quietly.

"If so, Stella, I must beg you to accompany her."

I glanced wonderingly into my lady's face, the impatient tone of her voice was so new to me.

"Whether with us or not, Lady Carmichael," I said, knowing how her darling's happiness had always been her first thought, "Lilian enjoys every day she spends here. I think she likes Bryn Arddail better than any sea-side place we ever visited; and what a healthy look this air has given her!"

"The air is well enough," assented my lady, with cold emphasis.

"And," I went on, impelled by some impulse I did not like following, "she does not verify Mr. Macan's prediction. She does not miss the society to which she is accustomed."

"I wish we had never come"

The sharp, sudden speech astonished me greatly from the old lady, who had always been so tender and loving to my darling; and the words I had been going to utter, died on my lips in my surprise a ...

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and is said to be very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believe that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitute the tops of the safes

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

World Known—World Tried!!

For strengthening a debilitated constitution, these Pills are more efficacious than any other medicine. Persons of a nervous habit of body, and all who are suffering from weak digestive organs, or whose health has become deranged from whatever cause, should lose no time in giving these Pills a fair trial; their action is immediate, beneficial, and lasting, restoring order, health, and vigor in every case.

For Disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels.

These purifying Pills are confidently recommended as the most simple and certain remedy for Indigestion, Flatulency, Acidity, Constipation, and all Disorders resulting from disordered Stomach or Bowels. They act as purifiers, alteratives, and strengtheners of the stomach. Though powerfully tonic and satisfactorily aperient, they are mild in their operation and beneficial to the whole system.

Weakness and Debility—Nervous Irritability and Low Spirits.

The wholesome effect exercised by these admirable Pills over the Blood and Fluids generally, is like a charm in dispelling low spirits and restoring cheerfulness. Their general aperient qualities well fit them for a domestic medicine, particularly for females of all ages and periods of life. They quickly eject all impurities from the system, and regulate every function of the body, giving wonderful tone and energy to weak and debilitated constitutions.

Old Coughs, Colds and Asthmatic Affections.

These Pills, assisted in their action by rubbing Holloway's Ointment very effectually twice a day on the Throat and Chest, and keeping those parts covered with the preparation, will be found the most effective remedy for Asthma, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Influenza. They tranquillize the hurried breathing, soothe the irritated air-tubes, and assist in dislodging the phlegm which stops up the air passages. This treatment has proved wonderfully efficient, in not only curing old settled coughs and colds, but even asthma of many years' standing.

Complaints of Women and Children.

Any mother, nurse, or young person guided by the directions which accompany each box of Holloway's Pills, has at once available means for checking disease, purifying the blood, and expelling from the system all gross humours.

The Pills and Ointment are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London: also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s. and 33s. each.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Box and Pot, and can be had in any language.

N.B.—Advice can be obtained, free of charge, by applying at the above address, daily, between the hours of 11 and 4, or by letter.

We can commend this as a very good and convenient marking ink, we have submitted linen marked with it to the most powerful of Chemical Agents, including Alkaline and other Acids, and Cyanide of Potassium, and have found that it is very much easier to destroy the Linen than the marking upon it; in fact the writing could not be effaced by any of the Agents we employed." JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 41. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON.

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865. DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE. THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT AT ROTHWELL.

This long-promised novelty was exhibited at Rothwell on Monday evening last by Mr. H. Mortimer (Adam's Circus), but was not so successful as was anticipated. Why the display was not up to the mark we will not try to decide. Mr. Mortimer blamed one of the engines not working steadily, and would also have liked the stage where the light was shown considerably higher; but neither of these reasons could account for the unstable manner in which one of the lights, especially, worked.

The evening was fine, a white frost covering the ground, scarcely any wind, while the moon did not rise till midnight; so far as the weather went, everything was favourable. The Rothwell Model Brass Band played round the town shortly after six o'clock, and then led the way to the football field in Carlton Lane, which had been surrounded about 9 feet high with canvas. Here we found at the two opposite corners of the ground, road engines for the working of the batteries, which make 850 revolutions per minute; the wires from the batteries (Sieman's) were then carried up to small stages about 12 feet high, on which were fixed the carbon points from which the light is emitted. Shortly after seven o'clock the engines set the two lights on, but scarcely had the shout of pleasure arisen, before one of the bright spots died out, and although one of the lights shot its rays more constantly than the other, the uncertainty of the illumination was very vexatious, and produced general dissatisfaction, though like good Yorkshire folks, the multitude made the best of it and set up a roar of laughter every time the light went out—now the one, now the other. During the occasional moments when both lights were in full work, the field presented a very pretty sight; the football players in their suits of scarlet and black, and blue and white, friends also being easily identified, not only their faces but the shade of their clothes being perfectly seen.

Handbills with the following lines were distributed among the visitors, intended to be carefully and interestedly perused by the new light, but this, alas, could only be done by fits and starts; however, the intention was good (?) and as it may not have fallen into the hands of some of our readers, we give them the opportunity of a laugh by appending them below—

The Electric Light
So pure and bright
Is here to-night,
To show the sight
Of a football fight,
This cold clear night;
When, with ball so tight,
They strive aright,
With all their might,
Each kicking knight,
By tactics right,
In whatever plight,
To reach the height,
Of the enemy's goal.
The Electric light,
So pure and bright
Is here to-night,
And so we write
And verse indite,
This beautiful night;
That you may find,
If not quite blind,
If you've a mind,
And will be so kind;
How this moonless night,
You can read aright,
By the rays so bright,
Of the Electric light.
We may further say,
(Though know it you may)
That next Saturday,
If to Marshall's you stray,
An account of the fray,
Will appear on that day,
In the "Times," if you pay,
Just a 'brown" to defray,
The costs. Should you stay,
Your wants to betray,
For Christmas Day
We all will essay,
Your pains to repay,
By a pretty display.

Of certain decorations, &c.

Respecting the Football Match which was played under such adverse circumstances, by Rothwell versus Hunslet, we had hoped to have a full report, but owing to the intermittent light, the match was almost a farce, and so we must leave it as a drawn game.

A large number of tickets were sold, but we are sorry to hear the Committee will be losers by the speculation to the extent of £10 or £15. We hope, however, as the thing was manifestly a failure, that Mr. Mortimer will honourably meet the Committee and re-imburse any loss.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

A meeting of the School Board was held yesterday evening; present:—Mr. W. Hargreaves (Chairman) Messrs. Seanor, J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, the Clerk, and Treasurer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the plans for Rothwell Schools were again considered, and alterations suggested

Two boys at Rothwell Haigh School have made 446 attendances, having been present every time the School was opened.

Several changes were made in the teaching staff in the different Schools, among which are the offer to Mr. T. T. Rawling of a place in the Rothwell Haigh Boys' School; and the appointment of Miss M. C. Harms as pupil teacher at Rothwell.

Pending arrangements for the appointment of a teacher at Waterloo, it was resolved that the holidays extend to four weeks.

The necessity was urged for all employers who send children half-time, to school, to keep half-time books, which must henceforth be done.

It was also decided that all infants in the Board Schools over seven years of age, be removed to the upper Schools immediately after the Christmas holidays.

The accounts and salaries were then passed, and the list of wants agreed to.

DEATH OF H.R.H. PRINCESS ALICE.

The sad death of the Princess Alice, has thrown the whole country into mourning and bereavement, recalling other sorrowful circumstances in the Royal Family. Seventeen years ago that very day, (December 14th) the deeply beloved Prince Consort breathed his last, and seven years ago on that fatal 14th, the life of the Prince of Wales was despaired of; but was marvellously preserved. A full account of the painful occurrence appears in our second page, which we have draped in mourning.

THE ATTACK ON A POLICEMAN.

Our readers will remember the cowardly assault on Police Sergeant Turton some time ago, and will not be sorry to hear that a fourth man has been captured and is tried at Wakefield to-day.

THE WEATHER. ACCIDENTS ON THE ICE

The wintry weather still continues, and there is every likelihood that we shall have an old-fashioned Christmas, such as we have heard of but not experienced lately. The frost holds firm, the lakes and canals are frozen, skating and curling are all the rage, and to complete the scene, occasional falls of snow occur. We are sorry, however, to record several accidents by reason of the ice in the streets.

Last Friday a little girl, named Lillie Baines (daughter of Mr. C. Baines), was going home from Mrs. Guerney's School, and while sliding down a gutter, fell against the curbing of the causeway and broke her arm badly.

On Wednesday morning, Mrs. John Brown, Royds lane, fell opposite her shop, and broke her ankle, which however, is progressing satisfactorily.

The same day a woman living near the cross, while walking past Mr. S. Batty's shop, slipped and sadly crushed her arm, which, however is not broken.

Yesterday a little boy named Herbert Lunn, slipped near Mr Newsome's shop, and got a severe shaking, but no limbs broken.

The same day, one of Mrs. Hainsworth's little boys, while sliding in the infants' school yard, fell and broke his leg; though still painful, the little fellow is as well as can be expected.

Also yesterday, a little boy at Woodlesford, was sliding near the station, on the Swillington road, and was tripped up behind by a boy coming after him, causing him to fall and break his leg.

OUR CHRISTMAS STORY.

LADY CARMICHAEL'S WILL.

BY MARY CECIL HAY.

I saw that Lilian's choice had been left free, only because there had as yet been no opportunity for her to make a choice to which her aunt could object; and I saw that now, all the stronger from her previous surety, would be my lady's opposition. I recalled our three months' sojourn here in Bryn Arddail, and could not hide from myself the great change it had made in my pet; and knowing the cause of this—the happiness that filled her heart to overflowing had its secret, and how could I, loving her as I did, help but read that secret truly?—I felt now how plainly other eyes might read it too.

Lady Carmichael roused herself suddenly from her silence, and spoke in an unwonted tone of authority. "Mr. Lindsey must be told at once that Lilian, heiress as she is to great wealth, is about to make the finest match of the season. Mr. Macan ought to have done it, but since he has not, you must, Stella."

"I!—It would break my heart." The words faltered from my lips, in real terror of this task that she would give me.

"Why?" she asked, watching me with stern intentness.

"I—I respect him so much, and—"

"And what?" inquired Lady Carmichael, when I stopped, trembling for what I had been going to say. "When you respect him so much, and—?"

"And love her so dearly."

The words were said, but my courage broke down under Lady Carmichael's stern, unmoved gaze, and I covered my face, and cried as if my heart were breaking. Somehow I seemed to see clearly now the trouble for my darling of which—even through all these bright, pleasant summer months—I had had a vague and dim foreshadowing.

"Dry your eyes," said my lady presently, with no softening of her voice; "I will do it myself. Dry your eyes, for here they are"

They came up the little lawn together, Lilian nodding merrily when she saw us, and Mr. Lindsey raising his hat.

"I met Mr. Lindsey, Auntie," my darling said, hastening so unsuspiciously up to us, "and I asked him to come with me. You told me long ago always to bring him when I could" (were the innocent words a cruel stab now?), "and especially when his own friend Mr. Macan is here."

"We are ready for dinner, Lilian," said Lady Carmichael, stiffly; "you had better go and change your dress. Mr. Macan will be here in half an hour."

My pet smiled at me as she passed into the room, and I tried to return the smile, but my heart was too heavy.

The twilight of the September evening was creeping slowly and softly from the hills behind us, gliding westward, trailing its gray wings over that crimson line upon the sea, and softly spreading them before the glory of the setting sun. For a few minutes we stood very silently together—we three—Hugh standing near me, with his hand among the red leaves of the creeper on the wall, and his eyes upon the glimpse of golden radiance still lingering in the west.

"Lilian has been trying your organ, I presume, Mr. Lindsey," so the words began at last, easy and common place, which were to end so cruelly. "She owes much to you for this opportunity of practising. Has she told you why the organ is her favourite instrument just now?"

There was a little flush of colour in his face, but so slight that it might have been only a faint reflection of the soft red leaves beside him.

"No; she has not told me, Lady Carmichael."

"Then I think I will," she said; and even into her face the colour mounted as she spoke. "The gentleman whom she will marry soon after our return home, a young nobleman possessing every quality likely to charm a girl of Lilian's temperament and education, is himself a proficient on the organ, and he has a very fine instrument in each of his houses. Lilian never speaks of her admirer, I know," continued my lady, in a tone of gracious confidence, "but I think she will not be angry with me for mentioning what must soon be generally known. Of course we all understand, do we not, Mr. Lindsey? that one so pretty and attractive as Lilian, being also heiress to a great fortune, would naturally marry into the highest ranks."

My heart beat angrily at this question being put to him; but he did not answer it, nor did he bring his eyes back from their distant gaze.

"My own life being so uncertain," Lady Carmichael went on, "I am, very naturally, you will own, anxious to see my child married, and am well content to think her husband will be a man whose natural gifts, and whose wealth, are as great as her own. He has loved her for years, and had my full consent from the first."

A long pause then, and still he did not speak. Did it strike her, as it struck me, how little he was one to understand this great advantage of adding wealth to wealth—he, who took no thought of these things, but felt that his Heavenly Father knew what he had need of?

"So you see, Mr. Lindsey," my Lady added, lightly, though I knowing her so well could detect that in spite of her coldness she was ill at ease, "I have quite understood this new whim of hers for practising the organ in your church. I ought to thank you for making arrangements for her to do so. And, by-the-way, speaking of yourself, really I think you ought to try for promotion. So many talents as you possess are literally wasted here."

I rose hurriedly: even on the chance of incurring my lady's displeasure, I could not stay to see Hugh Lindsey's white, still face. How could she dare to add those words to him, who, like the wise king of old, would not ask riches or wealth or honour for himself?

To me that seemed a most unhappy evening, though Mr. Macan was gay and genial as usual, and though Lilian exerted herself so brightly for every one's pleasure and enjoyment. For months afterwards I was to be haunted by the remembrance of her beautiful, glad face, as she moved among us then; restless, but restless only in intense happiness, thoughtful for each of us; and so bent upon making the evening a pleasant evening to all that I was not the only one who watched her with a wondering admiration.

We were standing at the fire, about to separate (we were not used to the keenness of the Bryn Arddail air, and so we liked to have fires on these September nights), and Lilian was chatting gaily with Mr. Macan about her old friends, when the subject was introduced which I had all the evening dreaded. Ah! so well I remember the smile with which she was speaking, when my lady's words stopped her, and killed that smile in an instant.

"Do you not see, Mr. Macan, that it is Lord Glynn of whom Lilian is really longing to hear? ... industriously she is practising the organ here, simply that she may astonish him when she returns. Even in our exile here, he must be first in her thoughts."

The old lawyer was gazing curiously into my darling's face, and he answered, rather curtly, after his pause: "I've talked enough for to-night. Going, Lindsey? I will walk down the garden with you. I'm heartily sorry not to find you looking better. And I tried to tell you once before to-night, you want a change. Don't you think you might arrange a temporary exchange with some clergyman whose work is more of a sinecure? You look to need a rest."

"I have for some time," was the quiet reply, "been trying to effect an exchange."

"For some time! Why, you surely did not want to leave Bryn Arddail in the summer?"

"Yes; I felt it would be best."

I could not raise my eyes. I dared not meet his, after having been present at that interview, which now I saw (as Lady Carmichael, too, must see) had been unnecessary cruelty. He had, before that, determined to go away. The struggle of this summer would end bravely, after all, and he had meant it to end bravely even before she had spoken those heartless words this evening.

"It will do you good, I'm sure," said Mr. Macan, his genial tones breaking our pause, "and I will bear it in mind."

"The only question is, what will Bryn Arddail do without you?"

Without answering this, Mr. Lindsey bade us all goodnight. His last hand-clasp was for Lilian; and then I looked at her for the first time since she had been smiling and chatting with her old friend. Oh, the terrible wondering sadness in her face now—the shadow of a great sorrow which she could not yet even comprehend!

As soon as ever Mr. Macan went with Hugh Lindsey, as he had said he would, my lady rose to go to her room wishing, as I could see, to avoid Lilian.

All that night I lay awake, thinking of my pet in this her first sorrow, and longing that I could bear it for her—longing selfishly, I know, for to myself the pain of seeing her suffer was greater than that of suffering myself alone. Several times I crept to the door of her room, hoping she would let me in; but it was always locked, and at last I gave up trying to disturb her. But when I stopped at her door in the early morning, she admitted me without a word. For her the night had been a long season of wakeful misery. I saw this in her pale, sad face, and the tears rushed to my eyes as I opened my arms and called her by one sweet pet name which belonged to her childhood.

"Stella," she sobbed, hiding her face upon my breast, "I could not help it. I never guessed that as I grew to know him I must grow to love him. Oh, my dear, I could not help it!"

My own heart was too heavy to give comfort, I could only hold her to me, as I used to do in those childish days whose spirit seemed to have come back to her this morning for I knew the truth of those few sad words of hers. Knowing him as she had learned to know him, how could she help but love him?

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—A cure for Abscesses, Piles, Fistula, and Sores of every description.—The very satisfactory results arising from the use of this invaluable Ointment, when the patients have been suffering from any of the above disorders, have induced the Medical Profession to introduce it into the hospitals and their private practice, and in many instances where the sufferer was considered incurable, Holloway's Ointment, in conjunction with his Pills, healed the most desperate cases. They are also unequalled for the cure of scrofula, scurvy, and all diseases of the skin, and the cures they effect are not temporary or imperfect, for by their purifying powers they bring about a marvellous and most beneficial change in the whole system and enable it, with renovated powers, to resist the approach of all future attacks of the same disease.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS!—Are you broken in rest by a sick child suffering with the pain of cutting teeth? Go at once to a chemist and get a bottle MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is sold by Medicine dealers everywhere at 1s. 1½d. per bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

The Universal Remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, and Ulcerations of all kinds.

There is no medicinal preparation which may be so thoroughly relied upon in the treatment of the above ailments as Holloway's Ointment. Rubbed upon the surface of the body, over, or near the affected parts, it disappears under the friction of the hand, penetrating at once to the source of the evil, and thus performs its healing errand, rapidly, safely and without pain. In all long standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they purify the Blood and expel all depraved humours from the system.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, and Bronchitis.

This Ointment is irresistible in the cure of these throat and pectoral complaints, which when neglected often end in settled Asthma or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the Chest and Back, night and morning, penetrates the skin, and thus absorbed, is carried directly to the Lungs, where, in immediate contact with the whole mass of circulating Blood, it neutralizes or expels all impurities. By these means all pulmonary complaints may be cured with rapidity and ease.

Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.

In any of the above complaints more benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours, by adopting the following simple means, than could be brought about in six months by any other treatment. In bad cases, if the ointment be diligently rubbed into the small of the back, over the region of the Kidneys, it will quickly penetrate and give immediate relief. Six or eight of the Pills should be taken nightly according to circumstances.

Gout, Rheumatism and Stiff Joints.

This invaluable Ointment exercises a more obvious control over Gout and Rheumatism, than any other Medicine. No one need remain uncured, who will in good earnest make a vigorous application of this infallible remedy—according to the Printed Instructions affixed to each Pot. All settled aches and pains will likewise be banished by the same treatment.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula and Scurvy.

The beneficial effects of this peerless Ointment are truly wonderful in cases of Ringworm. Scurvy and Scrofula, or King's Evil, and its powers are adequate to the removal of the most inveterate Skin Disease to which the human frame is subject.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London: also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night the cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered, with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

World Known—World Tried !!

For strengthening a debilitated constitution, these Pills are more efficacious than any other medicine. Persons of a nervous habit of body, and all who are suffering from weak digestive organs, or whose health has become deranged from whatever cause, should lose no time in giving these Pills a fair trial; their action is immediate, beneficial, and lasting, restoring order, health, and vigor in every case.

For Disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels.

These purifying Pills are confidently recommended as the most simple and certain remedy for Indigestion, Flatulency, Acidity, Constipation, and all Disorders resulting from disordered Stomach or Bowels. They act as purifiers, alteratives, and strengtheners of the stomach. Though powerfully tonic and satisfactorily aperient, they are mild in their operation and beneficial to the whole system.

Weakness and Debility—Nervous Irritability and Low Spirits.

The wholesome effect exercised by these admirable Pills over the Blood and Fluids generally, is like a charm in dispelling low spirits and restoring cheerfulness. Their general aperient qualities well fit them for a domestic medicine, particularly for females of all ages and for periods of life. They quickly eject all impurities from the system, and regulate every function of the body, giving wonderful tone and energy to weak and debilitated constitutions.

Old Coughs, Colds and Asthmatic Affections.

These Pills, assisted in their action by rubbing Holloway's Ointment very effectually twice a day on the Throat and Chest, and keeping those parts covered with the preparation, will be found the most effective remedy for Asthma, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Influenza. They tranquilize the hurried breathing, soothe the irritated air-tubes, and assist in dislodging the phlegm which stops up the air passages. This treatment has proved wonderfully efficient, in not only curing old settled coughs and colds, but even asthma of many years' standing.

Complaints of Women and Children.

Any mother, nurse, or young person guided by the directions which accompany each box of Holloway's Pills, has at once available means for checking disease, purifying the blood, and expelling from the system all gross humours.

The Pills and Ointment are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London: also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s. and 33s. each. Full printed directions are affixed to each Box and Pot, and can be had in any language.

N.B.—Advice can be obtained, free of charge, by applying at the above address, daily, between the hours of 11 and 4, or by letter.

COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, and NEURALGIA. DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE's CHLORODYNE. A few doses quite effectual.—Caution.—The extraordinary medical reports on the efficacy of Chlorodyne render it of vital importance that the public should obtain the genuine, which is protected by a Government stamp, bearing the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne." See decision of Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood, the Times, July, 16th, 1864. Numerous testimonials from eminent Physicians accompany each bottle. From W. C. WILKINSON, Esq., F.R.C.S., Spalding. I consider it invaluable in Phthisis and Spasmodic Cough; the benefit is very marked. From Dr. M'Millman, of New Galloway, Scotland. As a Sedative, Anodyne; and Anti-Spasmodic, I consider Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne the most valuable medicine known. Sold in bottles, 1/1½, 2/9, & 4/6 by all Chemists.

We can commend this as a very good and convenient Marking ink, we have submitted Linen marked with it to some of the most powerful of Chemical Agents, including Acids, Alkaline and Chlorine, and Cyanide of Potassium, and have found that it was very much easier to destroy the Linen than the marking upon it; the fact that the writing could not be effaced by any of the agents we employed. Messrs. HOPKINSON are the only makers in GREAT BRITAIN who obtained PRIZE MEDALS for Pianofortes at all the following Exhibitions:— THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851 THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION and by the unanimous decision of the Musical at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR. THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Excellence of Tone," THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITION IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872 For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, Two stands only in GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 48. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt difficulties arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1865. After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS' AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a prize medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

N.B.—J. & J. H. did not exhibit at Paris in 1867.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE. THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

CHRISTMAS.

"Christmas comes but once a year,
And when it comes it brings good cheer."

So runs the couplet, and notwithstanding bad trade and hard times, and low wages, combined with the extraordinary severe storm we at Rothwell still try to keep up the old time-honoured customs, and even the poor man tries to manage a good tuck-in and have a happy time at Christmas, while the mummers and wassaillers, follow up in the evening, the band, the singers and the shouting Christmas-box boys of the morning.

The usual Christmas service was held in the Parish Church, on Wednesday morning, when the Rev. H. S. King preached an appropriate sermon from the texts' "The Word was God," John 1 ch. 4 v., and v. 14, "And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth." The church was beautifully decorated with white and green, the altar and font receiving special attention, part of the designs being frosted. Suitable mottoes were placed in various parts of the church. The offertory is for the benefit of the sick and needy.

Yesterday morning our eyes opened on a thick covering of snow which had fallen during the night, to the extent of 8 or 10 inches, bringing with it a considerable diminution of the biting cold which has prevailed for some days. As the day wore on it was evident a thaw had set in, and to-day the snow and ice are rapidly disappearing.

As might be expected, there has not been so much money spent in Rothwell this Christmas as last, and the seasonable, though extreme weather has tended to keep people by the warm, cozy hearth.

We trust, however, that all have enjoyed themselves in that best of all ways—by making others happy—and that by the merciful providence of our Father, every family in the neighbourhood may have

A PROSPEROUS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR.

MARRIAGE AT ROTHWELL CHAPEL

Some little interest was created by a wedding at the Wesleyan Chapel, Rothwell, on Thursday, by the Rev. G. Renton. The happy pair were Mr. Chas. Turner and Mrs. S. A. Cripps. After the ceremony the choir sang the wedding hymn.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

The Local Board Meeting was held on Monday; present:—Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Messrs. Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes and the Clerk, Treasurer and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, some conversation ensued as a portion of the water pipes which suffered from the frost, and steps were arranged for relieving them

A letter was read from Mr. Sykes, asking to be supplied with water by meter, and at a later part of the meeting, Mr. Sykes asked an interview with the Board. On stating his desire to have a meter placed on his estate from which all his cottages could be supplied, the chairman asked if he had had a copy of the Byelaws. Mr. Sykes not having seen the Byelaws was presented with a copy, and referred to them, whereby he would find that cottages are only supplied by tap in the house, but he might have a meter for the supply of his works.

Mr. Heberden having agreed to accept the offer of the Board to supply him with water by meter at 1s. per 1,000 gallons, and 16s. a year rent of meter, a suitable meter was ordered to be obtained and put down.

In reply to a question by Mr. Hawden as to how the Board intended to deal with other gentlemen who might apply for a meter, it was agreed that each such application would have to be considered on its merits.

There are now 73 houses in Rothwell connected with the water mains, and a large number of applications are on hand.

On the motion of Mr. Holmes, seconded by Mr. Bramley, it was unanimously agreed that Mr. Price be appointed Collector of Water Rents for the whole district at £25 per annum.

Mr. Parkinson having applied for a cheque on account of Rothwell drainage, and the plans and surveys being now completed, it was resolved that a cheque be granted for £20.

On the motion of Mr. Hawden, seconded by Mr. Holmes, it was resolved that the accounts and salaries be paid.

Mr. Lunn gave notice that he should ask at next meeting for a statement of salaries, &c., paid by the Board.

In connection with the new act whereby certain highways may be partly supported by the county rates, it was proposed by Mr. Lunn seconded by Mr. Bramley, and carried, that an application be made to the magistrates to include the three undermentioned roads as "main roads" within the meaning of the act:- Leeds and Wakefield Road, Leeds and Barnsdale Road, and the road from Carlton Stone Bridge to the Rothwell boundary in Oulton Lane. Mr. Hawden neutral.

The agreement with the Hunslet authority to take Rothwell drainage having been approved by the Local Goverment Board it was proposed by Mr. Hawden, seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried, That the seal of the Board be now attached to the agreement.

CHIDREN'S CONCERT AND DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.

The third annual festival in connection with the Rothwell National Day Schools was held on Friday last, the 20th inst., in the large hall of the Mechanics' Institute, when prizes of books, &c., were presented to 103 children, whose names we append below. In making the presentation, the Vicar addressed a few suitable remarks to those present on the remarkably cheap rate at which education is provided for the children, and urged the parents to co-operate with the managers and teachers in securing regular and punctual attendance.

The following children were then called on to receive their rewards:—

After this interesting ceremony was concluded, a number of the elder scholars were gathered on the platform, and with the assistance of the church choir and two or three other gentlemen, performed a pleasing and varied musical programme, under the able guidance of Mr. H. Thompson, master of the boys' school, Mr. H. Sheldon accompanying on the harmonium and pianoforte. Commencing with Luther's grand old hymn, the youthful choir next essayed the anthem, "O taste and see," which was rendered in quite a surprising style, and highly pleased the audience. "Children's Voices" followed, in which a little echo was neatly managed by the choir. The hymn "For those in peril on the sea," was nicely sung by the children, as was also an old carol "The First Nowell," the merry song "Let it pass," closing the first part. The youngsters were regaled with oranges during the short interval, and when the second part opened, their voices seemed clearer for the appropriate repast. The song and chorus "Wanderlied," is a cheery ditty af the Swiss school, although the words may not teach the best temperance lesson. An agreeable change was afforded by Mr. Long singing "Oh! gently breathe" in a very effective manner, richly earning the encore, which he kindly acknowledged by giving "The Village Blacksmith" with considerable feeling and power. "Bob o' Link" was heartily entered into by the youngsters, and enjoyed by the elders too. Masters A. Ward and S. Dobson sang "All's Well" very nicely and will, no doubt, do better still next time. Instead of Mr. Frankland (who did not appear) Mr. Harrison gave "The Wolf" in capital style, and was heartily received. The children and choir joined very sweetly in "Farewell to the Forest," followed by "The Tight Little Island." from Mr. Harms, who was loudly re-called, and gave "The Mistletoe Bough," instead of a repetition. The Echo Song was, with the exception of the anthem, the best of the children's pieces, there being an absence of all hurry and indecision in the echoing notes of the two choirs. The "Hen Convention" with its final "cock-a-doodle-doo" was, however, the song that will be longest remembered, and was a complete success. An extra song, "The Frost," was capitally done by the children, who finished their programme by "Auld Lang Syne," in which they were also joined by the choir.

The Vicar heartily thanked the children, Mr. Thompson (their conductor), Mr. Harmes Mr. Long, and Mr. Harrison, as well as the choir, who were always ready to assist; and after singing the national anthem, the hall, which had been crowded throughout the evening, was speedily cleared.

DEATH OF MR. F. H. BRAITHWAITE

Many of our readers will be aware through the morning papers of our late much respected townsman. It appears that about noon yesterday, a respectably dressed man, who had in his possession a summons from the Leeds Police court, for improperly exposing goods for sale addressed to Francis Braithwaite, 20, Vicar lane, Leeds, entered the lavatory at the Midland Railway Station, Bradford, paid a penny for the use of one of the water-closet, and went in. As the man remained in the place a considerable time, Wm. Rowe, who has charge of the place, obtained a ladder and looked over the top of closet, and saw the man suspended from a hat hook on one side of the closet by his neckerchief, life being quite extinct. The body awaits an inquest. In reply to numerous enquiries as to whether the deceased really was the Mr. Barithwaite we knew, we are sorry to say, there is no doubt of the fact.

FOOTBALL.

OULTON v. HUNSLET 2ND.

On Saturday last these two teams met at Oulton to decide the return match. As may be imagined the ground was in a poor condition for football, being covered with snow and frozen hard underneath. Hunslet won the toss and elected to defend the low goal. The Oulton Captain kicked off, but the ball was well returned by the opposing back. Play was very even during the first quarter of an hour, after which the superiority of the Oultonians began to shew itself. The ball travelled quickly down the right side and Gosney getting possession, passed it to the Oulton Captain, who dodged the goal-keeper and secured the first goal for Oulton. Soon after the resumption of play, the ball was charged through the Hunslet goal by Herbert Bell. This roused the Hunslet men, and on changing ends, Brigham dodged the backs, and secured the only goal for his side. The home forwards, however, were not to be denied, and shortly before the call of time, the Oulton Captain cleverly dropped it in front of the Hunslet goal, and Henry Bell, rushing forward, put it through, thus securing the victory of Oulton by three goals to one. For Hunslet Hebden, Brigham and Cortes played well, while for Oulton, the brothers Bell, Key and the Captain were to the fore.

TEAMS:—Oulton. J. Stead, goal; W. Davy and T. D. Jackson, backs; J. Key, W. Hutchinson and J. Clarkson, half backs; Henry Bell, Herbert Bell, A. Gosney, W. A. Mirfin and E. Boothroyd, (captain). Hunslet. Brigham, Borthwick Rumford, J. Chadwick, Facer, Hodsworth, Gregg T. Coates, Earnshaw, Brookesbank and J. Hebden, (captain).

OULTON v. ROTHWELL JUNIORS.

These two teams played their first match on the Oulton ground last Saturday week. The weather was fine, but the ground very hard. The Oulton Captain kicked off at 3 30 p m and it soon became evident that the Oultonians were superior to their opponents. Three of four shots at the Rothwell goal were unsuccessful. H. Taylor, a Harmonic player, made a beautiful dribble for Rothwell and finished up with a good screw kick at the Oulton goal, which was however, unsuccessful. This was the only time the Oulton goal was in danger. After the six yards kick the ball was worked up into the Rothwell quarters, and Gosney getting the ball, passed it to the Oulton Captain, who dribbled it between the posts, thus securing a goal, the only one of the match. After the change of ends play was again confined to the Rothwell territory, but although the Oultonians tried hard to add to their score their efforts were frustrated by the numerous back plays of Rothwell. On the call of time Oulton had scored one goal to Rothwell nil. Teams:— Oulton. OUR CHRISTMAS STORY.

LADY CARMICHAEL'S WILL.

BY MARY CECIL HAY.

Author of "Old Myddleton's Money" "Victor and Vanquished," "The Squire's Legacy" "Back to the Old Home." Etc., Etc.

CHAPTER III.

SIGNING THE WILL.

We never now heard Lilian's glad voice singing about the house, and I grew almost to forget the very sound of her sweet laughter; yet she tried hard to forget this change. Indeed I think the struggle that she made to hide it was the most pitiful of all to see. I wished in my heart that the year which we were to spend in Bryn Arddail was over, or that Lady Carmichael would shorten it, out of pity for Lilian. Happily as it had begun, it was full of misery now for three of us. As for my lady though the air had given her strength and vigour, it seemed to have changed her most of all. She had moods now which nobody could understand. Sometimes—noticing Lilian's drooping quietness—she would try impatiently and fretfully to rouse her, while at other times she would seem to be unaware even of her presence. Sometimes when Lilian, making a great effort, would chat brightly to us, my lady would grow moody and absent, while at other times she would rebuke her pettishly. If I spoke to her of Lilian, she would sometimes listen almost eagerly, while at others she would stop me with real anger, saying the girl was obstinate and self-willed, and she did not care to hear her name so often. Lilian herself was far, far more patient than I was with her aunt's variable moods, and if I spoke of them, she only sighed, and said it was her fault. To Mr. Lindsey, whom we saw but seldom now, my lady was formally and very coldly polite. Now that she knew he was to leave Bryn Arddail as soon as he could, she was satisfied.

I often wondered whether Mr. Macan grieved over the change in his old friend and client. Never before had she been eccentric, or either cold and changeable, and now she was all this. Another change I noticed too. Though she had regained her health, she would speak often now of what I had never heard her discuss before—the responsibility of wealth, and the probability of her death.

"Hush, auntie!" Lilian used to whisper, with her long sweet kiss. "Think how it pains us. Would you like me so often to talk of dying?"

"Childish nonsense!" interrupted my lady, with a sudden change to anger. But after such an interruption I used to notice how her eyes would rest (whenever they could do so unobserved, as she thought) on Lilian's patient face; and sometimes a great sternness would gather on her brow, and sometimes a yearning pity.

It was in the early twilight of an October day that Hugh came at last to bid us good-bye. I was sitting alone in the drawing-room when he came in, not rapping at the window as he used to do, but ushered formally in, and I met him as frankly and cordially as I had always done, rejoicing that Mr. Macan happened to be with us just then, This would be a sad good-bye for Lilian, and the old lawyer's genial presence would perhaps make it a little less so.

We stood together for a little time, talking, talking. He told me that he had not been able to effect an exchange, but had engaged a curate for the charge of Bryn Arddail while he should be away. That is what he said, but I knew that he would not return until Lady Carmichael's household had left. I spoke very little, because I could not speak cheerily; then I went to tell them that he was here. Lady Carmichael and her lawyer were together in the library, she dictating to him while he wrote. He put down his pen and came to meet me with a smile, and so I told my message to him instead of to my lady, but she answered testily from the table where she sat:

"Tell Mr. Lindsey that I and Mr. Macan are particularly engaged just now; but of course we wish to bid him good-bye, so ask him to stay and dine with us."

"And if he hesitates," put in the old lawyer, "tell him I want his assistance in a legal matter this evening, and that he will particularly oblige me by giving the time. You young people can very well amuse each other for the hour that remains before dinner."

I gave these messages to Mr. Lindsey, then went on to the morning-room to Lilian. She was playing softly to herself when I went in, and though she turned and smiled at me, she did not cease playing.

"Lilian dear," I said, taking her wistful face between my hands as I whispered the words, "Mr. Lindsey is here, waiting to see you. He is going away for a little time."

"Going away!" she echoed, raising both hands to her head, with a gesture of pain that was sad to see. "Going away! Oh yes, he said before that he was going. I remember. He—he was anxious to go. Why have you fetched me? What have I to say?"

"Only good-bye," I answered, sorrowfully. "It is all that any of us can say to him now, my darling."

"Yes, any of us," she murmured, rising wearily. "We have all the same to say to him, and he has the same to say to all of us. Come, Stella."

I think it was a great relief to us all when dinner was over that evening, for no one but Mr. Macan seemed to have a cheerful word to say. Lilian pleaded a headache in excuse for her pale face, but Mr. Lindsey made no excuse at all for his.

"I want to ask you, Lindsey," said Macan, when he saw my lady rise, "if you will act as witness for me to-night, with one these young ladies. Lady Carmichael has summoned me here to make her will, and I would rather find the two signatures I want among ourselves, than among the servants. Yours and Miss Lilian's will do nicely Lady Carmichael, if you will allow me, I will bring the will into the drawing-room now. We do not wish to stay here, do we Lindsey?"

Mr. Lindsey followed us at once, and Mr. Macan came in from the library a few minutes afterwards, with an open sheet of paper in his hand.

"You really wish," he asked, turning gently to my lady, as she sat in her large chair beside the fire, "that I should read this aloud, before I obtain the necessary signatures?"

"I really wish it," she answered, with slow clearness. "They should know exactly what they sign."

So the old lawyer began to read his client's will, and we sat listening—Lilian beside her aunt, in a shrinking attitude which had never belonged to her before; and Hugh opposite, his eyes upon the ground, and his firm lips trembling a little as the lawyer read. I—I only remember in what mute and wondering surprise I sat to hear my lady's will. Could the words be read aright? Could she, who had always been so kind and generous to us all; so wondrously kind and generous to her pet, really have willed from her every farthing of the wealth which she had taught her to look upon as already hers?

Though I suppose I heard the names of the charities to which Lady Carmichael bequeathed her property, my thoughts were wandering far enough away from them, and it was only when Lilian's name was read at last, that I again, by an effort, fixed my attention. If Lady Carmichael's whole fortune were (as decreed in the beginning of the will) to be divided among certain charities, why should Lilian's name be mentioned at all? I listened eagerly then, and though there was very little to hear, this clause surprised me most of all. The property had been thus willed—so the words went, as far as I could understand—by testatrix, for conscience sake. Her niece Lilian Lee would understand this, and would not marry during her aunt's lifetime But if not, she would find little difficulty in gaining her own livelihood.

This was all I could understand of the strange will which Mr Macan read to us, and then placed on the table before Lady Carmichael. She took a pen in her hand then looked across at Lilian and Hugh Lindsey. His face was very pale and full of anxiety, yet there shone in his eyes a restless brilliance which had chased away the patient hopelessnes of an hour before.

"Now, Lindsey you and Miss Lee are to witness the signature."

"You wish me to sign, Lady Carmichael?"

"Yes; and you, Lilian. Your signatures will do as well as any others, for you have, neither of you, any interest in the will. Do you, either of you, object to doing this?"

The question was sharp and suspicious, and seemed even more addressed to Lilian than Mr. Lindsey. "Object! oh no," she said, though I had seen how marvellously the will had astonished her "You think it right, Auntie. You say it is for conscience sake, and you know best. I am ready to sign Mr. Macan."

And so they wrote their names upon this will, while I mused of the old love story, doubting it entirely now, because surely, if it were true, its memory could never have allowed this act.
